RIOT AT BRADDOCK

Carnegie's Workmen Savagely Attacked by Hungarians.

ALL INFURIATED WITH DRINK.

They Charged with Clubs, Pickaxes and Other Weapons.

A Dozen Workmen Seriously Wounded—The Town Now Under Martial Law and Guarded by Deputies—Saloons Closed by Order of the Sheriff—A Number of Arrests Hourly Expected.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—The striking Hungarian laborers at Carnegie's Edgar Thomson Steel Works at Braddock rioted during the afternoon and mobbed the English-speaking workmen, who were attempting to preserve the furnaces by banking them up and saving heavy losses to the firm.

Several of the officials of the works were also attacked by the rioters. General Manager Schwab was also injured. The town of Braddock and the Edgar Thomson furnaces are now under martial law and are guarded by several hundred deputies.

As a result of the riot, one workman is probably fatally injured, and a dozen others are seriously wounded.

Infuriated With Drink.

The riot occurred shortly after 12 o'clock, as the workmen were changing turns, when suddenly 79 Hungarians, infuriated with drink, attacked the workmen and for a while swept them like chaff. The Huns came from all directions, charging the men with stones, clubs, pick-axes and other weapons. The workmen rallied after the first fierce attack and repulsed the Huns, and finally succeeded in driving them away.

The injured are: William Riggs, severe scalp wound, will probably die; Michael Quinn, seriously injured; Patrick Nolan, stockyard boss, badly injured; Patrick Hughes, keeper of the furnaces, collar bone broken; Patrick Dougherty, scalp wounds; Andrew Cramer, foreman of laborers, seriously injured; Thomas Sheridan, severely clubbed, his condition serious; John Gould, arm broken, Thomas McDonald, head cut; Patrick McCauley, head cut; Mike Larn, arm badly smashed; John Corbett, dangerous scalp wound.

The Sheriff Takes Possession.

Shortly after the riot Sheriff McCandless arrived from Pittsburg and took possession of the town and works. He at once ordered all the saloons in the town to temporarily close until the present difficulty is over.

One hundred workmen were sworn in as deputy sheriffs, and probably that many, or as many more as are needed, will be sworn in at once. There are but 500 Hungarians, and as soon as the sheriff gets all his deputies sworn in he will have no trouble in keeping the Hungarians in order.

General Manager Schwab was injured in a small riot which took place last night. So far, six of the rioters have been arrested and brought to Pittsburg and placed in jail. General Manager Schwab has posted notices ordering all the strikers to report at the offices of the works for their pay, and as about all the Huns that participated in the riot are known, they will be arrested as they come to the office to get their money.

THE SHOEMAKERS' FIGHT.

They Decide to Force the Strike at Lynn All Along the Line.

MARLBORO, Mass., Jan. 2.—A meeting of the Executive Committee of the United Boot and Shoe Workers' National Union was held here during the day. Mr. Louis J. Goetz, a member of the committee, stated that the meeting was a very important one. The strike of the shoemakers at Lynn was carefully considered and it was decided to force the fighting all along the line. In Mr. Goetz's opinion there would be less shoes shipped from Lynn the next three months than there had been the past three.

The meeting also decided upon a financial plan that will bring sufficient aid to enable the strikers to hold out until next summer, if necessary. Mr. Goetz said that on his way west he would stop at every city and town that had a local assembly, and present the matter to them in its proper light.

Injured for a Parnell Song.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—While Edward Schoenrig was singing a song at the house of his friend Patrick McLaughlin, the refrain of which was to the effect that Parnell is the best friend Ireland ever had, Patrick Fitzgerald, another visitor, objected to the sentiment, and in the general melee which followed Schoenrig received a compound fracture of the skull which the physicians fear will prove fatal. Fitzgerald is in prison charged with inflicting the injuries.

Concessions to Miners.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—The miners of this region held a mass meeting here. The men in Division No. 2, having received assurances of concessions from the operators, decided to continue at work. In Division A, the question of striking for an advance of five cents a ton was referred to the men in the mines for a vote on or before January 5th.

Narrowly Escaped Death.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2.—A small lamp under a Christmas tree in the house of Chas. Milske, 283 North Patterson Park avenue, set fire to the tree last night, and in a few moments the whole house was in flame. The family barely escaped with their lives.

QUEENSTOWN, Jan. 2.—When McAuliffe and Madden reach New York they will issue a challenge to any man in America, Sullivan included.

EIGHT CORPSES EXHUMED.

All the Victims of the Wilkesbarre Mine Disaster Brought to the Surface.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 2.—It is impossible to imagine a more ghastly sight than the one presented in a little frame tool house near the head of the South Wilkesbarre shaft, or a more horrible task than that performed by Undertaker H. F. Mooney and his assistants. In a small room not more than 12 feet square, were brought all that could be found of the bodies of eight men that had been lying for 10 months 600 feet under ground.

By noon the remains of the last of these eight victims of the disaster of March 3 last had been recovered and brought to the surface. When it is remembered that these bodies had first been partially consumed by fire, then crushed under tons of falling coal and rock, and then for four months covered with water, it is possible to imagine the condition in which they were. Of flesh there was little, and in several cases bones, too, were partially disintegrated and torn apart, while only a few fragments of their clothing remained.

It was by this clothing, however, that after the remains had been cleaned and put together as well as possible, seven of the bodies were identified.

All were identified except one little heap of bones and bits of flesh, which was, therefore, judged to be the remains of Patrick McNellis.

The fragments, as fast as identified, were placed in neat little caskets covered with black cloth. They will all be interred in one grave in the Hanover Cemetery.

All the morning the shaft was surrounded by a large crowd of people, but the remains were screened from the gaze of the curious.

An inquest will be held as soon as the testimony can be collected.

THE DAISY BEACH SCANDAL.

The Judge Decides That the Child Shall Remain with Her Mother.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 2.—Judge Robinson of the Superior Court held court in this city yesterday to finish the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Joseph H. Beach to secure control of his daughter Daisy. Since the divorce was granted Mrs. Beach some months ago the child, which is 11 years old, has been with her mother.

During the trial, which lasted three days, Beach introduced many witnesses to prove that Mrs. Beach was not a fit person to have charge of the child. The defence opened late in the afternoon, and but few witnesses were called. The case was submitted without argument. Judge Robinson quickly gave his decision that the child should remain with its mother. Permission was given to Mr. Beach to see the child at seasonable hours.

He Retains the Power.

BEVERLY, Mass., Jan. 2.—Mr. Charles S. Dennis, whose complete cure from paralysis astonished everybody conversant with the case, and which was by many ascribed to supernatural influences, has apparently retained the curative power and has been quite successful in restoring several paralytic patients to something near their normal condition by the simple rubbing process he applied to himself. He accepts no pay for his ministrations, being willing, he says, to relieve suffering humanity while the power is with him, as he does not know how long it will last.

Put Poison in Her Beer.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 2.—Maggie Smith, a woman of questionable character, with a male companion, entered a wine room at the corner of Sixth and Elm streets, shortly after 1 o'clock a. m. The couple took seats at a table near where a man was playing a piano and singing the song, "The Mottoes That Are Framed Upon the Wall." The woman drank some beer, arose and joined in the singing. She had proceeded only as far in the song as "God bless our home, in God we trust," when she reeled suddenly, fell to the floor, and, after a severe struggle, breathed her last. It is supposed she put poison in her beer.

Glasgow Strikers Still Firm.

GLASGOW, Jan. 2.—The strikers, at a mass meeting, rejected a proposal to approach the companies with a view to a settlement of the strike, and to return to work pending the companies' decision. The North British Company, for the first time since the trouble began, ran a full passenger service. The Caledonian Company also did a heavy New Year's traffic. An attempt will be made to-morrow to move delayed goods.

Dr. Mansur Held.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 2.—Dr. Richard H. Mansur, of Princeton, charged with an attempt to procure an abortion on Miss Linda Jansen, of that town, was held in $1,000 for his appearance at the January term of the Superior Court.

Railroad Firemen's Wages Advanced.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 2.—General Superintendent Bell has granted the firemen of the Western New York & Pennsylvania road an advance of a little over 10 per cent. in wages.

THE FRONTIER PANIC

Settlers Flocking to Dakota and Nebraska Towns.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN PERIL

Several Thousand Redskins on the Warpath and a Great War Imminent.

Two Strike and a Large Body of Followers Break Away from Pine Ridge—Other Defections Momentarily Expected—Gen. Miles to Take Command—A Blizzard Adds to the Horrors.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 2.—The panic on the frontier has now become general. Several thousand Indians are on the warpath, and thus far the sparsely scattered troops have had small luck in intercepting them.

Settlers are flocking into the towns in South Dakota and Nebraska with doleful news of farm and school houses burned, cattle ran off, herders and teamsters killed and women and children in imminent peril.

General Stanley, who spent several years among the Sioux, says a great war is certain. A blizzard has come to add to the horrors, and the escaping settlers are badly frozen.

Two teamsters who are supposed to live in Rushville, were found dead in the road ten miles from the agency. They had been shot by Indians.

The Episcopal Church has been turned into a hospital and this morning contained thirty-eight of the hostile Indians who were wounded and captured at Wounded Knee. Most of them are squaws and many of them will die.

Chief Two Strike Breaks Away.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 2.—A special from Rushville, Neb., says that Chief Two Strike and a large body of followers broke away from Pine Ridge yesterday, and started either for the Bad Lands or a point near Rosebud Agency, it is not known which. Word has been sent to the commander of Rosebud to try and intercept the band.

Other defections are momentarily expected. The hostiles now include nearly every able-bodied Indian except the police, a few Cheyennes and the scouts. Red Cloud and all the lesser chiefs except American Horse have joined their brethren for the last great fight. The storm still rages, and gives every advantage to the Indians either for fighting or escaping to some safe retreat.

General Miles to Take Command.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 2.—A dispatch from Pine Ridge says that the Second Infantry have received orders to pack their effects and be ready to move. It is rumored that General Brooke has been relieved of his command and ordered home. General Miles will take command in person and conduct all operations in the future. The funeral of the soldiers killed in Monday's battle occurred yesterday.

DERAILED BY A SWITCH.

An Express on the Lackawanna Jumps the Track—Four Were Injured.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 2.—Express train No. 7, on the Delaware, Lackanna & Western Railroad, which left Hoboken at 7:45 o'clock last night in charge of Conductor McCappell, of Binghampton, was going rapidly about half a mile beyond the West Paterson station at 8:30 o'clock when it jumped the track at an ice-bound switch. The locomotive, No. 184, struck a train of flat cars loaded with pig iron on an adjacent track and went over on its side a wreck.

The rest of the train, consisting of a baggage car, one passenger coach and two sleepers twisted around to the other side of the iron-laden cars, but kept upright. None of the passengers were hurt, although all were badly shaken. Coals from the locomotive furnace set fire to the cab and the woodwork was burned.

These trainmen were injured:

Engineer Morris Lunger of Washington, N. J., scalded and left leg crushed.

Fireman Smith Dreamer of Washington, N. J., scalded and badly cut on hand and hurt internally.

Baggage Master James Scanlan, of Binghamton, leg hurt.

Brakeman Bernard Foster, of Binghamton, hurt by striking his head on a pile of pig iron when he jumped from the train.

The injured were carried to [illegible] the derailed sleepers. Another train was made up to take the place of the express, after considerable delay.

Colored People Celebrate.

CHARLESTOWN, S. C., Jan. 2.—The colored people celebrated the emancipation anniversary with a military parade, addresses and the reading of Lincoln's proclamation. In the afternoon all the colored Masonic lodges gave a grand street parade.

Lively Dakota Blizzard.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 2.—A Port Mulgrave special says a heavy snowstorm, accompanied by a Dakota blizzard, has prevailed there for the past two days.

The Accomplished Daughter of Joseph S. Elkinton.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—Miss Mary Elkinton, the accomplished daughter of Joseph S. Elkinton, a prominent member of the Society of Friends, and Inazo Nitobe, a young Japanese, were married during the morning at the Friends' meeting house, at the corner of Fourth and Arch streets.

Every effort had previously been made by Miss Elkinton's relatives and friends to prevent the consummation of the union. Argument and persuasion were alike unsuccessful, however, in making the young lady swerve from the man of her choice, who had, out of regard for her, become a member of the Society of Friends. As a last resort the father of the bride endeavored to have the couple debarred from the meeting house. A special meeting was called and held to consider the question, and favorably reported upon granting the use of the building for the ceremony.

At the wedding a reception was held at the residence of Wm. Elkinton, a brother of the bride.

Mr. Nitobe is about 30 years old and is a man of high rank in his native country. For six years he has been traveling through Europe and America, studying to fit himself for a high government position.

Mr. and Mrs. Nitobe will leave in a few days for San Francisco, en route for Japan.

SALOON KEEPER FINED $8,000.

One of the Largest Liquor Cases Ever Heard of in Vermont.

RUTLAND, Vt., Jan. 2.—One of the largest liquor cases ever heard in the courts of Vermont has just been completed in Windsor County, Justice Thompson, of the Supreme Court, presiding. The respondent, George F. Kibling, of Norwich, Vt., was engaged in the liquor trade at Hanover, N. H., until he was driven out by the Dartmouth College overseers. He then opened a liquor shop in Norwich, on the Vermont shore of the Connecticut River, at the end of a bridge connecting the two towns. This location gave him the Dartmouth students' patronage.

The college overseers did not propose to be beaten by this Yankee trick, and they moved upon Kibling and his rum shop so vigorously that in the trial that has just closed over 1,000 offences were proven. The jury, however, compromised on 715 sales.

Kibling was fined $8,000. Judge Thompson's charge to the jury was particularly vigorous and able. One or more of the faculty of Dartmouth College were present constantly during the trial. The new Justices of the Supreme Court seem determined to break up the delays in the trial of liquor prosecutions and to execute the prohibitory law to the letter.

Robbed a Young Lady.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 2.—A young lady of unquestionable character, whose name is withheld for the present, reports to the Cambridge police that last night about 9 o'clock, while near the Cambridge end of the new Harvard bridge, on her way home from Boston, she was accosted by a burly fellow, who demanded money enough to pay for his lodging. She told him she had no change, whereupon he threw her upon the icy flooring of the bridge, and under threats to take her life if she made any outcry, robbed her of all the money in her pockets, amounting to $15, and escaped.

An Important Experiment.

WATERVILLE, Me., Jan. 2.—In the physical laboratory at Colby University Prof. Edward W. Morley of Adelbert College, Cleveland, and Prof. Wm. H. Rogers of Colby University succeeded in measuring, by means of wave lengths of light, the changes in the lengths of bars of metal, caused by variations in temperature. A machine constructed by Prof. Rogers for the special purpose was employed, and changes in length were measured in millionths of an inch. The experiment has heretofore been untried by physicists.

Rushing the Ice Crop.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Rain has fallen steadily along the upper Hudson, with the thermometer above the freezing point. Icemen fear the result. Despite the storm thousands of men, boys and horses worked on the ice from Poughkeepsie north to Albany, scraping off the snow which fell during the night and cutting and housing, as there is great danger in waiting for the ice to increase in thickness. All the companies have decided to cut at once what they can secure [illegible]

An Agent Drops Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 2.—Charles P. Tilsworth of Rochester, N. Y., while sitting in the parlor of the Hotel Gilmore in this city, about 8 a. m., suddenly gave a gasp and fell back dead. The medical examiner was called and decided that death was caused by heart disease. He was the agent for a patent gate for farmers. He leaves a widow and daughter.

The President's Reception.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President and Mrs. Harrison received all the diplomatic, official and social world of the capital at their New Year levee. The weather was a bad combination of fog and drizzing rain, but it did not affect this or any other of the official receptions.

Met a Horrible Death.

HUDSON, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Patrick McCalls, married, met a horrible death at Gardenier & Downer's ice house at Schodack Landing. His clothes caught in a revolving shaft, around which he was carried until mangled beyond recognition.

May Settle the Shoe Strike.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The Shoe Manufacturers' Association has adopted a new manifesto, which is a modification of its former one, and may settle the strike.

THE SECRET IS OUT

Outline of the Plan Adopted at the Irish Conference.

PARNELL'S OFFER TO O'BRIEN.

He Will Temporarily Retire Until After the General Elections.

O'Brien to Take the Leadership and be Free from Arrest on His Return to Ireland—He is to Assist Parnell to Resume His Old Supremacy and Force Through the Home Rule Programme.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—It is stated on the authority of a close friend of John Redmond that the following is the correct version of what took place in the conference between Messrs. O'Brien and Parnell at Boulogne.

Its accuracy depends upon whether Mr. Redmond or some other person interested in the discussions there was "leaked," or whether the alleged revelation is put forth as a feeler to test the sentiment of the public.

O'Brien for Leader.

The statement is that Mr. Parnell assured Mr. O'Brien that if the latter would take the leadership in a spirit friendly to Mr. Parnell the government would be "squared," so that Mr. O'Brien would not be forced to serve his term of imprisonment, but would be free to return to England or Ireland, and Mr. Parnell would retire from the nominal leadership until the general elections, when, with Mr. O'Brien's aid, he would sweep the country and ride into power again, in a position of absolute independence, and so situated as to hold the balance of power in Parliament with the Irish party, and force from either the Tories or the Liberals a full home rule programme.

An Alliance With the Conservatives.

The fact that Mr. Parnell feels able to promise immunity for Mr. O'Brien from Conservative molestation, gives color to the theory that whenever he finds himself in a position of authority with reference to his own party again, he will make an alliance with the Conservatives, and wreak his revenge upon the Liberals for attempting to ruin his political prospects.

Well informed Irish members declare, however, that should Mr. O'Brien consent to this sham retirement of Mr. Parnell, which they do not believe will be the case, the rest of the programme outlined above will not be carried through without a bitter struggle, the famous scenes of the controversy in "Room 15," preceding the split, being re-enacted, with probably as deplorable results; in fact, that the party can never be reunited on any such basis, and that to attempt it would simply be to destroy the possibility of the Irish members holding the balance of power in Parliament. Mr. Healy and a number of others could never be reconciled to the plan, and they would be powerful enough to defeat it utterly.

O'Brien Sends the News to Dillon.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—Wm. O'Brien has cabled Mr. Dillon that Mr. Parnell will retire if Mr. O'Brien will take the leadership. The conference adjourned to await the answer.

CHARGED WITH DUPLICITY.

English Papers Discussing the Ford-O'Brien Dispute.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The English papers are discussing Patrick Ford's reply to William O'Brien as it appears in the Irish World, and agree that the latter has considerably the worst of it in the dispute. The Globe says:

"O'Brien's confusion of mind sinply means that he is trying to look in two different ways with two different faces, one for the Gladstonist, who likes only verbal explosives, and the other for Ford's clients, who find dollars on their faith of promises that are not to be merely verbal. Unluckily, the smooth face meant for Ford has caught the eyes of the English critics, and the angry face meant only for the Gladstonist, has caught the eye of Ford.

"This is unlucky for O'Brien, but it is exceedingly lucky for all the persons interested in the exposure of sham enthusiasm, mock indignation and real hypocrisy."

Rumors About Mrs. O'Shea's Fortune.

DUBLIN, Jan. 2.—The Insuppressible prints the statement that Mrs. O'Shea has compromised with her family and agreed to take £50,000 under her aunt's will, instead of the £150,000 left by her relative. It also reports that her marriage with Mr. Parnell will occur at the end of six months, when the decree of the divorce court will become absolute.

French War Bonds to be Redeemed.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The announcement is made by the government that the redemption of the war liquidation bonds will commence January 3, although the new loan will not be issued until January 10. The financial condition of the national treasury is such as to make this easily possible. The success of the new loan will be advanced by this action.

Russia Must be Thoroughly Russian.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—St. Petersburg advices state that the Czar is determined to make the empire thoroughly Russian. Here-after foreigners will be permitted to take up land only in special instances, and then they must become Russian subjects, and no foreigners will be permitted to reside in Russia except by a special permit.

Want Catholic Nurses Returned.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—The Catholic clergy of Paris are using every influence to have the Sisters of Mercy replaced as nurses in the public hospitals, from which they were dismissed to make way for secular nurses.

SAWTELLE'S LETTER.

Says the Jury Was Prejudiced and that He is the Victim of Circumstances.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—Isaac Sawtelle has just written a letter to his counsel in the murder trial, and that letter is to-day made public. A portion of it reads as follows:

Dated at Dover Jail.—To my counsel, Messrs Edgerly, Wooster and Haley:

I have been tried and convicted by a jury, every member of which admitted under oath at the beginning of the trial that he had formed an opinion as to my guilt or innocence, and that it would require evidence to remove that opinion, and that in a country in which every man charged with crime is guaranteed by the Constitution a fair and impartial trial by a jury composed of unprejudiced men.

We know how difficult it is to remove existing prejudices in cases of the smallest importance, and I have always understood that a person who had formed or expressed an opinion on any controversy was disqualified to act as a juror even on a civil case, where property rights were involved.

At this time it is useless, of course, to enter into a discussion of the verdict, or to the causes that led to it, for the reason that any reasonable man, if his or his friend's life were involved in the issue, they would consider a jury with such feelings and prejudices incompetent to sit in judgment on a human life. These prejudices and opinions have been carefully nursed and inflamed against me from the time of my arrest to the present time.

Of each and every charge against me in the indictment on which I was tried and convicted I am entirely innocent. This fact the world may not believe at this time, but when the perjured witnesses and prejudiced jury shall stand with me at the bar of infinite justice my innocence will then be known and their perjury and prejudices will be punished. Sincerely yours,

ISAAC B. SAWTELLE.

"A Victim of Circumstances."

Gen. Spinner's Remains Sent North.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 2.—Contrary to arrangements made last night, the body of Gen. F. E. Spinner was taken to an undertaker early in the morning, where it was embalmed, and at 1 o'clock was sent north by rail to Mohawk, N. Y., for interment. From the undertaker's to the station the hearse was under the escort of a special detail of 12 men from O. M. Mitchell Post, G. A. R., and was followed by about 50 G. A. R. men and members of the Harrison and Morton club.

A Patriarch of 119 Years.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 2.—There was a notable gathering at a farmhouse within sight of Howe's Station, at Middleton, representatives of five generations being gathered together. The patriarch of the gathering was Charles King, who will on January 15 attain his 119th birthday, and who is without doubt the oldest man in New England, if not in the country. The representatives of the family were present from Haverhill, Danvers and Newburyport.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A disastrous fire occurred at Cologne, a number of cotton mills owned by 13 companies being destroyed.

Dannemora Prison was partially destroyed by fire yesterday. All the prisoners were saved. The loss is about $200,000.

New Yorkers, surrounded by fog on land and water, had a dull New year. The storm prevailed throughout the country.

The mines of Colorado produced in 1890 as follows: Silver, $20,259,900; gold, $4,512,136; lead, $4,749,852; copper, $358,440; total, $29,881,328.

Gozo Taleno, the newly appointed Japanese Minister, arrived at San Francisco with his family last night and will at once proceed to Washington.

Secretary Windom has ordered that all Canadian cattle imported into the United States from Canada shall be inspected at the port of St. Albans, Vt.

The city of Manchester, N. H., has brought suit against the bondsmen of ex-City Marshal M. J. Jenkins to recover $2,800 shortage in the ex-Marshal's accounts.

The family of Benjamin Sours, of Luray, Va., were poisoned by eating pumpkin pies which, it is supposed, contained rat poison. Mr. Sours and one child died and the others are dangerously ill.

Lord Salisbury has put off until next May his installation as a burgess of the city of Glasgow. This is taken as indicating that he will be visiting Scotland about that time in the course of a general election.

Fire which started in the business portion of Meriden, Conn., New Year's Eve, caused a damage of $15,000. Hilliard Brothers, Anger & Gardner and the Centennial American Tea Company are the chief losers.

Robert Simcox, 30 years old, an engineer employed at the Philadelphia City Hall, while watching New Year's paraders from a sixth story window in the building, fell to the pavement, a distance of 130 feet. He died a few minutes after being picked up.

Unofficial advices from Buenos Ayres represent that deep depression reigns among the business people, and a lack of faith in the ability of the country to meet its enormous load of debt. Repudiation is talked about, and, but for fear of England, would be openly advocated.

Penance for Siding With Jews.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 2.—The Metropolitan of Odessa has gone into a monastery, by order of the Holy Synod, to do penance for his offence in having lately preached a sermon against the persecution of the Jews.

Cheers for Parnell.

DUBLIN, Jan. 2.—Mr. Meade has been inducted into his office as Mayor of Dublin. The crowd present at the ceremony cheered for Parnell and hissed Sexton and Healy.

—The women of the Crescent Avenue church have sent the missionary in Nebraska, who has been entrusted with his family to their care, a high-grade Columbia safety bicycle.

—The first grand invitation masquerade ball of the Orient Circle was held at Amphion Hall, Wednesday evening, (New Year's Eve). There was a large number of young people present from this city, North Plainfield, Elizabeth, Newark and Brooklyn. The costumes were very handsome. The music was furnished by Prof. G. Rogers.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Lulu Piker, of this city has been visiting Miss Emma Darsh, of Westfield.

Miss Nellie Hallock, of Newark, returned home to-day after a short visit at the home of Mrs. Elijah Stites, on Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Edward B. Schooley, of the New York Custom House, with his wife and family spent New Year's Day at the home of J. W. VanHorn, Duer street, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wotherspoon who arrived on the "Umbria," last week; after a trip around the World, are visiting Mr. Wotherspoon's mother at her home on East Front street.

The Elizabeth Glee Club will give an entertainment in the Casino Feb. 3 under the patronage of some of Plainfield's best known society women, who will make the occasion a notable society event.

Charles P. Titsworth, of Rochester, formerly a jeweler of this city, and a brother of John D. Titsworth of Madison avenue, while sitting in a corridor of the Hotel Gilmore, Springfield, Mass., about three o'clock of yesterday morning, fell back in his chair dead.

Councilman D. S. Roberts was made happy yesterday by a visit to his home on North avenue, of his eldest son, A. K. Roberts, and family, who reside in Brooklyn, N. Y., and who came to make a New Year's call on "Uncle Dan." Mr. Roberts is a popular engineer on the Brooklyn surface railway.

Sons of Temperance Entertain.

Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, celebrated its twenty-second anniversary Tuesday evening. Besides the members there were present a large delegation from Stet Division, of New Brunswick, J. M. B. Pyatt, D. D., G. W. P., of Dunellen, John H. Carney, the local humorist, and others. The members and visitors were entertained with humorous remarks by Mr. Carney, speeches by W. B. Ayres, a reading by Mr. Shook, of Stet Division, Music by Master Clarence Rittenhouse, a recitation by Miss Alice Scribner, a recitation by Master C. Clark, a speech and reading by S. B. Scribner, and music by J. H. Johnson, after which a collation was served, and the members and friends left for home with the impression of having spent an enjoyable evening.

A Hard Day for Railroad Men.

The dense fog of last night and this morning compelled railway engineers to exercise the utmost vigilance and caution. It was impossible to see any object many yards away, and a mistake in signals or dispatches must have resulted disastrously. Yet the train men have so much faith in the Jersey Central system that they were able to run passenger trains very nearly on time. Freight and coal trains proceeded more leisurely. The engineers had a wet time leaning almost half their body out of their cab windows into the storm.

Three Churches Evidence Their Charity.

Nothing should more strongly appeal to the people for support, than Muhlenberg Hospital. It needs money and deserves it. Last Sunday collections for its treasury were taken in three of the churches, resulting as follows: Crescent Avenue, $146; Grace Episcopal, $84; Unitarian, $28.

Prominent clergymen, physicians, and all classes of citizens are unanimous in the endorsement of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure for rheumatism.

No greater guarantee of the excellence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup could be furnished than that it is recommended by all the leading druggists.

ASSEMBLY THE SECOND.

One Hundred Couple Enjoy the Dance at The Casino.

The second of the season's assemblies took place at The Casino, last evening, and was one of the most brilliant affairs of its kind in every way that was ever given in this city. The display of new dresses and jewels eclipsed all past efforts.

The managers who received the guests, were Mrs. R. L. Burnett, Mrs. Wm. T. Kaufman, Mrs. C. E. Brooks, Mrs. Wm. Bloodgood. The dance began about 8:30, and after a short cotillon led by Mr. C. E. Brooks and Mr. Harry Borden, supper was served at 11:30.

Among those present were Gen. and Mrs. W. S. Negley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Milliken, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bloodgood, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, Major and Mrs. R. L. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. H. Pollon, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boome, Mr. and Mrs. F. Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Pollock.

Misses Grace Howard, Minnie Murray, Nellie Shepard, Marion Dumont, Kittie Stewart, Gussie Murray, Jean Erickson, Fannie Stewart, the Misses Tracy, the Misses Yates, the Misses VanBoskerck, Misses Fairbairn, Depew, Streull, Borden, Hawley, Hart, Corlies, Allen, Simpson, Miss Clark of Somerville, Miss Burling of Brooklyn, Miss Ayres of New York, Miss Hoskins of Owego, and Miss Anthony of Netherwood.

Messrs. Squires, Kirk, Wotherspoon, Fairbairn, Waring, Borden, Streull, Morgan, Munn, Munger, Serrell, Lenox, Raymond, Tiffany, Tracy, West, Erickson, Cokefair, Hyde, Stewart, Mathews and Endicott; Messrs. Anthony and Holly of Netherwood, Worth of Westfield, VanWagner, Adams and Hudnut of New York, and L. Hyde of Titusville.

Brooklyn Society People to Play Here.

One of the most successfully presented plays given by the Gilbert Dramatic Society, at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, last season was Dr. Sayre's 3 act farce comedy, "Mixed Pickles."

This comedy will be played by the same popular amateurs at the Music Hall, on Tuesday evening, January 20, under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge Royal Arcanum. Over 300 seats are already sold. The cast will be as follows:

Hiram Brown, inclined to be fast—
—Wm. T. Harris, Jr
Deacon Babylon Jordan, inclined to be mean—
—John F. Dyer
Rev. Arthur Pickle, inclined to be good—
—Adam Dove
Joe Pickle, inclined to mischief—Jas J. Darling
Mrs. Hiram Brown, inclined to the minister—
—Miss Mamie Sloat
Cherry Brown, inclined to his brother—
—Miss Libbie Healey
Lucinda Sniggins, inclined to be married—
—Miss Dot Parkhurst
Susie, inclined to be pert—Miss Carrie Turner

It Had Been Hoped That Mr. Mills Would Awaken Even the Lawyers.

(From the Westfield Leader.)

J. M. C. Marsh is gradually disposing of the limp which he acquired by a fall on the stairs of some lawyer in Plainfield last Wednesday. The limp, by the way, did not prevent Constable Marsh from a two-forty chase after Bill Perrine in his endeavor to escape from Justice Pearsall's office on the evening of the accident, and landing him safely in the jail at Elizabeth. Mr. Marsh's accident simply shows the crooked ways some Plainfield lawyers have of getting at business, and the pitfalls which await those who walk therein. The fact is recorded "more in sorrow than in anger," as it was hoped that the great religious awakening Plainfield had lately received would reach even the lawyers of that benighted hamlet.

"High Class and First-Class."

Breathes there a man with soul so dead that he would not rather visit a genuine minstrel show than have his mother-in-law visit him, or words to that effect? If there is a panacea for the blues, a cure for melancholy, it is a high-class minstrel entertainment. The plaintive songs, the nimble dance, the merry fun are things that all can enjoy. The carping critic may find fault with the tendency of the dramatic stage, but he is a prudish person who can see anything to criticise adversely in refined minstrelsy. An evening of mirth and music is good for soul and body, and the famous Guy Brothers Elite Minstrels will appear at Amphion Hall, Monday evening, January 5.

Position is obtained by merit as the best and safest. Hires' Cough Cure, wherever tried, has always taken the first position as a Cough Cure Remedy over all others. Its merits make it a household necessity.

JERSEY'S KEYS ALL RIGHT.

But The One Who Voted in New York in 1887 is Dead, They Say.

It is not likely that the Republicans will carry the Somerset County Senatorial contest into the Senate. At the continuation of the examination Wednesday, Inspector Stringham, the witness whose remarkable memory had already worked so disastrously to the interests of the contestant, broke down utterly and admitted that he could not remember anything about the election in New York in 1887 save that he had written down the names of the voters in his registry book. He even acknowledged, after reluctantly giving other self-damaging admissions in answer to sharp cross-examining, that he did not recall anything whatever about the registration of the Wm. J. Keys whose name was recorded on his registry books. Two other men who had been inspectors with Stringham gave evidence still more convincing that the Wm. J. Keys who has been elected Senator from Somerset county is not the same Wm. J. Keys who was registered as a voter in New York three years ago. One of these was David Manus, who as a tailor had for years supplied the Senator-elect with clothes, and who swore positively that Mr. Keys was not the one who registered in New York in 1887. The other was Henry Meyers, whose short and graphic testimony must have killed the last spark of hope left in the breast of Chas. A. Reed, the defeated Senatorial aspirant from North Plainfield, and the contestant of Mr. Keys's election.

"I remember well"—said Mr. Meyers—"the time Mr. Keys came in to register. I put the usual questions to him myself. I had known Mr. Keys some months before that. Since I have been to Somerville Wm. J. Keys has been pointed out to me. He's not the man. Mr. Keys who voted in my district in 1887 is dead."

This admission practically sealed the case, and Counselor Marsh, Mr. Reed's lawyer, seemed to feel like throwing up the sponge. In order to retreat as gracefully as possible he called several witnesses who testified that Mr. Keys might have voted in Hillsborough township in the Fall of '87, but they were not aware and didn't remember that he did.

Anchor's New Officers Installed.

At a special communication of Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., of this city, held Wednesday evening, the following officers were installed:

Mayor Smith Nominated Two Years Too Soon.

Although Plainfield has a Mayor Male still, and a Mayor Gilbert coming, the Westfield Leader names another in this way:

Mr. Seymour G. Smith, the brother of our esteemed townsman, Mr. Chester M. Smith, is favorably mentioned as a candidate for the Mayoralty of Plainfield. If Mr. Smith is as good an all around citizen as his relative in Westfield, his pathway to the Mayor's chair ought to be a remarkable easy one, and Plainfield will honor itself by getting him into its most distinguished office without hesitation or delay.

A Nuisance.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It would be a wise act if the police would order the group of loafers that hang around the entrance of Amphion Hall away whenever there is an entertainment of any sort in progress. On Wednesday evening during the masquerade ball there were fifteen or twenty of these loafers hanging around the entrance to the hall during the whole night, insulting everybody that passed in or out. Officers, do your duty!

A VICTIM.

With groans and sighs, and dizzied eyes,
He seeks the couch and down he lies;
Nausea and faintness in him rise.
Brow-racking pains assail him,
Sick headache! But ere long comes ease,
His stomach settles it to peace,
Within his head the throbbing's cease—
Pierce's Pellets never fail him.

Nor will they fail anyone in such a dire predicament. To the dyspeptic, the bilious, etc., they are alike "a friend in need and a friend indeed."

Cork's New Mayor a Parnellite.

CORK, Jan. 2.—The newly elected Mayor of Cork, Mr. Horgan, has been installed in office. He is a supporter of Mr. Parnell, and the Healeyites absented themselves from the proceedings. The customary ceremonies at the Catholic cathedral were omitted, the Bishop refusing to receive the Parnellite Mayor there.

Sells His Newport Place.

NEWPORT, R. I., Jan. 2.—Vice-President Morton has sold his summer residence, Fair Lawn, on Bellevue avenue, to Isaac Townsend Bowden. The price was about $130,000.

Murderer Borgenson Sentenced.

LITCHFIELD, Conn., Jan. 2.—Andrew Borgenson, who was convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing, at New Milford, of Emma Anderson, was sentenced to be hanged January 29th, 1892.

MOSE IN A TRAP.

His Feelings Were Injured, But He Made the Best of a Bad Job.

I had just eaten dinner with a Mississippi planter and we sat on the veranda smoking when a colored man came up, pulled off his hat and said:

"Majah, Ize dun heard somebody shoutin' ober by de lower co'n crib."

"Sound like game?"

"He do, sah. Reckon it dun hurts his feelin's."

"Very well, William; I'll go down there pretty soon."

I didn't ask what it was and the Major didn't explain for some time. By and by, after we had thrown our cigars away, he said:

"The niggers have been stealing my co'n, and last night I set a bear-trap. Williams thinks we've got some game, and we might walk down that way."

The crib was half a mile from the house. As we got near it we heard a shout, and a little later caught sight of a colored man sitting on the ground at the door. His right leg was fast in the bear-trap.

"Good evening," saluted the Major, as we came up.

"Good evenin', Majah Bash."

"Fine weather for cotton."

"Mighty fine, Majah. Has yo' dun got free plowin' out?"

"Not quite. How's crops on the other side of the bayou?"

"Only tolable, Majah—only tolable. Bin moas' too wet wid us over dar!"

"Any talk about election?"

"Jess a leetle bit, Majah, but not nuff to hurt anybody."

"You came over to see me about work, I suppose?"

"Yas, sah, I did. Some of de hands was a-sayin' yo' could put on a man or two."

"So I can. What's that on your leg, Moses?"

"On my leg? On which leg, Majah?"

"On the right."

"Oh, yes, I dun forget all about it. I stepped in it down in de woods, an' was bringing it up to de house."

"That was very kind. We will take it off."

It took both of us to spring the jaws, and the man's leg seemed to have been cut to the bone. He scrambled up, however, picked up a stick for a cane, and said:

"Much obleeged, Majah. When shall I cum?"

"About Monday next, Moses."

"Werry well. Reckon I'll go home an' make all ready. Good evenin', all."

We replied to his salutation, and he hobbled off into the woods, trying hard to whistle and seem at ease.

"Will he come?" I asked of the Major.

"Not next Monday. He was in that trap twelve hours, and he won't do a stroke of work for three long months."—N. Y. Sun.

Lady—Mercy, me! What would I do with a wheelbarrow? I live in a flat, my good man. But I will help you gladly. Here's a dollar.

Tramp (to himself)—That's six dollars I've made ter day tryin' ter sell a wheelbarrer to kind people what lives in flats, an' I ain't got no wheelbarrer, nuther.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Lucky Fellow.

Bilkins—So Goodheart, who was once engaged to you, has married Miss Sweetie, eh? Well, he's a lucky fellow.

Mrs. Bilkins—Do you know Miss Sweetie?

Bilkins—No, but I know you.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Remarkable Result.

Editor of the Bazoo—Does it pay to advertise in my paper? Well, I should say it does. Look at Smith, the grocer, for instance. He advertised for a boy last week, and the very next day Mrs. Smith had twins—both of them boys!—Life.

A Modest, Sensitive Woman

Often shrinks from consulting a physician, and prefers to suffer in silence. This may be a mistaken feeling, but it is one which is largely prevalent. To all such women we would say that one of the most skillful physicians of the day, who has had a vast experience in curing diseases peculiar to women, has prepared a remedy which is of inestimable aid to them. We refer to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is the only remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case or money refunded. See guarantee printed on bottle wrapper.

THE COUNTRY CLUB AT HOME

AUSPICIOUS DEDICATION, AND NEW YEAR'S EVE RECEPTION.

Members and Friends Escorted Through the Model Structure of the State—Speeches by Messrs. Cox, Gilbert and Stockton—Elaborate Banquet and Ball.

The members and friends of the Union County Country Club had their first view of the completed interior of the handsome new club-house New Year's Eve, when the doors of that model society home were thrown open and the structure was inspected by an admiring assemblage. The general public had of course only the merest glimpse of the festivities within, and had to satisfy itself with the vision of elegance suggested by the attractive exterior of the buildings, the windows flashing forth brilliant lights, the shadows of the people flitting about indoors; but to the invited guests the club's house-warming was one of the most charming social events they had ever known.

The formal dedicatory exercises were begun in The Casino at nine o'clock, when Rowland Cox, representing the Building Committee, delivered to Vice President Wm. Bloodgood the keys of the architectural fabric, and made a speech so neat and appropriate that his auditors could not repress a frequent inclination to render hearty applause. The response for the Club was made by Alexander Gilbert, Mayor-elect of Plainfield, in a very happy vein, and the keys were transferred to the keeping of Harry M. Stockton, Chairman of the House Committee. The formalities were soon at an end, and at ten o'clock Mr. Stockton announced that the club-house was open to the guests. The assemblage then passed into the main club building and were cordially received by the officers of the Club and the members of the House Committee, who were gathered in the main hall. Reception greetings over, the members escorted their friends through the model club-house. An elaborate banquet and ball followed. The supper was furnished entirely by the steward of the Club, Robert Holmes, whose excellence as a presiding genius of such an institution is evidenced in the fact that for years he was head man at the Union League Club in Philadelphia, from which city were imported all the table supplies for the present occasion. The feast of good things was just as superb as had been anticipated, and just as all things always will be under the management of such an institution. The ball furnished opportunity for the society dancers to express themselves in terms of ecstasy. The music was conducted by Elliot, and consisted of eight pieces. The strains came floating down in rarest harmony from the balcony of The Casino to the throng on the floor below; and as enlivening polka, dreamy waltz, fascinating schottische, dignified quadrille or graceful lanciers succeeded one another, the ladies, gliding with their partners through the finest ball-room in the State, enthusiastically declared the event a "dream of loveliness." And thus the pleasant hours flew by, and the old year died, and the new year was ushered in, with Mirth and Gaiety and Happiness on the throne.

The Union County Country Club is now snugly quartered in the midst of surpassing comfort and luxuriousness. The architectural excellence has been greatly heightened by superb, though unostentatious, decoration, and sumptuous furnishings. The reception hall, twenty-three feet long by fifteen feet wide, is finished in white paint and enameled white and gold. The ceiling is heavily beamed, and the walls are draped with Turkish and plush hangings. The furniture is of mahogany, upholstered in red leather. The library, fifteen feet square, leading out of the main hall, is very pretty and cosy. Its furniture is of antique oak and corduroy. Its chairs are wonderfully comfortable. To the right of the hall is the gentlemen's dining-room, carpeted, curtained and papered in blue, and furnished in oak. All of the seats are arm chairs. The paper-hangings are very appropriate, being adorned with all kinds of fruits. Communicating by folding doors with the gentlemen's dining-room is a similar apartment for the ladies. This is also furnished in oak, but is more light, airy and fairy than the "blue room." The curtains are light, and the carpet is of a light brick color, with a very handsome border. Everything is exactly suited to dainty feminine taste.

Opposite the main entrance to the club-house is a beautifully executed piece of spindle work, separating the hall from the staircase. The stairs lead to a remarkably cosy nook of a landing, where is a large bay window furnished with comfortable seats and banked with flowers. The curtains here are of a copper hue, and are hung back with very artistic effect. The illumination at night is furnished by a cluster of electric lamps arranged in a handsome lantern.

On the second floor, the first room to the right from the landing, is the large billiard-room, with the most correct billiard and pool tables one could desire. The wood-work of the tables is of oak. The room is well lighted by seven windows. Everything that the player could desire is furnished, and as in every other part of the house everything is spick and span new. The apartment is a first-class billiard-room in every respect. Opposite the stair-landing is the secretary's room. This is all furnished in blue—walls, ceiling, everything—and is known to the club members as "Barlow's pet" because the architect adores it as the "cutest" room in the house. To the left are the three card rooms, with card tables and chess tables especially designed for the Club. The tables are of oak, with a centre of olive green cloth. In each corner an incision has been made in the wood to hold a cigar when the player comes to the moment when he has no thought of smoke and every thought intent on the game. The chairs at the tables are a feature. They are the most comfortable chairs human art has ever devised. One might sit in one of them for hours and hours, and the longer he sat the more rested would he become. They are especially suited to games—and to long games which but for such unusual comforts might soon grow wearisome.

Near at hand are private dining-rooms for special parties of friends. The furniture here is oak, with blue leather upholstering. The carpet is a dark Turkey red. The walls are appropriately papered in colors that harmonize beautifully. An elaborate china cabinet adorns one corner. A serving-room, with dumb waiter descending to the kitchen, similar to the serving-room and butler's pantry, down stairs and with all requisites, adjoins.

The third floor is devoted entirely to the janitor's and servant's apartments.

The kitchen and pantry in the basement are very complete in every respect. Everything that is necessary to proper maintenance of the culinary department is provided. Large store rooms, well supplied with necessaries, connect. Also in the basement are the gentlemen's coat-room, dressing-room, toilet-room and bath-room. The bath-room, besides the tubs, contains excellent shower-bath apparatus, with spray and needles and all other accompaniments. Nothing that one could desire has been omitted. The building throughout is heated by steam, effectually ventilated, and constructed and conducted as the most genteel and fastidious club man could wish. Every want of a refined taste is supplied, and an absolutely perfect club-house is the result.

The four bowling alleys in the basement are of the truest model. A ball sent spinning down their length will find no flaws to cause deviation from the path destined by the hand that impelled it. An adjoining store-room holds spare scenery for the stage of The Casino.

The library and the verandas overlook three tennis courts on the grounds. The front and rear verandas are twelve feet wide. The long one at the rear was inclosed, the opening night, as a supper room, and the Casino porch as a coat room. The Casino stage was set for the evening in the garden scene, and was excellently decorated with plants and flowers. During the dedicatory exercises the stage was occupied by the Board of Governors, the House Committees, and the Building Committee. These are as follows:

Board of Governors—Harry G. Runkle, President; William Bloodgood, Vice President; Wm. T. Kaufman, Secretary; Pliny Fisk, Treasurer; Charles J. Fisk, DeWitte Clinton Irons, William Palmer Smith, W. B. Post, Charles E. Brooks, Henry P. Talmadge, H. S. Mason, Harry M. Stockton.

House Committee—H. M. Stockton, Chairman; Joseph P. Mason, Secretary; Charles J. Fisk, E. C. Perkins, Geo. C. Evans.

Building Committee—Pliny Fisk, Rowland Cox, D. C. Ivins, W. P. Smith, W. Bloodgood, H. M. Stockton, H. P. Talmadge.

Messrs. H. G. Runkle, Charles J. Fisk and Pliny Fisk were still in mourning for recent deaths in their families, and were therefore, to the great regret of the club members and friends, unable to attend the auspicious opening. Vice President Bloodgood consequently acted in President Runkle's stead, and Mr. Cox in place of Chairman Fisk of the Building Committee.

The Fire in the Blaine Mansion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The fire which started in the Blaine mansion on Dupont Circle, now occupied by L. Z. Leiter of Chicago, was soon put out by the fire department, but not until the building and furniture were damaged to the extent of perhaps $12,000 or $15,000. As usual in cases of fire soon put out in large and expensively furnished mansions, there was more damage done from water than from fire. Costly carpets, frescoing and papering throughout the house are ruined and the mansion must be overhauled from top to bottom again before it will be in a habitable condition.

Three Indians Arrested for Murder.

DENISON, Tex., Jan. 2.—Three full-blooded Indians were brought here last night from the Chickasaw Nation by deputy United States marshals. They are charged with the murder of Austin Lilly, which occurred on Christmas day while Lilly was on his way home from Tishomingo, where he had been spending Christmas. The prisoners appear unconcerned.

Champion Club Swinger.

BATH, Me., Jan. 2.—Edward Brown of this city, who recently lost the world's championship for endurance in club swinging to Homer Crawford, has regained it by swinging nine pound clubs 6 hours and 41 minutes, or 10 minutes longer than Crawford, who used clubs weighing eight pounds and ten ounces. Brown averaged 65 full swings to the minute.

Decline in the Receipts of Fish.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Jan. 2.—There were landed at this port during 1890, 52,474,755 pounds of cod and other Bank fish; 6,906,060 pounds of fresh halibut; 16,206 barrels of mackerel (including importations); 10,400 barrels of other pickled fish, and 16,960,000 herring. These receipts show a marked decline from those during the past 10 years.

Directed the Jury to Acquit.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The trial of John Ackerman for the murder of John Meisner on Grand Island was brought to a sudden close when Judge Daniels charged the jury to find the defendant not guilty of the crime whereof he was charged. The jury found Ackerman no guilty without leaving the room.

Took a Dose of Strychnine.

NEWPORT, Ark., Jan. 22.—Miss Emma Deadmond, living near Swifton, 18 miles from here, committed suicide yesterday. She dressed in her best clothes and took a dose of strychine, and died in two hours. She left a letter giving directions for her burial. She assigned no reason for her rash act.

Slashed Four Men With a Knife.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Joseph Kohler, a crazy drunken butcher, 22 years old, ran amuck in 29th street, armed with a long carving knife. Before he could be disarmed he had slashed four men with the knife. They were but slightly injured. Kohler was arrested.

A Paris dispatch says that the protests and remonstrances of the wine growers and of the Marseilles Chamber of Commerce and other bodies against the new protective tariff are producing no effect whatever, and that the French legislature is bent upon a measure that will carry to the extreme the principle of protection to native industry.

During the progress of a dance in Buffalo, N. Y., last night, William Hendricks and Peter Quinn quarrelled over a woman. A few hot words started a fight, during which Quinn stabbed Hendricks in the neck with a pocket knife. Hendricks is dying and the police are looking for Quinn, who is supposed to be in Canada.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—For New England: Warmer threatening weather and rain southerly winds, brisk to high on the coast.

For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Threatening weather and rain, with a cold wave; southerly winds.

AN INTELLIGENT ROOSTER.

He Is Deaf and Dumb, But Is Able to Take His Own Part.

A gentleman living on the outskirts of the city, near Black Rock, owns a curiosity the like of which Barnum never dreamed of, says the Buffalo (N. Y.) Express. It is a deaf-and-dumb rooster—a full-grown, brilliantly plumed, brown Leghorn chanticleer—that has lost his voice, can neither crow nor cluck, nor make any other audible sound with his vocal apparatus; does not wake up the neighborhood at five o'clock in the morning with an everlasting cock-a-doodle-doo; does not give an alarm of hawks every time a black cloud crosses the sun, but is still as much the lord of the chicken park as ever.

He has not always been thus. Up to the time he was eight months old he was as noisy as any young rooster need be. Then he got his head caught in a barbed-wire fence in such a way as to mangle his neck and probably tear out the vocal cords. Losing the power to make sounds, he evidently forgot how to hear them. At least now, at the age of three years, he gives no evidence of hearing. But he makes his eyes answer for ears and voice, too. If any one wanted proof that he was really deaf and dumb, those eyes would be convincing. There is nothing he does not see. When the first glow of sunrise appears he begins the duties of the day by rousing all the rest of the fowls in the henery in his own original way. He walks around to each one, and kicks it off its perch. There is no resisting such an invitation to get up. It's much more effective than crowing. When he gets a challenge to fight he does not stop to announce what he can do. He goes and does it. And his battles are all victorious.

The most remarkable thing about this intelligent bird, however, is the fact that though deaf, he can distinguish between an admonition to "shoo" and a request to come to dinner. How he does it is a mystery, but it is believed that he tells by the motions of the lips and general attitude of the person who addresses him.

A course of instruction in a deaf-and-dumb institute is all this rooster needs to learn to talk with his spurs.

THE STRUGGLE FOR WEALTH.

Money a Potential Factor in Most of the World's Misery.

What is the most active factor of evil in this country at the present time? It is not drunkenness, nor licentiousness, nor infidelity. It is not bad politics, and it is not any thing that is disreputable and under the ban. It is simply the prevailing craze for wealth, and nothing else. From childhood to old age the average man thinks of nothing but money-getting. Everybody is impatient to make a fortune in a hurry. Naturally people take what Sam Jones calls the "nigh cuts." No man can love money and long retain a conscience and good principles.

The struggle for wealth, says the Atlanta Constitution, is ruining and killing people. During the panic the other day, a broker dropped dead in Wall street. Another broker in New York, a few days before, killed himself. It was all about a matter of money. Look at our defaulting Southern State Treasurers, Vincent, Tate, Burke and Hemingway. They are now disgraced, dead, in prison or in exile. Money was the cause. And there are worse things. Woolfolk, who died on the gallows a few days ago, murdered his whole family in the hope of getting money. And Birchall, just over the line in Canada. Think of his case. A clever, well-educated young fellow, of good family, with a pretty and devoted wife. For the sake of a few hundred dollars he decoyed a man into the swamp and shot him down like a dog! All for money. Then there was Selby Jones, of Kansas City, who committed suicide the other day. He wanted to move in the best of society, and the result was a shortage in his accounts of seventy-five thousand dollars. When detection stared him in the face he took a leap in the dark. Money again. Besides these bold fellows we have a few million sneaks and robbers who keep inside of the law, and grind their fellowmen, and resort to Shylock methods to fill their pockets. When one thinks of all these things the money devil begins to loom up a very potential factor. He is the cause of most of the crime and misery of our day.

SYMPATHY FOR DESERTERS.

A Case in Which It Worked the Object Injury Rather Than Good.

Not one deserter in fifty is caught, and the unwillingness of citizens to give information that will lead to their apprehension sometimes leads to curious complications. Some years ago, says an officer in the United States service, a young graduate from West Point was sent to the West and detailed for special duty with a squad of Indian scouts. So long as he was with his party he, of course, was able to keep his bearings, but one day, returning from an expedition into the mountains, the party stopped for dinner, and, after dining, he directed the Indians to go on to the post, while he would follow an hour or two later. Not accustomed to the mountains, he lost his way. The Indians came to the post without him and reported that he had not overtaken them, but as they were directed to go on they obeyed orders and did not return to search for him. A day or two passed, and as no news came of the missing officer, his friends, who esteemed him highly, sent out the Indians to trace him up and find him. They followed his trail for two hundred miles and repeatedly had news of him, as he was seen by miners and prospectors, but could get no information from them as to the direction he had taken, as he was supposed to be a deserter from the army, and no one would aid the soldiers to run him down. He was found at last, after over a week's wandering, almost dead and out of his head with hunger, thirst and exposure, all of which he owed to the general sympathy for deserters, for had the civilians aided the scouts he might have been overtaken in a few hours.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place, we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go in the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must charge larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does, pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses, from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

JUSTICE IN THE CASE.

The Advice Was Good, But It Cost the Witness Five Dollars.

An amusing scene was recently enacted in a court-room in a small country town. The magistrate, a high, pompous official, with a voice like a trombone, took it upon himself to examine a witness—a little, withered, old man, whose face was as red and wrinkled as a smoked herring.

"What is your name?" asked the justice.

"Why, squire," said the astonished witness, "you know my name as well as I know yourn."

"Never you mind what I know or what I don't know," was the caution, given with magisterial severity. "I ask the question in my official capacity, and you're bound to answer it under oath."

With a contemptuous snort, the witness gave his name, and the questioning proceeded.

"Where do you live?"

"Well, I declare," ejaculated the old man. "Why," he continued, appealing to the laughing listeners, "I've lived in this town all my life, and so's he," pointing to the justice, "an' to hear him go on you'd think—"

"Silence," thundered the irate magistrate. "Answer my question or I'll fine you for contempt of court."

Alarmed by the threat, the witness named his place of residence, and the examination went on.

"What is your occupation?"

"Huh?"

"What do you do for a living?"

"Oh, get out, 'squire. Just as if you don't know that I tend gardens in the summer season an' sell coal in the winter!"

"As a private citizen I do know it, but as the court I know nothing about you," exclaimed the perspiring justice.

"Well, 'squire," remarked the puzzled witness, "if you know somethin' outside the court-room an' don't know nothin in it, you'd better get out an' let somebody try this case that's got some sense."

The advice may have been well meant, but it cost the witness five dollars.—Farm and Fireside.

Matter of Conscience.

First Messenger Boy (excitedly)—Say, Cully, come into this toy store and see the nigger dance on a box an turn summersets widout losin' step.

Second Messenger Boy (solemnly)—I've got a message for a doctor—case of life and death—and can't stop more'n a half hour or so.—Good News.

Discouraging a Masher.

"Are you looking for a husband?" said an impertinent masher to an unprotected female.

"I am," she replied. "I was to meet him here about this time, and when he comes I'll have him thrash you."—Munsey's Weekly.

They Were Friends, Too.

Ethel (age uncertain)—Well, Maude, Charlie Hicks has proposed at last. He asked me to be his last night.

Maude (young, but jealous)—You don't mean it! He is the last man I'd take for an antiquarian.—Harper's Bazar.

ON HER DIGNITY.

Miss Jenway (who has had a misunderstanding with George)—I knew he'd follow me and make up, but I'm not going to speak till he does. These men need a lesson once in awhile.—Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.

Thwarted.

Head of Firm—Oh, by the way, Mr. Travers, I shall have to ask you to stay in the office all day next Wednesday; I am going out of town.

Travers (aside)—Hang the luck! That is the very day I had arranged to have my grandmother die.—Life.

He Was an Old Subscriber.

Editor—Mr. Hunker, you have been taking my paper less than a year, and yet you sign yourself "Old Subscriber" in this communication.

Hunker—Young man, I am sixty-eight years of age.—Jury.

Comfortable Dishonesty.

Mrs. Newed (lovingly)—What a picture you make, dear, lying on that soft down lounge.

Newed (who married for money)—Yes, it is better than being honest and a hard-up lounger.—Spirit.

A Brother's Eye.

Pretty Girl—I wish I knew what costume to get for the fancy ball.

Little Brother—I'll tell you what, sis. Wear y'r spotted vail and go as a small-pox patient.—Good News.

Paradoxical.

Second Actor—Yes, and queer, isn't it, that a fellow's lowest when on his uppers?—Spirit.

Out of Sight.

Thespis—He's the greatest mimic the world ever saw.

Merritt—With the exception of Death. Sooner or later he is sure to take us all off.—Jury.

Tip-Top.

"The top of the morning to you, sor," said the Irish waiter.

"Thank you," returned de Jeuner; "and now I suppose you want the tip of it."—Puck.

FESTIVE FIGAROS.

Hair-Dressing in View of the Public for Prizes.

The Wild Scene Witnessed at a Tonsorial Exhibition in Paris — A Tremendous Row Caused by One of the Losing Competitors.

Before twenty-seven looking-glasses sat twenty-seven disheveled maidens, the glories of their toilets veiled by the familiar striped wrappers of the hairdresser's saloon, surrounded by hairpins, bandeaux, and—but why expose the secrets of the toilet? Enough to say that all was there necessary to the erection of a fashionable coiffure. Behind each stood a Figaro, expectant, tail-comb in hand, his snowy shirt-front and resplendent studs carefully protected by a silken kerchief, now executing valse steps to the preliminary strains of the band, now combing the tresses before him to the same accompaniment. This odd scene, says a Paris letter in the New York Sun, was at the ball of the Society of Progress in Hairdressing, and it was the outset of a prize competition. The signal is given. With lightning fingers the competitors proceed to work. In a trice fringes that lately hung dank and straight assume a puffy appearance. The spectator can not fail to note the careful powdering of the model's faces, for the electric light is trying, and observe how speedily a twist here, a curl there, and half a dozen skillfully placed pins add to feminine charms. It is all very serious. The "subjects" are models of gravity. Messrs. Louis, and Auguste, and Jaques, and Hippolyte indulge only in the facial contortions peculiar to their trade. Their young ladies and professional friends solemnly promenade to the music and await results with palpitating hearts.

"Gentlemen, the combs to the pockets," cries the president.

With a last pat here, a final fingering of the frizzes, and a farewell adjustment of feathers and flowers, the competitors whisk off the wrappers and the twenty-seven ball-gowned young ladies are revealed to us in all the glory of their elaborate coiffures.

"Gentlemen of the jury, will you do your duty?" is the stentorian command.

It sounds as if they were trying a murder case. Ah! the solemnity of the moment! There is no conversation, the music ceases, the excitement of the festive Figaros is alone manifested in their elevated eyebrows, uplifted shoulders and fierce mustache ends, working like the antenna of the lobster. The prize is only to him who shall obtain seven votes. But, alas and alas! no one gains this number. No. 23 gets six, No. 1 gets three; the remaining four are frittered away between other competitors. Again and again the gentlemen of the jury "do your duty," and just as twenty-three scenes to have grasped the golden cross of honor a wild crowd seizes hold of a diminutive, black-bearded individual, with a tail-comb protruding from his pocket, uplift him shoulder high, and No. 1, it is realized, is, after all, the lucky man.

Then a tremendous row ensues. The second prize has been handed to 23, but, with flashing eyes and a face whiter than shaving lather, he dashes it tragically to the floor, and with half-smothered yell, like a tiger balked of its prey, rushes at the unfortunate lady, whose tresses have served him in such good stead, and in another moment reduces the coiffure he has erected to ruin. A confused mass of hairpins, "switches," marteaux curls, and an osprey alone remains of what was once so dear. To a man the festive Figaros pursue the baffled barber round the saloon, and, with groans and hisses, expel him from the scene. The honor of the society has been outraged. A compatriot and fellow-craftsman has made a sad exhibition of jealous rage and disappointment, and insulted the society.

Meanwhile, hairpins and looking-glasses have been swept away, the floor is cleared, and the Gallic hairdresser certainly does not take his pleasures sadly, for in the refreshment-room where bottled stout and cigarettes appear to be most in request, the friends of luckless No. 23 and the successful No. 1 exhaust themselves in gesticulations and arguments, while the paucity of the funereal black-edged programmes lashes many into exhibitions of fury which frequently threaten to develop into pugilistic interludes. As the writer departs a procession of ladies, who have been brought with hair already dressed in various historical and fashionable styles, is in course of formation, and suggests the idea that the revolving waxen dummies have escaped from the various hairdressers' windows to take part in the revels. But the last impression of the "Grand Concours Internationale and Ball" is of a haggard, ghastly apparition, hugging a brush and comb, a card-board box and a striped wrapper, and peering through the swing doors with wild eyes at the revels within. It was the fallen angel hovering around the gates of Paradise, the hapless No. 23.

An Humbled Vizier.

A traveler in Morocco tells, in "The Land of an African Sultan," the following story: "The Sultan, not long ago, discovered that one of his viziers was becoming too powerful. He therefore summoned him to tea, and complimented him on his great wealth. The vizier, becoming vain, boasted of the number of his houses, horses, wives, and slaves, and the Sultan rebuked him, saying that he was too rich and thought too much of himself. To show the man exactly what he was worth, his Majesty had him taken by soldiers to the slave-market, where he was put up for sale, and received only one bid of eightpence. He was then taken back to the Sultan, who said to him: 'Now you know your proper value—eightpence. Go home and ponder over it.' When the man walked home, however, he found that nearly all his property had been taken possession of by the Sultan. Only one mule, resting on one wife, one horse, and a slave had been left him."

A Pastoral.

Mrs. Timothy—Just see how fond the old rooster is of his family. How he scratches up worms, and then calls all the hens around him, and seems pleased to see them eat. Oh, I should think you might take a lesson from the brute beasts, and learn to treat your wife decently.

Mr. Timothy—Yes, Maria, but in his case it isn't always the same old hen.—Jury.

Going to Stop It.

Landlord—I want to notify you that I want the room you occupy.

Single Lodger—Why, what's the matter?

"In the first place, you have not paid your rent; and, secondly, you kiss my wife every time my back is turned. That's going to stop on the first of next month."—Texas Siftings.

Her Last Words.

Bingo—So old Mrs. Gabley has gone to her eternal home.

Stingo—Yes, the old lady's left us.

Bingo—What were her last words?

Stingo—I don't think any are reported.

Bingo—There must have been. She always would have the last word.—America.

Warranted to Work.

Miss Longout—They tell me arsenic is really good for the complexion. Now, Mr. Formula, you have studied chemistry so long. Is it really good?

Formula—There's no doubt about it, Miss Longout. If you take enough of it your complexion will never trouble you.—America.

A Queer Woman.

Mrs. Lakeside (Chicago)—I should like to know what's got into that Mrs. De Fair. I never saw such uppishness. I met her in a restaurant to-day, and she pretended not to see me.

Mr. L.—Were you alone?

Mrs. L.—No, I was with her husband.—N. Y. Weekly.

In the Sleigh.

"This robe is a bearskin, isn't it, George?" the fair one asked, as they sped along the hard, smooth road.

"Yes, darling; why?"

"Oh, I had reasons for thinking so."

A great, strong light shone on George, and afterward he drove with one hand.—Boston Herald.

HYPOTHECATION.

Mrs. Fondever (on the return from the bridal trip)—What a lovely time we've had, Percival. There's not been a single hitch.

Mr. Fondever (paying his last bill)—No, my dear (to himself), nothing but an unhitch.—Once a Week.

A Very Wise Tramp.

Hungry Higgins—How is dis fer a coat, pard? I worked a great snap up at that house. De woman dat came to de door was an old maid, and I asked her fer one of her husband's cast-off coats. She was so tickled she gave me this one that belonged to her brother.—Boston Herald.

An Appreciative Critic.

Clarice—Oh, Mr. Pennington, there is one thing I do so like about your novels!

Mr. Pennington (much pleased)—Yes? And what is that?

Clarice—They are printed in such clear type!—Puck.

More Truth Than Poetry.

Dobbins—Tell you what, Hobbins, that was a fine poem of yours in the High Flyer.

Hobbins (gratified)—Think so?

Dobbins—Yes, sir-ee! Tell you what, there was more truth than poetry in that.—West Shore.

Not Much to It.

Bills—I heard that you have got a big contract.

Squills (costumer)—Yes, it sounds big, but there isn't much in it. I have contracted to supply the dresses for the ladies of the —— ballet.—Boston Herald.

It Was Not His Time.

"Oh, Mr. Depot, do tell us a story," exclaimed a maiden, just introduced.

"My dear," said the maiden's mamma, rebukingly; "you must wait until after dinner. Mr. Depot is an after-dinner speaker, you know."—Puck.

Method in His Madness.

"Why do you send marked copies of papers with accounts of runaway accidents to your wife. Does she like that sort of reading?"

"No; but she wants to keep horses."—Jury.

Important Information.

A newly engaged colored waiter entered the breakfast room of an Austin (Tex.) hotel, and said in a loud voice:

"Is dere any gennermens here for San Antone? De train's jess left."—Texas Siftings.

A Stroke of Policy.

"How does it happen that Mr. Worldly performs the marriage ceremony for so many old maids?"

"Oh, he always asks them in an audible tone if they are of age, and they all like him."—N. Y. Herald.

With the Accent On.

"What shall I do with that boy of mine? He is awful, Mrs. Binabroad."

"Oui, I know," replied the good lady, graciously. "But jamais mind. Garcons will be garcons."—Life.

An Attractive Sign.

"That sign ought to attract attention, if not customers."

"Which?"

"That one over the tobacco store, 'Imported Cigars. Made while you wait.'"—Munsey's Weekly.

STOCKINET CLOTH.

The Difference Between Knit and Woven Goods.

Strictly speaking, stockinet is not a cloth, for it is not woven fabric, but a knitted texture. "By a process of knitting, and not by weaving, the individual threads of which a stockinet fabric is composed, are, says the Dry-Goods Chronicle, interlaced into one regular texture. The work is performed in a kind of a frame or loom, in which the yarns are arranged in parallel order, at uniform distances apart, as in ordinary weaving. Of course, the machine is automatic in its movements and capable of producing a great length of cloth in a very short time. The fabric thus formed is ornamented with a fine ribbed pattern, similar in character to that seen in common knit goods. This article generally handles soft, full and elastic, but lacks those valuable characteristics of strength and firmness of texture of make which obtain in a woven cloth proper."

The difference between the structure of this fabric and that resulting from weaving warp and weft yarns together may be illustrated as follows: Take a sample of stockinet cloth and try to withdraw a thread and what is the result? The whole construction is unraveled. Next submit a loom product to a similar examination and it will be found that if a longitudinal or warp thread is removed the transverse or weft thread will remain, while, on the other hand, if the latter are withdrawn the warp threads will, although the texture may be partly destroyed, still remain, to a certain extent, undisturbed. Again, the manner in which a knitted fabric is constructed limits the designer to one class of weave effects—these being of a stockinet character—whereas the principles of weaving are of such a description as to admit of an unlimited change or variation in design.

AN EXPENSIVE MISS.

What It Costs to Keep One Little New York Girl.

Here are some figures regarding the cost of a little girl of fourteen for the past year, says the New York World. She is the only daughter of a teller in a New York bank. The family lives in a private boarding-house, and the ambition of her parents is to make the child a bright, sweet, sensible woman. Her wardrobe costs $215 a year, including laundry.

She attends school up-town where she pays $350 a year. Last season she was sent to dancing school at an expense of $90. For this accomplishment she needed a special supply of slippers, four little dancing frocks, a long, quilted sister and fifteen yards of sash ribbon, for which a bill of $71 was presented.

During the summer she learned to swim, and the cost of her bathing suit and the services of the bathing master amounted to $13. Her board for the entire year cost $350. Here are some trifles, as the mother calls them, copied from the little girl's expense account:

One pug dog, $3; eight silver bracelets, $15; one doll, $3; one doll's carriage, $2.60; to mender, three days' service, $4.50; hospital attendance for dog, $7; burial of same, $1.75; one gold ring, $3.50; rent of tricycle, $2.85; medical treatment, $35; gifts for relatives, $7; monkey muff and cape, $27; gum, ice-cream, soda-water tripod, $24; tennis racket, $2.50; opera glass, $8; silver watch, $6; treatment for stuttering, $60.

Making the annual cost of this sweet little tyrant, $1,311.70.

MARBLE CANYON.

A River Whose Bed Is Three Thousand Feet Below the Plain.

We took up our march for the Colorado river at Lee's Ferry, so named from John D. Lee, one of the destroying angels executed by the United States for complicity in the Mountain Meadow massacre. Here we saw the most remarkable river in the world, writes a correspondent in the Indianapolis Sentinel. Imagine yourself upon a broad, white plain; you can hear a dull, distant roar; you can see nothing save the mountains and the waving grass; you go on and the noise gets more distinct, until you can hear it apparently beneath your feet.

All at once you see a few feet from you a fissure, which at first glance looks to be scarcely twenty feet wide. You cautiously crawl up and look down, down for three thousand feet. There is the river, a white torrent, surging against its perpendicular marble sides. You wonder, having walked to within fifty feet of that chasm without seeing it. You look at it flowing, and trace its course directly towards those mountains, yet they do not stop it; it goes through them, separating the Budskin from the San Francisco range, and the small dividing line looks like the cut of a knife from the top to the bottom. Here is where the canyon reaches its greatest depth, being a little over a mile from the top to the water.

THE ONLY ONE LIVING.

A Man Who Once Struck the Prince of Wales.

Pittsburgh boasts of a man who slapped the Prince of Wales in the face, says the South Side News. He lives on the South side, and for many years has worked for the Monongahela Water Company as a laboring boss. The circumstances of the adventure, as told by himself, are as follows:

"In my early life I was a soldier in the British army, and once my regiment was reviewed by Queen Victoria, who held by the hand the youthful Prince of Wales. When the mother's back was turned the boy playfully expectorated on my red coat, and I resented the insult to the British flag by slapping him in the face with my open palm. He told his mother, and very soon the Colonel heard of it and came dancing along to wreak vengeance on the man who dare lift his hand to a son of the Queen.

"The Queen sought me out and graciously inquired what my name was. 'William Dickson, sergeant, your Majesty,' said I; and she commended my sense of propriety in administering a timely rebuke to the heir apparent of the English throne, and recommended me for the promotion which never came."

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

A BLOCK IN FLAMES

New York's Fifth Avenue Theatre Destroyed.

DISCOVERED AT AN EARLY HOUR

Herrmann's Theatre and the Sturtevant House Damaged.

Adjacent Property Threatened with Destruction—High Excitement Among the Hotel Guests—No Lives Lost and But Few Persons Injured—Daring Work of Firemen—Estimate of Losses.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Flames burst from the Fifth Avenue Theatre at midnight last night and at 1:30 this morning the structure was in ruins.

Within an hour that famous playhouse was practically destroyed, Herrmann's Theatre was in flames and the entire block in peril.

Broadway was alive with crowds of excited people, and the windows of the Gilsey, the St. James and the Coleman House were filled with people.

Where the Fire Started.

The fire in the theatre broke out under a stairway, in the rear, under the stage, about 15 minutes after the curtain had gone down on "Cleopatra." Mr. Miner, the manager of the theatre, had gone home. He was recalled, and saw the place burn down.

The fire was discovered by Watchman Daniel Finn. There were then only two other people in the building—two actors who were putting on their street dress.

It was thought at first that the fire would be confined to the place where it originated, but it forced its way through the floor to the auditorium and the stage.

At 12:40 an explosion was heard in the building and a moment later the upper part of the city was illuminated by a huge sheet of flame which rose from the roof of the theatre, enveloping the entire building and Herrmann's Theatre immediately adjoining.

Six firemen had gone through Herrmann's Theatre to the roof and had just succeeded in hoisting a length of hose up which the furnace opened directly at their feet.

Five of them could not be seen from the street, but one stood outlined against the sea of flame that rose from the burning buildings.

Firemen Perish in the Flames.

A shout was made for scaling ladders by the firemen on Broadway, but before they could be procured the fireman was seen to take a final look at the crowd below and then to deliberately walk into flames and disappear.

A deadly silence that lasted for a full moment resulted, and then a moan of agony arose from the crowd. Firemen were seen to bend their heads and wipe away the tears that they could not prevent from flowing. A few minutes afterwards it was discovered that the fireman's life was miraculously saved.

The Entire Block in Flames.

At this time, the whole block, from 28th to 29th street, was in flames, while on the 28th street side of the Fifth Avenue Theatre the flames burst from the doors, and threatened the Everard Baths and other buildings on the opposite side of the street.

Guests of the Brower House were early turned into the street. The Sturtevant House, opposite the Fifth Avenue entrance of the burning theater, did likewise, and was in serious danger.

THE FLAMES SUBDUED.

Plucky Firemen Four Streams of Water and Quench the Blaze.

The firemen had trouble in fighting the Sturtevant House fire because all their long ladders were in use at the two theatre fires across the street.

Two plucky firemen dragged a line of hose up the fire escape on the Twenty-ninth street side of the hotel, and standing on the top landing, just east of the burning cornice, with their leather hats drawn down over their faces, poured a stream into the red hot roof.

Sparks and embers were dashed into their faces and caught on their clothing, burning holes in it.

They stood their ground bravely, and an appreciative crowd below gave them salvos of mighty cheers. But they could do little effective work, because the wind tore the stream into spray, and forced it back into their faces. This shower bath kept them from catching fire themselves.

It was not until the men on the inside of the house got to working on the Siamese nozzle that they made any progress.

At 2:15 o'clock the fire was under control. More than half the guests of the hotel were unable to return to their rooms, which were ruined by fire and water. The fire across the street was also under control.

Estimate of Losses.

The estimated loss on the Fifth Avenue Theatre was $100,000 by H. C. Miner and $100,000 by the Gilsey estate.

Miss Fanny Davenport loses $50,000, exclusive of her costumes, and Prof. Herrmann's loss is placed at $50,000.

Mr. Phillips, one of the proprietors of the Sturtevant Hotel, estimates his loss at a quarter of a million of dollars.

Latest reports say that no lives were lost and but few persons injured.

Sir Julian's Answer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Mr. Blaine's note, rejecting England's latest proposals, was delivered to Sir Julian Pauncefote a few days ago. He intimated to Mr. Blaine that any seizure of a British vessel outside the three-mile limit would be met by immediate and forcible resistance.

THREATS OF LYNCHING.

Watertown Excited Over the Kidnapping of a Young Girl.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 3.—This community is excited over the disappearance of the 10-year-old daughter of Brayton Hungerford, of this city. She was visiting relatives in East Watertown, two miles and a half from here.

A man named Reed, who had been employed by the girl's father to take charge of the horses, stole a horse and cutter from the stable and drove to the place where the girl was staying, and told the people that her brother was dying and wished to see her. The girl started with him and neither have been seen hereabouts since.

The horse was found wandering in the streets of this city during the morning. The girl's scarf was in the cutter.

LATER.—Little Mattie Hungerford, who was kidnapped, has just appeared at her uncle's home, and sank exhausted to the floor. When she revived she stated that the man Reed had carried her into a barn near this city and kept her there all day, threatening to kill her if she made an outcry. At dusk he left her, and she managed to make her way to her uncle's home.

A reward has been offered for Reed's capture, and parties are actively searching the vicinity for him. There is great excitement, and threats of lynching are freely made.

IRISH PATRIOTS FREED.

Brutal Treatment by Their English Jailors After Their Conviction.

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—Thomas Kelly and James Hanratty, who were convicted with eight others at the Belfast Assizes in 1883 for connection with an Irish patriotic brotherhood at Crossmaglier, have been released from prison. They state that after conviction they remained in Mountjoy prison until February, 1884, when four of them, Kelly, Macbride, Geoghegan and Hanratty were taken away handcuffed in a prison van and put on board the gunboat Valorous, which took them to Chatham. On the passage they were chained to an iron bar and also handcuffed to a chain.

They remained in Chatham for eight months, and were then again removed, heavily manacled, to the gunboat Valorous, to be conveyed to Belfast, whence they were taken to Downpatrick, where they had as fellow prisoners the Dublin Invincibles, Joseph Mullet, James Mullet, McAffery and Fitzharris, otherwise known as "Skin the Goat," Maloney, O'Brien, Lawrence Hanlon and Dan Delaney.

THE FIGHT IN THE SENATE.

Exciting Scenes Expected Over the Plan to Shut Off Debate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Exciting scenes are expected in the Senate Monday, when the fight over the Elections bill and the closure rule is likely to be begun. Senator Sherman has a plan on hand to shut off the debate likely to follow Vice-President Morton's decision that an appeal is debatable.

Senator Sherman will introduce at once a motion to lay the appeal on the table, and under a rule of the Senate this motion is not debatable, and thus by forcing a vote on the tabling of the appeal he will shut off the Democrats. At any rate, the session on Monday promises to be an interesting one.

Work of Train Wreckers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—On further investigation, it turns out that the wreck on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad at West Paterson, N. J., was not an accident, but the result of an attempt at train-wrecking, for the purpose of robbing the passengers. The switch, which was supposed to have been ice-bound, was discovered to have been spiked, and four men, who were seen standing on the bridge, near the switch, apparently awaiting for the approaching train, are under suspicion, and are being searched for by the police. Rewards for their arrest will be offered by the company.

Mrs. Fayerweather's Petition Filed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Fayerweather, whose husband, Daniel B. Fayerweather, after leaving $2,000,000 to colleges left about a million and a half dollars each to three executors, has filed a petition for the appointment of a temporary administrator of the estate. In it she severely castigates two of the three executors, including the decedent's counsel, Thomas G. Ritch, but asks that the third, Justus L. Bulkley, be made temporary administrator.

Preparing for a Flood.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—Preparations for a flood have been made along the river banks, and merchandise, lumber and other goods have been removed from the water's edge to places of safety. The river has risen 20 feet and is still slowly rising. The river will likely rise but two feet more, which will not do any serious damage to property at this point.

The Boy Burglar Gets Ten Years.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 3.—Frederick Porter, the Greenville boy burglar, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment on nine indictments.

FIGHT OR SURRENDER

A Battle With the Indians Expected at Any Moment.

NOW SURROUNDED BY TROOPS.

The Reds Will be Annihilated Unless Some Misfortune Arises.

General Miles to Make a Dash from the South—Brooke and Carr to Attack from the North and West—Hostiles Receiving Reinforcements from the British Possessions—An Offer to Surrender Arms.

PINE RIDGE, Jan. 3.—It is the general opinion among army officers here that a decisive battle will be fought within the next forty-eight hours.

It is definitely known that hostiles to the number of 1,100 are fortified near the mouth of White City Creek, and that General Brooke, with detachments of troops is swinging around to the north of them. General Carr is supposed to be approaching from the west and General Miles will make a dash from the south. The force thus engaged is thought sufficient to annihilate the band, unless some unforeseen complication or misfortune arises.

Ambassadors from the hostile camp have been suing for peace to-day and offering to surrender arms. It is not known here whether terms will be granted or not; but the general opinion is that in view of the rebels' action in slaughtering the troops under the flag of truce, not much credit will be given to their pretended repentance.

Hostiles Receive Re-enforcements.

That the hostiles have been largely re-enforced within the last two days, there is no longer any doubt, and there seems to be ground for the rumor that Indians from other agencies or from the British possessions have joined them.

A report has reached here by courier that a foraging party of Indians from the main camp on White Clay Creek, attacked the ranch of Douglass Pointe last night, killed him, and drove away his 400 cattle.

It is also reported that a big row has broken out in the camp of the hostiles over the question of surrendering. This news was brought by a half-breed courier, who said he had just come from the camp.

Unless there is an unconditional surrender there is likely to be a great battle before night.

Red Cloud a Prisoner.

A letter was sent in by Red Cloud last night claiming he was a prisoner and begging the soldiers to come and save him. This is corroborated by friendlies, who say that when the stampede took place Monday the old chief's wife began to throw things into the wagons, and said she would go out on the warpath, even if her husband fought on the other side.

Calling for Arms.

OMAHA, Jan. 3.—The inhabitants of Rushville are calling for arms and are organizing a home guard. Five Red Cross ambulances have just arrived at Pine Ridge. A ranchman reports seeing a band of 100 Indians going southward from the reservation at midnight. If true, this means trouble.

DILLON HEARD FROM.

He Advises O'Brien to be Careful About Bargaining for the Leadership.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A telegram from Paris states that Mr. Dillon has cabled Mr. O'Brien advising him not to accept the proposals of Mr. Parnell, involving Mr. O'Brien's acceptance of the Irish leadership temporarily, under any understanding that Mr. Parnell should be the power behind the throne and should soon return to the actual leadership. Mr. Dillon is said to have confined himself to merely recording his opinion, without any urging, leaving Mr. O'Brien to act on his judgment with as little outside influences as possible.

It is stated from the same quarter that the only immediate practical outcome of the conference has been that an agreement is reached whereby certain funds on deposit in Paris may be used by representatives of both the factions, for the good of Ireland. Mr. Parnell, it is further stated, has instructed Mr. Harrington to draw at once on this fund, under this agreement.

Parnellites Excited.

The action of Bishop O'Callahan, of Cork, in refusing to permit the installation of Mayor Horgan at the Catholic Cathedral has worked up the Parnellite feeling to frenzy, not in Cork alone, but Limerick and Dublin. Timothy Harrington denounces it as a high outrage, not upon the Mayor alone, but upon the people of Cork, and as a virtual abuse on the part of the clergy that they claim the unlimited right of dictation in Irish politics. John O'Connor, who is in charge of Parnell's United Ireland, is equally outspoken, and protests that the Bishop's action will react with decisive influence upon the enemies of Mr. Parnell.

Parnell's Next Trip to Boulogne.

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—Mr. Parnell, accompanied by Mr. Timothy Harrington and Dr. Kenny, Member of Parliament for the Southern Division of Cork, will reach Boulogne on or before Tuesday next, when the recently adjourned conference will resume its deliberations.

Ward to Play with the New Yorks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—There is every likelihood that John Ward will play third base for the New York club this season. J. B. Day when seen in relation to the rumor said that in his opinion Ward was a better third baseman than either Denny or Whitney, and that if Ward signs with him he will release Whitney, as there are several clubs after him. He did not deny that negotiations were pending.

EXCITING MURDER TRIAL.

An Appalling History of Brutality Related by Young Warren's Mother.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 3.—The sensational trial of Herbert Warren for killing his father, Frank J. Warren, was continued all day. The court room was crowded.

The widow of the murdered man and mother of the prisoner, was on the stand and gave one of the most appalling histories of brutality ever heard in a court room. Her husband did everything to her, she said, from beating her to afflicting her with a loathsome disease.

She testified that Warren had made several attempts to kill her, and had assaulted her many times. She said he was assaulting her on the night of June 12 when her 16-year-old son shot him dead.

Herbert Warren, the defendant, told the story of the murder and made a good impression on the spectators. The case is still on.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

A Reduction of Over $11,000,000 for the Past Month.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The reduction in the public debt during December, as shown by the monthly statement issued from the Treasury Department, is $11,005,397. The total debt to-day, less cash in the Treasury, is $982,439,541, and of this amount $619,019,740 is interest bearing debt, made up mainly of $59,177,500 4 1-2 per cents, and $559,742,700 4 per cents, now outstanding.

The principal of the outstanding 4 and 4 1-2 per cents has been reduced $92,289,000 during the past calendar year, $49,820,200 4 1-2s and $42,450,900 4s having been purchased and redeemed during the twelve months.

The net cash or surplus in the Treasury to-day, including subsidiary coin, is $57,561,812, against about $53,000,000 on January 1, 1890. Of the surplus to-day National bank depositaries hold $24,199,872, against about $44,000,000 a year ago.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

A Miner's Lamp the Cause of a Fatal Accident at Ashland, Pa.

ASHLAND, Pa., Jan. 3.—While Michael Reddy and Benjamin Bray were engaged in opening a man-way in the basement of No. 2 Slope at the Centralia Colliery, the latter held the lamp over his head to inspect the place as to its safety, when he ignited the gas and a terrible explosion occurred.

Reddy was burned in a horrible manner and died before being hoisted to the surface. Bray was seriously burned about the face, head and hands. He may recover. Henry Benfield, who was working near-by, was slightly injured.

Discovered in Time.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 3.—The family of Theodore Sherf, consisting of himself, wife, and a four-year-old boy, were all asphyxiated by coal gas at their residence, 259 Livingston street, Elizabethport. The boy is dead, and the woman lies in a critical condition. Dr. Terrell has succeeded in getting Sherf out of danger. Had the family inhaled the fumes of the gas half an hour longer, not one of them, the doctor says, would have been found alive.

Novel Match Between Two Earls.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—A match has been arranged between the Earls of Shrewsbury and Lonsdale, for a 20-mile driving contest between Leicester and Melton. It will take place early in March. The first five miles are to be with single harness, the next five with pairs, the next five with riding postillions and pairs, and the last five miles with four-in-hand mail coaches. The stake is a large one.

Surgeon-General Holt's Funeral.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—The funeral services over the remains of Surgeon-General Alfred T. Holt were held at the Prospect Street Congregational Church, Cambridge. A large number of persons attended, comprising many State, militia and municipal officers. The remains were taken to Lyndeboro, N. H., for interment.

Two Earthquake Shocks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—Two distinct earthquake shocks occurred here at two minutes past noon. There was but a few seconds intermission between the shocks, while the vibrations were nearly north and south.

Arraigned for Embezzlement.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Harry B. Blue, who is charged with the embezzlement of $17,000 from Perkins & Keith, was arraigned and waived examination. He was held in $25,000 bail for the grand jury.

Another Christmas Tree Fire.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 3.—Fire at noon gutted the house of Edward Lawrence, coal dealer, causing a loss of $5,000. The fire was caused by the fall of a Christmas tree, which the children had illuminated.

QUIET AT BRADDOCK

Carnegie's Strikers Overawed by the Deputy Sheriffs.

A SCORE OF RIOTERS JAILED.

Inauguration of a Big Strike by the Monongahela Miners.

Nearly 10,000 Men Out and a Bitter Fight Expected—Miners Go Out in Other Districts—Mail Painters Send Help to Newark—General Stoppage of Coke Works Throughout the Region.

BRADDOCK, Pa., Jan. 3.—All was comparatively quiet about the Edgar Thomson Steel Works to-day. An undercurrent of riotous feeling is easily discernible, however, and a faint spark of encouragement is about all that is necessary to a renewal of the previous day's violence.

The strikers are awed into subjection only by the presence of many determined men, whose bright, shiny firearms guard their own lives and the property of the Carnegie company.

The prompt arrest of a score of the rioters lent its influence also in preserving the peace. Sheriff McCandless' orders closing all saloons in the borough have been respected, and there was very little drinking. General Manager Schwab of the furnaces was instructed by the sheriff to select as many deputies as he deemed necessary. Two hundred employes of the company responded to Mr. Schwab's call for volunteers. These deputies were all supplied with arms and instructed to be cautious but courageous.

Hands Paid Off.

At 3 o'clock about 400 Hungarians collected about the company's several offices to receive their pay. They were filled with suppressed excitement and suspicion. Several times the suppressed mutterings swelled to a sullen roar of anger, and but for the timely and repeated interference of the interpreter an outbreak that would have been devilish in its fury would have occurred. Finally, however, the army of strikers were paid off. As they passed down Thirteenth street, a squad of officers spotted the rioters, and promptly arrested those who were recognized. Eighteen arrests were effected, making 25 of the rioters now in jail.

Will Resume Monday.

All of the furnaces have been successfully banked, and the danger of destruction from chilling averted. It is stated that the men paid off will not be reengaged by the company under any circumstances. Hereafter none but English-speaking men will be employed. The works will resume operations on Monday of next week. The condition of those injured in the riot is much improved, and all will recover unless some unlooked-for change should intervene.

BIG STRIKE STARTED.

The Monongahela River Miners Out for a Long Fight.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 3.—The threatened strike of the Monongahela River miners has been inaugurated and it might be said is general. Those yet working will, it is said, stop to-night.

The strike involves from 7,000 to 10,000 men. The indications are for a long fight. Should this be true it means many hardships for the miners and their families.

The advance demanded is one-half a cent per bushel and has been authorized by the chief officers of the United Mine Workers.

Coke Works Shut Down.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Jan. 3.—The Scottdale Rolling Mills and Pipe Works and the Charlotte Furnace and Coke Works at this place have been shut down indefinitely. One thousand men are out of employment. Next week the Frick Coke Company will close 1,300 coke ovens in this vicinity. This will throw a large number of workmen out of employment. The business of the town is almost paralyzed.

Senator Ingalls Called to Washington.

ATCHISON, Kan., Jan. 3.—Senator Ingalls left for Washington last night in response to an imperative telegram from Senators Edmunds and Hoar, that party necessity demanded his presence in the national capital.

THE RUSH TO ALBANY.

Seekers After Office Arrive in Large Numbers at New York's Capital.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 3.—A few Assemblymen have arrived in the city, preparatory to the opening of the Legislature, but by far the largest influx is made up of seekers after office.

Lieutenant-Governor Jones is here, but not a Senator has arrived. Assemblyman Sheehan telegraphed that his father was critically ill in Buffalo and that he could not leave him.

The caucuses will be held on Monday night, the Democrats meeting in the Assembly Chamber, and the Republicans in the parlors.

The Democratic slate, as far as completed, names: William F. Sheehan, of Buffalo, for Speaker; Charles R. De Freest, of Troy, for Clerk; Thomas J. Burke for Sergeant-at-Arms, and, probably, Irving F. Cragin for Stenographer, although Tammany may want the latter position. Cragin is a former stenographer of Gov. Hill's, and is a resident of Buffalo.

The session opens Tuesday at noon, and the Assembly will be called to order by Clerk Chickering. After the roll call, members will take the oath of office, and then the Speaker will be elected. A committee will wait upon the Governor and as soon as they return the Governor's annual message is read. In the afternoon the selection of seats will occur and there will be an adjournment for one week to give the new Speaker a chance to appoint his committees. The Senate meets and listens to the Governor's message and then adjourns.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The inauguration of the Governor of Kansas will take place Monday, January 19.

F. Kline, a crockery dealer of Wilkesbarre, Pa., has assigned. The liabilities are $7,648.28.

James Casey, plumber and gas fitter at 309 West 145th street, New York, has made an assignment.

There is a strong feeling in Berlin in favor of sustaining Emin Pacha against Baron Wissman.

The Democratic State Central Committee of Connecticut met at New Haven and re-elected Clinton B. Davis chairman.

Heavy rains have caused a rise in the Ohio and other rivers that threaten danger at various points. An ice gorge above Johnstown, Pa., causes alarm to be felt there.

James Halloran, nine years old, of Hoboken, N. J., who was discovered staggering drunk in the street there on Thursday, has since died from the effects of the liquor.

The cruiser Philadelphia will leave the Brooklyn Navy Yard to-day for a winter cruise in the West Indies. The Dolphin will not be ready before Monday.

Medical Examiner White of New Haven, Conn., announces that the death of Kitty O'Neal, the sixteen-year-old girl who died in her father's arms a few days ago, was due to arsenical poisoning.

There is no clue to the identity of the White Caps who visited the residence of Reuben Young at Riverton, Pa., this week and forced him to promise to abstain from using intoxicating liquor.

The Queen Regent of Spain sent to the Pope as a New Year's gift a handsome malacca cane. An ingenious contrivance was placed in the top of the cane so that when the Pope touched it, it drew open letting loose a shower of gold coins.

The published report that a case of leprosy was being treated by Koch's lymph in New York city and that the facts are being concealed, is denied by Dr. Cyrus Edson of the Health Department.

Patrolman Kearney, of Boston, who has been on trial on the charge of manslaughter in shooting a boy named John Davenport while stealing grapes, was acquitted on the manslaughter count, but on the count charging gross carelessness the jury failed to agree.

Receiver Hayes of the defunct First National Bank of Auburn, N. Y., has instituted a suit against all of its directors, among whom are several of the most prominent and wealthy men in Auburn. The receiver seeks to recover over $500,000 due depositors on the ground that the directors allowed the bank to be imprudently and recklessly managed.

Steinitz Wins the Tenth Game.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The tenth game of the Steinitz-Gunsberg chess match was won by Steinitz, Mr. Gunsberg resigning after 43 moves. The score now stands—Gunsberg 3, Steinitz 4, drawn 4.

THE DAILY PRESS.

BY THE WAY.

—The first thing the new year did was to spoil the sleighing of the old.

—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed in the Crescent Avenue church, to-morrow morning.

—If the one who advertised in last Friday's PRESS the loss of a sum of money will call at this office the property can be recovered.

—Judge John H. Jackson has the sweetest house in town. His ticket won the candy one manufactured at Foote's confectionery.

—Charles Brown of Newark, driver for a fitted-meat peddling concern, has been arrested by Marshal Rutledge and locked up in the Borough lock-up for trial on the charge of peddling without a license.

—John H. Frech, agent and despatcher for the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Bound Brook, has resigned to accept employment with the Philadelphia and Reading. John W. Dent, formerly night yardmaster at Jersey City, will succeed him.

—A special meeting of the Woman's Union prayer meeting will be held at Vincent chapel January 5, at 3:30 P. M. Because of preparations for the week of prayer, it is desirable that as many as possible will attend. The topic will be: "Confession and Thanksgiving."

—The necessity of keeping gutters as well as sidewalks free from snow and slush, as the law provides, was especially evident yesterday, when the rain collected in great pools at the slush-covered street crossings and the snow arranged itself into dams and prevented the rain from running off.

—The new club house of the New Jersey Athletic Club at Bergen Point is rapidly being completed. Architect Charles Smith, of this city, and the Building Committee, Messrs. Booth, Annet, Grant, Newman and Ely, have the appreciation of all the members for their efforts. It will probably be finished about April 1.

—The citizens of Plainfield are to be congratulated on their wisdom in the choice of a spot upon which to rear a tribute to their soldier dead; their selection being the triangular-shaped grass plot in front of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church; doubtless the finest locality in their town for the sacred purpose.—Westfield Standard.

—Just as the show at Amphion Hall was about to begin last night Manager J. Edwin Hall found the players in such a condition that he refused to insult his audience by permitting them to appear. So he dismissed the house and refunded the money. Later, at the railroad station, the actors caused considerable disorder, and were hustled out of town by the police.

—The cantata, "Christmas," given in the Presbyterian church at Dunellen, Dec. 18, by a large chorus, assisted by soloists from Plainfield and Brooklyn, was a pleasing and enjoyable entertainment. The music, while of a high class, was very beautiful, and was rendered in a manner reflecting credit upon all who took part in it. The hope of all who heard the "Christmas" is that the music lovers of Dunellen and vicinity may be favored with more entertainments of as delightful and elevating a character.—The Christian Endeavor Union.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Flora Miller, of West Third street, is visiting friends and relatives in Harrisburg, Pa.

Ticket No. 352 drew the doll with her trousseau, that has been on exhibition in the window of the Emporium, 73 Park avenue.

Miss Emma V. Whitlock, formerly of North Plainfield, and Harry B. Taylor, were married in Newark, Wednesday of last week.

The Rev. W. C Stinson, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, has accepted a call to the church at Wauwatosa, Wis., one of the suburbs of Milwaukee. He expects to leave Dunellen the latter part of January.

The Leader of Southport, N. C., on New Year's day, said: "We enjoyed a pleasant visit last evening from Mr. A. L. Force, of the Plainfield, N. J., Daily Press. Mr. Force, with his daughter, is on a Southern trip of pleasure and sight seeing."

Funeral services over the remains of the late Chas. F. Titsworth took place from the residence of a brother of the deceased on Madison avenue this afternoon. The body was brought from Springfield, Mass., Friday, and was interred in Hillside Cemetery.

The New Market Seventh-Day Baptist Sabbath school has elected the following officers: Superintendent—Cortez Clawson; Assistant—L. T. Titsworth; Secretary—Maud Titsworth; Treasurer—A. W. Vars; Chorister—A. H. Burdick; Assistant Chorister—Corinne Livermore; Librarian—Charles T. Rogers.

"Kings are like stars, they rise and set." They have headache, cuts, and hurts like meaner men, and are just as sure to call for Salvation Oil.

JUSTICE HARDY MUST EXPLAIN.

His Accounts Said to be Deficient, and an Investigation Ordered.

Two interesting matters received attention at the hands of North Plainfield's Borough Council last night. The Councilmen have at last awakened to the conviction that there is something unsavory in the way some things are misconducted, and they began to put in operation their New Year's resolutions to perfect existing imperfections by tackling primarily the police department of their system of government.

James Hardy, who will be known to fame as the first man in North Plainfield to inscribe himself as Police Justice Plenipotentiary and Borough Magistrate, is the first target to be punctured. Stories concerning his peculiar official customs have been bruited about for some time, and now the Borough Council is determined to find out what is what. For the month of December Magistrate Hardy reported last night only four arrests, with three convictions and one acquittal. The fines, he said, amounted to only $13.10, and as the costs were $9.80 there remained only $3.30 of profit for the Borough treasury. This statement did not exactly please the Council. That honorable and deliberative body had an idea, which Councilman Smalley incorporated in words, that the Police Department as represented by Magistrate Hardy wasn't earning its salt and that it was a great pity if such an able financier as Mr. Hardy couldn't extract more than $3.30 profits from an erring people in one whole month.

Mr. Smalley's motion, which was unanimously adopted, was that the Borough Magistrate's report be referred to the proper committee for investigation. Mr. Smalley thought, and the other gentlemen in the Council coincided in the view, that a number of cases had come before the Magistrate which the Magistrate had not reported. "Also"—said Mr. Smalley—"we want to know why even that money which according to his own report is due the Borough is not forthcoming." So the Judge may expect some busy and anxious days when the committee gets to work.

The one other matter that the Council handled without gloves concerned the electric light project. The new contract between Borough and the Edison Electric Light Company of North Plainfield stipulates that the electricity for street lighting must be turned on Jan. 15, when the existing contract with the New York and New Jersey Globe Gas Light Company expires. It is quite evident, however, that the Edison Company will not be ready with the new plant on time, and the superintendent himself acknowledges that Feb. 1 will be nearer the date of beginning operations than Jan. 15. This delay, Councilman Sebring suggests, is due to the construction of a steam-power plant instead of the utilization of the water-power originally proposed. The pole line is all up, and the wires can be strung very rapidly if a large force of men be put at the work, but the engines and dynamos cannot so easily be hurried. Councilman Emmons wanted to know what the Borough was going to do for street lights from the date of the expiration of the present charter to the time when the Edison people get to work, and inquired if the Committee on Lights could not make some arrangement with the Globe concern for light during the interim. After considerable discussion the opinion advanced by Mayor Place—that any attempt made by the Borough to furnish light when the Edison contract had really begun to be in force would be equivalent to granting the Edison Company an extension of time—was generally accepted, and the matter was dropped without any definite action being taken. The opinion was freely advanced, however, that if the Company recognized that they could not be given work at the time specified in the contract they ought to have appeared at the present session of the Council to tell the Councilmen so and to ask for an extension of time. Borough Counselor Reed explained that the Edison people had contracted to light 200 street lamps every night and all night begining Jan. 15, and had agreed to forfeit double the cost of each lamp remaining unlighted for every night it was not lighted. They had further agreed that if one-half the whole number of lamps remained unlighted ten days the contract should be void, and had given a satisfactory bond to secure the Borough against loss. It was therefore, he contended, the duty of the Edison Company to provide other satisfactory light, in lieu of forfeiture of their franchise, till they could get their own light ready. Councilman Sebring suggested that the Edison Superintendent had told him that he supposed the Council would readily grant an extension, "as they had ought to, since they had went into the construction of works so extensive," at which Councilman Buckle inquired why the Company was not present to speak for itself, as a business concern ought to. Councilman Hegeman added that the Company ought to have presented a plan to Council, if it did not expect to be ready to turn on the light at the promised time, and he agreed with Mr. Buckle in the view that the Council had no need to worry about the matter: the Company was able to live up to the contract. When all the others were through Councilman Emmons flashed forth, in most sarcastic vein, the statement that the Edison people seemed to consider the Council a small matter, and did not appear to think it necessary to seek any authority higher than Mr. Sebring's Committee on Lights. At this Mr. Sebring cast a reproachful look at Mr. Emmons, and his lips arched themselves plaintively, and his soft eyes, usually so full of gentle glances, grew moist. When the Council adjourned he still sat at his desk a moment gazing at the member from Jackson avenue, but the look of regretful reproach had changed to an angry glare.

The session of the Council differed but little from previous ones, in general conduct, and those who had hoped for a change from the usual monotony of the Borough meetings with the turning over of a new leaf consequent on the advent of a new year were disappointed. The only notable change in the aspect of the room itself was the bright polish on the cuspidors, which had submitted to their annual cleaning and shone with unwonted lustre. They were really so glittering that no one dared to mar their immaculate spotlessness, and the floor therefore had to receive scores of new tobacco-spots. The gas jets flared up with their accustomed energy, surrounded by globes which had lost none of their usual coat of dust and smoke. The same old cobwebs hung in the corners, and the same old decks of cards still adorned the drawers in the reporters' tables. Councilman Sebring's desk lid had a new and novel squeak in it, however, and the gas fixture which long has done homely service as a hanging-place for the coat and plug hat of the Mayor had a trifle more of a bend in it than at the previous meeting, as though its arduous duties were becoming too weighty. The same merry group of spectators sat in the lobby, and cracked the same old chestnuts, and grinned and giggled in the same old blithesome way as of yore. At odd moments a humorous "gent" in the corner flourished a feather duster in the air till his companions sneezed, enabling him to laugh in wild guffaws. The old-time spasmodic methods prevailed of transacting some little item of routine business and then holding protracted whispered conferences. During the long waits between these odd moments of business the reporters passed billet-doux back and forth, one to the other, in order to keep themselves from forgetting how to take notes. Ever and anon fresh bursts of laughter came from the "gent" in the corner, and responsive snickers from the others in the lobby resounded. Harry Brokaw in his dual role and multifarious duties of clerk and janitor was the busiest man in the house, and kept trotting back and forth with bills and other important documents for chairmen of committees, or read aloud interesting extracts from the minutes and similar polished literary productions in his usual rich declamatory tone of voice. There was no water in the meeting room, so every time one of the professional joke-crackers and gigglers in the lobby felt thirsty he clattered stumblingly down stairs and around the corner to the nearest bar. The stairs were kept busy.

During the evening the Council managed to make preparations for the payment of two notes, on the light account, amounting to $1,600 falling due Jan. 29; to ratify the election of H. H. Brokaw and J. H. Cooley to membership in Warren Engine Company, No. 1; to learn that $6,243.13 had been collected by tax-man Spencer during 1890; and to learn that work on the streets had been suspended owing to the condition of the weather. Nothing was said, however, about the condition of the streets being worse than the state of the atmosphere.

In spite of all their idiosyncrasies the Councilmen showed that they had kindly hearts, for on Mr. Buckle's ascertaining, just after another resolution had been passed, "if resolutions was in order," that gentleman presented one authorizing the payment of $37 50 to Marshal Rutledge, that being full wages for the month he was laid up with a fractured leg. This exhibition of charitable feeling did not prevent a characteristic joke from being made by one of the listeners outside the railing.

Once during the evening Mayor Place took occasion to prod the lagging members into activity, rapping sharply on his desk, and insisting that a quorum must vote. This was an improvement over some previous meetings. All the Councilmen were present.

R. P. Wilder To-Morrow.

Robert P. Wilder, one of originators of the Student Volunteer Missionary Movement, will speak at the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. The movement now represents upwards of five thousand young men and women, many of whom are now in the foreign field, who have declared themselves as willing and desirous to go as missionaries. Many will recall the force, pungency and eloquence, with which Mr. Wilder spoke under the association auspices some three years ago.

Mr. Wilder has spent two years visiting the colleges and institutions of learning, presenting the claims of the foreign field.

Young men, who wish to ask any questions in regard to the work, are invited to take supper with him, at the rooms, at the close of the meeting.

Members of the Association are urged to bring some one with them. All men are invited.

—Guy Bros.' minstrel company is to be here next Monday night to amuse the people in Amphion Hall. This company is well-known and always gives a good show. They never allow anything "loud" in their show, as is so common among travelling troupes. Any lady can safely visit their exhibition with no fear of hearing anything but gentlemanly language.

MORE MUSIC.

A Celebrated Club of Male Voices to Give a Concert in The Casino.

A. T. Pendleton, Theo. T. Johnson, Jr., and W. Ellis Knapp, the committee of the Elizabeth Glee Club in charge of the concert to be given at The Casino, Feb. 3, as announced exclusively in THE PRESS, were in town last night to make preliminary arrangements. They visited the Country Club where they were cordially received and shown through the buildings by members of the House Committee. They were delighted with the Casino but at the same time envious of the Metropolis society because of its having such excellent advantages for musical work over their club in Elizabeth. Several members of the Country Club have expressed their determination to do all in their power to make the audience that will greet the Elizabeth Glee Club one of the largest and most brilliant of the season. This they deserve, not only for the musical excellence of their work, but because in Elizabeth their concerts are one of the chief society entertainments of the Winter.

A number of Plainfield's prominent society ladies have taken the matter in hand, and this alone is a guarantee of the social success of the concert. Several of the gentlemen of the Glee Club are well known in Plainfield society through their attendance at the various assemblies, etc., of the past few seasons.

Franklin's New Officers Installed.

At a regular meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., held in their hall last evening, the following officers were installed for the ensuing term by State Organizer, Jos. B. Rollinson, of Rahway:

—A Plainfield widow writes that she "would like through the columns of your paper to express her thanks to E. C. Woltmann, of West Seventh street, for the annual Christmas gift of a large turkey."

Speer's Wine for Parties.

Physicians employ Speer's Port Grape Wine in their practice in all cases where a pure wine is called for, and do all in their power to foster and encourage its production. Also the same with Speer's Unfermented Grape Juice; both are coming into great favor among the most wealthy in New York city, Philadelphia and Washington as an evening wine.

May Simplify the Senatorial Canvass.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Jan. 3.—The sudden death of Hon. Daniel Clarke, judge of the United States Court for the district of New Hampshire, may simplify the Senatorial contest in this State if the Republicans gain the Legislature. There is no doubt that if Senator Blair receives an offer of appointment of judge he will accept, thus leaving the field clear to ex-Governor P. C. Cheney, the other Manchester candidate.

Hudson River Iceman Despondent.

ROSPORT, N. Y., Jan. 3.—A dense fog hung over this section of the Hudson River during the day and still continues. Following immediately after the rain storm, it has had a damaging effect on the ice, which is covered with two or three inches of slush. The present weather has caused both gatherers and dealers to become despondent over the outlook, and they will begin operations in earnest as soon as another cold wave puts in an appearance.

Senator Farwell Indignant.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—A special from Chicago says that Senator Farwell enters an indignant and emphatic denial to the story of his connection with the silver pool. He says that he never bought a dollar's worth of silver previous to silver legislation last summer. He says he wants also to wholly deny the charges that he was in any way concerned in the Bateman failure, or speculated in silver.

Parker's Extradition Refused.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Gov. Brackett, after a prolonged hearing of the case, has refused to grant extradition papers for the return to Pennsylvania of Clark Parker, who is charged with robbing the jewelry store of C. E. Smith & Sons, Market street, Philadelphia, last November. The Governor considered the evidence sufficient to prove Parker's alibi.

Killed by Escaping Gas.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 3.—Charles Clair, 36 years old, bookkeeper for the Apothecaries Hall Company, was asphyxiated in his room through the failure of a patent extinguisher attached to the gas burner to do its work properly. The young man's dead body was found in bed in the morning, while gas was still pouring into the room.

Swallowed an Eyewash.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 3.—John Doherty, to relieve himself of a pain last evening, swallowed an eye preparation that his wife had. In five minutes he was a corpse. The mixture contained strychnine.

More Miners Strike.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 3.—The miners employed at the Marmot Mines, Raymond City, struck yesterday for one-quarter cent advance. A stubborn fight is expected, but the men declare they are able to stand a long siege.

Four Hundred Men are Idle.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 3.—The Braddock Wire Works have shut down in all departments because of the strike. About 400 men were employed at the works. The dispute is on account of the discharge of a number of union men.

He Left an Estate of $4,000,000.

NORWICH, Conn., Jan. 3.—The funeral services of the late James L. Hubbard, the owner of the Hubbard Paper Mills in Greenville, were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Nelson, which were very simple. He leaves an estate of over $4,000,000, which is left to his wife and only son.

A Modest, Sensitive Woman

Often shrinks from consulting a physician, and prefers to suffer in silence. This may be a mistaken feeling, but it is one which is largely prevalent. To all such women we would say that one of the most skilful physicians of the day, who has had a vast experience in curing diseases peculiar to women, has prepared a remedy which is of inestimable aid to them. We refer to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is the only remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case or money refunded. See guarantee printed on bottle wrapper.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

(In Charge of Superintendent of Press Work.)

The Loyal Temperance Legion is growing rapidly in numbers. The members are to wear beautiful badges, representing a Maltese Cross of metal and stamped with the name or initials of their company, organized as they are on a military basis.

Exercises are held every Wednesday at 4 o'clock. Visitors are welcome.

Keep thy spirit pure
From worldly taint, by the repellant power
Of virtue. — Bailey's Festus.

The art of distilling ardent spirits from brewed and fermented liquors was discovered in the eleventh century.

Drunkenness at one time became so destructive in China that the government destroyed all vines, so that for two hundred years it was practically a forgotten plant.

The Kitchen Garden and Cooking Classes will begin again Saturday and Monday. A few vacancies may be filled by applying to the Superintendent. The little girls of these classes had a Merry Christmas during the holidays. An afternoon "tea" was served to them by the Kitchen Garden Committee. The President of the W. C. T. U. delivered a short interesting address.

Pastor and Senior Deacon Gone.

The Secretary of the South Plainfield Baptist church writes that his people "have been sadly afflicted during the last month. First in the loss of its pastor, the Rev. A. Armstrong, who left for his new field of labor at Avon, the 1st of December. Twelve years of faithful service had endeared him to the hearts of his people and it was with profound regret that they bade him farewell. One short week after, the Senior Deacon, Lewis Dayton, was suddenly stricken with death. Mr. Dayton was a man widely known and respected, and his death is felt as a great loss to the church and community. There are a number of applicants for the office of pastor, but no decision has been reached as yet. The pulpit was supplied last Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Livermore, of New Market, who preached with his usual earnestness a very able sermon. Lewis E. Brokaw will occupy the pulpit next Sunday.

"It is 'a day of small things' with the Y. P. S. C. E., of the New Brooklyn Baptist church. We organized in September with seven members—now number thirteen, all active. The departure of Mrs. Armstrong leaving us without a president, a change in officers was made, resulting in the following election: President—Edgar J. Bolce; Vice President—Mrs. Annie Ward; Secretary—Mrs. W. H. Manning; Treasurer—Mrs. Y. C. Laing."

An Editorial Disapproval.

(From the Somerville Unionist-Gazette.)

The Blatz hotel license case has finally been decided, and decided as the people of North Plainfield Borough might readily have supposed would be the case. Until the present laws are so changed that twelve men are unable to form a majority in a township, it will be impossible to keep an inn or saloon from in front of or near one's door, or church, or mission, or school, if certain powers are disposed to place it there. One would naturally suppose that 150 or more reputable citizens of the Borough of North Plainfield knew more of the conditions and needs of the community, and what would be good for it morally and in a business point of view, than a dozen persons picked up in the township; but the theory of the law is to allow the dozen plus three judges to decide otherwise; and what are the people to do about it, except to grin and bear it?

Success of a Serious Operation.

Mrs. Daniel O'Sullivan, of Scotch Plains, successfully passed through a serious operation at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Donahue, Tuesday afternoon. The operation was the removal of a tumor, and it was performed by Dr. Donahue, assisted by another New Brunswick physician and two medical students. Dr. C. R. P. Fisher of Bound Brook, and Dr. Flynn of Somerville, witnessed the operation. Dr. Fisher now has charge of the patient and at last reports she was doing as well as could be expected. The operation gives the sufferer an even chance for life, while if it had not been performed her case would doubtless have proved fatal in a few weeks.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

A Woman After the Gamblers.

A North Plainfield woman whose husband did not stay home enough to suit her followed the recreant spouse into a small store, near the Somerset street bridge, occupied by Julius Borshovchi, and found a number of men crowded around what was evidently a gaming table. As soon as she entered, what she thought were cards and money were hastily gathered up and concealed. She reported to Marshal Conrad that Borshovchi was running a gambling house and the Italian was arrested, but Borough Magistrate Hardy deemed the evidence not strong enough for conviction and dismissed the complaint.

Another Large Accession.

At the First Presbyterian church, the last Communion Sunday, nineteen persons, ranging in age from twelve to forty years, were received into membership. The examination of the several candidates demonstrated that while many were moved by the Mills meetings in Plainfield it was the personal hand-to-hand work of pastor or teacher which lead to the final decision.

The Sunday school will meet at 2:30 p. m.; the Epworth League at 6:45 p. m. The pastor, the Rev. C. B. Mitchell, will preach at 7:30 p. m., on the subject—"How Old Art Thou?"

A Scotch Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gray, of Spooner avenue, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Thursday night, when they entertained fifty guests at dinner at the residence of their brother-in-law, David Bowden, of West Fourth street. The presentations made were appropriate, useful and of an artistic design. The gifts numbered one for every year of the couple's married life. David Bowden made the presentations, in behalf of the donors, to which Mr. Gray responded. A number of old Scotch songs were sung, which were highly appreciated. At 10:50 the guests retired to Mr. Bowden's barn, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, and where dancing by every guest was indulged in until six o'clock in the morning; the music being supplied by Messrs A. Carpenter and Wm. Wilson.

Ex-Judge Ulrich Geographically.

(From The Union County Record.)

The Plainfield Press has been good enough to size up for its readers the Hon. John Ulrich from many various standpoints. Morally and intellectually he is without blemish. Physically he has the appearance of a much younger man than he really is. As a lawyer, as a jurist, as a statesman and as a journalist he is awarded first rank. In the Masonic fraternity he has attained great eminence. From a geographical standpoint, however, The Press is silent. Viewed geographically, Judge Ulrich's eminence is not less conspicuous, for he has become a citizen of Westfield and has selected as his future residence a spot on Ripley Hill, at the corner of the Boulevard and Park street.

Supposed to be Incendiary.

The Bound Brook Chronicle, referring to the recent burning of Clinton F. Randolph's barns, a mile and a quarter from the Landing Bridge, on the road from New Market to New Brunswick, says that "a peculiar and significant fact is that a man who served a term in State Prison for stealing Randolph's horse has just been released. Randolph made the complaint against and prosecuted the thief, and it is supposed that the fellow burned the place out of revenge. The loss on the building is estimated at $1,300, on the hay at $330 and on the contents $1,910."

Position is obtained by merit as the best and safest. Hires' Cough Cure, wherever tried, has always taken the first position as a Cough Cure. Remedy over all others. Its merits make it a household necessity.

AMERICA'S CRACK CLUB.

The Famous Century Club of New York Has a New Home.

Nearly All the Great Artists of This Country Have Been Identified with It —The Presidential Succession—Its History and Traditions.

COPYRIGHT, 1890, BY JAMES W. JOHNSON.

The early removal of this famous New York Club to a new and handsome home a mile and a half north of its present situation calls for some account of its interesting history.

The Century Club was founded in 1847 by the members of two smaller organizations called the "Sketch Club" and "The Columns." Of these the Sketch Club, an association of New York artists, had been in existence since 1829, the artists, with some of their literary friends, holding meetings at each other's houses. "The Column" included a number of literary men and lawyers. Notices were issued for a general meeting at the "New York Gallery of Fine Arts" in City Hall Park, a small building torn down in 1870. This meeting was held on the evening of January 18th, 1847, and "The Century Association" was formed. Prominent among the forty-two founders were William Cullen Bryant, Henry T. Tuckerman, Gulian C. Verplanck, Henry W. Bellows and Orville Dewey, of the literary element, and Daniel Huntington, Asher B. Durand, Henry Peters Gray, C. L. Elliott, and T. P. Rossiter, of the artists. According to Mr. John H. Gourlie's "Origin and History of the Century Club," the name of "The Century" was and proposed by E. S. Van Winkle.

The constitution then adopted contains the following sentences:

"The name of the association shall be the Century. It shall be composed of authors, artists and amateurs of letters and the fine arts, resident of the city of New York and vicinity. Its object shall be the cultivation of a taste for letters the arts, and social enjoyment."

Various suites of rooms on Broadway and Broome street were occupied by the Century until 1852. The club then removed to the house No. 23 Clinton place, where it remained until 1857, since which time it has been domiciled at No. 109 East Fifteenth street. In the latter year the club was incorporated, Gulian C. Verplanck being then elected its first president. The affairs of the organization had previously been transacted by a managing committee. Mr. Verplanck was a member of one of New York's leading families of Dutch descent, and, besides his literary accomplishments, took an active part in local and State politics, being once candidate for Mayor of the city and having served several terms in the New York Legislature. His most important work was the three volume edition of Shakespeare, issued in 1847.

It was during Mr. Verplanck's presidency in 1858, that the old Century custom of celebrating Twelfth Night reached its climax in a festival never before or after equaled by the club. A volume describing the affair was soon after issued. The custom has occasionally been revived of late years, the last festival taking place in 1889.

Hon. George Bancroft succeeded Mr. Verplanck as president in 1864, and the same year occurred the Bryant festival, in honor of the poet's seventieth birthday.

Mr. Bancroft resigning in 1867, Mr. Bryant himself became president the following year, holding office until his death in 1878. During his term of office the club made few changes in its administration, progressing gradually in an even and prosperous career. The monthly meetings, with their exhibitions of paintings by members of the club, had already become a marked feature at Mr. Bryant's accession, and these have continued to the present day, and are likely to increase in importance with the enlarged facilities of the new club house. They best illustrate the genial and social qualities for which the club is famous. Groups of men distinguished in every walk of life gather about the collation table, or in the great easy chairs of the smoking-room, and throwing aside official dignity and professional reserve commune with one another as a band of brothers. There are always a number of interesting visitors from foreign parts to lend zest to the occasion, and the story and jest go round until far into the night. Every Saturday evening the members are provided with a late supper, and these occasions are similar to the monthly meetings, in a lesser degree.

On the death of Mr. Bryant, Daniel Huntington, president of the National Academy of Design, was promoted to the presidency, having already been vice-president for some time. He remains in office, and it is chiefly during his term that the movement for a new club house has developed itself. The first action was taken in 1867, but since 1880 the question of removal has been before the club almost continually in one shape or another. From the various printed reports, there seems to have been much reluctance among older members to leave a home endeared by so many associations and apparently entirely adapted to their needs, but the general movement of residences up town has proved too strong to be resisted, and the Century has followed in the wake of the many other clubs which have moved Central Parkward.

It has been the custom of the Century to hold memorial meetings after the deaths of leading members, at which meetings addresses and poems are read.

An enumeration of the Century members who have achieved distinction in life would fill a large space, but a few may be mentioned.

Of deceased members those prominent as artists include Asher B. Durand, Sanford R. Gifford, Henry Peters Gray, William J. Hays, Thomas Hyde, John F. Kensett and E. Leutze. Authors and scholars no longer living are P. A. P. Barnard, Henry W. Bellows, William C. Bryant, Frederick S. Cozzens, John R. G. Hassard, Roswell D. Hitchcock, Francis Lieber, Samuel Osgood, Allen Thorndyke Rice, Charles Short, Bayard Taylor, G. C. Verplanck and E. L. Youmans.

Those prominent in the professions, and in business or public life, include Dr. Agnew, John A. Appleton, Chester A. Arthur, Joseph W. Drexel, Robert Hoe, Dr. Willard Parker, George P. Putnam, Marshall O. Roberts, Samuel J. Tilden and Hooper C. Van Voorst.

A brief selection from the list of living members contains, among artists, William H. Beard, Albert Bierstadt, E. H. Blashfield, J. B. Bristol, J. G. Brown, J. Wells Champney, F. S. Church, J. F. Cropsey, F. Dielman, J. Durand, W. Hamilton Gibson, R. Swain Gifford, Hamilton Hamilton, Winslow Homer, D. Huntington, George Inness, Eastman Johnson, John Lafarge, Louis Lang, W. G. Lines, Will H. Low, Homer D. Martin, G. W. Maynard, Jervis McEntee, F. D. Millet, T. Moran, J. C. Nicoll, Arthur Parton, E. Wood Perry, H. W. Robbins, Walter Shirlaw, G. H. and J. D. Smillie, Wordsworth Thompson, Louis C. Tiffany, Elihu Vedder, J. Alden and John F. Weir, W. Whittredge, T. W. Wood, A. H. Wyant, and A. St. Gaudens, and J. Q. A. Ward, sculptors.

Authors and scholars are W. W. Astor, S. G. W. Benjamin, John Bigelow, V. Botta, Noah Brooks, T. F. Brownell, W. C. Brownell, E. L. Burlingame, Wm. Allen Butler, Edward Cary, F. P. Church, T. M. Coan, Robert Collyer, Howard Crosby, George Wm. Curtis, Henry Drisler, Edward Eggleston, R. W. Gilder, E. L. Godkin, Parke Godwin, John Hay, Lawrence Hutton, R. V. Johnson, Clarence King, C. T. Lewis, Albert Matthews, Brander Matthews, Wm. S. Mayo, J. H. Morse, E. S. Nadal, Henry C. Potter, A. D. F. Randolph, Philip Schaff, Montgomery Schuyler, E. C. Stedman, Frank R. Stockton, R. H. Stoddard, Richard S. Storer, Wm. G. Sumner, Bayard Tuckerman, Henry Van Dyke, Geo. E. Waring, Jr., Andrew D. White, Horace White and George Bancroft.

Others of note are the members of the Appleton family, S. P. Avery, Dr. Fordyce Barker, Lawrence Barrett, Edwin Booth, Richard Butler, General di Cesnola, Joseph H. Choate, F. R. Coudert, Grover Cleveland, Charles P. Daly, Walter Damrosch, Chauncey M. Depew, William E. Dodge, William H. Draper, Dorman B. Eaton, William M. Evarts, Cyrus and David Dudley Field, Austin Flint, Joseph W. Harper, Abram S. Hewitt, Henry E. Howland, Brayton Ives, Dr. Jacobi, John Taylor Johnston, Dr. Lambert, Robbins Little, Dr. Lusk, F. F. Marbury, H. G. Marquand, O. C. Marsh, D. O. Mills, J. Pierpont Morgan, Levi P. Morton, F. L. Olmstead, Dr. Otis, William Walter Phelps, Horace Porter, George Haven Putnam, Whitelaw Reid, Prof. Rood, Dr. Rooke, Charles Scribner, Charles S. Smith, Dr. Stinson, Cornelius and George Vanderbilt, and Calvert Vaux.

The new Century Club house is situated on the north side of Forty-third street, just west of Fifth avenue, and is practically completed. It was designed by the leading firm of architects, McKim, Mead & White, all of whom are members of the club. The design is in the recent ornamental style of buff brick and terra cotta, and gray marble, though not over-decorative. The facade is one hundred feet in length and four stories in height. The effect has been hurt somewhat by the building of a lofty hotel opposite. Entrance to the club-house is directly from the street, and one goes through a hall lined with marble and onyx up a half flight of stairs to the picture galleries in the rear, passing on either side the reception room and offices.

Another half flight to right and left of two beautiful onyx pillars brings one to the main floor, containing the reading and smoking room and the living room. The former is twenty-six by thirty-five feet and the latter fifty-one by thirty-five feet in size.

The third floor is occupied by the grill-room and the library, which are of the same dimensions as the reading and living-rooms respectively. In height the library extends up through the fourth floor and is surrounded by massive oak pillars. The grill-room is finished in quartered oak. Opening from the latter is a loggia, directly over the entrance to the club, where meals can be served in warm weather and where a sufficient view of passing travel on Fifth avenue is afforded.

The portion of the fourth floor not filled by the library is devoted to kitchen, laundry and servants' rooms, in accordance with the modern method of avoiding all contact with culinary operations. A spacious billiard-room extends under the art galleries.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

ILLUSTRATED CHIVALRY.

How One Chicago Man Came to the Conclusion That He Was a Clump.

HE cable-car gave a sudden jerk forward, and a woman's hat flew off her head and fell overboard.

"Stop the car!" shouted a man on the rear seat, as he jumped off at the risk of his neck, "and I'll go back and get that hat."

He ran back, picked it up, and brushed the dirt from it. The woman was a perfect stranger to him, but what of that? She was a woman! Her helplessness appealed to every sentiment of manhood, every consideration of self-respect, every impulse of chivalry and generosity that dwelt in his bosom. He would have been ashamed of himself if he had sat quietly in his seat while the car sped on and the wind blew through the bangs of somebody's wife, mother, or sister, sitting bareheaded in a crowd of unfeeling strangers! Filled with these reflections he turned to retrace his steps.

The car had not stopped. It was nearly one hundred yards away, and the gripman was pushing the lever down hard and taking a tighter grip on the cable. The woman was standing up and looking back at him. She was smiling—smiling audibly.

"Never mind," she said with a peal of silvery laughter.

The car sped on, but she put her hand to her mouth like a trumpet and screamed:

"It's only an old thirty-five-cent hat. I'm on my way to buy a new one. Throw it away!"

He didn't throw it away. He took a scrap of paper from his pocket, wrote on it in big letters: "Picked Up by the Biggest Fool in Chicago," pinned it on the crown, hung the hat on a lamp-post, climbed on the next street car that came along, and rode down-town in silence, the maddest man in an area of one hundred and seventy-four square miles.—Chicago Tribune.

May Be He Won't Have a Chance to Be Either.

Hoffman Howes (interrupting)—And I pwotest, Cahpah, that according to pwecedent, he ought to be Edward VII.

Barker Carper (stroking his beard)—Well, suppose the old lady survives, and he's Albert Edward Zero?—Puck.

Economical.

"I think we'll make our own soap hereafter," remarked Mrs. Snodgrass.

"Where will you get your lye?" asked her husband.

"From you!" and Snodgrass, who had just been explaining his late return the night before, glued his eyes to the morning paper.—West Shore.

A Brute.

He (looking dreamily into his cup)—What's this? A miracle?

She (indignantly)—Why, no! That's coffee, and good coffee, too!

He—Well, isn't that a miracle?—West Shore.

A YOUNG FINANCIER.

Tommy—How much will you charge me for a bicycle this afternoon, Mr. Wheeler?

Proprietor—Fifty cents for the first hour; twenty-five cents an hour after that.

Tommy—Well, if I come around here an hour later, can I have one for a quarter?—Light.

He Wanted to Try.

"Oh, Mr. Dolbey," said Freddy, "won't you please stand right here a minute on the rug."

"Certainly, Freddy," replied Dolbey, much amused; "but why do you want me to stand there?"

"Oh, sister Amy said you were ugly enough to stop a clock, and I wanted to see you do it."—Old Homestead.

Don't Blame Him.

"Oh, dear! dear!"

"What's the matter?"

"Why, just as I looked at that man a gnat flew into my eye, and I had to wink."

"Well?"

"Well, he winked, too."—West Shore.

What Ailed Him.

Sambo—What did de doctah say ailed yer mostly, Bill?

Bill—He 'lowed dat I had a conflagration ob diseases. Fust' de salvation glan's don't insist my indigestion; dat makes a torpedo liver; cose I'm liable to go off any minute.—Texas Siftings.

No Prospect of It.

"No," said the man, "I can't give nuthin'. Charity begins to hum, you know."

"It will be a long time before your charity is lively enough to hum," replied the collector.—West Shore.

THE man who declaims against railroads and says they ought to be wiped out, makes the biggest kind of a fuss when his train is five minutes late.

INTELLIGENT ANIMALS.

Instances of Reasoning Power in Elephants.

The Careful Manner in Which They Guard Children in Their Native Country—A Peculiar Trait of the Mammoth Brute.

"Every one knows that the elephant can be trained to do all kinds of work," says Thomas W. Knox in his volume entitled "Horse Stories and Stories of Other Animals." "While I have no hesitation about relating instances bearing on this statement, I prefer to tell of occurrences which indicate no actual reasoning power in the animal.

"It is customary in the settlements to water the cattle from large wooden buckets filled with water pumped from a well. This is done that they may not drink the water of the reservoirs, which is stagnant and unwholesome. Ordinarily the pumping is done at early morning by one of the elephants, the work taking nearly an hour. Accustomed to the task, he does not wait to be ordered, and every morning, an hour before sunrise, he is at his labor with the precision of a living alarm-clock.

"I was staying once at Trichinopoly, at the house of a friend of mine, a merchant, who owned a grand villa a few leagues outside the city. The sun was rising, and my servant had just awakened me for my bath. Passing through the yard I saw a large white elephant working at the pump. He closed his eyes sadly, and was apparently trying to turn his thoughts from his wearisome labor. He saluted my presence with a joyful flapping of his ears, for during the two days since my arrival I had given him many dainties, but he did not cease from his work, which had to be finished.

"I was stroking him with my hand in passing, when I noticed that one of the two planks which supported the bucket on either side had fallen away. It thus happened that the bucket, being upheld on one side only, spilled its contents, without a possibility of being filled.

"The elephant did not think that his work was ended because one side of the bucket was filled; nor did he attempt the impossible feat of trying to fill the other side until both sides were even. In a few minutes the water commenced to run from the lower side of the bucket, and the animal began to show signs of uneasiness; nevertheless, he continued to pump. Soon, however, he dropped the handle, and drew nearer to observe the cause of the trouble. He returned to the pump three times, each time coming back to examine the bucket. I awaited the end of this strange scene with unflagging interest. All at once a waving of the ears seemed to indicate that an idea had occurred to him.

"He came over to lift up the plank that had fallen away, and for a moment I thought that he intended to put it back in its place under the lower side of the bucket. But he was not troubled about the lower side, which was already filled with water; it was the other side which annoyed him. Lifting the bucket carefully, he supported it for a moment with one of his great feet, while with his trunk he pulled out the second plank and placed the bucket on solid earth, thus making it even on all sides. This done, the labor of filling it was easy.

"The elephant is much attached to the women and children in the villages, and it would be dangerous for a stranger to make even an unfriendly gesture in the presence of this animal.

"It is a remarkable sight to see him guard his master's children in their promenades; he watches every thing; beasts, serpents, turf pits and swamps, in fact, any danger which may be imagined is overcome by his presence. His pace is regulated by that of the children, and he attends them, gathering flowers, fruit from the trees and sugar canes; at a motion from one of them he will break a tree branch if one desires to make a whip or cane. At the slightest noise which he does not understand, if he sees a jackal or hyena in the distant thicket, he instantly gathers his brood under his trunk, commences to roar with rage, and any thing, lion, tiger or man, which threatens harm to his charges, is in danger of being dashed to the ground.

"In the lowlands of the Ganges, a swampy country covered with jungles and rice fields, the royal Bengal tiger is found of great size and ferocity. The combats between this terrible beast and the elephant, guarding the cattle, servants or children of his master, are of almost daily occurrence. The royal Bengal tiger is so fierce that he never refuses to fight his adversary, although the end of the combat generally finds him crushed to death under the feet of his terrible enemy, in spite of the fact that the elephant is an unpitying foe in his battles with the tiger, bear or rhinoceros, he never molests the smaller, inoffensive animals. No matter what power a keeper may have over him, it is impossible to make him crush an insect.

"There is a little insect which children in France call 'les betes a bon Dieu.' The same insect is found in India, but growing to a size twice as large as in France. I have often seen one of these little creatures placed on a level surface, in the troughs of a yard, for instance. I have seen the elephant ordered to crush the insect, but never, for master or driver, would he lift his foot above it in passing by, evidently avoiding any opportunity to do harm. If, on the contrary, he is commanded to bring it to you, he will pick it up delicately with his trunk and place it in your hands without bruising its wings."

The Climate of Asia.

According to the North China Herald the climate in East and West Asia is becoming colder. That of China in particular is growing not only colder, but drier. Animals and plants used to hot, moist regions are gradually retreating southward. Two thousand years ago the bamboo flourished in the forests of North China, but it does not now, and at Pekin it is only cultivated under shelter and in favorable localities as a kind of garden plant.

THE TRAINING OF GIRLS.

They Are Deficient in Knowledge of Every-Day Affairs.

One very serious deficiency in the education of the average girl is her ignorance of the ordinary affairs of life. Nearly every man, whatever his profession, has a general knowledge of these things; he knows how the new building goes up, understands the principle of the steam engine, can tell why crops are rotated or explain the construction of a suspension bridge. As a result, he finds everywhere suggestions for thought, and his sympathies trained in many directions. This is because, when he was an intelligent boy, his attention was continually called to these things—a course of action which would never have been thought of had he been merely an intelligent girl. There is a feeling that all this kind of information is superfluous, if not positively out of place, in the training of young girls; so they grow up with their fields of observation and reading narrowed to a minimum, says a writer in Kate Field's Washington. On account of these lesser ignorances they find themselves surrounded by a world full of mysteries, of which the least unintelligible are clothes and servants. Is it any wonder that they fall back persistently upon the few concrete interests which seem to be within reach of their understanding?

There was a little flurry of discussion not long ago about "Why women read novels." Well, they read them for the same reason that men do, because novels are the best expression of the quality of modern life; and they read more of them than most men can, because they have more leisure. For exactly the same cause women read more poetry and more metaphysics than their husbands and brothers. The reason they do not read so many newspapers and serious periodicals is that they find them full of stumbling blocks, on account of the narrow limits of their education in practical affairs. How many women understand any thing about a new election law, or an improved system of drainage, or the condition of Irish politics, or the latest application of electricity? This ignorance is not the more excusable because it is shared by a great many men. It should be a part of every education, whether of girl or boy, to make a not too interesting world as amusing and suggestive as possible.

THE TIME TO RETIRE.

Regularity in the Hour to Be Observed Rather Than Earliness.

It is all nonsense about "beauty sleep" coming in the hours before midnight, and that the rosy cheeks of the country lass is the reward of retiring at the time when the proverbial pale-faced city girl's evening commences. The late hours of fashionable life would not necessarily scatter the roses from the cheeks if the late hour for retiring could be the same every night without variation. It is irregular hours and meals that cause pale and haggard faces. The handsomest couple I ever saw, says a writer in the Chicago Herald, retired regularly at half past eleven, and always indulged in a light lunch just before retiring. They were both pictures of health. The lady did not look over twenty-five, though she never hesitated to say that she was thirty-eight years old, and the husband looked at least ten years younger than he really was. They were both devotees to the laws of health. For years they have allowed nothing to interfere with the regularity of sleeping and eating hours. Almost the midnight hour was chosen for retiring, because it allowed them evenings at the theater and an hour or so at even the most fashionable receptions. When alone in their home they never indulged in an earlier hour, because then it unfitted them for entertainment of which they were very fond.

NAPOLEON'S ENEMY.

The Woman Whom the Emperor Most Hated.

The woman whom the Emperor Napoleon III. hated most on earth has just died, says the Boston Herald. During the brilliant days that followed the coup d'etat, Napoleon made countless efforts to live on good terms with the old nobility. There was no limit to the bribery, cajolery and even threats to which he resorted in order to induce them to frequent his brand-new court.

The Marquise de Castellane, whose death is just announced, took the lead in bidding him defiance. She not only refused to go to court herself, but she cut any of her acquaintances whom she knew to meet with favor there, and as her salon was the most charming in Paris, the chance of being excluded from it was not to be lightly encountered. The Marquise was a grand niece of Talleyrand, and it was through her influence that the great diplomat signed an act of retraction and became reconciled to the church of Rome. For some years she lived in retirement, but in earlier days she was one of the most brilliant and powerful of the grandesdames of Paris.

The Key-Chain Fad.

An Eastern fashion paper—the very highest authority upon such matters—says that key-chains are entirely out of fashion, and that only waiters in restaurants wear them. There are a few of them left in Kansas City, however. I saw a man with one of them on the other day, says a writer in the Kansas City Times. He sat down to his desk and unlocked it, leaving the key in the lock. He is a busy man, and is also rather absent-minded. The key ring was fastened to the back of his trousers tight enough for a trace-chain. The key-chain was stoutly built. In a few minutes he jumped up in a hurry and started somewhere. I heard a desk rattle, a chair upset, papers rustle, a chain snap, keys fly about on the floor and two or three rather fiercely muttered oaths. And then the man performed a war dance on the chain. He threw it out of the office; he reviled the man who gave it to him; he prayed for total blindness on the man who had invented key-chains, and I heard him say: "By gum! That's only the fifth time this week."

FINGERS OF STEEL.

They Are to Supplant Those of the Negro in Picking Cotton.

The essential feature is three hundred and thirty fingers or spindles projecting through and from a hollow cylinder. These fingers, says the New York Sun, are ten inches long, and have at the end a brush or tip of fine wire, and set in four grooves radially is horse hair, clipped so it projects from the fingers about one-twelfth of an inch, the tip and the hairs on the side being the means of getting the cotton from the bolls. The fingers or spindles are given a whirling motion by a system of cog gear inclosed within the cylinder. Moving forward, the cylinder revolves, the fingers come in contact with the cotton, the whirling motion of the fingers entangles the cotton lint and it is picked, then carried upwards and backwards until cleaned from the fingers by brushes, and thrown into receptacles holding sixty pounds of seed cotton.

The revolutions are so timed that the fingers which project at the spokes of a wheel strike the plant without a raking motion, for that would damage the plant. No injury comes to the leaf and boll from running the machine over the plant.

With a width of four feet, length seven feet and height of five and one-half feet, the machine, complete, weighs about twelve hundred pounds, and is of easy draught for two mules.

In the morning when the cotton was slightly damp, a gathering from one row made by the machine weighed a little more than thirty pounds; the waste, knocked on the ground by the machine, was picked up by hand and weighed five ounces. In the afternoon, with the cotton perfectly dry, the cotton picked weighed over twenty-eight pounds, and the waste picked up weighed nearly three and one-half pounds.

The time made was about five pounds a minute or three hundred pounds an hour. Allowing time, liberally, for emptying the receptacles, stopping for repairs, meals, and so on, the machine could easily work ten hours a day and would gather three thousand pounds at a total expense of not more than three dollars per day, making the total cost of the picking for each bale one dollar and fifty cents. At present prices the cost is fully sixteen dollars.

DESIRABLE SERVANTS.

Those with Afflictions Are the Most Tractable.

A lot of women were discussing the servant problem, says the New York Epoch, and one clever woman put forward an entirely new idea as the desirable requirements for a servant. "I have grown modest in late years," she said. "I no longer demand, as I used to, that my cook shall know how to cook, or that my waitress shall understand sewing—not at all. The one demand I do make in the servant who comes to me is that she shall have a grief. I advertise: 'Wanted, a cook with a grief—serviceable and warranted to last.' There's nothing that will make a woman so tractable and teachable as a grief. And, you see, a woman with an affliction doesn't want to be off nights like gay-hearted girls. She stays at home and nurses her sorrow and thinks up little things to do about the house meantime. Such a woman will accomplish a great amount of work. What kind of grief do I find most serviceable? A disappointment in love, if I treat it with deep consideration and respect, will last the longest—longer even than mourning for a dead husband. For widows, you know, are much like babies—they cry a good deal the first six months, then they begin to take notice, and they're very hard to bring through the second summer."

KANGAROOS FOR AMERICA.

A Project on Foot to Raise Them in This Country.

We are assured on what seems good authority, says the Helena (Mont.) Gazette, that the project of importing kangaroos into this country is seriously entertained by several enthusiastic and wealthy sportsmen of the West. The animals have been successfully acclimated in England and France, and we are assured that there is no reason why they should not thrive here. The practical extinction of the buffalo has left the plains without any big game of importance, and experienced sportsmen declare that hunting the kangaroo, as practiced in Australia, is second in excitement and interest only to killing the buffalo. The scheme is not without commercial importance. Kangaroo leather is a very valuable product and the animals breed rapidly. The promoters hope to be privileged to introduce the new game at the beginning of the warm season in the Yellowstone park, and so insure them for a few years' Government protection and immunity from senseless sportsmen.

Honey Bees Against Pigeons.

A novel contest of speed recently took place at Hamme, in Westphalia, pigeons and honey-bees being the contestants. The race was made on a wager that a dozen honey-bees liberated three miles from their hive would reach it in better time than a dozen pigeons would reach their cote from the same distance. The bees and pigeons were given wing at a village three miles from Hamme. The first bee finished a quarter of a minute before the first pigeon, and three other bees reached the goal before the second pigeon. The other contestants finished in a bunch a moment later.

Marriage in the Orange Free State.

According to the Natal Mercury there is a traffic in bridal parties to and fro across the romantic Orange river, and many boatmen reap riches. A man in the colony on one side of the Orange may not marry his deceased wife's sister. He may in the Orange Free State. In the Free State a man may not marry his cousin. He may in the colony. Hence, in the former case, all the men have to do is to cross the Orange river, where they can get married. In the latter case the cousins just cross the Orange river into the colony, where they can make themselves happy or miserable for life.

RUMORS OF DEFEAT

A Terrific Battle Between Hostiles and Troops.

ALL SORTS OF REPORTS FLYING.

One Is that General Miles Has Met With Serious Disaster.

Red Cloud a Prisoner Among the Hostiles—Gen. Forsythe Relieved by Orders from Washington—Friendly Bucks Refuse to Return to the Agency—Gen. Corbin on the Way to the Front.

GORDON, Neb, Jan. 5.— The booming of cannon to the northeast of here has caused the wildest excitement, and it is generally believed that General Miles has began to round up the hostile Sioux and a big battle has been fought.

Every man in the town and the many refugees from the surrounding country armed themselves and prepared for whatever might come.

All sorts of rumors have been current, but up to the present it has been impossible to get any definite or reliable information as to the extent and result of the battle. One rumor has it that General Miles himself was present at the fight and was killed and that the attack on the hostiles was only partially successful, while the troops lost heavily.

Two scouts who have just arrived tell the story of the fight, which was between the Indians and a detachment sent out by General Miles from Rosebud Agency to bury the dead Indians killed at Wounded Knee battle of the 29th.

The hostile Sioux, objecting to the burial of their dead by their pale-faced foes, opened fire and after desperate and sharp firing of the Hotchkiss gun were forced to return to the protection of the friendly ravines.

Miles' Death Not Believed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 5.—There is a rumor here that General Miles and cavalry have met the Indians, been defeated with heavy loss, and that the General was killed. The only news about General Miles received here to-day, however, comes from the army headquarters in Chicago, and no mention is made of General Miles being killed or wounded. The rumor is undoubtedly untrue.

RED CLOUD WATCHED.

The Hostiles Shoot all Ponies Belonging to the Old Chief.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 5.—Twenty-one of the wounded soldiers, three officers and 18 men will be taken to Fort Riley, Kan., to-night by special train. Yesterday Red Cloud tried to slip away from the hostiles and return to the Agency. When the fact was discovered by the hostiles they shot all of his ponies, numbering about 15, placed a guard over the old chief and proceed to move several miles further from here.

This last move places their main camp within but a few miles of the Bad Lands, but the warriors, according to the reports of scouts, keep circling within ten or a dozen miles of here all the time. The enemy are camped on White Clay Creek, 15 miles north of the Agency. They number not less than 1,300 warriors and a horde of squaws and children. Those who have returned say there are large numbers of strangers from other agencies in the crowd. The refugees admit the number of Indians killed in the White Clay battle of Tuesday was large.

The effect of the ghost dance delusion is seen in the fact that the Indians make no attempt to remove the dead from the battlefield or to care for the wounded. Their idea is that every one who is killed or dies from his wound is in big luck and will turn into a buffalo, etc. Capt. W. W. Robinson of Troop D is now captain of Troop K, in place of Captain Wallace.

General Miles declines to be interviewed by any one.

CORBIN STARTS WEST.

Gen. Miles' Chief of Staff Off for the Front Under Orders.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Assistant Adjutant General Corbin, upon telegraph orders from General Miles, left for the Indian country at 6 o'clock over the Chicago and Northwestern road. Captain E. L. Huggins is now in charge of Army Headquarters here.

Just before Colonel Corbin left he was asked if the order transferring him to the seat of war meant that the situation was more serious than supposed.

He replied, "I think not. It is not at all strange that I am sent for, and probably ought to have been there before. By virtue of my rank I am chief of staff, and when the General in command is on the field his chief of staff should be there also. Further than this I cannot say anything about the matter."

In an interview Captain Huggins said he had heard the rumor to the effect that General Miles' command had met the hostiles and that General Miles had lost heavily, but he did not believe it, and was positive that the General could not have been within many miles of the locality where the fight is said to have taken place.

The Crows Are Jubilant.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 5.—Mat Vette with the First Cavalry arrived at Miles City to-day, with Troop D, sixty Crow scouts and full camp equipage. They proceeded immediately with three companies of the 25th Infantry for Powderville to join Major Arnold. A special says there was music in the air last night. The Crows are visiting the Cheyenne Indians near the fort and are singing and dancing. The Cheyennes have gone to war and the Crows are jubilant over the prospect of killing off the Sioux, who are their mortal enemies.

General Miles' Last Effort for Peace.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Jan. 5.—General Miles made a last effort for peace last night. He sent a letter by a relative of one of the sub-chiefs saying that all would be forgiven if they came. It was torn to pieces and word returned that they were prepared to die as Big Foot's band had died, and if the soldiers were ready to fight they had better make an attack.

Friendly Bucks Leave.

MANDAN, N. D., Jan. 5.—Orders have been forwarded to Company H, 22d Infantry, stationed on Cannon Ball, to report at Fort Yates for duty. The friendly Sucks at Standing Rock have left the agency, and when requested to return by Agent McLaughlin they said they would sooner be killed fighting than slaughtered in their homes.

POTTERS TO STRIKE.

Their Union May Order All Sanitary Men to Go Out.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—The Executive Board of the Sanitary Ware Potters' National Association, in session here, advised the men to resist a reduction of wages. It will consider to-day the advisability of a general strike in that branch of trade.

The manufacturers have been trying for several weeks past to induce the employes to accept a new pay schedule. The foreman of each pottery in Trenton Saturday gave to the employes' representatives a new scale of wages. The men said that it would reduce their wages 33 1-3 per cent., and they stopped work immediately.

The Trenton union will hold a meeting to-day to discuss the advisability of starting a co-operative sanitary ware pottery. The number of sanitary potters in Trenton is about 500, but as many other potters are dependent on their work, the strike may throw 2,000 men out of employment.

TOMPKINS MAY DIE.

The Victim of the New Jersey Sandbagging Rapidly Sinking.

KEYPORT, N. J., Jan. 5.—No arrests have as yet been made in the sandbagging case in which Denton Tompkins, superintendent of Longstreet's brick works, was assaulted by a gang of unknown ruffians.

The Board of Aldermen, Mayor O. C. Bogardus and Senator Thomas S. R. Brown will hold a meeting to-day to devise plans to run down the culprits. Tompkins still lies at the residence of John Flynn in a critical condition. The chances of his recovery are said to be very slight.

Reception to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—The reception extended by the Press Club last night to Henry M. Stanley and Mrs. Stanley was the most brilliant event in the history of the organization. Over 200 members with their ladies were present, and for over an hour the explorer and his beautiful English wife grasped hands, smiled and said, "Happy to meet you," as the line filed by. The rooms were decorated with American and English flags intertwined, and a mandolin orchestra furnished appropriate music.

Funeral of General Spinner.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The funeral of the late General Francis E. Spinner, the famous "Watch Dog of the Treasury," was held at Mohawk yesterday afternoon at the Reformed Church. There was a very large attendance, and many officers and attaches of the Treasury Department were present. Among the floral tributes was one representing a key from the employes of that department.

Dry Goods Stock Damaged.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 5.—A fire in the Patrick Lynch block at No. 113 East Genesee street, at 1 a. m., damaged the stock of dry goods and cloaks belonging to W. T. Wright about $20,000, which is covered by insurance. E. M. Hill's photograph gallery was damaged about $800, the amount of the insurance. It will take $2,000 to repair the building.

The New Hampshire Muddle.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 5.—The Supreme Court met in the Senate Chamber to-day to hear arguments in the proceedings instituted by the Democrats against Clerk Jewett. All day will be devoted to hearing arguments and the opinion of the court is expected to-morrow. The Legislature will convene Wednesday.

Gorman to Take the Reins.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 5.—The announcement is made that Barnes Compton, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, will resign the position in March and will be succeeded by Senator Gorman. This was rumored some time ago and denied, but it now comes from an authentic source.

Admiral Gherardi's Wife Dead.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Mrs. Anna T. Gherardi, wife of Admiral Gherardi, U. S. N., at present commanding the North Atlantic squadron, died at the Hotel St. George, in Brooklyn, last night of pneumonia. She was 40 years old.

Drowned in a Water Tank.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 5.—William Weld, a prominent agricultural journalist and proprietor of the Farmers' Advocate, accidentally fell into a water tank at his residence last night and was drowned.

IN CONGRESS TO-DAY

The Senate Meets at Noon for a Short Session.

REPUBLICANS NOW IN CAUCUS.

They Will Decide on an Order of Business for the Week.

Two Propositions to Come Up About the Election Bill—Nothing Done in the Matter of the Three Senators from Idaho—Three Days' Debate to be Given to the Marine Subsidy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Senate met at noon to-day and resumed the regular business of the session, which had been suspended practically since Wednesday last. To-day's session was not very long, as the Republican Senators called a caucus during the afternoon to determine on an order of business for the week.

When the Senate adjourned Wednesday there was pending an appeal taken by Mr. Morgan from a decision of the Chair that it was not in order for him to move to take up a resolution offered by him some time ago relating to the Elections bill. Mr. Morgan had the floor to address the Senate indefinitely on the subject of this appeal. When the matter comes before the Senate Mr. Sherman expects to move to lay the appeal on the table so as to cut off debate on it.

It is generally expected that the long delayed fight on the Elections bill will be precipitated this week. It is not determined in what form it will come. The Republican caucus this afternoon will outline the programme. A proposition will be made to the caucus to try the test of endurance—to attempt to sit out the bill, day and night, holding a quorum of Republican Senators in the Senate chamber and cloak rooms to prevent an adjournment and to be ready to vote on the bill and pass it whenever the Democrats give up through sheer weariness. Opposed to this will be the proposition to change the rules and provide for calling the previous question. In event of the adoption of either of these propositions it is expected that the Senate will hold prolonged sessions, for it will be necessary to put through the proposed change in the rules by almost the same tactics as are proposed for passing the bill without it.

WORK IN THE HOUSE.

Three Days to be Devoted to the Marine Subsidy Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Under the rules of the House to-day is individual suspension day when members may call up measures for passage under suspension of the rules. From the action of Democratic members last week to have the House adjourn until to-morrow, thus skipping suspension day, it would seem that there will be considerable opposition to the passage of measures called up to-morrow, and it is likely no business will be transacted.

Mr. Farquahr, of New York, the Chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, has been assured by the Republican leaders that his committee will be given three days during the week for discussing and voting on the Marine Subsidy bill. Two of these days will be consumed, according to the programme, in considering the bill in general, and on the third day the provisions of the bill and the amendments offered will be discussed under the five-minute rule.

The chairmen of the Committees on Naval Affairs and Military Affairs respectively will probably make efforts to call up the Naval and Army Appropriation bills, and it is probable also that the Committee on Appropriations will report the Legislative and Executive and Judicial Appropriations to the House. One of the appropriation bills may displace the private bills to the consideration of which Friday would be devoted under the general rule.

The Steamer Believed to Be Lost.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5.—The steamer Pollux from Rouen, Nov. 12, for this port, has not yet arrived and her agents have abandoned all hope. The steamer was spoken some time ago by the steamer Michigan. She was in a disabled condition then and the commander of the Michigan offered assistance, which Capt. Whitson of the Pollux refused. The Pollux had a crew of 25 men.

Lake Champlain Ice Bridged.

RUTLAND, Vt., Jan. 5.—Lake Champlain is frozen over between Burlington and Plattsburg, a distance of 25 miles, the earliest in the season for many years. Tuesday, when the lake finally closed, was the coldest at Burlington and the shore towns, the thermometeter indicating 14 degrees below zero at 8 a. m., and averaging 5 below for the entire day.

Two Boys Drowned While Skating.

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—Joseph Martin and Horace Butler, each 14 years old, were drowned in the Charles river by the breaking of the ice on which they were skating. Three other boys who were thrown into the water with them were rescued in an exhausted condition.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE KEYSTONE OUTLOOK.

The Question of Speakership Will Probably Be Settled To-Day.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—Two-thirds of the Senators and members are here, and the hotel corridors are filled with statesmen. Several caucuses will be held to-day, and within the next twenty-four hours the question of Speakership will probably be settled.

Representative Brooks, with the Philadelphia delegation at his back, is confident that he will win the gavel, but the candidates outside of Philadelphia have combined their forces, and they assert just as positively that Brooks cannot be elected.

The field claim 74 votes which can be utilized to defeat the Philadelphian, while the latter's friends count about 45 for their favorite, and hint that the combination of their country candidates is not as strong as certain interested parties would like to have it. The Allegheny delegation, it is said, will vote for ex-Speaker Graham on the first ballot, after which the 15 votes will be scattered, and Mr. Brooks may get a few of them.

Each of the candidates is holding fast to his boom in the hope that circumstances may so shape matters as to deliver the Speakership lightning in his direction. Thompson of Warren is the leader of the field, and is now regarded as the principal opponent of the Philadelphia candidate, but Thompson's chances depend entirely upon the stability of the combination formed by the candidates from the interior.

THE ALBANY CONTEST.

General Husted Out of the Race for Leader of the Minority.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—General Husted is practically out of the race for leader of the minority in the Assembly. The conference which lasted all night at the Delavan House on Saturday resulted in General Husted declining to take the leadership. He said:

"I need rest. My physical condition is not what it should be, and I feel that it would be too heavy a task for me to take. I have been highly honored by the party, and I don't think they should ask me to resume the responsibility."

Gen. Husted's ultimatum means that there will be a bitter fight for the nomination during the day between Acker and Whipple. Acker has the advantage at present, and so far he looks like a winner.

On the majority side Mr. Blumenthal has the call, and in the caucus to-day there will probably be no opposition to him. The slate still remains Mr. Sheehan for speaker, Mr. De Freest for clerk, Mr. Blumenthal for leader and Mr. Cragin in the lead for stenographer of the Assembly.

SPINNERS REMAIN OUT.

The Clark Mills Will Resume Work for a Few Days.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 5.—It is rumored that the Clark Thread Company will start up their mills in Kearney and Newark immediately, despite the strike on the part of the spinners.

The latter, however, are assured that the company cannot find men to take their places, although several emissaries are now in Holyoke, Mass., seeking to secure men.

The spoolers and others will resume work as usual, but without the help of the spinners the mills will not be able to continue operations longer than two weeks.

Riotous Huns Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 5.—Fourteen more of the Hungarians who participated in the riots at Andrew Carnegie's steel works at Braddock were arrested yesterday, and more arrests will be made. The object of the authorities is to lock up all the dangerous Huns and so guard against trouble when work is resumed with new men. Tuesday has been fixed as the time when the attempt will be made. Michael Quinn, one of the workmen injured by the rioters, is dying.

A Maniac's Attempt at Suicide.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Peter Rohr, a middle-aged blacksmith, who was made insane by a prolonged attack of erysipelas, attempted to commit suicide during the morning by throwing himself out of the window, a distance of 60 feet to the ground. The only injuries he received were a broken hip and a slight scalp wound. The shock caused by the fall almost completely restored his reason. He remembers nothing of the attempted suicide.

The New Senators from Idaho.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Owing to the absence of Senator Hoar, chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, nothing has been done in the matter of the three Senators from Idaho, and until the committee makes some report Mr. McConnell cannot be sworn in. It is expected that the committee will meet to-morrow morning, when Mr. McConnell's credentials will be accepted and he will be sworn when the Senate meets. The drawing of terms between Messrs. Shoup and McConnell will immediately follow.

To Resist Cloture.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—An informal conference of Democratic leaders was held at Senator Gorman's residence last night looking to a general plan of action on the political questions pending in Congress, and it is understood that it was agreed to use all legitimate parliamentary means to defeat the Federal Election bill and the proposed Republican cloture scheme.

Justice Brown Sworn In.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—At noon to-day Associate Justice Henry Billings Brown of Detroit, was sworn in as the successor of the late Justice Miller, and the Supreme Court Bench once more has its full complement of nine members.

Coffee Crop Failure.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—The Bureau of American Republics has received advices of the almost total failure of the coffee crop in Japan, which is estimated at only about 16 per cent. of former annual averages.

PARNELL FOR PEACE

The Irish Chieftain on His Way to Boulogne.

M'CARTHY WILLING TO RETIRE.

Healy Not Willing That Any Concession Should be Made to Parnell.

The Anti-Parnellites Pinched for Funds—O'Brien Trying to Bring About an Understanding to Free the Money Tied Up in Paris and America—Contradiction of the Rumor of Gladstone's Retirement.

DUBLIN, Jan. 5.—Mr. Parnell left Avondale to-day for Boulogne, accompanied by Mr. Timothy Harrington, and will meet Mr. O'Brien to-morrow. Mr. Justin McCarthy, it is stated, has expressed a willingness to retire in favor of Mr. O'Brien.

The anti-Parnellites are very anxious on the subject of funds, being pinched for resources even for ordinary expenses, while the evicted tenants are allowed to shift as best they may at the most trying period of the year. But for this the anti-Parnellites would pay little attention to the Boulogne conference, and go right on with their claim to represent the Irish National party.

Parnell fully understands his advantage, and, it is asserted, will not consent to unlock the funds until an arrangement is arrived at. He is himself apparently well supplied with money, and his agent was recently able to lodge nineteen thousand pounds in court to await the result of a suit regarding some property.

It is said that Mr. O'Brien's efforts have been chiefly directed to bringing about an understanding that would liberate for Nationalist uses the money in Paris and the subscriptions from America. Timothy Healy is not willing that any concession should be made, even with this object. Mr. Healy has independent means, and his less fortunate colleagues do not agree with him.

The latest report is that Mr. Parnell is for peace, and will agree to anything reasonable.

PEASANTS STARVING.

A Declaration from Mr. Balfour About the Poor in the West of Ireland.

DUBLIN, Jan. 5.—The Earl of Zetland, Viceroy of Ireland, and Chief Secretary Balfour sign a declaration concerning the condition of the poor in the Western part of Ireland. The declaration says:

"Poverty is chronic in some districts and will, if the people are not aided, reach a stage of acute distress during the winter and spring. There is neither a resident gentry nor a substantial middle class to give employment, nor are there charitable organizations to aid those who are unable to aid themselves. Outdoor relief, except in cases of emergency, cannot be administered, except to persons holding over a quarter of an acre of land."

The declaration then appeals for food and clothing.

The Daily News says it publishes the appeal of Dublin Castle in behalf of the Irish poor with mixed feelings of satisfaction and shame. While most anxious not to check the flow of charity, it cannot refrain from recalling the ignoble ridicule which a portion of the Tory press threw upon its repeated warnings, concerning the potato famine. The response to the appeal from Dublin Castle should be full, hearty and immediate.

"But the letter," it adds, "demands from every thoughtful Englishman a serious examination of and answer to the question, 'Why is the Irish government dependent upon charity?'"

The Unionist dailies applaud the Dublin Castle appeal, and express confidence that it will meet with a hearty response.

Davitt and Burns Speak for the Strikers.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Michael Davitt, addressing a meeting in sympathy with the Scotch railway strikers, declared that the London railwaymen were determined to support the Scotch strikers in the demand for shorter hours. John Burns called upon the large unions to forward £5,000 to the strikers forthwith. He goes to Glasgow himself immediately.

DEMPSEY CONFIDENT.

He Says He Was Never in Better Form for a Fight.

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 5.—Jack Dempsey showed up at the Upham-Pizzilla fight, in which he seconded the former, in splendid form, and it is generally conceded that this man's signal victory was due to the Nonpareil's excellent coaching. Dempsey is already inside the 154-pound limit, and is as supple as a cat. Under the direction of Tom Maher and Mike Conley he is getting into the pink of condition.

He is now undergoing the hardening process and exercising to increase his wind. Every morning he is out on the beach playing ball. In the afternoon he punches the bag, swings dumb bells, boxes and indulges in other athletics.

In regard to the fight he said last night: "Twelve thousand dollars is a big purse and a man ought to do his best to win it. This I shall try to do. I understand Fitzsimmons is a game man, and, I presume, he will do his best to win it. Who will be successful the fight on the night of the 14th will tell. As to my condition, I was never in better form and shall do my best not to disappoint my friends."

Dempsey speaks highly of the treatment he has received from the people of Galveston, and regards the place as a splendid one in which to train. He has become a universal favorite here and next Saturday night the Galveston Athletic Association will give him a complimentary benefit. Just prior to his departure for New Orleans he will be heavily backed by the Galveston sports. D. W. Argyl, of Seattle, one of Dempsey's backers, is here and has $3,000 on his man.

RIOT AT BARNEGAT PARK.

Italian Workmen Frenzied at not Receiving Their Pay.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 5.—A bad riot, which occurred at Barnegat Park Saturday, caused the Governor to order the Camden Battalion of the New Jersey militia out under arms yesterday. The trouble was so serious at midnight Saturday night that Lieut. Farrow, U. S. A., fearing the place would be burned made the requisition for troops.

Barnegat Park is well known, and is the scheme of a number of army officers to build an all-the-year-around resort in the New Jersey Pines, the residents to be army and navy officers. There are a number of valuable buildings in the place, such as a commissary house, a bank, a carousal, a hotel, a number of high-priced cottages, stores and a church. A grand boulevard in the driveroad is being constructed, and this work has kept a large force of Italians busy for some time, from 75 to 100 now being employed.

They have had little or no money for two months, and were getting troublesome. Ten days ago they struck, and a sheriff and posse has been on hand watching them. Their pay was to be forthcoming January 1, but it did not materialize, and the Italians proceeded to work themselves into a frenzy and threatened to kill Lieut. Farrow and others who were protecting the place.

The sheriff and his posse were helpless, being largely outnumbered. The women were removed to the Pines for safety, and all the energy and persuasion of the men was used to prevent the infuriated mob from burning the buildings. The last resort was to call for troops. Gov. Abbett placed himself in communication with the authorities, and they kept him posted.

The sheriff succeeded by noon in getting a large posse, who were able to control the situation, and the Governor ordered the troops, who were being held in readiness, mustered out of service.

The Barnegat Park Company have been making extravagant improvements, and the assessments made on the stockholders were as rapidly as the pay-roll demanded. Lieut. Farrow will call a meeting of the stockholders at once and expects to pay the men before the end of the week.

JOHNSTOWN'S DANGER.

The Gorge of Ice Extends Three Miles Up the River.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 5.—Ice and flood again threaten Johnstown. The gorge of ice extends three miles up the river, and near Hogback tunnel the blocks, which are from three to six inches thick, have piled up ten feet high, and the mass has been solidified by freezing.

It is a mighty dam, which is accumulating the waters of the mountain creek, and awful damage is feared if it lets go at once. The Johnstown Water Company's big dam at Border's Station has been swept away, and the heavy sections of the water main, each weighing half a ton, are scattered along the creek below the dam.

It is also feared that the ice will reach the big stone bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and form a huge dam there, thus flooding the city.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The old Yiengling brewery on the James River, just below Richmond, Va., was destroyed by fire. Loss, $50,000.

Two horses were killed and two men narrowly escaped with their lives in a stable in Baltimore by a shock from an electric light wire.

William E. Leverich, well known as secretary of the New Orleans City & Lake Railroad Company, died suddenly last night of paralysis.

German manufacturers are making active preparations for an exhibition in London between April and October of this year.

Thomas Boyle, aged 22, while spearing through the ice for eels at Carlstadt, N. J., on the Hackensack River, near Paterson, broke through the ice and was drowned.

An employe accidentally dropped snow in a furnace of Barnum & Richardson's foundry, Chicago, which caused an explosion. Three men were badly burned, Frank Radizsky fatally.

Two men, a negro and a white man, were lynched in Neshabec county, Miss., the other day for robbery. The held up an old colored woman, robbed and beat her brutally.

Russell A. Alger of Michigan, John W. Burns of Illinois and Ira M. Hedges of New York have been selected as the committee on transportation for the 25th annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska has rendered a decision holding that a father who had murdered his daughter could not inherit her property. This was the case of Shellenberger, who lived near Nebraska City.

William E. Hamilton, living at No. 33 West Fourth street, South Boston, while trying to escape arrest for being idle and disorderly, jumped from a third story window to the sidewalk, fracturing his skull. He cannot recover.

Mr. T. S. Paddock, an old resident of Cleveland, who went there from Herkimer county, N. Y., in 1834, died of heart disease yesterday. He amassed a considerable fortune dealing in furs. He was 77 years old, and leaves a widow and seven children.

Young Mitchell and La Blanche Matched.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—The directors of the California Athletic Club have matched Young Mitchell and George La Blanche. The club offers a purse of $3,500, and $300 for Mitchell's training expenses. La Blanche has already agreed to the club's terms.

A Wealthy Negro Assassinated.

HELENA, Ark., Jan. 5.—Prince Mallory, colored, the wealthiest man in the southern portion of the county, was assassinated at Island 64 last night. Three negroes, who are suspected of the crime, have disappeared, and officers are searching for them.

THE DAILY PRESS.

BY THE WAY.

—Guy Brothers' minstrels are to appear at Amphion Hall to-night.

—The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at Bethel chapel Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—Services appropriate to the Week of Prayer will be held every evening this week in the Trinity Reformed church.

—A meeting of the Warren Mission Boys' Society, No. 2, will be held in Warren chapel this evening at eight o'clock.

—The regular monthly meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Library to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

—Services for the Week of Prayer will be held in the Crescent Avenue chapel every evening, but Saturday at 8 o'clock.

—Owing to the meetings of the "Week of Prayer," the mechanical drawing class will be omitted at the Y. M. C. A., this week.

—In connection with the Guy Brothers' minstrel show at Amphion Hall to-night, there will be a band concert in front of the hall at seven o'clock.

—The Congregational church will observe the Week of Prayer by meetings on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, at 8 o'clock.

—Sherwin is selling the celebrated crack proof Candee rubber boots for men. These boots are made on heavy ducking and will outwear any of the rubber boots made in the ordinary way.

—Hood's Calendar for 1891 is a beautiful production of the lithographers' and printers' arts. The subject represents three children playing musical instruments; and the positions, expressions, coloring and general finish make a most charming picture.

—The book-keeping and penmanship classes will meet this evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Young men and boys have still an opportunity to avail themselves of the privileges of these classes on payment of the Association membership fee, $2.

—The Rockaway Valley Railroad, otherwise called the "farmers' railroad," is being pushed forward from Peapack to Mendham, in Morris county. The projectors of this thriving little road are going to make a strong effort to continue it to Morristown during the coming year.

—The contract between the representatives of the city of Elizabeth and the Pennsylvania and Central Railroad Company officials relative to the abolition of the grade crossings has been signed, but this will not prevent the certiorari proceedings in the Supreme Court relative to the alleged illegal action of the City Council in the matter.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Lizzie Milligan, of Brooklyn, is visiting her friends the Misses Spencer, at Washingtonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Randolph have been visiting Charles Compton at Metuchen.

Mrs. Seymour G. Smith, who has been quite ill since New Year's Day, is still confined to her room.

Mrs. Edgerton will leave town to-morrow to spend the Winter in New York city. She will make her home at the Grand Hotel, Thirty-first street and Broadway.

The Congregational church received into its communion twenty-eight new members yesterday: twenty-six on confession of faith and two by letter. Thirteen were baptized.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitehead and daughter, and John Schofield, of Plainfield, were guests at an English New Year's Eve party at Wm. G. Clelland's, New Brunswick.

B. T. Barnes is visiting his father, Samuel D. Barnes, in New York city, who was born in 1800, and who will this year celebrate, with his wife, the sixty-third year of his marriage.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, of this city, as founder and president of the Epworth League in the United States, preached a special sermon at the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Newark, Sunday evening.

Julian Scott is home from Montana, Arizona and Indian Territory. He has been engaged in securing sketches and photographic views of the Indians at home, and has some five hundred excellent photographs, besides numberless sketches, to develop into paintings. The United States Government will have Mr. Scott arrange some of the pictures of Indian life in proper form for a permanent exhibition at Washington, to remind the American people, when the red men are no more, of the tribes which once held possession of the country. During his long absence Mr. Scott enjoyed fine sport at hunting. Among the thing he reports as dead by his trusty gun are two bears and fifteen deer. The tribe of Indians to which he gave special attention, and of whom splendid views were secured, were the Navajos, a people who are exceedingly picturesque, and of whom but little is generally known. The permanent exhibition at Washington is to give a faithful representation of the character of the race and the mode of living. It will be of great popular interest and historic value.

THE ALBION.

Messrs. Miller & Poillon Choose a New Name for the Reconstructed Park House.

Even the old title of the Park House is to go, and the remodeled and reconstructed building is to be known in the future as The Albion. Messrs. Miller & Poillon, the new lessees, who are to open the hotel in February, as first announced by THE PRESS, will spare no pains to make the place a superior home for the public. They are expending $16,000 in order that the house may be comfortably, handsomely, luxuriously, furnished, throughout; and the owners are spending $10,000 in what is virtually a rebuilding of the house itself. The Albion will be as attractive and desirable a home as is to be expected from such excellent managers as Messrs. Miller and Poillon, and its opening will be a boon to merchants and to the town. The people, and especially the tradespeople, of Plainfield, are greatly pleased at the good news of resumption of business at this house on so large a scale. The Albion is already booking guests.

The Site Formally Adopted.

Chairman Mason Tyler, Secretary Nelson Runyon, Treasurer Stewart and Messrs. Serrell, Ginna, Clark, Olssen, Moore and Tracy, of the Soldiers' Monument Committee, were all who were present at a meeting called for Saturday evening.

Mr. Ginna read a report setting forth what had already been exclusively published in THE PRESS, that the Trustees of the Crescent Avenue church had been authorized by a unanimous vote of the congregation to grant permission for a soldiers' and sailors' monument, on the triangular plot of ground at the junction of Broadway, Lagrande and Crescent avenues and Seventh street. The report was received and the site was formally adopted by the Committee. Chairman Tyler stated for information that the cost of the proposed monument would be $13,250 with the figures in granite, and $15,000 with the figures in bronze. E. B. Clark considered it would be worth the additional expense to adopt the latter material. The Committee adjourned until the evening of the 17th inst., when plans of subscription and methods of solicitation will be considered and agreed on. The work of raising the money will be begun at once.

Discrimination Against Bachelors.

Some of the big employing companies in this vicinity are adopting and enforcing a new rule which at first glance seems arbitrary but which on reflection one is inclined to approve. The rule is that all employes who are not married must quit the service of his company by a certain date. The company believes that the married man is a steadier and better workman than the bachelor, and as a general rule the company is right.

A man with wife and children dependent on his labor usually finds his companionship and pleasure in the home circle, and he goes to work in the morning with a clear head and steady nerves. He is generally more contented in life, he is anchored to one place by domestic ties, and he can therefore be relied upon to turn up when wanted. It seems harsh to enact that a workman, good or bad, shall be deprived of work and wages because of his celibacy; but then he has his remedy. He can get married, and surely a single man can do nothing better than that.

The State and the Schools.

The recent announcement of the State appropriations for the new school year has suggested to New Jersey papers maybe a trite eulogy on the excellence and soundness of the principles that underlie the State school system. The support of the schools—says one of them—is not a local duty in any sense of the term. The State has made it her duty to see that her children are brought up in the way they should go, by furnishing them with the educational light they need for the intelligent guidance of their feet. The theory is that the wealth of the State should contribute to the support of the schools. And why not? It is the vested interests of the State that are most endangered by an ignorant populace. So the assessment for the maintenance of the schools is made upon the basis of wealth. The redistribution among the counties of the money thus collected is of course in proportion to the number and school age of children within reach.

One Way to Sweep a Store.

A Front street merchant gave the following advice to his new errand boy this morning:

"Don't use a lesky old sprinkling pot to sop the floor all over in puddles when you sweep. No, sir! Take wet sawdust, and you must put a row of it across one end of the store and sweep that right along to the other end, just like a regiment marching across a ten-acre lot. It catches all the dirt and carries it along. If it gets a little dry, add some more. Some folks scatter sawdust all over the floor, but that's no good; the reason for using sawdust is to avoid wetting the floor all over and to have something that will absorb the dust."

The Crescents Against the West Ends.

The crack bowlers of the Plainfield Crescent League are to measure skill against the West Ends from Somerville on the Olympia alleys Friday night. The bowlers on the Plainfield team will be:

VanWinkle	Vail
Rogers	Thiers
Dilts	Haven
Krewson	Reed
Teel	VanEmburgh, captain.

A Lively Race Lost by the Plainfield Sorrel.

(From The Perth Amboy Democrat.)

Robert VanPelt, of Plainfield, drove into town Monday with his sorrel horse "Daniel Rice." He said he thought he could best any horse that Perth Amboy owned, and with that idea in view he called upon C. H. Woolsey, the caterer, and purchased one of his best Havana cigars, which he used to back his opinion with. During the afternoon he trotted the old sorrel up Smith street and met several gentlemen out with their pets, among whom were Mr. Evans, who owns "Fallace" the pacer, George Moore with "John Joel," Kelly and McAlinden with "Fannie," Matthew Brennan with "John Lambert," Elmer Martin with "Good Speed." They all came together in fine style, just this side of the Central Railroad crossing, and to say that the sleigh bells jingled and snow flew would be a very mild way of putting it. When they passed the Central Hotel Evans's "Fallace" was slightly in the lead, with the others hugging very close. VanPelt was not in it, and the cigar was out of it so far as he was concerned. Shortly afterwards Mr. Evans smoked the cigar with a satisfactory smile that said "You will, will you!"

A Fact Frankly Admitted.

A local tobacco merchant was asked this morning why the cost of imported cigars to dealers was to be largely advanced.

"Because of the increase in the tariff rate on tobacco"—was the reply.—"Fine 'wrappers' come from Sumatra, and we cannot grow them here. Even in Cuba they do not get a fine crop once in five years. The public will, of course, be the sufferers through the action of the increased tariff. Sumatra wrappers cannot be replaced. That is definite. It follows, then, that the 'filler' will be the part of the cigar affected. The actual increase of price per cigar is about half a cent. Now, the public won't pay 6 or 11 cents where heretofore they paid 5 or 10. The old retail figures must be maintained. And so, as I said before, things must be equalized through the medium of the filler. So the quality of the cigar will be half a cent the worse, while the consumer still pays his 5 or 10 or 15 cents for his 'weed.'"

THE PRESS Said "Mayor-Elect"; Other Papers Displayed Their Ignorance.

To THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I noticed in last Friday's New York Tribune that (now) Mayor Gilbert performed his first official act (?) on the first inst., by causing the first fire-alarm to be sounded over the new fire-alarm system, etc. Can you inform your readers by what authority Mr. Gilbert assumed any responsibility on the 1st of January? Was he not a little previous? The charter prescribes that a Mayor elected on the 1st Tuesday in December shall go into office at noon on the 1st Monday in January following; and that day, this year, falls on the 5th day of January. So it seems that Mr. Gilbert was just five days ahead of time in his desire to serve the public.

INQUIRER.

Large Accession of Church Membership.

Thirteen years ago this same month, there were received into the Crescent Avenue church 65 new members on profession of faith. It was a result of the Earle revival. Yesterday exactly the same number were received as a result of the work of Evangelist Mills. Twenty-five of the sixty-five, yesterday, were baptized, and eleven besides joined by letter. To this accession of 76 are to be added the 45 that joined the church recently through the Hope Mission, and those who will join next Sunday through Bethel.

Death of Wife and Only Son.

Peter Cassidy, head coachman for John Taylor Johnston, where he has been employed fifteen years, has met with peculiarly distressing misfortune. Three months ago he lost his only son, and yesterday his wife, Lizzie, also died. She was in her thirty-third year. Funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at half past ten o'clock, from her late residence, 50 West Tenth street, New York, and interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield. The body will arrive here on the 1:59 train.

A Threatened Church Fire Promptly Quelled.

Some of the evergreens with which the altar of St. Mary's church has been decorated for the holidays caught fire from a candle during services yesterday morning, but before the blaze could amount to anything serious two of the worshipers stepped quietly forward, tore down with their hands the flaming greens, and quelled the incipient fire. No one lost his coolness, and the services were not even interrupted.

The Conference Against the Women.

The vote in the Newark Conference on the question of admitting women as delegates to the General Conference is reported as follows: Newark district—For, 525; against, 1,031. Jersey City district—For, 464; against, 691. Elizabeth [Plainfield's] district—For, 545; against, 740. Plainfield was gallant and generous enough to give a vote in the women's favor.

Most men, otherwise strong in body and mind, will become unhappy and break down when afflicted with rheumatism. If they would only try Salvation Oil they would find relief at once. Price 25c.

Thousands of bottles of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup have been sold by W. H. Brown & Bro., Balto., Md.

A Large Prison Wanted.

The clamor of the New Jersey annex of The World against the Pardons Board of this State for exercising clemency in the cases of a number of State Prison convicts, mostly minor offenders, has not evoked any indignant public sentiment, because the people of New Jersey understand the situation too well to be readily deceived by sensational misrepresentations.

The trouble at the State Prison is lack of accommodation, but as convicts sent up by the trial judges must be received, the only alternative is to vacate some of the cells by pardoning the most deserving prisoners for those who have nearly served out their sentences. This is the simple explanation of the much abused clemency of the Pardons Board, and it is perfectly well understood by every intelligent man in the State.

New Jersey convicts its criminals and sends them to State Prison. Therein our State has the advantage of some of its near neighbors. Where there has been one failure of justice in New Jersey there have been five hundred in the city of New York alone. It is farcical, therefore, to comments The Newark Journal—for a newspaper published in New York city to make a tremendous outcry against a policy of our State Pardons Board which in nowise interferes with the processes of justice and has been dictated by a necessity created by the neglect of the Legislature, and for which that body is responsible.

New Jersey Surrogates Annoyed.

A new move in the probate of wills in New Jersey has aroused the criticism of the Surrogates all over the State. Wills are usually probated in the Surrogate's Court, a subordinate branch of the Ordinary Court, over which the Chancellor presides. The relatives of the late Peter Henderson, of Jersey City, however, set the example of filing the will with the Ordinary and probating it at Trenton. The relatives of A. L. Dennis, who died recently at Newark, have followed their example.

The Surrogates receive commissions on the settlement of estates in their courts, and they are indignant that they should lose them by this new method of probate. The commissions on Mr. Dennis's will alone would have amounted to $2,000.

New Jersey's Gratifying Growth.

New Jersey has grown more during the past decade than any other State of the North Atlantic group. Its rate of increase was 27.40 per cent., while that of the other States in this group was as follows: Maine, 1.75; New Hampshire, 8.31; Vermont, a trifle decrease; Massachusetts, 25.26; Rhode Island, 24.88; Connecticut, 19.88; New York, 17.69; Pennsylvania, 22.88; New York, 17.68; Pennsylvania, 22.53. New Jersey's increase is also larger than that of all the old States except Florida, and is exceeded by few even of the newer States of the Western and Northern and Southern Central divisions.

Phillipsburg's Experience.

[From The Warren County Democrat.]

The Plainfield Reform Club is threatened with disruption over the question of holding meetings on Sunday.—Exchange.

If the club meets for the purpose of advancing the cause of temperance, and the meetings are conducted in a quiet, religious manner, we fail to see any objections to their being held on Sunday. Similar meetings were formerly held in Phillipsburg on Sundays, and were generally addressed by some one of our clergymen. This should be no cause for "disruption."

Some Doubt About Annie Oakley's Death.

A Boston paper says there seems to be some chance of the report of the death of Miss Annie Oakley, the famous rifle shot, proving untrue. A gentleman of that city has received a letter dated Kent, England, Dec. 20, 1890, and written by the lady's husband, which makes no mention of her being ill. On the contrary, it says she was then doing some particularly fine shooting. If she died in Buenos Ayres, the paper asks, how did she get there?

Crazy on Religion.

George Harris, a colored man from Clinton, was found by the Plainfield police a day or two ago wandering about the streets in a demented condition. He was found to be perfectly harmless, his mania being on the subject of religion. He was sent to his home, where his friends will care for him.

"Give Him $2, and Let Him Guess."

We once heard a man complain of feeling badly, and wondered what ailed him. A humorous friend said, "Give a doctor $2, and let him guess. It was a cutting satire on some doctors, who don't always guess right. You need not guess what ails you when your food don't digest, when your bowels and stomach are inactive, and when your head aches every day, and you are languid and easily fatigued. You are bilious, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets will bring you out all right. Small, sugar-coated, easy to take. Of druggists.

Assignee's Notice to Creditors.

Notice is hereby given to the creditors of Joseph Odam (sister,) late of the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, that all claims against the estate of said Joseph Odam must be exhibited to the subscriber, his assignee, at his office, No. 34 West Front street, in said city of Plainfield, under oath or affirmation, on or before the twelfth (12th) day of January next, being eight months and three weeks from the date of the assignment, (the time thereof having been extended by an order of the Court) or the benefit thereof from coming in for a dividend of the estate; and that creditors are further notified that a list of the claims against the said Joseph Odam will be filed with the Clerk of Common Pleas of Union county, at the expiration of said eight months and two weeks, when exceptions thereto may be filed by any person interested.

Papers been given during the year by THE DAILY PRESS, Central Times, Christian Register and Philanthropist.

Life and Death in New Jersey.

It is a noteworthy fact that in the recent annual report of New Jersey's vital statistics not a single case of smallpox is reported for the year. The older generation can remember when smallpox was the great scourge and carried off its myriads of victims every year.

Jenner's great discovery nearly a century ago of a preventive of this malady by inoculation with the virus of cowpox has almost obliterated it in civilized communities. Dr. Koch, it is believed, has made a no less important discovery in the domain of bacteriology of a cure for consumption before it has eaten up the vitals of the human body, and there is hope that the discovery will lead to others for the successful treatment of typhoid, cancer and other malignant disorders that afflict the race.

Of the 7,479 persons who died in this State during the past year of consumption and lung diseases, being more than one-fourth of the whole number of deaths recorded, two-thirds, it is estimated, might have been saved by a timely application of Dr. Koch's lymph. With the successful experiments that have been made with this remedy there is every reason to hope that in a few years lung disease will take a minor place in our vital statistics, and no longer be the terrible enemy that it now is.

Fred Clark on His Death Bed.

Fred Clark, a character well known about town, is an inmate of the Muhlenberg Hospital, a very sick man. He was taken ill about five weeks ago, and besides having no care or attention has suffered considerably from exposure to the elements during that time. Some members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and other charitable people, learned of his case, and yesterday had him removed to the Hospital. The staff of physicians and Matron Walrod are doing all in their power to relieve his sufferings, but he will probably never get well. He is in the last stages of typhoid-pneumonia.

—The Guy Brothers' Minstrel troupe gave an enjoyable concert parade on the public streets to-day.

LAWYER HALL'S TIN CUP.

Its Importance Gains His Name a Place in a Metropolitan Daily.

[From The New York Sun.]

When the Howard Commuters' Club of Plainfield moved into its new palace on wheels the old club car was turned over to a company of Fanwood commuters and rechristened the Fanwood. The Fanwood Club was modeled after the Howard, and among the rules was one prohibiting the bringing of liquors into the car. David P. Hall, a lawyer and one of the members, came into the car in a hurry one day, and in throwing down his sachel the catch was loosened and out rolled a tin cup. "I am a gentleman and above reproach," said Mr. Hall, and there was a laugh at his expense among the other members in the car.

A wicked member sent a little joke item about the incident to THE PRESS of Plainfield. Mr. Hall felt aggrieved when he saw the item and preferred charges against the wicked member, who was brought to book by Mr. Keeler of the Executive Committee. He evaded the charge, and a friend of the wicked member is said to have accused Mr. Keeler at the time of playing a little poker game for stakes, which also is against the rules. The club is divided over the accusations and counter-accusations, and harmony no longer broods as it used to in the Fanwood as it flies to and from New York. Mr. Hall says he bought the tin cup for use in his kitchen, and asserts that the wicked member, whom he will not name, sent the joke to the paper because he had been beaten in a lawsuit with Mr. Hall.

The Height of Suburban Elegance.

Statistics prove that the suburban cities of New Jersey have attracted more people from New York than all the rest of the suburbs combined. Over fifty thousand commuters leave the big city daily for their homes in New Jersey, and it is estimated that they pay rentals amounting to $26,000,000 a year, computing them at an average, whether they own their houses and charge the interest to the rent account or whether they actually pay rent. This represents property worth $260,000,000, and represents a tax of over $5,200,000. Their families are maintained at a cost of about $53,000,000 a year, and they pay fully $3,000,000 a year for railway fares. They give employment to over 800 cars and 160 locomotives. This does not take into consideration the thousands who live Jersey City and other parts of Hudson county and do business in New York. There is nothing strange about these facts. Any resident of New York or any other place who visits such a New Jersey suburban town as Plainfield is struck by its beauty and the elegance of life there. As for Plainfield, the railroad affords frequent, cheap and comfortable communication, and the town is healthy and well provided with all that is required to make homes. That is the whole story in a nutshell.

The State's foresight in taking the education under her own wing is a wise one. There are counties in the State so benighted, so utterly dead to the importance of education, that, left to themselves, they would never devote a dollar to the support of public schools; and every time the State sends her tax gatherers into them to collect the school tax there seems to be a large sized revolt. In the big communities, of course—Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Trenton, Camden, Plainfield—there is enough progressive civilization to enforce the maintenance of free schools. But they represent only a small portion of the area of the State and only, probably, about half its population.

It is in the other parts of the State that the advantages of the State school system are better seen, and yet it is there that because of the penuriousness of the people that inhabit them it is most religiously anathematized.

"Purchased Testimony" in the Keys Case.

[From The Trenton True American.]

The Somerset contested election case displays the usual specimens of purchased testimony and convenient forgetfulness. The case was evidently set up with great care for trial before a Committee of Elections, of which Senators Gardner and Roe should be members. But Roe will not be in it from the start, and Gardner will play but a very small part in the inquiry, so that the testimony which is now being taken will appear in its proper character as evidence manufactured for an occasion which no longer exists. But the Supreme Court Commissioners before whom the testimony is being taken ought to see that some people are held for indictments for perjury and subordination of perjury.

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

If, as is charged by the Trenton True American, "purchased testimony" is being introduced into the Somerset county contested election case, the result must be a farce. The charge made against Senator-elect Keys is that he is ineligible because he was not a resident of this State four years previous to his election, and to prove or disprove this charge is the only point in question.

—It is stated that Assemblyman James J. Bergen, of Somerset county, is pledged to favor a reduction of the legal rate of interest from 6 to 5 per cent. and will make his canvass for the Speakership on that platform.

Do not run any risks in experimenting with untried remedies if you have contracted a cold. Take Hires' Cough Cure. It is sure. It is pleasant. It is safe and always reliable. Do not forget to try it when you have a cough.

—New Brunswick people and newspapers are clamoring for the extension of the Raritan River Railroad, now in operation between the Amboys and the Middlesex County seat, from New Brunswick to Bound Brook and Somerville. The most attractive feature of the idea, to New Brunswickers, is the nearer rail connection they would have with Plainfield.

—Thanks to the McKinley law, the farmers of New Jersey next Spring will have to pay a high tariff tax on the potatoes they buy for seed. This year the home-grown tubers are so inferior in quality that they cannot be used for that purpose. Not only, then, is this tax a penalty on the agriculturist for tilling the soil, but, as in the nature of things the price of potatoes must be increased, it likewise inflicts a penalty on the unhappy consumer for being such a luxurious gormandizer as to eat potatoes at all.—New Brunswick Times.

International Monetary Conference.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 5.—The International Monetary Conference has been called to meet at the diplomatic chamber of the Department of State at 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, when Secretary Blaine will deliver an address of welcome. Subsequent meetings of the Conference will be held in the parlors of the Arlington. Since the publication of the list of delegates, appointed a few days ago, notice has been received of the appointment of Mr. A. P. Carter to represent the Hawaiian kingdom, Mr. Hannibal Price to represent the Republic of Hayti, and Senor Don R. W. Stevens the Republic of Honduras.

French Republicans Gain Eight Seats.

PARIS, Jan. 5.—In the senatorial elections yesterday M. Freycinet was returned for the Seine by 579 out of a total of 665 votes; M. Jules Ferry was elected for the Department of Vosges, 723 out of 997 votes; M. Waddington was elected over M. Pouyer-Guertien in Rouen. On the first ballots the Republicans gain eight seats.

Gladstone Will Not Retire.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The Daily Telegraph to-day says that there is no foundation whatever for the statement published in the Manchester Courier, that Mr. Gladstone will issue a manifesto announcing his final retirement from the leadership of the Liberal party.

Death of Charles Keene.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—Charles Keene, the caricaturist, best known in connection with his work in Punch, died at his sister's house in Hammersmith. He had been ill for three years.

Four Indians Killed.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 5.—A special from Cheyenne, Wyo., to the Rocky Mountain News says: A special from White River gives an account of the fight between Capt. John Kerr's K Troop, 6th Cavalry, and a party of Indians. Four of the Indians were killed without loss to the troops.

Russian Hebrews for America.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Advices from Russia is to the effect that the syndicate formed in Russia to aid Jews to emigrate has received semi-official warning from England that there is no room in that country for any more Jewish refugees. An attempt will be made to ship large numbers to America.

Foreign View of the Indian War.

LONDON, Jan. 5.—The "Chronicle" says "History will surely brand as infamous the relations of America toward the unhappy Indians. Honest Americans must be mourning and blushing because of this inglorious war."

Boston's Lymph Patients.

BOSTON, Jan. 5.—There was no change in the condition of the lymph patients at the Massachusetts General Hospital to-day. The experiments thus far have been very encouraging.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Masonic.

The recent regular quarterly communication of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania was the largest ever held in that conservative and highly respected Grand jurisdiction. More than eight hundred brethren were present. This is the only Grand Lodge in the United States that still adheres to the practice of the mother Grand Lodge of England in keeping up regular quarterly communications. J. Simpson Africa was elected Grand Master, Thomas R. Patton, Grand Treasurer for the nineteenth term, and Michael Nisbet Grand Secretary for the eleventh term. A donation of five hundred dollars was made to the Masonic Home.

Among the Western grand lodges the number of prominent thinking Masons who favor the recognition of colored lodges of the craft is constantly increasing, and it is now next to a certainty that some formal action on this subject will be taken at an early day by at least one Grand Lodge in the West. It is not generally known that colored Masons are recognized and admitted to all Masonic lodges in France.

A new commandery has just been instituted at Milwaukee to be known as Ivanhoe No. 34. Right Eminent Sir E. G. Jackson, Oshkosh, Grand Commander, assisted by his entire staff of associate grand officers, performed the ceremonies of institution. The new commandery starts out with the best wishes of the fraters of the Cream City and every reasonable assurance of success. The principal officers of the new commandery are: M. J. Haisler, Commander; Samuel Wright, Generalissimo; C. D. Rogers, Generalissimo; C. L. Cason, Treasurer, and J. H. Barber, Recorder.

Grand Army.

The headquarters of the Grand Army will soon be removed to Washington, D. C., and established there permanently.

The various posts of the Grand Army through the country are being appealed to for aid on behalf of the sufferers in South Dakota. The Department Commander has authorized the post at Hecla, in that State, to make a formal appeal, and the response should be prompt and generous, as the distress and suffering among the farmers in that part of the State is appalling. Fuel, food and clothing are badly needed, and the railroads have signified a willingness to transport all donations free.

Odd-Fellows.

The recent session of the Grand Lodge of Indiana brought together a great throng of leading workers in the order. The increase of membership for the past six months has been 1,524. Four new lodges were chartered, and three Rebekah lodges instituted. W. H. Leedy was elected Grand Master, and B. F. Foster Grand Secretary.

A new Odd-Fellows' temple has just been dedicated at Waterloo, Ia., with imposing ceremonies. A new building for Grand Lodge purposes is about to be erected in that State at a cost of $50,000.

Lodges in many parts of the country are preparing to celebrate the next anniversary of the order with more than usual ceremony, and many pleasant reunions are promised on that occasion.

United Workmen.

From every part of the country come tidings of great activity among the lodges of this order, and in almost every jurisdiction some plan has been put in operation during the past few months to spread the principles of the order and increase the membership. At a recent union meeting in Chicago nearly 1,000 members of the order and their friends were present, and much enthusiasm was manifested concerning the work of the order. Eloquent addresses were delivered by Grand Master Workman C. R. Matson, of Chicago, and by Past Grand Master Hon. C. F. Berry, of Carthage, Ill. These meetings are to be held at intervals during the winter at central points through the State and will no doubt result in considerable new members being added to the order.

The largest fraternal gathering ever held in Toledo, O., was that which assembled at the opera-house to attend the union meeting of the lodges of this order recently. An able address was delivered by W. W. Wilson, Detroit, Supreme Master Workman. Judge Killinger, Grand Master Workman of the State, presided, and an excellent programme was then interpreted by a number of clever artists.

Knights of Honor.

This order has successfully established, in the Eastern States, an excellent uniform rank, which is becoming very popular and attaining a high degree of perfection in military tactics. New York Commandery No. 5 of the uniform rank recently gave a magnificent military dress ball with a dress parade thrown in which was very largely attended and proved very successful. This new feature of the order is now finding favor in some of the Western jurisdictions, and the coming year will see many new commanderies of the rank organized west of the Alleghanies.

Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor W. S. Carpenter, of New York, has resigned his office, and in consequence a special convention of the Grand Lodge has just been held at Kingston to elect officers to fill the vacancy. John T. Robertson, Middletown, was unanimously elected Grand Chancellor.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

FASHION'S REALM.

Bracelet Watches a Permanent Thing in Fancy Jewelry.

Madame Hading's Wonderful Stage Dresses—French Afternoon Tea Gowns—Bonnets That Are Small, Yet Becoming to the Face.

[COPYRIGHT, 1890, BY A. W. JOHNSON.]

Father Time has found a resting place, apparently permanent, in the bracelet. The old fashion of wearing the watch buttoned inside the dress just over the region of the heart has gone entirely out of date. And well it should. Where is the woman who wants to unbutton her gown in public and with clumsy fingers dive into the depths of her make-up after her watch, bringing out, perhaps, with her time-piece, a sachet bag or two, the hem of her corset cover and the ribbon that ties the neck of her under garments.

Every woman who owns an old fashioned watch has been through this experience. And from very disgust of it the world of women revolted and demanded something new. Then came the chatelaine watches—inviting to street thieves. Next, the fan, parasol and riding whip watches; but, alas! one does not always carry either fan, parasol or riding whip. Something had to be devised that would be suitable and appropriate for summer's heat, winter's cold, an afternoon drive or a horse-car ride.

The question was asked: "Where, oh, where shall the time-piece find rest?"

And the bracelet answered: "In me. I am the missing link."

These chain bracelets with stem-winding watches can be bought all the way from thirteen dollars, to as many hundreds. A favorite one, costing nearly five hundred dollars, has a watch set with brilliants inserted in a flexible chain studded with rubies. But the perfection in watch bracelets is found in one that adjusts itself to the size of any wrist, rests securely in its proper position and turns not around though the wearer may put her hands and arms through all the eccentricities of an hour practice in the Delsarte school of wrist expression.

The newest pins show a tendency to represent a series of figures flying after one another as if they had been expelled from the mouth of a cornucopia. A flight of swallows, five in number, are set in gold and ornamented with brilliants. A long, slender gold wire connects the birdies. Underneath the body of each is a small pin to detain it in the way that its wearer wishes it to go.

Charming little cherubim with moonstone faces and diamond wings are fastened upon a golden rod. The faces nestle sweetly between the flashing wings until the last of the series is reached when two tiny faces with two darling sets of cheeks, lips and eyes, nestle lovingly against each other.

A few chains of all diamond swallows are to be found in the possession of some of our wealthiest queens of oil wells.

Lizards with green gold bodies and emerald eyes are also connected in this way and made to form the border of a full dress bodice where it outlines the neck.

It was only one season ago that all hands were clamoring for small bonnets for concert, opera and carriage use. And now the small bonnet has been supplied but in such infinitesimal doses that the cry goes up for a hat that will protect the head from the pneumonia, bronchial and catarrhal germs that are floating around loose. The fashionable bonnet is no protection at all, but it is light, dainty, pretty and becoming to most faces.

A fluted one of black felt is trimmed with especial favor the prevalence of bright colors—the soft brilliant yellows and reds and the gleaming jeweled effects in fair women's newest array. "When the sky is gray," he philosophised, "and the wind chill and the look of the world dull, dead and sere, then the gay, rich dresses fit like vivid, beautiful pictures into nature's somber frame. I believe we ought to offer women an especial vote of thanks in December for making themselves cheerful things to look on."

JENNIE JUNE

Expressed the opinion that the best thing fashion had done for women in many a long day was the invention of fabrics at once soft, light and warm. "As we dress nowadays," said she, looking up serenely, undisturbed by the click of typewriters in the office of the Homemaker, "we carry or need carry almost no burden at all. I am very agreeably astonished when I compare the weight of a new dress with that of the older ones in my wardrobe. There has been a most wonderful improvement in materials and an equally great advance in simplicity of making; in fact, the most exacting women have every reason to be satisfied because fashion practically gives them liberty to dress precisely as they choose. There is no reason why any one should not follow consistently her own ideas of the beautiful and the sensible. The only fault I can find with the present custom—though this to be sure is rather a serious one—is the stripping down in the evening after going muffled in furs all day. The violent change must often be responsible for pneumonia."

DR. LUCY M. HALL,

Who has been resident physician at Vassar and whose contributions to scientific periodicals find many readers, protests against the towering fur collars that leave nothing of a woman visible but her eyes and her nose. "When I see," she declared, "a woman all shoulder wings and collar, she looks to me as if her framework had given way and she were dropping down through her clothes. But I object to the collar especially, because it makes the throat extremely sensitive to cold. The woman who owns one wrap with a high collar can not safely exchange it for any other garment for a single afternoon. After once putting it on she risks hoarseness or some worse difficulty if she lays it aside before spring. The close collar overheats the neck and will spoil its appearance and make it scrawny. It is a terrible provocative of throat diseases. It is not fit for wear."

OLIVE HARPER

Said very readily: "I find it impossible to tolerate in evening dress the habit so many women fall into of cutting their dresses extraordinarily low in the neck behind. To me it really seems more immodest than any other sort of personal display. Perhaps this is because the trick is usually resorted to by women who are passe. It is the theory, you know, that a woman remains fresh longest just between her shoulder blades. It reminds me always of 'Katisha's' left elbow, which was a vision of beauty, and which people came miles to see."

"What I find most disagreeable in street attire is the custom our New York girls are falling into of promenading in their riding habits. The skirts are made short, to be sure, according to the present fashion, but the girls hold them up to emphasize the fact that they are riding skirts, and to show their boots and riding trousers. Some afternoons you may see on the streets or in the horse cars from a dozen to twenty who really make spectacles of themselves."

MRS. BERNARD BEERE

Who is now getting together a wardrobe in which to exhibit to American audiences the Sara Bernhardt of England, expressed herself when I saw her in October very strongly on the subject of the abnormally high bust with which women caricature the feminine figure. "It is," she said, "a sad case of crowding. The stays crowd up and crowd down and produce a tremendous length of waist between. The bosom is lifted almost to the collarbones, so that it becomes impossible to wear even the most innocent cut of evening dress without indecency. Even the artists are caught by the monstrosity and turn out vulgar types of beauty. When one looks at the thing critically there's really nothing more displeasing in modern dress than such a protuberant 'style.'" Mrs. Beere, perhaps one may say, wears no stays.

MRS. KENDAL

Said that, to her, American dress seemed mixed most curiously. At an evening reception she met women in full dress, women in half dress and women in street costumes. All was correct. If she were to criticise, it would be this apparent absence of social law.

MORAL COURAGE.

The Story of a Girl Brave Enough to Acknowledge a Mistake.

"I'll never speak to her again," declared Stella Holmes, angrily.

"Never is a long time," said Stella's mother, warningly.

"It makes no difference," rejoined Stella. "When a girl deliberately insults me as Helen Nordeck has done, I will never forgive her."

"What has she done?" asked Mrs. Holmes.

"She gives a birthday party to-night and never invited me!"

"Perhaps the messenger—"

"There was no messenger. The invitations were sent by mail, and I certainly would have received one had it been sent."

"That is what your Uncle George calls 'a violent inference,'" said Mrs. Holmes. "Mistakes are always liable to happen, and I can imagine many reasons why you did not receive an invitation. Did you inquire at the post-office? Or perhaps Moses forgot to deliver it."

Moses was the man who lived in the tenant house, who generally called for the mail on his way home from the village, and was notoriously forgetful and careless.

"No, I haven't," answered Stella, sharply. "I'm sure it was a snub, and I let Helen know it this morning. 'cut' her on the street."

Mrs. Holmes looked grieved, but said nothing more until the evening, and then she laid a letter on Stella's plate, and remarked, quietly:

"As I conjectured, Moses forgot this. He says he had no idea it was important."

Stella flushed to the temples.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, "what shall I do?"

"Go to the party, of course," replied her mother.

"After what I did to Helen this morning?" cried Stella, in dismay. "Oh, mother, I never could look her in the face."

Mrs. Holmes laid her hand gently on her daughter's shoulder.

"My dear," she said, tenderly, "the greatest bravery is exhibited in acknowledging a wrong. You were wrong in acting hastily, and now you contemplate another wrong in trying to avoid its consequences. You surely do not intend to sacrifice your friendship with Helen because you are too proud to acknowledge a mistake?"

"I suppose I must beg her pardon," said Stella, humbly.

"Not necessarily," answered Mrs. Holmes. "If I were you I would simply tell her that you did not receive her invitation until the very last moment, explain how the letter failed to reach you, and then, if I am not much mistaken, Helen will understand your resentment, and forgive you without further explanation."

"But if she should feel resentment?"

"Then you must apologize, and she will love you all the more."

It was with a rueful face that Stella dressed and went to the birthday party; but she came back about eleven o'clock all aglow with happiness.

"Well?" said Mrs. Holmes, smilingly.

"It was delightful!" exclaimed Stella, joyously. "Do you know, mother, I had hardly begun to speak before I took an absolute pleasure in letting Helen know how sorry I was. And I actually believe that we are now better friends than ever."—Golden Days.

FOOD FROM WOOD.

Chemistry May Perhaps Crack the Hardest of Economical Nuts.

Probably no modern science presents a wider field for speculation than that of chemistry, and more especially, perhaps, that branch of the science which treats of organic compounds. Since the day when Wohler overthrew forever the notion that organic substances were exclusively the products of the operation of a so-called vital force, by his discovery of the synthesis of urea, a great number of bodies, hitherto obtained only in nature's laboratory, have been successfully built up as the result of a careful and most minute study of their exact nature. The discovery of the preparation of substances by artifice, more particularly the dyes, has, as a matter of course, influenced very considerably home and foreign industries. What shall be said, then, when chemistry promises to solve hard problems of political and social economy?

In an address delivered at Heidelberg, by no less eminent an authority than Victor Meyer, it is announced that "we may reasonably hope that chemistry will teach us to make the fiber of wood a source of human food." What an enormous stock of food, then, will be found, if this becomes possible, in the wood of our forests, or even in grass or straw. The fiber of wood consists essentially of cellulin. Can this be made to change into starch? Starch has exactly the same percentage in composition, but, as every one knows, it differs very much in its properties, and the nature of its molecule is probably much more complex. Cellulin is of little or no dietetic value, and is not altered, like starch, in boiling water. It readily gives glucose when treated with sulphuric acid, as is easily shown when cotton wool, which is practically pure cellulin, is merely immersed in it. Starch gives the same product when boiled with weak acid.

The author further quotes the researches of Hellreigel, which go to show beyond dispute that certain plants transform atmospheric nitrogen into albumen, and that this process can be improved by suitable treatment. The production, therefore, of starch from cellulin, together with the enforced increase of albumen in plants, would, he adds, in reality signify the abolition of the bread question. It must be borne in mind, however, that theory, fascinating and promising though it may be, is not always capable of being followed up by a practical result.—Kuhlow.

Aluminium Made by Electricity.

The production of metal aluminium by electrolysis at a cost little above that of tin is what some French chemists are sanguine of being able to accomplish.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

PRETTY WEDDING GIFT.

Dainty Articles That Can Be Made at a Trifling Expense.

Dainty articles of embroidered fine linen always form a pleasing addition to the array of bric-a-brac, glass and silver which finds its way to the prospective bride. An inexpensive but beautiful present can be easily made by one who is at all skilled in the use of the needle. It is a set, consisting of a dozen—or a half-dozen, if preferred—finger-bowl doilies, three cracker-plate doilies, and a tray-cloth.

For 50 cents a yard a beautiful quality of sheer linen, 22 inches wide, may be purchased, three-fourths of a yard of which will make a dozen finger-bowl doilies. Cut the material by a thread in pieces six and one-half inches square. One inch and a quarter from the edge draw threads, going toward the center, on the four sides. The space of drawn threads should be a little over one-eighth of an inch. Turn down the narrow hem and baste along the lower edge of the drawn thread, taking care to get the corners very even.

Hemstitch along the lower edge with No. 100 cotton; then hemstitch the upper edge, separating the groups of threads, so as to make a row of zig-zag open work all around the doily, as in Fig. 1. Fill in the hole, made in the corners, by drawing the threads, with a "spider web." When the doily is hemstitched, sketch on it small heads of clover and leaves. This may be done by using a pattern and impression paper, or by laying the pattern under the linen (which should be sheer enough to show the design under it) and drawing it with a pencil directly on the cloth. The design should be scattered, and worked in one thread of filo-floss in double-outline stitch, which consists of one short stitch and one long stitch.

Figs. 2 and 3 will give a better idea of the work in detail as well as the finished effect.

It is not necessary to have the designs alike. They may be varied; but none are so effective as the clover.

For the cracker-plate doilies, a heavier quality of linen should be used—"frosting" linen, which retails at about forty cents a yard, being a good weight. These doilies should be eight inches square when finished, and may be either hemstitched or fringed. If hemstitched, the hem is to be one inch wide. If fringed, a few threads should be drawn about one inch and a fourth from the edge and the inside edge of the remaining threads hemstitched to make a fine finish to the upper edge of the fringe. The designs match the finger-bowl doilies, are worked in the same way, and are transferred to the linen with impression paper. The pattern is drawn upon paper of medium thickness; the impression paper is placed between the linen and the pattern; the design is then followed with a sharp-pointed, hard pencil, and when lifted is found to be indelibly traced upon the linen.

The tray-cloth is made of the same linen as the cracker-plate doilies, and is hemstitched. The hem should be one and a half inches wide; and when completed the cloth should be thirty inches long by eighteen inches wide.

The clover design is the most effective in this case as well, and should be arranged in the corners, with as little stiffness as possible.

Fig. 4 will give a suggestion as to arrangement. The materials for the entire set may be purchased for one dollar, and when finished they make an exquisitely dainty and acceptable addition to a young housekeeper's linen closet.—Belle Ford, in Good Housekeeping.

A Million-Dollar Cape.

There are a vast number of fine dresses from all parts of the world in the National Museum, and the most extraordinary article of this kind is the $1,000,000 feather cape. This comes from the Sandwich Islands, and is made up of red and yellow feathers so fastened together that they overlap each other and form a smooth surface. These feathers shine like the finest of floss silk, and the red feathers are far prettier than the yellow ones. It is the yellow feathers, however, that are expensive. They are about an inch long and are worth in the country in which they are found 50 cents apiece. They were in times past taken for taxes by the Hawaiian kings. They are taken from a little bird known as the o'ho, which is very rare and very shy, and very difficult to capture. Each bird has two of these yellow feathers under its wings and the birds are caught in traps and the feathers are pulled out and they are then freed. There is a letter in the museum from the Prince of the Sandwich Islands, who states that it took more than 100 years to make this cape, and the authorities of the museum say that it is worth more than the finest diamonds in the English regalia.—Boston Journal of Commerce.

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, the Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

A BATTLE IMPENDING

General Miles Ready to Move On the Hostile Sioux.

THE ATTACK EXPECTED TO-DAY.

The Indians Have 1,800 Fighting Men and More Than that Many Women.

It Will Probably be the Greatest Indian Battle Ever Fought—Heavy Loss of Life Expected by Our Troops—The Redskins Are Wrought Up to a High Pitch of Desperation.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 5.—Within a comparatively few hours now, unless the unexpected happens and the hostile Sioux unconditionally surrender, the greatest battle in our Indian history will have been fought.

General Miles has "made haste slowly," giving such of the Indians who are in the hostile camp as desire to come in time to do so and arranging his forces so that when the final blow is struck it will be such a heavy one as to effectually break the power of the great Sioux Nation and give peace to the border for many years to come, if not forever.

Arrangements for the roundup appear to be about complete, and while General Miles is not the man to prematurely develop his plans it is the general impression among both army men and civilians that the order to advance will be given in a very little while and that before Wednesday morning the fight will be fought.

The Sioux realize that they are making their last great fight as a nation, and while they have no hope of success they are wrought up to such a pitch of desperation that they are prepared to die, provided they can die killing white men.

It is estimated that there are now in the hostile camp pretty nearly 1,800 fighting men and more than that many women and children.

ENTRENCHING THEIR CAMP.

Extra Guards Stationed at All Points Last Night.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 6.—The camp of the hostiles is on White Clay Creek, about eight miles north of the agency, and the reports of the scouts who are coming in every hour makes it pretty certain that it is there the final fight will be fought. Breastworks are being thrown up in places where natural defences can be so strengthened, and rifle pits, to be used by expert marksmen, are being dug where most advantageous.

That the troops now here will be able to dislodge and destroy the hostiles nobody doubts, but it is equally certain that the dislodgement cannot be accomplished without heavy loss of life on the part of the attacking force.

It was rumored yesterday afternoon that the hostiles would attack this agency during the night, burn the buildings and massacre the people here. Extra guards were stationed at all points where an attack would likely be made and the utmost vigilance was exercised until this morning.

Gen. Miles appeared very uneasy, although he will admit nothing and did not retire until 3 a. m.

General Miles' Request.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Secretary Noble attaches little importance to the request of General Miles, which has not the approval of Secretary Proctor, that the various Indian agents of the warring Indians be relieved from their posts and that the whole matter be placed in the hands of the military. The Secretary declined to discuss the matter today, any more than to say that it would receive consideration. Mr. Morgan, the Indian commissioner, said "that the plan was wrong," but would not give his reasons for the conclusion.

Why Col. Forsythe Was Relieved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The War Department has received no official information concerning the relief of Col. Forsythe from the command of the Seventh Cavalry. Gen. Miles has authority to relieve Col. Forsythe of his command under his general instructions from the War Department. The fact that women and children were killed by the soldiers in their engagement at Wounded Knee is said to be the reason why Col. Forsythe was relieved.

Friendly Indians Starving.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Secretary Noble recommends the appropriation of $150,000 to purchase provisions for the Yankton, Sioux, Gros Ventres, Mandan, Devil's Lake and Sesseton Indians, who are reported to be starving.

Deaths from Lymph Must be Reported.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The coroner's office has notified all institutions where Dr. Koch's lymph is being used that all deaths resulting from such use must be reported at the coroner's office. The order, it was said, was made in the interest and for the protection of the public in the fear that the sensational enthusiasm produced by the reputed success of the secret remedy might not lead to injudicious and experimental use. General practitioners were also notified.

Strikers Expelled by Sweeney.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 6.—At a stormy meeting of the switchmen Grand Master Sweeney effected the expulsion of 28 of the men implicated in the Baltimore & Ohio strike, among the masters of Pittsburg lodge, and pronounced the grievances presented by the railroaders unconstitutional and null and void.

Massachusetts Mayors Sworn In.

BOSTON, Jan. 6.—Yesterday was inauguration day in 27 Massachusetts cities in addition to Boston. The address of Mayor Matthews, of Boston, advocated reforms in the city's financial, street and business

EMMA ABBOTT'S DEATH

She Told Her Physicians She Would Sing Her Next Song in Heaven.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 6.—Emma Abbott, the great American prima donna, who died at the Hotel Templeton, in this city, during the morning of pneumonia, was taken ill on Wednesday night, but persisted in going on the stage and singing her part, notwithstanding her physicians advised her not to do so. On New Year's Day she was taken alarmingly ill, and from that time she has grown worse until she died. The great singer was conscious almost to the last moment, and her last words were "I am not afraid to die."

Those present at the bedside were Alice Atherton, Miss Nellie Franklin, Miss Vernon, Mr. Prescott, her manager, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholsma and Miss Annandale of the company, Manager Pratt and wife of the hotel and Dr. Pinkerton.

The body was embalmed and will go to Gloucester, Mass., where her husband is buried. Miss Abbott confidently expected to die, and told her physician that her next song would be sung in Heaven. Since that time she has failed rapidly and, although her manager has telegraphed all over the country that she was going to get well, she never wavered in the belief that she was soon to die. A singular coincidence connected with the affair is that she died on the anniversary of her husband's death.

KIDNAPPER REED CAUGHT.

Excited Citizens Kept Back by Revolvers Drawn by the Sheriff's Posse.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 6.—William Reed, who kidnapped and assaulted little Mattie Hungerford, was captured in a barn near Mannsville.

When Reed was brought to this city a crowd of citizens gathered at the depot, and the sheriff and his assistants had to draw their revolvers on the excited citizens to protect their prisoner from being lynched. The prisoner was hurried to the jail where he is well guarded.

Though the man under arrest has been positively identified by his employer and others who knew him well, he stubbornly denies that he is William Reed.

POTTERS LOCKED OUT.

The Struggle Promises to be a Hard and Bitter One.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—The sanitary ware potters are locked out because they rejected the manufacturers' price list. They went to the shops in the morning, but were told they must work under the new lists. This they refused to do and left the shops.

The action of the men has been ratified by the National Potters of this district, and the General Executive Board pledged the men financial aid.

The manufacturers refuse to talk. The struggle promises to be a hard and bitter one.

A New and Peculiar Disease.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Jan. 6.—E. H. Hyde, chairman of the Commission on Diseases of Domestic Animals, has been summoned to Monroe, Conn., to investigate a new and peculiar disease of worms in the lungs, which was discovered by a New York inspector through a post mortem examination of diseased animals. The only contagion feared is by the animals coughing the worms up and depositing them on the ground. Scientific examination proves these parasites to be remarkably tenacious of life, even living through frost, and are gathered by animals while feeding.

Selectmen in Trouble.

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 6.—Coroner Mix reported to State Attorney Doolittle the result of his investigation into the death of Mrs. Catherine Morambie. He finds three selectmen of Woodbury—W. A. Strong, H. E. Minor and C. E. Trowbridge guilty of criminal negligence, also Dr. H. S. Kornman, of Woodbury. The State Attorney will make a move in the case immediately and several arrests upon a charge of manslaughter are the most probable form that the move will take.

McAuliffe Will Fight for $10,000.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6.—Jack McAuliffe, who will be one of Jack Dempsey's seconds, called last night upon the directors of the Olympic Club in regard to a fight with Jimmy Carroll. McAuliffe told the Olympic people that he would be ready to meet Carroll in six weeks and prove that his first victory over that man was not an accident. The purse would have to be $10,000, however, and if that was offered he would sign before he left for Galveston.

He Left to Commit Suicide.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 6.—There is much excitement by the discovery that Chester F. Harling, the son of Charles L. Harling, a prominent citizen, had disappeared. He left letters stating that he was starting to commit suicide and that no one should search for him, as he had so disposed of his body that it could never be found. A number of men have been scouring the country, but no trace has been found.

Gunsberg Wins a Game.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Another game has been added to Gunsberg's string in the match with Steinitz. The score now stands: Steinitz, 4; Gunsberg, 3; drawn, 5.

Behring Sea Correspondence Sent to Congress.

SECRETARY BLAINE'S POSITION.

The United States Never Claimed that Behring Sea Was a Closed Sea.

The Federal Elections Bill Sidetracked in the Senate—The Financial Measure Now Under Consideration—Senator Hale Reports the New Apportionment Bill—A Brilliant Wedding.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Behring Sea correspondence just sent to Congress consists of a letter from Lord Salisbury to Sir Julian Pauncefote, dated August 2, 1890, and one from Secretary Blaine to the same Minister of date of December 17th last. Both have copious appendices made up of past correspondence.

Lord Salisbury's letter is confined to a discussion of the Russian ukase and treaty of 1825. He argues that Mr. Blaine has misinterpreted Mr. Adams' position, and declares that the history of the case shows, first, that England always denied Russia's claim of maritime jurisdiction in Behring Sea; that the conventions of 1825 was a renunciation of that claim, and that Behring Sea was not then known by that name, but as part of the Pacific Ocean. He closes with the statement that if differences still exist, his government is ready for impartial arbitration by methods to be agreed upon in concert with Mr. Blaine.

Secretary Blaine's letter begins with an insistance upon the correctness of the position assumed by the United States. He believes that the controversy turns upon the point—whether the phrase "Pacific Ocean," used in the treaties of 1824 and 1825, included Behring Sea as contended by Great Britain. If the United States can prove the contrary, her case is complete and undeniable. Therefore Mr. Blaine enters into an exhaustive argument, based on Bancroft's history and maps, to show that Mr. Adams and his contemporaries had a distinct understanding that the phrase "Pacific Ocean" excluded the waters of Behring Sea, then known to all the the world as the Sea of Kamschatka.

Secretary Blaine in conclusion, denies that the United States ever claimed Behring Sea to be a closed sea, and quotes Minister Phelps in 1888, where he says that question is not applicable to the present case.

THE ELECTIONS BILL OFF.

Seven Republicans Vote With the Democrats to Sidetrack the Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Senator Stewart, of Nevada, caught the Senate napping. He obtained the floor from Mr. George, of Mississippi, and moved to lay aside the Federal Elections bill and take up the Financial bill.

Mr. Hoar protested, and Mr. Harris, in the Chair, overruled Mr. Hoar. To the surprise of the Republicans, who were totally unprepared, the motion prevailed —yeas 34, nays 29. The Elections bill is now sidetracked.

The Republicans voting with the Democrats were Messrs. Wolcott, Shoup, McConnell, Stewart, Washburn, Stanford and Jones.

A great sensation prevails, and it is claimed this is practically the end of the Elections bill.

Mr. Hoar is very angry, and charges the deserting Republicans with taking an unfair advantage of the absence of their members.

It is the general opinion of both Democratic and Republican Senators that the Federal Elections bill cannot be resuscitated.

Mr. Ingalls walked into the chamber immediately after the announcement of the vote, and it is said that he would have voted for Stewart's motion had he been present.

Gov. Pattison's Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—State Chairman Kerr has returned to Washington from a tour of the central portion of the State. In speaking of Governor Pattison's Cabinet, he said he had reason to believe that the slate agreed upon some time ago—Hensel, Harrity and McClelland—would go through. He says there is considerable talk of A. L. Tilden, of Erie, being appointed Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, and John A. Stranahan, of Mercer, being made Deputy Attorney-General.

Spinners Brought from Canada.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 6.—News was received here that Messrs. Greel and Hauge, of the Clark Thread Company, have arrived with 15 Canadian spinners, who will be put to work in the Kearney mills in the morning. The striking spinners here are excited, and it is feared there may be trouble at the mills.

Sewing Girls on Strike.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 5.—One hundred sewing girls at the Riverside mills, practically all in that department, went out on strike claiming that they cannot make as much under payment by the yard as under the former system. They have no organization.

OPENING DAY AT ALBANY.

The Senate and House Meet at Noon—The Governor's Message Read.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Both Houses of the Legislature convened to-day at 12 o'clock.

Lieutenant-Governor Jones called the Senate to order and after a brief address the Governor's message was read. The Senate then adjourned for one week.

The Assembly was called to order by Clerk Chickering and the oath of office was administered to the members by Secretary of State Rice. This proceeding took about an hour and at its conclusion the Democratic caucus nominees were elected.

Mr. Sheehan, of Buffalo, the newly-elected Speaker, made a brief speech and the Governor's message was read. After drawing for seats the Assembly adjourned for one week.

The following were the successful candidates for the Assembly offices, being chosen by acclamation by the Democratic caucus: Clerk, Charles R. De Freest; Sergeant-at-Arms, Michael B. Redmond, of Albany; Stenographer, T. J. Hassett, of Bath; Doorkeeper, Hon. E. A. Moore, of Richmond: First Assistant Doorkeeper, J. J. Fitzpatrick, of Schoharie; Second Assistant Doorkeeper, Kenith Kirwin, of Sullivan.

The nominees of the Republican caucus were: For Speaker, Nilo H. Acker, of Steuben; Clerk, Charles Chickering; Sergeant-at-Arms, S. Manville; Doorkeeper, Homer Webb; Stenographer, Isaac Smith.

The balloting for United States Senator begins on Monday, January 19, and continues each day until one is elected. Smith Weed began active work here yesterday, and is aided by his son, George Weed. So far no opposition has developed, but there is an undertone murmur about Roswell P. Flower being Tammany's candidate for the office with Governor Hill as the Gubernatorial candidate for '91. There is much speculation, however, and very little solidity to it.

PEACE AT BARNEGAT.

The Fighting Italians Cease Hostilities Until the Check is Cashed.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Jan. 6.—No further disturbance of the peace of Barnegat Park is reported to-day. The riotous Italian laborers remain sullen and quiet in their shanties. Padrone Marron has gone to New York to realize on the checks and drafts given him for the payment of long-delayed wages, and there appears no prospect of any further call for the aid of the National Guard.

The Barnegat Park Hotel and other property of the improvement company is guarded by a force of stalwart sheriff's officers, well armed, who will be prepared to cope with any further hostile demonstrations by the angry workmen should they occur.

SEVERAL MEN KILLED.

Horrible Accident While a Force of Men Were Being Lowered Into a Mine.

SAN ANDREAS, Cal., Jan. 6.—While a load of men were being lowered on a skip into the Utica Mine, Angel's, the rope broke when about 150 feet from the surface, precipitating all of the men a distance of 450 feet to the bottom of the shaft.

Reports received from there say that 13 men were killed, but whether these were all that were on the skip is as yet unknown.

Young Dow Tries to Shoot His Bride.

DENVER, Col. Jan. 6.—Banker Dow's young son, who last Friday married Millie Price, the high kicker of a theatrical company, attempted to shoot his bride at their room in a hotel, Sunday night, and then himself. His father had refused to have anything to do with him since his marriage, and has refused him financial aid. He was preparing to leave town with his bride but was arrested by creditors. In the evening he quarreled with his newly made bride and the shooting followed.

Decker, Howell & Co. to Resume.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The unexpected announcement was made during the day that Decker, Howell & Co. would resume business at once and that the assignee, Wm. N. Cromwell, would pay 100 cents on the dollar on all just claims presented to him. The firm, which was one of the most prominent in the city, has long been identified with the Villard interests and carried immense lines of Northern Pacific and North American stock.

The Railroad Will be Built.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 6.—General Superintendent Toucey, of the Central-Hudson, in a speech at a largely attended meeting of citizens here, said that he could assure them that the proposed Mohawk & St. Lawrence Railroad will be built next season if proper terminal facilities can be secured here. To-day Messrs. Toucey and Goodman will confer with representatives from Clayton and to-morrow they will go to Gouverneur.

Row Between Bennett and Mackay.

PARIS, Jan. 6.—The Canadian Telegraph Company has acquired an interest to the extent of $1,500,000 in the Commercial Cable Company, which is known as the Mackay-Bennett Company. There is a terrible row between Mackay and Bennett over money matters, and if it is not soon settled the public may look to see the New York Herald abandon its use of that cable and return to the old Western Union connections.

Killed a Woman on the Track.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 6.—Mary Schuren, a young woman of 24 years, was instantly killed by a switch train on the Susquehanna Railroad early in the morning while picking coal from the track.

Senator Blair Not a Candidate.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 6.—Senator Blair says he is not a candidate for the position of United States District Judge to succeed the late Hon. Daniel Clark.

ENGLAND IS UNEASY.

The Behring Sea Controversy Regarded as Serious.

WAR MIGHT EASILY RESULT.

London Papers Comparing the Pacific Squadrons of Both Countries.

British Naval and Military Authorities Are Reserved on the Subject—The Foreign Office Denies the Correctness of Newspaper Reports—The Issue Rests With the President and Mr. Blaine.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—England has suddenly awakened to a sense of the seriousness of the situation arising out of the unsettled points in the Behring Sea controversy between the British and American governments. There is accordingly an eruption of press comment and general discussion on the subject.

The concensus of opinion seems to be that Mr. Blaine is merely indulging in a game of bluff, with an eye to the improvement of his Presidential chances. The English people are firmly imbued with the belief that Mr. Blaine does everything with the Presidency in view.

Well informed persons of influence do not deny, however, that war might very easily result from the existing complications, no matter what the causes leading to the complications have been in the past. The naval and military authorities are reserved on the subject.

An Evasive Statement.

The statement made public by the Foreign Office, denying the correctness of the wild and multifold newspaper yarns floating about, does not give any information upon which to base an estimate of the real state of the correspondence on the question. It does not even deny that Mr. Blaine accompanied his arbitration proposition of December 30th with an open or covert threat of something to be done in case of the rejection of the suggestion. Very little stress is laid here upon American newspaper expressions, it being considered that the issue really rests with the American President and Secretary Blaine.

No War Preparations.

No unusual preparations are being made at the English dockyards, as these are already fully occupied in the building and equipment of vessels of war, it being the intention of the British Government to make the fleet as strong as that of any other two naval powers combined. A leading naval officers says that he does not anticipate a conflict, but that the British navy had never been better prepared in its history to uphold the honor of the British flag. A reporter attempted to interview Lord George Hamilton on the Behring Sea question. His Lordship declined to express an opinion other than to remark that the British force in the North Pacific was considered ample to protect British interests. Another Admiralty official remarked that he saw no cause for alarm in any event; that the War-spite was equal to a fleet of wooden ships.

What the Newspapers Say.

The St. James Gazette refers to the temper of the Americans as serious, and says it is an alarming question how long the present condition of security can last.

The Pall Mall Gazette ridicules the notion that war may result, but says that even a war on paper is a calamity, involving as it does strained relations between countries which ought to be on the best of terms.

The Star rather upholds Mr. Blaine, and scouts the idea that England will go to war with her American kinsfolk in order to assist the Canadians to massacre the fur seals.

SCOTCH RIOT.

Military and Police Charge Upon Railroad Strikers.

GLASGOW, Jan. 6.—The Caledonian Railway Company made a third attempt to evict their striking employes from their tenements at Motherwell. An immense crowd gathered in anticipation of the movement, and stone-throwing was at once begun.

The sheriff read the riot act, and as the crowd did not disperse, the military and police charged, and a desperate conflict ensued, in which many of the rioters were injured by blows from the batons of the officers. Six of the injured were removed to hospitals in a serious condition.

A party of miners, returning from Motherwell, sacked a shop at Blantyre. The military were summoned to prevent further disorder there. It is feared that the sympathy of the miners for the strikers has introduced an element of turbulence into the hitherto orderly conduct of the strike.

At a mass meeting of strikers the provost and all responsible for the evictions were bitterly denounced. John Burns delivered a speech in which he promised the strikers the support of the London unions. He predicted an early victory for the strikers.

All the miners in the Motherwell district suspended work last evening, and were largely responsible for the riots. There were 30,000 people about the streets of the suburb at an early hour this morning, and great ill-feeling and excitement prevails.

A Grand Wedding.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—At 8 o'clock last night, in St. John's Church, Miss Mildred Fuller, daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, was married to Mr. Hugh Campbell Wallace, of Tacoma. It was one of the grandest weddings Washington has ever had. Not since the wedding of Mary Endicott to the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, of England, has a similar event caused such widespread interest.

JERSEY'S LAW MAKERS.

The Fight for the Speakership Has Become Interesting.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 6.—The capital begins to show signs that the Legislature is to convene soon. Nearly all the members have engaged their rooms at the hotels and boarding houses, and picked out their desks in the Senate and Assembly chambers.

Robert Adrian, of New Brunswick, the Democratic Senator from Middlesex County is slated beyond doubt for the presidency of the Senate. The only rival he has had at all was Senator George T. Werts, of Morris County, and he withdrew early in the canvass, and left a clear field for the New Brunswick lawyer, who is prosecutor of the pleas as well as State Senator from Middlesex County.

The big fight over the Speakership in the Assembly grows more exciting and interesting every day. The contest has narrowed down to Michael Mullone, of Jersey City, and James J. Bergen, of Somerville. Campbell, of Long Branch, and Tretz, of Newark, are in the race, however. Bergen still seems to have a winning lead, but Mullone has undoubtedly made gains during the week.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The President has appointed John R. Jackson of New Jersey Second Secretary of Legation at Berlin.

The Westinghouse employes at Pittsburg propose to accept half pay until the complications of the concern are overcome.

The creditors of Norton & Sons, clothiers, of New Haven, Conn., have agreed to accept 50 per cent. on the liabilities of $25,000.

While chanting the "Last Rose of Summer" in a Beverly, N. J., hotel, John Smith was called out, and three men beat him into insensibility.

The "White Cap" outrage at Harleyville, Sullivan County, N. Y., has been settled by each of the six participants paying Roswell Vernoy, the victim, $100.

Democrats and Republicans organized separate Houses in the Montana Legislature, but the Senate and the Governor recognized only the Democratic House.

H. W. Hubbell, of Shelton, Conn., has been arrested by the United States marshall on the charge of using stamps from which the cancellation marks had been washed.

Mayor Grant's annual message, just issued, shows that the net debt of the city of New York, on January 1, 1891, was $98,064,418.07, a reduction for the year of $598,654.70.

Mayor-elect Smith of Providence, R. I., intends to put a stop to prize fighting, boxing contests and similar exhibitions. This will prohibit meetings at the Gladstone and Providence Athletic clubs.

William Hamilton, who jumped out of a third story window in South Boston, Mass., on Saturday in order to escape arrest on a minor charge, has since died from his injuries at the City Hospital.

There was a lively session of the Orange, N. J., Common Council last night over over the application of the Suburban Railroad Company for a franchise. Boodle charges were made. Finally the application was withdrawn.

Assistant-District Attorney Randolph Coyle of Washington, D. C., is dead. He framed the indictment upon which Guiteau was tried, and was complimented upon the perfect form of that instrument by the leading lawyers of the country.

The firm of Ives & Pond of Boston, Mass., are reported to have reduced the wages of their varnishers and polishers 20 to 25 per cent. and the piano makers in Boston and Cambridge are apprehensive that a general cut in other factories will follow.

The committee at Springfield, Mass., in charge of the $2,000 fund raised in that city at the late visit of the Irish Parliamentary envoys, voted yesterday to remit the money to the joint party treasurers of the Irish Parliamentary fund.

The Millvale Iron Works at Millvale, Pa., have been closed indefinitely by the company. About eight hundred men are thrown out of employment. The mill was closed because the men running the engines and the firemen demanded an advance of 25 cents per day, which the firm did not feel disposed to grant them.

Duliness in the Steel Trade.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 6.—Four hundred men have been laid off at the Scranton Steel Mills and will be paid off. Duliness in the steel trade is said to be the cause.

—A lecture will be given by the Rev. J W. Chadwick, under the auspices of the Monday Afternoon Club, at the Casino, on Monday afternoon of next week at three o'clock. Subject, "Ruskin's Literary Art." Tickets may be obtained of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers.

—The Legislature meets on the second Tuesday in January. That will be a week from to-day, January 13, which is within one day of the latest possible date. The earliest date at which it can convene under the constitutional limitation is the 8th, and the latest the 14th of January.

—The afternoons will grow no shorter this Winter. Even now the sun delays its going down a few minutes, and by the last of this month the difference will be quite discernible. Short afternoons, short bank accounts, short coal bins and short rations are all confounded inconveniences.

THE CASE OF FRED CLARK.

Neglected by His Friends, Exposed to the Elements, Filled With Strong Drink, and Found Too Late for Rescue.

Members of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society who visited Fred Clark at the Muhlenberg Hospital today report no improvement in his condition. His sister from Elizabeth has been summoned to his bedside at his own request, and every effort is made to make his last days comfortable. He has but few conscious moments, and those who are eager to talk to him to help him to prepare for death find no opportunity. Clark had been very ill several weeks before his case had reached the knowledge of the charitable people of the Aid Society. He was found lying on a miserable pallet in his father's little shop at the corner of Front and Somerset streets. He had received no care whatever, and had suffered constantly from exposure. Saturday night he had been wandering around, in a pitiable condition, barefoot, on the frosty stone pavements. It is less than a month ago since another man died from the effects of exposure and suffering at the Clark corner. Fred Clark's original disease was bronchitis, but as THE PRESS has already stated he is now in the last stages of typhoid pneumonia. It is stated that what chance of recovery he had was ruined by his being constantly plied with liquor by his companions. One of the Hospital staff is quoted as saying that a typhoid-pneumonia patient loses all hope of getting well the instant he touches strong drink, and if he has been an habitual drinker, it is added, there is no chance at all for him.

HARMONIOUSLY ORGANIZED.

THE PLAINFIELD COMMON COUNCIL SETTLES DOWN TO BUSINESS FOR 1891.

Seymour G. Smith Elected President Over S. A. Ginna—J. B. Coward City Clerk—Five Committees Republican, Five Democratic—The Republicans Given Full Control of Licenses—"The Press" and "The Times" the City's Official Papers.

The dead-lock which some had expected would arise, at last night's meeting of the Plainfield Common Council, to interfere with the transaction of public business, was successfully evaded, and harmonious organization for 1891 was effected, with Seymour G. Smith President and Joseph B. Coward City Clerk.

When Mr. Coward, as Clerk of last year, called the meeting to order, all of the members of the new Council were present—Councilmen Ackerman, Gallup, Ginna, Hetfield, Johnson, Moffett, Roberts, Rushmore, See, Smith and Spangenberg.

The nomination of Seymour G. Smith for President of the Council was made by Mr. Roberts, and seconded by Mr. Moffett. In opposition, Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Ackerman, nominated Stephen A. Ginna.

On motion of Mr. Hetfield the nominations were closed.

Mr. Coward appointed Messrs. Johnson and Hetfield tellers, and the balloting proceeded. The result of the first ballot was declared as follows:

For Mr. Smith—6 votes.
For Mr. Ginna—4 votes.
Blank—1.

Mr. Coward promptly declared Mr. Smith the choice of the Council for President, and Messrs. Moffett and Rushmore escorted the new President to the chair, amid the plaudits of the lobby.

Mr. Smith thanked the Councilmen for the honor conferred on him, and assured them that he would strive to rule impartially and render decisions of fairness to all. He said that he hoped all would work in harmony for the city's interests and bring the year's work to a close with as good a record as that left by the Council of 1890.

The appointment of a City Clerk followed, Mr. Coward receiving the election by acclamation, on the nomination of Mr. See.

"Our worthy janitor", William V. Mundy, was on motion of Mr. Hetfield re-elected for another year by acclamation.

On motion of Mr. Bushmore the rules of order of 1890 were continued in force for 1891.

Mr. Moffett moved that THE DAILY PRESS and Central New Jersey Times be designated as the city's official papers for 1891.

Mr. Johnson moved to amend by adding The Evening News to the list. Mr. Rushmore seconded the amendment.

President Smith announced that he would have the Council vote on all three papers separately. Mr. Ackerman objected and asked that Mr. Johnson's amendment be first put, and then Mr. Moffett's motion, in parliamentary order. President Smith said that he had decided Mr. Ackerman's motion out of order, and insisted that the rotation vote he had suggested take place.

The voting resulted as follows:

For THE DAILY PRESS—Councilmen Ackerman, Gallup, Ginna, Hetfield, Johnson, Moffett, Roberts, Rushmore, See, Smith, Spangenberg—11, unanimous.

For The Central New Jersey Times—11, unanimous.

For The Evening News—Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna, Johnson, Rushmore, See—5.

Against The Evening News—Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith, Spangenberg—6.

THE PRESS and Times were therefore declared the official papers of the city.

Mayor Gilbert's first message was presented and read. It is published in full in another column.

President Smith announced the following standing committees, to serve through the year:

Alms—Johnson, See, Rushmore.
Auditing—See, Rushmore, Johnson.
Finance—Ackerman, Ginna, Gallup.
Fire and Buildings—Hetfield, Gallup, Roberts.
Laws and Ordinances—Rushmore, Ackerman, Ginna.
Licenses—Ginna, Johnson, See.
Police, Salaries and Elections—Roberts, Hetfield, Moffett.
Public Lights — Spangenberg, Ackerman, Moffett.
Streets—Gallup, Spangenberg, Roberts.
Water, Printing and Stationery—Moffett, Hetfield, Spangenberg.

The Council adjourned till Monday evening, January 12.

A Good-Bye Meeting.

Walter C. Dobbins, a former attache of THE PRESS, left Plainfield this morning on the 1:17 train for Chicago, where he purposes following a course of study in Dwight L. Moody's training school for Christian workers. As an evidence of the esteem in which he is held, a number of members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity church assembled at his residence on Elmwood place last evening to bid him good-bye and Godspeed.

After a pleasant social hour, during which the Misses Schomp and Morse gave some piano selections, refreshments were served, and after addresses by Messrs. Thatcher and Gilbar, and a prayer for God's blessing on the one about to leave them, those present quietly withdrew, but later reassembled at the depot to say a final good-bye.

Mr. Dobbins enters his new field with the best wishes of a host of Plainfield people.

MR. RUSHMORE'S REMOVAL.

The Corporation Counsel Shows That if His Change of Residence is Only Temporary, His Seat as Councilman is Still Secure.

The point made in THE PRESS of Councilman Rushmore's possible ineligibility to represent the people of the third ward as one of its inhabitants, since he has removed into the fourth ward, has drawn out the following opinion of the Corporation Counsel:

Mr. Townsend Rushmore, Plainfield:

DEAR SIR:—In response to your request for my opinion as to whether by reason of your temporary removal from the Third Ward to the Fourth Ward of the City of Plainfield, your office in the Common Council has become vacant, I hasten to reply with as much care as the brief period at my disposal for consideration of the question, will permit.

The charter of the City of Plainfield in defining the qualifications of members of the Common Council provides as follows:

"Sec. 6. And be it enacted, That all persons residing in said city, entitled to vote by the constitution of this State at elections by the people, shall be entitled to vote at all elections under this act, and the said citizens so entitled to vote shall be capable of holding any office created by this act of incorporation, with the exception that no person shall be elected or serve as mayor or common councilman, unless he shall have resided in said city at least one year immediately preceding said election."

The section of the charter above quoted is the only charter provision germane to the question. Sec. 19, it is true, refers to vacancies happening in any office "by death, resignation, removal, or otherwise," but the word "removal" primarily refers to removal from office, and if it refers to residence at all manifestly had reference to removal from the city, as at the time the charter was adopted, the city contained no ward divisions.

The city was divided into wards under the act of March 2, 1881. P. L. 1881 p. 175, See General Order p 1.

The act declares that "an equal number of the members * * * * of the Common Council shall be elected from each of said wards," and the amendment of 1883 (P. L. 170) directs that "An equal number * * * * shall be elected from each of said wards as the representation thereof." A latter act (P. L. 1889, p. 38,) after providing for different terms for the ward councilmen then next to be elected, further provides that "at each annual municipal election, after the next succeeding election, one member of the Common Council * * * * shall be elected from each ward," and the succeeding section provides that "the term of office of one member from each ward shall expire in each succeeding year."

The ordinance, which was approved March 22, 1881, expressly enacts that councilmen from the several wards shall be elected from among the inhabitants thereof respectively. If it were within the power of the Common Council of 1881 to add to the state law on this subject by a city ordinance, no one could become a ward councilman unless he were at the time of his election an inhabitant of the ward from which he was elected. But of course the qualifications either of voters or councilmen, as fixed by the legislature, cannot be changed by any act or ordinance of the city. (See Dillon on municipal corporations, Sec. 195.)

No law of the State of New Jersey expressively provides that in Plainfield, or other cities similarly situated, residence in a ward shall be necessary to make a citizen eligible to the office of councilman representing such ward. A more difficult question would be whether the statutes which I have cited so require by necessary implication. If they do not, that would settle your right to retain your seat; but whether they do or not is a question of great nicety upon which no one can foretell what view would be taken in the court of last resort. And because the main question submitted to me may in my judgment be easily decided upon well settled principles, I shall leave the debatable for the surer ground.

Whatever view may be taken as to whether in this city residence in a ward is necessary to qualify a citizen for election to the office of councilman from that ward, there is no statute applicable to Plainfield which either expressly or by implication requires such a councilman to continue to live in the same ward throughout his term of office on pain of losing his office. There are cities in this State in which permanent removal from the ward represented by a ward councilman, although to another ward in the same city, causes a vacancy in his office. But why? Simply because the legislature made their charters different from ours. Camden is such a city. Passaic is another. Camden had a law passed declaring that in the city of Camden if any officer elected for any ward shall cease to reside in such ward, his office shall thereby become vacant. See P. L. 1871, p 200, sec. 11. Passaic's charter is the same. Plainfield has no such law. Hundreds of general acts applicable to all cities have been passed by the Legislature since the enactment of these laws, but in none of them has the vacancy rule of the Camden and Passaic and similar charters been extended to the other cities of the State. This is the first ground upon which I conclude that your seat has not become vacant.

There is another ground. I understand that your removal to the Fourth Ward is temporary only, and that it is and always has been your intention to return to live in the Third Ward as soon as certain business purposes in connection with your property in the Fourth Ward shall have been accomplished. This fact independent of all other questions makes indisputable your right to retain your seat. (Here follow legal citations from the authorities.) One by Dayton, Judge, as follows: "But if in leaving his original residence, he does so animo revertendi, (with the intention of returning. Ed.) such original residency continues in law notwithstanding the temporary absence of himself and family. Such is the uniform language of the books as well as the clear conclusion of common sense." In a later case of State vs. Camden, 10 Vr. 57, Judge VanSyckel cites with approval the Cadwalader case, and issues a mandamus against the City Council of Camden to compel them to reinstate a Councilman whose office they had declared vacant, putting his decision on the ground that although the charter of Camden expressly declared that a vacancy should arise upon a ward Councilman removing from one ward of the city to another, and although the Councilman from the fifth ward rented his house and removed with his family to the first ward, yet as the removal was for temporary purposes with the intention of returning, there was no vacancy and the action of the Council in declaring a vacancy and electing a successor was illegal and void.

Respectfully submitted,

CRAIG A. MARSH.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Republican Senate caucus last night determined to proceed with the consideration of the Financial measure under existing rules, and to pass it this week if possible.

Confident Parnell Will Retire.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Mr. Arthur O'Connor said today: "I believe that the meeting of Messrs. Parnell and O'Brien to-day will result in a satisfactory understanding. We all wish well to Mr. Parnell, though compelled to oppose him when he ranged himself against the majority of his party. No one is more anxious to see this trouble settled than Mr. Justin McCarthy, and he will not permit his personal feelings to obstruct the way to a proper arrangement. The Irish members of Parliament now in London appear sanguine that the war will soon be over, and that Mr. Parnell will give up both the struggle and the leadership."

MAYOR GILBERT'S MESSAGE.

His First Councilmanic Communication a Brief and Business Like Document.

To the Hon. Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN—Deference to what appears to be an established custom prompts me to communicate with your Honorable Body at the present time, although there appears to be no urgent necessity for it. The affairs of the City, so far as I am able to learn, are in good shape, its sanitary condition is being well looked after by an efficient Board of Health, economy has marked the management of the public revenues, and when comparison is made with other cities in the State, our people have little reason to criticise severely the action of any of its councils.

Twenty-one years have passed since the formation of our city government. During that period Plainfield has grown from a small village to a beautiful and attractive city. Her population has greatly increased, her borders have been enlarged, and to-day she possesses as great a mileage of well-paved streets, in proportion to population, as any city in the State. Along the line of these thoroughfares in every direction can be seen costly and attractive residences, giving evidence not only of the thrift and comfort of our people but of the fact that Plainfield has gained in prestige during the term of her municipal life.

The thought which I wish to emphasize in this connection is, that this healthful and vigorous growth has been accomplished without the necessity of rolling up a debt for future generations to pay or to compromise. Nowhere in the State has the valuation of real estate been better maintained than in Plainfield, owing to the wise determination of her people not to bond the city.

The State Legislature for certain purposes has authorized the cities of this State to issue bonds. Under this authority my predecessor recommended the Common Council of 1890, to provide the city with a suitable building for a City Hall. And I am informed that the purchase and alteration of a certain building for that purpose received some consideration; whether much or little, I cannot say. While at the proper time and under proper conditions the purchase of ground and the erection of a building suitable to the wants of the city would be eminently proper, in my judgment it would be unwise to consider the measure until we have public sentiment with us and are prepared to erect a building that will be a credit and an ornament to the city. There is in this community a deeply rooted opposition to the issue of bonds for any purpose. This opposition has manifested itself on more than one occasion during the past twenty years, and in my opinion it would be neither wise nor proper for any Common Council to disregard it. We are the representatives of the people, and our aim should be to represent them faithfully in all things. No legislative enactment would justify us in carrying forward a measure that does not meet with popular favor, and inasmuch as the erection of a City Hall will involve the issue of bonds (a very unpopular step to take) my judgment is that it should not be undertaken until the people have first been asked to sanction it at the polls.

In harmony with this view I shall be glad to co-operate with your Honorable Body whenever you may deem it wise to act.

Probably the most important question to come before you during the year is that of a Water Supply, and it will tax your wisdom to a very great degree. The contract entered into early in 1890 with the Water-Works Company of Plainfield, has been broken and virtually abandoned. A new Company called the Plainfield Water Supply Company appears on the scene claiming authority under a charter granted in 1869 to enter upon and take possession of our streets and to construct a water-works without let or hindrance on the part of the city.

The acknowledgment of this claim would be to surrender the control of our streets, and to admit that we have no authority to prevent their obstruction or disfiguration.

This claim should not be recognized for a moment until we are compelled so to do by the decision of a competent legal tribunal.

The ordinance in relation thereto adopted by the Council of 1890, will serve to hold the matter in abeyance until such a decision can be reached if necessary.

The Water Supply Company has undoubtedly, under its charter, certain rights. The city, under its charter, also enjoys certain powers and privileges, among which the right to control its streets would seem to be incontestable.

In order to avoid expensive litigation, the better way would seem to be for each party to acknowledge the rights of the other so far as can be done consistently, and endeavor to reach an amicable agreement which will permit the work to go on under such regulations, with regard to opening streets, laying pipes, etc., as the council may by ordinance adopt.

The question of a street railway will probably demand recognition during the year. The time is near at hand when this question must be seriously considered. The rapid increase of population, the filling up of the suburbs, the fact that suburban property can be made more valuable, are arguments in favor of a cheap mode of transit to and from the centre of the city. But in granting a franchise for this purpose great care should be exercised to secure a system that will not be detrimental to our streets, nor a nuisance to the people along its route. And until it can be shown that the party applying for a franchise intends in good faith, without unnecessary delay, to construct the road under such regulations and restrictions as the council may adopt, the franchise should not be granted. Our tax rate continues to increase, and a good deal of criticism is heard in relation to it. It perhaps is not generally understood that the increase of last year was owing mainly to the county road tax. The amount expended on streets seems large when compared with the amount raised a few years ago for the entire city; but I have no doubt it has been wisely expended.

So long as the money is economically expended, resulting in permanent improvements, the public will not be unjustly critical; but they have a right to demand and expect not only economy but good business judgment in the disbursement of public funds. The growth of the city and the increase of the taxable valuation should render unnecessary any increase of taxes.

I shall avail myself of the opportunity of communicating with you from time to time as other important questions arise, and shall be glad to co-operate with you in carrying forward all measures relating to the public good.

Very respectfully submitted,

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Plainfield, Jan. 5, 1891.

Abundant Good Speaking.

The meeting in Reform Hall last Sunday evening was well attended and proved to be a very interesting and instructive occasion. The speakers were the Rev. E. M. Rodman, Mr. Vanderherchen, a missionary among boatmen, and the Rev. Edward Love. A gentleman from England also made a few remarks, from his seat in the audience, with special reference to the substantial growth of temperance sentiment within his own country.

Doctor Rodman in an impressive manner read at length from the recently published book of General Booth, of the Salvation Army, entitled "Darkest England," thereby vividly portraying the awful misery and degredation caused by liquor drinking and the liquor traffic among the English people, the women as well as the men, presenting numerous personal narratives of the sad effects of the devouring appetite, and then happily showing how many have been rescued, raised from the lowest depths of sin by reforming and accepting Christ as the sure rock of salvation. Dr. Rodman was heard with rivited attention; and, following him, Messrs. Vanderherchen and Love with religious fervency bore testimony on behalf of gospel temperance.

A man and a boy came forward and signed the pledge, after which President Harper announced that Thursday evening, Jan. 8, a regular meeting of the Reform Club for installing the officers-elect would be held, and he asked for a full attendance. Under the benediction pronounced by Dr. Rodman the meeting closed.

The New Year's Morning Star.

Venus again reigns as queen of the morning, throwing her lustrous mantle over the young year and leading the golden legions of the East in regal splendor. Her glittering crescent rises above the horizon shortly after four o'clock, and when the skies are clear her steady light is so brilliant as to outline faint shadows on the earth. On Christmas morning at six o'clock Venus was conspicuously bright and beautiful, recalling the splendor of the "Star of Bethlehem" which startled the watching shepherds and guided the wise men on the Holy Night two thousand years ago. The diameter of this peerless planet is 7,896 miles, but little less than the earth's, and she is second in order from the sun. She will continue her reign as morning star until September 18.

The Talk of the State.

(From The Flemington Democrat.)

The city of Plainfield has received a New Year's gift of $600, which Councilman Johnson found stowed away in an old desk of ex-City Treasurer Jeremiah VanWinkle. The money was raised years ago by a special tax to help pay for the construction of a sewer on New street. Because of a dispute as to the legality of the assessment the sum was not used and was afterwards lost sight of.

Westfield Has a Robbery.

Constable John M. C. Marsh telephoned to ex-Chief Austin at Elizabeth, Sunday night, that a robbery had taken place in Westfield during the day. A barber shop was broken into and a quantity of clothing was stolen. The thief was supposed to have gone in the direction of Elizabeth. The patrolmen were notified, but no arrest was made.

Just the Spot.

Efforts are being made to erect a Masonic Home for aged members of the craft in this State, and over $12,000 has already been subscribed. The next step will be the choice of a site. Many favor Trenton, but that is because they never saw the beauties of Plainfield or studied its advantages.

The big English Pantomime of "Babes in the Wood" began its season at Niblo's, New York, Tuesday evening. It is a grand production in every way characteristic of the class of entertainment that distinguishes the holiday season in England. The lines of Walter Scott's familiar legend of Robin Hood are used as a thread work on which are strung a world of dazzling scenic creations, a wealth of gorgeous costuming and marvellous trick effects and a number of the most unique ballets ever seen in this country, among which is one representing over 300 of the more beautifully winged members of the insect world, another of grater nymphs and rabbits, and a third reflecting the principal characters of a half dozen of Shakespeare's more important plays.

Fully 500 people are engaged in the presentation which is particularly seasonable and sure to meet with great success, because, not only is it the first of the English pantomimes to be brought to this country, but is also in every way far ahead of anything of a similar character ever before attempted on this side of the Atlantic.

It is generally conceded that "Joshua Whitcomb," the play which Denman Thompson will revive at the Academy, New York, January 12, is immeasurably funnier in characterization, incidents and treatment than the play which succeeded it in Dunman Thompson's repertoire. Despite its richer vein of rollicking humor and boisterous fun, however, there is an an ineffable charm about the story of "The Old Homestead" that will live in the memory long after "Joshua Whitcomb" and thousands of other plays are gone and forgotten.

Of 3,000 light-hearted, sanguine bands of players who set out for fame and fortune at the beginning of the present season, 718 survive. The others have fallen by the way-side. Here is the assortment of lucky companies still on the road: 2 pantomime troupes, 23 opera companies, 18 presenting standard tragedies, 190 presenting society plays, 65 presenting melo-drama, 213 presenting farce comedies, 18 minstrel bands, 32 variety organizations, 23 magicians, 6 horse shows, 3 companies of educated animals, 100 comedy drama organizations.

The Keys Contest a Boomerang.

(From the Summit Record.)

As an object lesson in Republican political methods, the contest instituted against the election of Wm. J. Keys as Senator of Somerset county is invaluable. It portrays in glowing colors the highly moral motives which guide the representatives of the g. o. p. in their efforts to overthrow the popular will on every occasion in which they discover an opportunity of deriving any partisan advantage.

In the closing hours of the last campaign, when they saw that the drift of popular sentiment was decidedly against them, they spread broadcast through Somerset county flaring posters declaring that by reason of having voted in New York in 1887 the Democratic nominee was ineligible as a Senatorial candidate. These declarations were given a semblance of respectability by affidavits from two of the New York election officers stating that Wm. J. Keys had voted in that city in 1887.

The conspiracy was promptly exposed by Mr. Keys, who denied under oath the truth of the assertions, and he was strongly corroborated by the affidavits of a number of witnesses, who had seen him cast his vote in Somerset county at the election in question. When the polls had closed and the unscrupulous conspirators had been rebuked by an overwhelming majority against their candidate, they had the temerity to prosecute a contest of Mr. Keys's seat.

This contest has just proved one of the most remarkable political boomerangs of recent years. The witnesses on whom the Republicans relied to sustain their case, when cross-examined, gave the most conclusive evidence of the gross outrage contemplated in the contest. The principal witness showed that he knew nothing whatever of the case and had been induced to make untrustworthy affidavits to the contrary by the cajoling of some Somerset county Republicans, while the chairman of the New York Board of Registry, who had examined the man whose name had been found on the registration books, testified that the voter was an entirely different man of the same name and had since died.

This episode in the politics of New Jersey certainly points a moral if it does not adorn a tale!

"Give Him $2, and Let Him Guess."

We once heard a man complain of feeling badly, and wonder at what ailed him. A humorous friend said, "Give a doctor $2, and let him guess." It was a cutting satire on some doctors, who don't always guess right. You need not guess what ails you when your food don't digest, when your bowels and stomach are inactive, and when your head aches every day, and you are languid and easily fatigued. You are bilious, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets will bring you out all right. Small, sugar-coated, easy to take. Of druggists.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

CONTINUOUS RAILS.

How They Are United and Riveted Together with Fish Plates.

At a recent meeting of the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia the secretary presented, for Mr. R. Taylor Gleaves, a description of continuous rails for railways, which are carried upon ordinary ties of wood or iron weighted down with a covering of earth, gravel or stone so that they can not easily move. The spikes are not driven home by three-eighths of an inch, so that undulations may take place in the rail without disturbing either spikes or ties, and arrangements resembling turnouts are put in at fixed points, such as frogs, and at the foot of heavy grades, for the purpose of admitting of longitudinal motion.

The author explains how the rails are united so as to make them continuous. In the case he notes the rails were riveted together with fish plates. He says that while the riveting was in progress the exp. n gave some trouble, but since it has been completed there has not been the slightest backing or any perceptible pulling in on the curves. The ties are covered with red clay containing some loam, and, to prevent dust, part of the track was turfed and grass seed sown over the remainder, so that now he says, "instead of a wrench, the watchman pushes a mower, and the roadbed looks like a pretty green lawn with two metal ribbons laid across it."

Speaking of the doubts which had been expressed as to the utility of this arrangement, the author says that it is a fact that "there is in Virginia a section of track laid with rails three miles long, that it has been in service since June, 1889, that it has not been surfaced or lined since put down, that the only expense of maintaining it has been the watchman, that engines weighing 104,000 pounds are frequently run over it at a speed of fifty miles per hour, that it is simply ballasted with earth, and that I shall take pleasure in showing it to any who care to investigate."—Scientific American.

A MARINE TRICYCLE.

An Unique Machine That Will Navigate Both Land and Water.

At the exposition at Marseilles is a nautico-terrestrial velocipede, which is attracting much attention. The figure indicates the manner of locomotion. Each of the three wheels is made of two bi-convex lenses sealed together, with a band of rubber along the opposite line, which beside being used as a binder, also serves as a tire for the wheel during land travel. A dozen or more little wing-like paddles on either side of each wheel serve to propel the vehicle, the feet being used to give the power to a set of triple cog wheels on the inside of the fore wheel. The mechanism is nothing more than an ordinary velocipede such as is used in this country, the wheels being flanked by the two shell-like convex lenses of sheet iron on which are welded the little wing-like paddles. St. Peter walking on the water would hardly prove a match in point of speed for Monsieur le Frenchman, nor would the latter need quite the amount of faith that failed the fisherman of old.

PROGRESS IN SCIENCE.

If a tuning fork, when vibrating, is made to touch any part of a spider's web or the twigs or leaves by which the web is supported, the trembling of the web completely deceives the spider, so that after rapidly fixding which radial line is most disturbed, she runs along this one and attempts to secure the tuning fork, and struggles in vain to find a soft spot in the armor of her prey.

As a lighthouse illuminant, gas has been found to possess the following advantages over oil: Its facility for increasing the power on the sudden occurrence of a fog, absence of the necessity of trimming, and power to make instantaneous transitions from light to darkness, and the converse.

M. Vielle, prominent as an inventor of smokeless powder, by means of a delicate process of registration, finds that the pressures at the moment of burning the powder do not shed themselves uniformly over the gun throughout its length, but that a wave of pressure starts at the seat of the powder and transmits itself.

It is said that the torpedo boat Bathurst, that recently made a mean speed of 24.45 knots per hour, represents the last refinement of mechanical engineering and that it hardly seems possible to improve upon her as long as steel remains the chief material of construction.

Electrical Insolation.

Mr. A. C. Robbins says: There is great need of improvements in insulating material. An insulation for wires is needed that will be cheap, light, flexible and durable; one that dampness will not decay, nor the heat of an electric arc dissolve or burn. A fire-extinguishing liquid is also to be desired which will be a non-conductor of electricity. When these have been obtained, and not until then, can the large telegraph offices be absolutely assured of protection from fire. The one who succeeds in obtaining these results will, I am sure, be richly rewarded for his trouble.

Reduction in Prices for Cash! TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890, The Plainfield Produce Company Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash! We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way. In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which, with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits. By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits. We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit. PLAINFIELD PRODUCE CO., 3 -11-tf 31 North avenue.

THE BEST AND WORST

In the Dress of Women at the Present Time.

Numbers of Well-Known People Express Decided Opinions—What Is Thought by Men and Women, Artists, Writers, Doctors and Cosmopolitans.

[COPYRIGHT, 1890.]

"Courage," said one of the best known of the younger artists in the Holbein studios, "is the characteristic that I especially admire in women's dress at the present time.

"In painting a picture a man may violate all the canons of the artistic lawmakers, but if he aims at an effect and succeeds in producing it, his sins are half forgiven, especially if the effect is worth producing. So in dress a woman may originate for herself a costume so decidedly at war with established rules that the dress-maker will refuse to touch it, and yet the effect may justify the venture. American women are becoming renowned for this boldness of experiment. The first of those extremely tight gowns that I noticed on the street was worn by a plain woman with a fine figure. She might almost as well been unclothed, for every movement of every muscle was visible under the dress. I admired her courage, but it wasn't three weeks before I could see two or three such dresses in a single block any sunny afternoon.

"Why, a walk down Broadway after a Saturday matinee is as good as a beauty show. There's nothing like it anywhere else in the world. The French women are more uniform and conventional, yet in one respect they lead the world. A friend said to me in Paris one day: 'A Frenchwoman is the only one who can afford to be plain.' A woman of another nationality who knows herself not beautiful combs her hair severely back and turns her mirror to the wall. A Frenchwoman never surrenders to any odds, but makes the most of the one passably good point she may have. American women are getting this same spirit, and they show far more variety and originality. They are learning simplicity from the Japanese and drapery from the Greek statues. They are coming to consider beauty rather than cost or fashion. I have known a woman to wear a last year's hat if it suited her features better than the 'latest style.' Yes, costume is beautiful as it was two hundred years ago, and infinitely more artistic than in the hideous dark ages of the hoopskirt about war time."

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH.

Before she left the warm and cheering homage of New York for the chill of disapproving London, found time to make a rough sketch for a friend illustrating what she called the most noticeably bad thing in American dressing. "The evening bodice as worn in this country," said she after listening to some lively comment on an undress display at the Metropolitan Opera-House, "is a combination of French and English decollete. The Englishwoman has magnificent shoulders and she cuts her frock with the one object of displaying them; she makes the most of the curve from her ear down over the top of her arm, but then she carries the line straight across, covering her bosom. The Frenchwoman has collar bones; she brings light draperies over her shoulders to vail them, but she points her corsage well toward the waist in front and behind. Along comes the American woman, looks at the two and orders a dress that is, well it's cosmopolitan. It is the English bodice cut down in a French point, or it's the French bodice with the English bare shoulders. It makes a kind of international exhibition."

ENGLISH. FRENCH. AMERICAN.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

Disclaimed any especial knowledge of the dress of women, past or present, but was inclined to like the quaint and picturesque ensemble. "You can't," he said, "prophesy from the woman you meet at three o'clock what manner of woman you will meet at 3:30; there is always uncertainty, and this lends piquant variety to even the shortest promenade." Dr. Depew believes that the masculine half of humanity regards with especial favor the prevalence of bright colors—the soft brilliant yellows and reds and the gleaming jeweled effects in fair women's newest array. "When the sky is gray," he philosophised, "and the wind chill and the look of the world dull, dead and sere, then the gay, rich dresses fit like vivid, beautiful pictures into nature's somber frame. I believe we ought to offer women an especial vote of thanks in December for making themselves cheerful things to look on."

JENNIE JUNE

Expressed the opinion that the best thing fashion had done for women in many a long day was the invention of fabrics at once soft, light and warm. "As we dress nowadays," said she, looking up serenely, undisturbed by the click of typewriters in the office of the Homemaker, "we carry or need carry almost no burden at all. I am very agreeably astonished when I compare the weight of a new dress with that of the older ones in my wardrobe. There has been a most wonderful improvement in materials and an equally great advance in simplicity of making; in fact, the most exacting women have every reason to be satisfied because fashion practically gives them liberty to dress precisely as they choose. There is no reason why any one should not follow consistently her own ideas of the beautiful and the sensible. The only fault I can find with the present custom—though this to be sure is rather a serious one—is the stripping down in the evening after going muffled in furs all day. The violent change must often be responsible for pneumonia."

DR. LUCY M. HALL,

Who has been resident physician at Vassar and whose contributions to scientific periodicals find many readers, protests against the towering fur collars that leave nothing of a woman visible but her eyes and her nose. "When I see," she declared, "a woman all shoulder wings and collar, she looks to me as if her framework had given way and she were dropping down through her clothes. But I object to the collar especially, because it makes the throat extremely sensitive to cold. The woman who owns one wrap with a high collar can not safely exchange it for any other garment for a single afternoon. After once putting it on she risks hoarseness or some worse difficulty if she lays it aside before spring. The close collar overheats the neck and will spoil its appearance and make it scrawny. It is a terrible provocative of throat diseases. It is not fit for wear."

OLIVE HARPER

Said very readily: "I find it impossible to tolerate in evening dress the habit so many women fall into of cutting their dresses extraordinarily low in the neck behind. To me it really seems more immodest than any other sort of personal display. Perhaps this is because the trick is usually resorted to by women who are passe. It is the theory, you know, that a woman remains fresh longest just between her shoulder blades. It reminds me always of 'Katisha's' left elbow, which was a vision of beauty, and which people came miles to see.

"What I find most disagreeable in street attire is the custom our New York girls are falling into of promenading in their riding habits. The skirts are made short, to be sure, according to the present fashion, but the girls hold them up to emphasize the fact that they are riding skirts, and to show their boots and riding trousers. Some afternoons you may see on the streets or in the horse cars from a dozen to twenty who really make spectacles of themselves."

MRS. BERNARD BEERE,

Who is now getting together a wardrobe in which to exhibit to American audiences the Sara Bernhardt of England, expressed herself when I saw her in October very strongly on the subject of the abnormally high bust with which women caricature the feminine figure. "It is," she said, "a sad case of crowding. The stays crowd up and crowd down and produce a tremendous length of waist between. The bosom is lifted almost to the collarbones, so that it becomes impossible to wear even the most innocent cut of evening dress without indecency. Even the artists are caught by the monstrosity and turn out vulgar types of beauty. When one looks at the thing critically there's really nothing more displeasing in modern dress than such a protuberant 'style.'" Mrs. Beere, perhaps one may say, wears no stays.

MRS. KENDAL

Said that, to her, American dress seemed mixed most curiously. At an evening reception she met women in full dress, women in half dress and women in street costumes. All was [illegible]. If she were to criticise, it would be this apparent absence of so[illegible]

ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

NEAT BUTTON BOX.

The Illustration Shows It to Be a Very Dainty and Useful Article.

The foundation is a common pasteboard box about four inches in height, two and one-half inches wide and three inches long. The cover removes in the center of the box and is covered in our illustration with kid, but satin or silk can be used. Cut out with a knife places in the top for the ribbon and the buttons to pass through, then cover the top, neatly gluing it down around the sides, then cover the sides. Turn in upper edge of material and glue lower edge underneath the cover. This illustration shows a spray of wild roses painted on the side of the box cover after it is covered, and the words "Drop a button in the slot" are lettered on top of the cover. The lower part of the box has a band of plush glued around it. Turn in the edges neatly, and before gluing attach the ribbon (which is about half a yard long) by gluing it to the box underneath the plush band, pass the end through the slit in one side of the cover up through and down through slit on opposite side and fasten under plush on that side. This arrangement allows the cover to partially slip off to take out the buttons. It is a very pretty thing, and is much easier to make than it seems from the description.—Home.

USEFUL SPONGE BAG.

A Dainty and Convenient Article for "My Lady's Chamber."

The materials needed are two pieces of stout white linen sixteen inches long and nine wide, two pieces of white rubber cloth nine inches wide and ten long, two yards of white linen tape half an inch wide, and several skeins of coarse white linen floss.

Commence by embroidering with the linen floss in outline stitch on one piece of linen the design given in the accompanying illustration, or any other pattern suggestive of water; and on the other piece, placed aslant, the word Sponge.

Next stitch the rubber cloth together, having first cut it to match the linen pieces. This can be done best by laying the linen on the rubber, and cutting it to fit exactly. Stitch both sides of the bottom firmly, leaving the top open.

Then, measuring from the top a space six inches long, hem both sides of the linen, making the very narrowest turning that is possible. Finish both tops with a hem three inches wide; then, half an inch above the hem, put a row of stitching. This forms the casing for the strings.

Now lay both pieces of linen together as exactly as possible, keeping the embroidered sides outside; and commencing at the hem, baste the sides and bottom neatly together. Turn in the raw end of the linen tape, fold it through the middle, baste it over the rough seam, and stitch, with sewing-machine, close to the edges of the tape.

Turn the rubber bag inside out, so that the smooth side of the seam is inside; slip it into the linen bag, which it will fit exactly; turn the raw top of the rubber bag in, so that it will lie next to the linen, and hem it neatly down. Cut the tape left from the binding into two pieces. Commencing at the left of the bag, run it through the casing on both sides, and tie in a hard knot, with ends an inch long. Proceed in the same way with the other piece, only begin to run it in on the right side of the bag.—Harper's Young People.

SOME GOOD RECIPES.

Delicacies Which Are Easy to Make and Quite Economical.

Spanish Cream.—One quarter of an ounce of gelatine; soak one hour in one quarter of a pint of milk; beat whites of three eggs to a stiff froth; put one pint of milk on to boil; beat the yelks with sugar to the taste, and when the milk is just ready to boil stir into it the yelks of the eggs and the gelatine; let it thicken as for a custard, and after cooling a little stir into it the whites of the eggs, beating it all the time; flavor with vanilla and pour into molds.

Chocolate Caramels.—Two coffee cups of molasses, one and a half cups of sugar, one-half a cake of chocolate, one tumbler of milk; stir the chocolate in the milk, then mix all and boil, add a piece of butter, and a little vanilla when nearly done. Try like molasses candy. When done pour into pans, and when partly cool mark off into squares with the back of a knife. One-half this quantity makes two pans full.

Snow Pudding.—Half an ounce of gelatine, pour over it a pint of boiling water; when dissolved add the juice of a lemon and one cup of sugar, let it set, then add the beaten whites of two eggs and beat the mixture till it is stiff and white. Serve with custard made with the yelks of the eggs and a very little corn starch.

Corn Muffins.—Two cups of wheat flour, two heaping cups of white meal, one half cup of sugar, one or two eggs, butter, size of a butternut, one pint of milk, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one of soda, a little salt.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS.

THE daisy is said to have been so named because it is the "day's eye," opening its rays at the rising of the sun, and closing them at his setting. This is true of the tiny English daisy—though not of the larger kinds.

The daisy comes early. There is an old English saying that "It is not spring until you can put your foot on twelve daisies."

It is a simple little flower, but it has been beloved by poets, and admired by kings and queens.

The French of daisy is Marguerite; and Marguerite is also the French form of the name Margaret; so it is that many Margarets have taken the daisy for their flower.

Marguerite of Anjou, the wife of Henry VI. of England, when she was a young and beautiful girl, chose the daisy as her own flower, and the nobles of her court wore it in her honor.

Another Marguerite, and a far happier one than Marguerite of Anjou, was the sister of the French King, Francis I. She, too, loved the daisy, and it was worn in her honor. Her brother loved her dearly, and called her his "Marguerite of Marguerites," which meant either his "daisy of daisies," or "pearl of pearls," which you please; for Marguerite also means a "pearl."

We read of her in history as a truly "great and noble woman."

Francis I. had a daughter named for this beloved sister. At the time of the marriage of this daughter Marguerite some one presented her with a basket of daisies, and a bit of French verse which may be translated thus: "All flowers have their merits; but though a thousand flowers present themselves to my choice I should choose the Marguerite."

Another Marguerite was the wife of the French King, Louis IX. He had a daisy and a lily engraved on his ring: the daisy was for his wife; the lily was the Lily of France.

THE DAISY.

The English Margaret of Richmond chose three daisies on a green turf for her device. She was the mother of Henry VII. of England, and she lies in the beautiful chapel he built at Westminster. She was not a queen, but was a right royal woman.

There is a Marguerite of our day in whose honor the daisy is worn—Marguerite, Queen of Italy. She has always been greatly beloved by the people of Italy, and on the gala-days of her marriage with King Humbert, they wore wreaths and bouquets of her flower. She has a necklace of very beautiful pearls (marguerites) given her, I believe, by King Victor Emmanuel, King Humbert's father.

So this pure little flower, the "wee crimson-tipped" flower of Robert Burns, has won and kept a high place for itself, and has long been known as "The Daisy of the Margarets."—Fannie A. Deane, in Our Little Men and Women.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS.

The Inscription on a Sun-Dial Famed in History.

Two hundred years ago, in the first quadrangle at All-Souls' College, Oxford, a grand sun-dial was reared to the top story, the largest and noblest dial in all England or in the entire Kingdom. It was placed in the face of the quadrangle, and over the long pointer were written in large letters of gold these words, "Pereunt et imputantur," which refer to the hours, meaning literally: "They perish, and are set down to our account," or we may amplify it into something which implies more: "They are wasted, and are added to our debt."

Wonderfully significant are these words, and wonderfully have they influenced men since the day they were inscribed above this dial. The late Cardinal Newman is said never to have looked at them without a feeling of awe and reverence. Keble and Pusey acknowledged the power which these memorable words exercised over their lives, for it is a law of our nature that what impresses us in youth is most influential in shaping our lives. These men passed many years at Oxford, and who can tell how much these three Latin words had to do in making their lives pure and noble? The missionary Patterson, who was slain by the savages on the island of Nukapu while he was at his post of duty, confessed that the frequent sight of these words assisted largely in confirming him in the resolution to devote his life to the conversion of men and the glory of God. Well were these three words written in letters of gold!

It is told that an English merchant, who went to Oxford on a visit to his son, was so impressed by the dial and its mighty words that whenever afterward he was tempted to relax energy in fulfilling the duties of his calling, or to spend a day in useless idleness, he would recall and repeat the words: "Pereunt et imputantur," and thus spur his laggard will to its daily task.

In doing good actions we often build better than we know, and accomplish more of good than we had hoped or even dreamed, and the men of two hundred years ago who set in the quadrangle of a college a sun-dial inscribed with three significant words, that students might be reminded of the value and the flight of time, did a work which has reached far beyond their own age, and even their own country.—Zitella Cocke, in Harper's Young People.

GEN. MILES CAREFUL

He Has Had His Last Conference With the Chiefs.

RED CLOUD CLOSELY WATCHED.

A General Feeling that He is Playing a Double Game.

If His Men Do Not Come In a General Engagement Will Follow—Leaders in the Hostile Camps Working on the Young Bucks to Stand Out—The Indian Problem in the Cabinet.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 7.—Gen. Miles has had his last conference with the big chiefs and is now waiting for a final answer or an unconditional surrender.

The prospect of a serious war appears to hinge on Chief Red Cloud. He is said to be a Government spy and on the verge of returning to the agency, but that the Brules under Short Bull and Two Strike are so strongly in favor of killing him if he makes such a move that he is not ready to come. If Red Cloud leaves them and takes his band with him there will not be much trouble in bringing the remaining warriors to terms.

Of the 5,000 Pine Ridge Indians there are about 3,200 in the hostile camp. About 900 of these are bucks, which will make their total fighting force, in case Red Cloud does not come in, about 2,200.

Gen. Miles was extremely careful of this camp last night. The repeated threats by the hostiles that they would swoop down on all here, and, by the aid of the friendlies, annihilate all, put him on his guard. Extra pickets were sent out, new fortifications erected, and the artillery was put in position for action. The General was very active. At 2 a. m. he made another circuit of the outposts, and then retired. Just before that a dozen shots were heard, but they proved to have been fired by the Indian police, who were on the outposts. To-day the hostiles are reported to have moved a few miles nearer.

The feeling that Red Cloud is playing a double game is gaining ground. If his men do not come in an engagement will surely follow.

The leaders in the hostile camp say they have nothing to live for and are willing to die. They are working upon the feelings of the young bucks, fearing that the latter may weaken before a serious attack is made.

If a general engagement does come, it will be the greatest battle in Indian history.

DECIDED BY THE CABINET.

The Transfer of the Indian Agencies to the War Department Opposed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Cabinet meeting during the day was an interesting one, because one of the chief topics discussed was the proposition of General Miles, submitted by Secretary Proctor on December 11, to transfer the Indian agencies from the Interior to the War Department, and make soldiers inspectors.

The proposition was referred by the President to Secretary Noble, and at the last Cabinet meeting quite a spirited debate occurred between the Secretaries of the Interior and War as to the responsibility of the present outbreak. The Secretary of the Interior claimed that all was peace and quiet at the agencies until the soldiers took possession, and even Sitting Bull was killed while martial law prevailed.

The matter was finally referred to Indian Commissioner Morgan, and Secretary Noble took his answer to the Cabinet meeting, and it was adverse to the proposed change, and it is understood the President decided to side with the Indian Department and against General Miles' proposition.

Royer and McGillicuddy Quarrel.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 7.—Dr. McGillicuddy and Agent Royer had a battle of words during the morning. Royer accused McGillicuddy of having stirred up the Indians against him, and of trying to have him (Royer) "fired." McGillicuddy retorted that Royer was a liar and an ass, and Beyer tried to expel McGillicuddy from the agency, but was unsuccessful. McGillicuddy told Royer that his ignorance and timidity caused all the trouble. There is trouble ahead for Royer.

Delaware's Legislature Organized.

DOVER, Del., Jan. 7.—An organization of the Legislature was effected by the election of the officers who were decided upon by the Democratic caucus. In the Senate, John P. Donahoe, of Newcastle County, was elected Speaker; in the House, William L. Firman, of Sussex County, was elected Speaker. Governor Biggs' message was presented to both Houses and read. It is a lengthy document of moderate length, in which various State issues are discussed, without the presenting or advising of any startling changes.

National Convention of Mine Workers.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 7.—A call has been issued from the headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America in this city for the annual National Convention of that organization to be held in Columbus on February 10, 1891. The leading questions to come before the convention will be the scale of prices, screens, cash payments and especially the eight-hour movement. A secretary and treasurer is to be elected, to succeed Robert Watchorn, resigned.

The Shot Caused His Death.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Matthew Hogan, who was shot on Thanksgiving Day, during a quarrel, by Thomas A. Callaghan, died late last night of his injuries. Callaghan, who has been out on bail, surrendered himself upon hearing of Hagan's death. He claims that the shooting was accidental, and this Hagan did not deny.

WILD WITH EXCITEMENT.

Nearly a Thousand Hungarians Driven from Their Homes by Fire.

BERGEN POINT, N. J., Jan. 7.—Fire in a densely populated Hungarian tenement section of Bayonne last night left nearly 1,000 Hungarians homeless, while 5,000 of those people were nearly driven wild with excitement.

The persons deprived of their homes had been quartered in three double wooden buildings.

Most of the Hungarians were at home. The fire started in a little dry goods store on the first floor of a double three-story tenement owned by Stephen Folsom. This building with a similar one owned by Bernard Freidman, and a double four-story tenement adjoining owned by William H. Watters, were wholly consumed, with nearly all their contents.

The 1,000 people lived there like animals, existing mainly on rye bread and stale beer. Another double four-story tenement in course of construction by Watters, was also destroyed.

The houses are probably worth $35,000, and are nearly covered by insurance. The Hungarians lost nearly everything. All insisted upon staying in the burning houses to save their property. Policemen drove them out by force. No one was injured among the tenants, but three firemen had narrow escapes from suffocation.

How the fire started is a mystery. Marcus Greenburg, the storekeeper, was insured. Shelter was provided by Chief of Police John B. McNeil.

KILLED HER HUSBAND.

He Returned Home Drunk and She Stabbed Him With a Butcher Knife.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 7.—Edgar Beckman, aged 24, was stabbed and killed by his wife, Hattie, last night, at South Seabrooke.

The man had spent the day in this city and returned home in an intoxicated condition. The woman upbraided her husband because he had cut no wood. A quarrel ensued, during which the woman, in a fit of passion, seized a butcher knife and stabbed her husband in the breast, inflicting a wound which proved fatal in a few minutes.

The woman is under arrest and is almost crazed at her act, and a watch has to be kept over her to see that she does no harm to herself. The couple have been married six years and have three children.

Gov. Abbett Asked to Investigate.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—Secretary Blaine has requested Governor Abbett to investigate the circumstances surrounding the arrest of seamen on board the steamship Elbe last October. The German government complains that the arrests were illegal, and that the men were outrageously treated by the authorities of Hoboken. The sailors had been on a spree, and were taken off the vessel without any warrant. The Governor has ordered an investigation.

Strike on a Government Building.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—About 100 plasterers, carpenters, tinners, hod-carriers and granite-cutters employed on the Government building have struck. The trouble is alleged to have been caused by the employment of non-union men by Pope & Co., of Chicago, who have the contract for steam heating. The men employed by the firm have offered to join the union. The delegates want the men to return to Chicago.

Circular from Mr. Powderly.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—General Master Workman Powderly has issued a circular to the industrial organizations of the United States asking their co-operation in a national reform industrial conference to be held in Washington February 23, March 23 or July 29, the date to be fixed by vote. The conference is to formulate a "political platform such as industrial organizations could favor at the polls."

A Popular Belle Drowned.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—A special from Huntingdon, W. Va., says: While crossing a swollen stream in Wayne County a boat containing Fannie Turner, Hattie Roberts and Nelson Wheeler, their escort, capsized. Wheeler deserted the girls and made for the shore. He and Miss Roberts escaped, but Miss Turner was not able to stem the current and was drowned. She was a popular belle.

The Susquehanna Very High.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 7.—The Susquehanna river at this point is very high. The water is 15 feet above low water mark. An ice gorge is forming at Plymouth and forcing the water back over the low lands between here and Kingston. The highways are submerged. The weather is very severe and the gorge will likely remain a menace to the inhabitants of the low regions.

Brutal Assault by an Old Offender.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 7.—John Farrell was arrested here for a brutal assault on Mamie Morgan, aged 6 years. The offence was committed in an empty building, where the child was afterwards found. Her condition is critical. Farrell was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment a month ago for a similar offense, but was out on bail, pending an appeal. He has served two sentences in prison before for similar offences.

BRITAIN'S BIG SCARE

Popular Sentiment in London Against a Fight.

MR. BLAINE'S LATEST DISPATCH.

Lord Salisbury is Now Considering the Document.

The Glasgow Strike Becoming More Serious Every Hour—Concentrating Troops to Prevent Trouble—John Burns May be Arrested—Parnell and O'Brien Continue Their Conference To-Day.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Underneath a pretence of ridicule, there is much anxiety concerning the Behring Sea situation.

The press pooh-poohs the idea of hostilities, but the people discuss the possibilities with much gravity. Many are disposed to believe that American naval officers, who "lack promotion," and would like to test the abilities of the new war vessels, are in a large part responsible for the stirring up of the question at issue. Others refer to the fact that large private financial interests are at stake, and hint that American patriotism is being adroitly worked up for the benefit of a syndicate of fur monopolists.

Think They See War.

There is a consensus of opinion that Secretary Blaine will go as near to the margin of actual war as possible, counting upon the well-known reluctance of England to come to blows with the Americans. The subject is the all-absorbing topic of the hour, and has overshadowed even the serious developments in the Scotch railway strike.

Considering Mr. Blaine's Dispatch.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—It is announced by the Press Association of this city that Lord Salisbury is considering the forty-fifth dispatch received from Mr. Blaine on Dec. 30. This is the latest dispatch from the American State Department. The same Association says no preparations have been made to strengthen the British squadron in North Pacific waters, for the reason that such a movement might be construed as a threat.

THE GLASGOW TROUBLE.

Shopkeepers Preparing for Riots and Wealthy People Leave the City.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The situation around Glasgow is, in fact, quite alarming. The miners and striking railway men are in a very ugly mood, and will not subside on account of two or three drubbings at the hands of the police and military. The presence of John Burns has had an inspiring effect on the strikers. Indeed, the railway companies allege that Burns is responsible for the violence that has prevailed ever since his arrival.

It is likely that, if possible, some pretext will be found for the arrest of Burns as an inciter to riot.

Troops are being concentrated at Glasgow in view of the disorderly state of affairs.

A Scotch mob is recognized as the worst mob to deal with, as the Scotch are slow about coming to violence, but stubborn when once aroused. In the city of Glasgow much excitement prevails, and the sympathy of the lower orders is altogether with the strikers and the men who are resisting eviction.

Thousands of people are in actual want, and should an outbreak occur in the city itself the worst consequences are anticipated.

Shopkeepers are preparing for riots, and a good many of the wealthy have left for other places with their families.

The Parnell-O'Brien Conference.

BOULOGNE, Jan. 7.—Mr. Parnell had a consultation with Mr. O'Brien immediately on his arrival here. After conversing for half an hour the other members of Parliament in the party were then invited to join the conference. After a long session Messrs. Redmond and Gill emerged from the conference room and imparted this information: "The consultation between Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien is still proceeding and will be concluded to-day." The outcome is awaited by a small army of reporters.

Sir Charles Tupper's Views.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian commissioner, says he inclines to the belief that the utterance of the American government on the Behring Sea question might have been circulated for election purposes. He ridicules the statement published in several papers, that the naval forces of the United States were being placed in readiness to attack the vessels of foreign nations.

Answers to Balfour's Appeal.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Mr. Balfour wires the papers apologizing for his inability to acknowledge separately the many sums received in response to the appeal for funds in aid of the people of the famine-threatened districts of Ireland. He will shortly, however, publish the first of a series of lists giving the names of all contributors, and the amounts received from them.

Sensational Developments in the Fayerweather Will Case.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Fayerweather will contest promises to explode a bombshell in New York that will do some expensive wrecking. It will go down in history with the Stewart will case.

Surrogate Ransom has denied the application of the executors of Daniel B. Fayerweather for an order compelling Lucy B. Fayerweather, the widow, to make her objection to the probate more definite. He reserved decision on the contestant's motion to appoint Joseph L. Bulkley temporary administrator.

It is rumored that Rev. Dr. Lloyd, pastor of the Central Congregationalist Church, has signed an affidavit to the effect that he was summoned to Mr. Fayerweather's house on the afternoon on which the latter died. He went in and was told to wait. He learned that the only person who was with the sick man was a Mr. Vaughn, now an executor, who was indebted to Mr. Fayerweather in the sum of $500,000. Dr. Lloyd stayed in the house from 4 to 8 p. m., when word came that Mr. Fayerweather was dead. During the interval, it is said by Mr. Lloyd, who was so informed by the physicians, that Mrs. Fayerweather, who was partially unconscious, was persuaded to sign the codicil to the will, which was drawn up by Thomas G. Ritch, of the firm of Arnoux, Ritch & Woodford.

TRAINMEN MAKE DEMANDS.

An Advance of Wages Wanted on All Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—Every division superintendent of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg has been visited by committees of trainmen who asked an advance in wages. The committees were composed of men employed on the division governed by the superintendent on whom the men called.

They presented a list of grievances, the most important of which specifies that they shall be paid by the mile instead of the trip. They ask an increase of 75 cents a day for freight conductors and 35 cents for freight brakemen. The conductors now get $2.50 a trip and the brakemen $1.75 for the same run. They now ask that they receive 3 1-4 and 2 1-10 cents respectively for every run of 100 miles, and every run between 60 and 100 miles shall be counted as a run of 100 miles.

WORKMEN RUN DOWN.

A Passenger Train Strikes Two Hand-Cars With Fatal Results.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 7.—A special dispatch from Coshocton, O., says that the westbound Pan Handle passenger train last night, about one mile east of there, ran into two cars containing 22 workmen.

Two men, John Curran and Robert Davis, of Steubenville, were instantly killed and terribly mutilated. Captain Burgess, of Allegheny, received injuries from which he cannot recover.

The other men saved their lives by jumping. The killed and injured were old men with families depending on them.

Suicide of a County Merchant.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 7.—G. P. Partridge, a member of the firm of S. B. Partridge & Sons, general storekeepers of North Collins, this county, shot and killed himself in his room in Brown's Hotel sometime during the night. The deceased spent the evening writing letters in the hotel reading room. He retired at 10 o'clock. One of the letters found in the room stated that he had killed himself after due deliberation. A postscript said: "If the press wishes to know the cause tell them that it was the neglect of those that owed me, and those that should have helped me." Partridge was about 55 years of age and leaves a widow and a large family. He was supposed to be wealthy.

A Parcel Post Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—It is said that the bill introduced by Representative Taylor, of Chicago, to establish a parcel post for packages of four pounds' weight will surely become a law at this session if given a vote. It fixes prices averaging from 20 to 40 per cent. less than those charged by the express companies, and is endorsed by the Postmaster-General. Mr. Wanamaker is now hopeful of a consideration of his Posta Telegraph bill.

Will Not Raise the Price of Glass.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—The Executive Committee of the American Window Glass Company held a meeting in this city for the purpose of arriving at a decision in regard to the non-payment of subscriptions for stock. The matter of prices was also introduced. It was decided not to advance the price of glass at present, on account of the unsettled condition of business.

Fighting for Jugigo's Life.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Judge Lacombe in the Circuit Court was asked by Roger M. Sherman, counsel for Jugigo, the Japanese murderer who is to be electrocuted during the week beginning Monday next, for a writ of habeas corpus, pending the argument for a stay. Judge Lacombe denied the motion, but consented to grant an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The "American Tailor" Disappears.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 7.—E. R. McConnell, the "American Tailor," who came here last spring, and opened an extensive store on Main street, is missing, and so are all the goods. McConnell recently accepted a bonus of $1,500 from a newly organized bank to vacate the premises occupied by his store by January 1. He rented stores on Seneca street and moved in on New Year's Day, but moved out again and disappeared. He is said to leave numerous creditors.

Skater Donohue Still Winning.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 7.—Donohue, the American, won the half-mile international skating match here in 1 minute, 25 seconds; also the two-mile match in 6 minutes, 10 and 4-5 seconds.

GREAT STATE FIGHT

The Political Contest in Connecticut Begins To-Day.

NEITHER PARTY WILL RECEDE.

In Case of a Deadlock the Present State Officers May Hold Over.

The Pennsylvania Legislature Organized. Senator Cameron Sure of Re-Election. Decision Against Democrats in New Hampshire—Much Speculation About a Sentence in Gov. Hill's Message.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 7.—The General Assembly of Connecticut met at 10 o'clock this forenoon.

Under the constitution a majority of the popular vote is necessary to an election of Governor and other State officers, and failing that, the choice falls upon the General Assembly. This year the Senate has ten Democratic majority and the House sixteen Republican majority.

The official canvass of the returns at the Secretary of State's office shows a majority of 26 for L. B. Morris of New Haven, the Democratic candidate for Governor.

The election was the first for State officers under the new secret ballot law, and in the count through the State several Prohibition votes were rejected by the moderators for having the word "for" before the office named, while several thousand such were counted. Other votes of each party were rejected for various causes.

Prospect of a Deadlock.

The Republicans insist that the matter should be inquired into and errors, if found to be corrected. The Democrats claim that there is no going back on returns, and the session opened to-day with the prospect of a deadlock between the two houses—the Senate declaring Morris elected and the House refusing and insisting on an investigation to be followed by the declaration that no election was effected, in which case the Republicans would elect their candidate.

In case the two Houses continue to stand apart, the present officers, all Republicans, hold over. The Republicans say that they are acting according to the constitution in insisting on settling the Governorship contest before anything else, and in following that policy they keep from minor State offices various Democrats, whose apparent majorities were much larger than that of Morris, but the Republicans put the responsibility for this upon the Democrats.

Neither Party Will Recede.

The situation is liable to assume different phases at any time, but this is the present condition. Neither party professes any inclination to recede, and while the Democrats threaten to embarrass the re-election of Mr. Platt to the United States Senate, the Republicans express every confidence that such efforts cannot succeed.

The Democratic Senators nominated Senator D. M. Read, of Bridgeport, for Chairman, and C. W. Comstock, of Montville, for Clerk. The Republican Senators nominated Senator Shumway, of Killingly, for President pro tem., and James Walsh, a brother of Secretary of State Walsh, of Greenwich, for Clerk.

The Republicans in the House nominated Representative Allan W. Paige, of Huntington, for Speaker, and renominated last year's Clerks. The Democrats nominated Albert H. Walker, of Hartford, for Speaker.

THE KEYSTONE STATE.

Both Houses Organize—Text of Governor Beaver's Message.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—Caleb B. Thompson (Rep.) of Warren County was elected Speaker of the House. Boies Penrose of Philadelphia was chosen Speaker pro tem. of the Senate. Both houses adjourned after organizing until 3 o'clock, when the members reassembled to listen to the reading of Gov. Beaver's message.

The document dealt with the noble efforts made for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers and called for the establishment of an Alleghany Park, to be owned by the State. He recommends that a ballot law be passed to secure independence for every voter in exercising his franchise.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—Senator Cameron arrived here this morning to look after his re-election. He stated to an intimate friend, that he anticipates no serious opposition, and is confident of being elected on the first ballot.

New Hampshire Democrats Defeated.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 7.—The Supreme Court, Chief Justice Doe delivering the opinion, has decided to dismiss the cases against Clerk Hewett on the ground of want of jurisdiction. This decision leaves the entire matter of making up the roll of members of the House in Clerk Jewett's hands, and the admission of the "if elected" members will result in the election of Tuttle (Rep.) for Governor and a Republican for United States Senator.

The Politicians Wondering.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—No portion of Gov. Hill's message attracted more attention than the opening sentence: "In entering upon the seventh and last year of my service," etc. The politicians are all wondering what it means and ask: "Has the Governor declared himself out of the Gubernatorial race, and will he take the Senatorial prize?" These are questions that are stirring Albany to-day.

Maine Legislators Select Officers.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 7.—The Senate Republicans in caucus nominated Charles D. Liboy, of Portland, as President pro tem of the Senate. P. P. Wiswell, of Ellsworth, was nominated for Speaker by the Republicans of the House. The Democrats nominated E. F. Chadbourne, of Biddeford, for Speaker.

PRESIDENTIAL DINNER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The President gave a dinner to his Cabinet last evening. The President sat with Mrs Morton at his right hand and Mrs Blaine at his left. Secretary Blaine sat opposite the President at the left of Mrs Harrison, the Vice-President at her right.

Other guests were Secretary Windom, Secretary Proctor, Mrs. Miller, Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Mrs. Rusk, Senator Evarts, Mrs. Coggswell, Mrs. Reed, Secretary Noble, Mrs. Evarts, Senator Allison, Mrs. Owen, Secretary Tracy, Mrs. Noble, Speaker Reed, Mrs. Gray, Senator Plumb, Mrs. Proctor, Attorney-General Miller, Mrs. Dawes, Secretary Rusk, Mrs. Gorman, Senator Dawes, Mrs. Springer, Mr. McKee, Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mr. McComas, Mr. Owen, Mrs. Wilson, Senator Gorman, Mrs. Holman, Mr. Coggswell, Mrs. Dimick, Mr. Halstead, Mrs. McKee, Mr. Springer, Mrs. McComas and Senator Gray.

The parlors of the mansion and the East Room were artistically decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. The Marine band was in attendance, and furnished music during the evening.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Dr. Koch, of lymph fame, is on a brief visit to London.

John Mahanoy, the oldest pensioner of Bangor, Me., died last evening, aged 103.

SOMERVILLE LOSES, TOO.

The Crescent League Bowlers Continue Their Winning Gait.

The Crescent League's team of bowlers added another to their continuous succession of victories since the season opened, by defeating the Somervillians last evening. The Crescents ten-men team has not been beaten yet.

Last evening's game was rolled on the Olympia alleys, Sycamore street, which the Crescent League have leased while awaiting the completion of their brown stone club-house on Second street. There was a large attendance and much excitement. The Somerville team led on the first frame and again on the eighth, so it was anybody's game all the while.

Had not the Crescents made a fine spurt in the ninth frame, they would surely have been beaten; and the wind up of Dilts and Krewson also helped to win. The latter started in with a break on the first frame, but he never made another. His bowling was a feature of the game. VanWinkle and Teel, only broke three times each, and Thiers rolled a fine game. F. R. Stevens was umpire. The score:

BAD WRECK AT DUNELLEN.

Tracks Torn Up and Blockaded by a Smash-up of Coal Cars.

A bad wreck was caused on the Central New Jersey Railroad at Dunellen this morning.

Two large "gondola" cars in an eastbound coal train were so heavily laden that they broke down beneath their overweight.

The engineer was at once apprised of the accident, but could not stop the train till several hundred yards had been traversed.

Both east-bound tracks were torn up for a long distance, and travel was effectually blocked, save over the westbound tracks, which had to be used by both freight and passenger trains going in each direction, up to the hour of going to press.

The smash-up occurred at about ten o'clock. The train was that drawn by locomotive No. 117.

Heaps of coal were scattered all along the track by the wrecked cars.

Wrecking crews were instantly summoned, and a large force of men were set at work clearing away the debris and straightening out the tangled rails and torn-up road-bed.

The scene of the accident is at the rear of the row of houses familiarly called "the tea-boxes".

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Col. C. K. Moore is very ill at his home in Fanwood.

OBITUARY.

John Simpson.

The death of John Simpson, which occurred at half-past ten o'clock this morning, removed from the roll of Plainfield citizenship the name of one who will perhaps be best remembered by the honorable title of Veteran Councilman of the city. He had been ill but a short time, having been attacked with a severe form of indigestion only yesterday. His death today was attributed to heart failure. Twenty-four hours before he breathed his last he was to all appearances the same hale and hearty man whom Plainfielders have known and loved so long, and walked sturdily about the streets attending to business matters and chatting with friends as sturdily and cheerfully as has been his wont these many years.

John Simpson was born in Ellis, Scotland, in 1806. He was brought to this country by his parents in 1810, landing at Amboy. After spending his boyhood on a farm on which his parents settled, in this vicinity, he began an apprenticeship under James Leonard, one of the famous old-time hatters, and who was the father of ex-City Clerk Oliver B. and Editor William J. Leonard. Having served his term and learned the trade, young Simpson went into the hatter's business for himself, and was so industrious, energetic and economical that at the end of twenty years he was able to retire with a competency. The thrifty Scotchman husbanded his wealth, and at his death leaves a fortune estimated at at least $100,000. He was a man of most kindly spirit, and led a calm, peaceful life. He had never an enemy but was beloved wherever known. Among the present generation he has always had the sobriquet of "Uncle John."

In an official capacity Mr. Simpson served the city faithfully for thirteen years. He was elected a member of the first Common Council the city ever had, that of 1869, on the Democratic ticket, and was frequently re-elected, serving through the years of 1869, 1870, 1871, 1875, 1876, 1878, 1879, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1885, 1886 and 1887.

He was one of the oldest Directors of the First National Bank of Plainfield, and of the Mutual Fire Assurance Company, and held office in other similar concerns. He was also a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. His years of office in the Common Council were more numerous than those of any other member, and he was the oldest Councilman the city ever had, serving even after reaching the advanced age of eighty years. He was known especially during his last term of office as The Patriarch.

Mr. Simpson's only child was a daughter, Maggie, now Mrs. Cadmus of Philadelphia. Thomas, a brother of the deceased, died at his home in Mt. Bethel only two or three weeks ago, leaving a large and valuably stocked farm to an adopted son.

Funeral services over the remains of John Simpson will be held from the late residence of the deceased, 58 East Second street, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

The New Fire-Alarm Signal System.

When the number of the box has been sounded by the whistle, all fire-extinguishing apparatus shall immediately proceed by the nearest route to the box. The number of the box is indicated on the steam whistle and on all house gongs as follows: If the alarm is sounded from box No. 12, there will be one blow of the whistle, followed by a pause of about five seconds; then two consecutive blows. The complete call sounds thus: 1——1-1. After an interval of about twenty seconds this will be repeated three consecutive times.

One blow of the whistle will mean time, test or break; two blows, "recall—fire is out;" four blows, fire in North Plainfield, West of Somerset street, No. 2 engine and Alert Hose company shall respond; five, fire in North Plainfield, East of Somerset street, No. 1 engine and Alert Hose company shall respond. 3-3, followed by the box number, will be a special call for Hook and Ladder company No. 1. 6-6 will be a special call for Warren engine company No. 1.

By order of the Board of Engineers,
T. O. DOANE, Chief.

COMMITTEE ON FIRE AND BUILDINGS.

Walter L. Hetfield, Arthur T. Gallup, Daniel S. Robert.

A New Year's Eve Donation Party.

The Rev. G. W. Corner, pastor of the South Plainfield Methodist Episcopal church, was given a donation sociable at the parsonage New Year's Eve. During the evening innocent games, vocal and instrumental music, and supper, were enjoyed; and at midnight, during the passing of the old year and the coming of the new, a short song service was held. The clock struck twelve while the hymn "Fade, fade each earthly joy; Jesus is mine" was sung. The doxology followed. Then came the usual greeting of a happy new year, after which other games were indulged in, filling the home of the pastor with unusual mirth. It was not until the breaking of the day that the usual quietness reigned within the parsonage walls.

A parishioner writes of this popular pastor that "he is a very effective preacher, always preaching without notes. He has accomplished great good in the community. He is able to send the message home with the utmost energy and zeal to the hearts and consciences of his hearers. A feeling of deep regret prevails that the annual conference will soon be here at which time our pastor will leave this community for some other field of labor. But God's will must be done. He is undoubtedly a man after God's own heart and we believe will make his mark in the world. While we shall miss one whom we have learned to love, not only in his public ministery of the word of God, but in our homes as he visits us from time to time, and although we cannot follow him with our presents, we shall follow him with our prayers for his success in the ministry of Christ."

Gifts to a Popular Foreman.

W. P. Lincoln, until recently foreman of the foundry department of the Pond Machine Tool Works, was the recipient last evening, of two handsome and valuable gifts—a gold headed cane and a diamond horse-shoe scarf pin. The donors were the employes of the foundry, among whom Mr. Lincoln is very popular. The presentation speech was made by Frank March. The committee who made the purchases for the gift-makers consisted of Jas. D. Anderson, F. March, D. J. Crowley, E. Cofey and J. F. McClosky. The affair took place in Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall.

Official Inspection and Test To-Morrow.

The Committee on Fire and Buildings from the Plainfield Common Council, together with the Board of Engineers of the Plainfield Fire Department, will make an official inspection and test of the new fire alarm system to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, when it is expected that the apparatus will be found in perfect working order. The Gamewell Fire-Alarm Telegraph Company have turned the system over to the city, who on finding it in satisfactory condition will accept it and announce it ready for service.

Presentation to Past Master Henry S. Mason.

After the installation last evening of Worshipful Master Ford and other new officers of Jerusalem Lodge, F. & A. M., of this city, a list of whom has already been published in THE PRESS, Past Master Wm. L. Titsworth, on behalf of the friends of the retiring Master, H. S. Mason, presented him with an elegant jewel and apron. The latter subsequently tendered these friends a reception and supper at the City Hotel.

Slaughtered a Million Steers.

The Swift Company, of which M. A. Haven is the representative in this city, are the largest slaughterers in the World. During the year 1890 they killed, dressed and shipped 995,119 head of beef cattle. This meat was handled through their commission houses which number 152 and are located in all the principal cities. The Plainfield house supplies nearly all the trade in this city and adjoining towns.

THE FLORIDA TRAVEL.

Vestibule Trains to Begin Running Over the Atlantic City Coast Line on the 15th of January—Some Elegant New Cars for the Service.

The first train, for this season, of the New York and Florida special over the Atlantic Coast Line, will leave New York on January 19. This is the fourth year this train has been run and while it seemed that its equipment the first year had exhausted the ingenuity, skill and taste of the designers (the Pullman Palace Car Company), yet each year new features and artistic effects were introduced, making it pre-eminently the finest and most luxurious train in the world. An entirely new feature has been introduced this year—cars with six drawing-rooms each, which can be used singly or en suite. They are the only cars of this kind in the world and were built by the Pullman Company regardless of expense, and designed especially and exclusively for this service. The Atlantic Coast Line was the first line in the country to adopt the popular buffet car, was the first line to the South to run vestibule trains, and the first line to run solid Pullman trains. They can truthfully say, "we lead, others follow."—Wilmington Messenger.

Automatic Couplings on the Reading.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company has taken an important step in ordering the application of automatic couplers to over five thousand new cars, contracts to build which have been made. It is said that these cars will also be equipped with air-brake appliances. The cost to fit the cars out, it is estimated, will be over $125,000. A more important consideration, even, than such a large expenditure of money is the fact that many brakemen and others who are constantly required to make car-coupling with their hands will be saved the liability of receiving permanent injury by the new appliance. The order calls for 3,000 coal-cars, 1,000 gondolas, 1,000 box-cars, and 50 stock-cars, and they will be delivered between now and next Fall. This rolling stock will cost the company between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

An Attractive Route.

The West Shore Railroad, furnishes a direct route from Plainfield by changing at Elizabeth, to Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Catskill Mountains, Saratoga, Lake George, Adirondacks, Lake Mohonk, Niagara Falls, Hamilton, London, Toronto, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and all points West, Northwest and Southwest. Travel by this route is found by those who have experienced it to be conducive to thorough enjoyment and comfort. The scenery along the line of the road is beautiful and the eye of the traveler is everywhere brought in contact with new and changing scenes that thrill him with delight, and he feels glad that he has chosen no other route by which to reach his destination.

Hackman James Farley Ill.

It was rumored on the streets this afternoon that hackman James Farley was dead, but the rumor was untrue. Farley is, however, a very sick man, and lies at Muhlenberg Hospital in a critical condition. He has been sick some time with pleurisy and pneumonia, his second attack. He refused to give up work till Monday afternoon, when he consented to go to the Hospital.

The Envy of Other Cities.

[From The Trenton Times.]

The Plainfield Common Council has made a good record. The Council retires without leaving a dollar of indebtedness to be provided for by the incoming Council.

Fred. Clark Dead.

Fred. Clark, with whose case readers of THE PRESS are already familiar, died at Muhlenberg Hospital this afternoon shortly before three o'clock.

"Had Been Worried Eighteen Years."

It should have been "married" but the proof-reader observed that it amounted to about the same thing, and so did not draw his blue pencil through the error. Unfortunately there was considerable truth in his observation. Thousands of husbands are constantly worried almost to despair by the ill health that afflicts their wives, and often ruins life of comfort and happiness. There is but one safe and sure way to change all this for the better. The ladies should use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

MR. DAFT NOT IN IT.

He Trades His Valuable Inventions for Stock in One Company, but Another Company Absorbs It.

Leo Daft, of this city, through his attorney Chas. W. Cass, formerly of North Plainfield, has brought suit in the Supreme Court of New York against The Daft Electric Light Co., The United Electric Traction Co., and others, to recover some $50,000 or so that he claims to have been defrauded of.

The plaintiff, Mr. Daft, says, in his summons and complaint, that the defendant, the Daft Electric Light Company, is a corporation organized on the third day of March, 1882, for the purpose of manufacturing, owning, selling, operating and licensing the use of various apparatus used and to be used in producing light, heat and power by electricity, or used or to be used in electro-plating, and all machinery therewith connected. The shares of stock in said company now consist of ten thousand in number, of the par value of one hundred dollars each.

Plaintiff being an electrical engineer, and the inventor of a large number of devices for which he obtained letters patent, covering inventions relating to generating and utilizing, light, heat and power by means of electricity, and various devices in the way of electric motors and electric locomotives, he transferred to the said defendant, The Daft Electric Light Company, all of his said patents, covered by letters issued to him prior to or on the 29th day of October, 1889, and in consideration thereof, he received from the said Daft Electric Light Company over one thousand shares of the capital stock of said company in payment for said patents; which patents were and are of a value greatly in excess of the par value of said stock issued to him therefor as aforesaid.

Plaintiff, on the 19th day of October, 1889, being still the owner of four hundred and eighty-two shares of the said capital stock so issued to him, entered into an agreement with the defendant, Robert L. Belknap, whereby the, plaintiff stipulated that said Robert L. Belknap should have the option to purchase of plaintiff said four hundred and eighty-two shares of said capital stock for and during the period of two years from said nineteenth day of October, 1889, on the payment by the said Robert L. Belknap to the plaintiff of the sum of $12,050. Plaintiff still is and at all times has been the owner of said shares of stock; said option not having been availed of, and said shares nor having been transferred to said Belknap.

The said Daft Electric Light Company was organized principally for the purpose of manufacturing electrical machinery and apparatus covered by the said Letters Patent issued and to be issued to plaintiff, and said corporation constructed an extensive manufacturing plant located in the City of Jersey City, County of Hudson, and State of New Jersey, and equipped the same with machinery for conducting said manufacture of the appliances and machinery aforesaid; said property being of large value, as plaintiff is informed and believes and so alleges, of over one hundred thousand dollars

Plaintiff on information and belief, further alleges, that sometime between the said nineteenth day of October, 1889, and the second day of April, 1890, the defendants planned, combined and contrived together unlawfully to divest the said Electric Light Company of all of its said property and other means of carrying on the said business for which it was organized, and to cause it to cease such manufacturing business, and to secure said property and the exclusive control of the same, together with said patent rights owned by said Daft Electric Light Company to a new corporation to be formed in their interests and by their procurement, for the purpose of acquiring all of said property, rights, good-will and business of said Daft Electric Light Company, and to absorb the last named corporation.

Plaintiff is informed and believes, and therefore alleges, that it was a further part of the plan so contrived by said defendants, trustees, on so acquiring said property and rights, should, by purchase or otherwise, acquire the property and patent rights of other corporations and individuals, and to create a monopoly by such new corporation of the various inventions relating to motors and locomotive power operated by electricity.

The capital stock of said corporation, the United Electric Traction Company, was in said articles of incorporation fixed at $7,000,000, divided into 280,000 shares of the par value of $25 each, of which $2,000,000 in par value should be preferred stock, and the residue, to wit, $5,000,000 should be common or general stock.

Plaintiff on information and belief further alleges that said corporation was created to absorb the said Daft Electric Light Company, and all of its property and rights of any substantial value, and to deprive this plaintiff of the value of his stock therein.

That on said 8th day of April, 1890, a deed in form was executed in the name of said Daft Electric Light Company, purporting to convey to the said The United Electric Traction Company all the said lands and manufacturing plant of the Daft Electric Light Company situate at (a part of the City of Jersey City, known as) Marion, State of New Jersey, in which deed the consideration expressed is "one dollar, and other valuable considerations;" which deed was accepted by the said United Electric Traction Company.

And since said contracts and conveyances the said Daft Electric Light Company has been thereby compelled to and has ceased to carry on any of said business of manufacture, or any other business for which it was organized.

Plaintiff further alleges, on information and belief, that on the said 8th day of April, 1890, a contract was entered into between the Daft Electric Light Company, and the said The United Electric Traction Company, whereby the said The United Electric Traction Company agreed to issue common stock of said last-named campany to the amount of $1,500,000 in par value, and to exchange the same for the outstanding one million of dollars of par value of the stock of the said Daft Electric Light Company. So that the holders of stock of said Daft Electric Light Company should receive for each share of stock of said Daft Electric Light Company six shares of said common stock of said United Electric Traction Company.

Plaintiff further alleges, on information and belief, that each and all of the defendants herein named as trustees of said Daft Electric Light Company, and the said John C. Barron while he held plaintiff's said stock in trust as herein before alleged, assented to the terms of each of said contracts, conveyances and leases before the same were entered into or excuted.

Plaintiff further alleges, on information and belief, that in further pursuance of the said plan hereinbefore set forth, the said trustees of the Daft Electric Light Company have procured the said stock of said Daft Electric Light Company to the amount of about eight hundred thousand dollars in par value.

Plaintiff says that by means of the said unlawful combination on the part of the said individuals constituting the trustees of said Daft Electric Light Company, and the several acts, contracts and transfers hereinbefore set forth, plaintiff and other stockholders in the said Daft Electric Light Company who have not assented to the said transactions and to the exchange of the stock of the said Daft Company for the stock of the said The United Electric Traction Company, have suffered great depreciation in the value of the stock held by plaintiff and other dissenting stockholders aforesaid; and if said transfers and exchange of stocks so planned and contemplated by the parties there to shall be carried out and fully consummated, and are not annulled and set aside, plaintiff's said stock will become worthless.

Plaintiff says that said property of the Daft Electric Light Company which was by the said plans agreed to be transferred to the said The United Electric Traction Company, was at the time of the entering into said agreements and the delivery of possession of said property thereunder to the said The United Electric Traction Company, worth over $1,000,000 over and above the amount of indebtedness of the said Daft Electric Light Company.

Plaintiff further alleges that said John C. Barron continues to act as one of the trustees of said United Electric Traction Company, and owns in his own right six thousand shares of the preferred stock and seventeen thousand shares of the common stock of said United Electric Traction Company; and asserts to himself the full power to vote plaintiff's said stock held by said Barron in trust, according to his own will, and to disregard plaintiff's wishes and instructions relating to the voting of said stock.

Plaintiff therefore prays:

That this Court may decree that said contract relating to the exchange of stock of said Daft Electric Light Company for the stock of the United Electric Traction Company, and all transfers thereunder, were and are illegal and void, and that said defendant John C. Barron may be enjoined from, in any manner, voting said stock by him held in trust for plaintiff, or controlling said stock in any manner; and that he may be removed and discharged as such trustee; and that a receiver may be appointed by this Court to take possession of all the property of the said Daft Electric Light Company, with authority to institute and maintain such suits, actions, and proceedings as may be necessary to fully recover all of said property of said Daft Electric Light Company, to the end that the indebtedness of said Daft Electric Light Company may be paid, and that the said Daft Electric Light Company may be restored to all of said property in the possession of the said The United Electric Traction Company.

"What shall I do!" the maiden cried. "He will be here to-night and my hands are chapped; however I have a bottle of Salvation Oil."

Old remedies under new names are being constantly introduced to the public, but Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup still maintains its pre-eminence.

Navy Apprentices Deserting.

NEWPORT, R.I., Jan. 7.—An epidemic of deserting has struck the apprentice boys of the United States training ships, and nearly 60 deserted from the Portsmouth at Norfolk navy yard, since she left here a few weeks ago. Others were sent last night from the training station at this place to replace them. A number of desertions have occurred here lately.

Senator McPherson Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Senator John R. McPherson of New Jersey is seriously ill. He has been confined to his bed since Saturday by an attack of gastritis. His condition is so precarious that none but members of his family and his physician are permitted to see him. Senator Hearst's life also hangs in the balance.

Killed by Hungarian Rioters.

PITTSBURG, Pa. Jan. 7.—The Hungarian riot at Braddock on New Year's Day resulted in murder. Michael Quinn, a boss in the stockyard of the furnace department, who was injured in the affray, died early in the morning from his injuries. Arrests of the rioters continue.

No Repeal on Local Pilotage Fees.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The House, by a vote of 125 to 74, refused to take up the bill repealing the law providing for local pilotage fees.

Decrease of Exports to the United States.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 7.—The trade returns for 1889 make a very favorable exhibit of the condition of affairs in Belgium. A total increase of 4 per cent. in exports for that period is shown. Exports to the United States decreased 17 per cent., but to other American countries there was an increase of 16 per cent.

Great Demonstration for Parnell.

LIMERICK, Jan. 7.—There is expected to be a great demonstration here on Sunday next when Mr. Parnell speaks and resumes the campaign. The people in the adjacent counties are preparing to come in and the occasion is likely to be a historic one.

Fun in the Indian Campaign.

WHITE RIVER, S. D., Jan. 7.—Frederic Remington, "Harper's" war artist, was captured by a small party of hostiles, Sunday. Remington was unarmed and the Indians turned him loose and told him to go home, after taking his tobacco and sketch-book.

Abductor Held.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 7.—It now transpires that Reed, the abductor and assailant of Mattie Hungerford, actually accomplished the crime of rape. If this had been known when he was brought here he would have been killed by the mob. He was arraigned, waived examination and held for the grand jury.

Deadlock for Forty-Two Votes.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 7.—The Newark Common Council of 1891, which is composed of 15 Democrats and 15 Republicans, failed to organize last night. There was a deadlock in the votes for 42 ballots. An adjournment was taken until Wednesday evening, January 14.

Treason for Not Drinking.

On Prospect Heights.

Smith—I wish you would call at my house this evening, Goggins. I have a great scheme—a new one—a clean fortune in it—want to interest you.

Goggins—Another scheme! You are positively worse than Colonel Sellers. By the way, where do you live now?

Smith—On Prospect Heights, number—

Goggins (interrupting)—Seems to me you have been living on prospect heights ever since I have known you.—Munsey's Weekly.

Music by the Cord.

Lumber Dealer—You're a pianist, ain't you?

Herr Clavier—I am.

Lumber Dealer—I would like to have you come up to my place and give us some tunes to-morrow evening. We're going to have a musical shindy.

Herr Clavier—Yes; I vill gif you der finest chords of harmony.

Lumber Dealer—And how much a cord, eh?—America.

He's Come Again.

Lady (after giving the tramp a scanty lunch)—Remember, you said you would shovel the snow off the sidewalk.

Tramp—I suppose there is no immediate hurry, is there?

Lady—No; you may take all the time you please to do it in.

Tramp (turning away)—All right, lady; I'll be around again about the Fourth of July and attend to it.—Boston Herald.

Faith Put to the Test.

Rich Wife (to spendthrift husband who has just got over an attack of the tremens and is about to go out for a walk)—I am quite sure you will never drink again, darling. Wifey can trust you now.

Spendthrift Husband—Then just let me have a couple of dollars to take with me, my dear.—Drake's Magazine.

Up in the World.

Cleverton (visiting Dashaway's new room)—Look here (puff), how many more flights have we (puff) to climb? This is (puff, puff) getting to be serious. At this rate heaven (puff, puff, puff) can't be far off.

Dashaway—Heaven! We passed that ten minutes ago.—Life.

A Shattered Ideal of the Sanctum.

"I suppose that intellectual looking person there with the mahogany desk and the silver inkstand is the editor?"

"No. He is the head of the advertising department. That small-headed beggar with the blue pencil over there in the corner is the editor."—Jury.

The Reward of Genius.

Crosby—What is the largest price you ever got for a single poem?

Mr. Rondo—Well, I consider that some verses I wrote to Miss De Rocks before we were married netted me about seventy thousand dollars.—Munsey's Weekly.

HE GOT EVEN.

How a Smoker Revenged Himself for the Loss of a Cigar.

Scene: A railway compartment. "Madame, do you object to smoking?" No reply. The question is repeated with a similar result. Thinking the lady deaf, the male passenger made a pretense of lighting his cigar.

"Do it if you dare!" exclaimed Madame Potin, with an unearthly gleam in her eye.

"Just to see what'll happen, here goes!" he said, stung by the lady's tone. And he applied the match.

The lady bounced from the seat, and, snatching the cigar from his lips, threw it out of the window.

"There is a compartment for smokers!" she hissed.

The gentleman, quite taken back, thought it best to be quiet, while secretly bemoaning his lost Havana.

Five minutes silence. Madame flushed with her triumph. Suddenly the lady's muff appeared to become instinct with life, and presently a little poodle put out his head to take a breath of air. The gentleman arose, smiling affably, seized the little dog by the tail and tenderly dropped it out of the carriage window, saying in dulcet tones: "Madame, there is a compartment for dogs!"—Illustrated American.

Fond Mother—Well, Tommy, what are you going to do for me when you grow up?

Tommy—If I can afford it I'm going to send you to some high-toned establishment where you will get a fine education.—Texas Siftings.

Poor Boy.

"Aren't you glad you're a boy?"

"Not so very. I wouldn't have been, either, if my brother Willie had worn out his clothes like I do. They made a boy o' me, just so's I could wear his old things."—Harper's Young People.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place, we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

FOR GIRLS AND BOYS.

WHAT THE CLOTHES DID.

Mother called and called, and Father called, and Sister—

"Johnny! Johnny! Get up, Johnny! John, get up! It's late!"

Not a ripple, all our shouting, on the current of his dreams.

Others, though, were lighter sleepers. Something else was roused, it seems.

First a rustle, then a whisper, then a queer and hasty creep

From the nook where Johnny's jacket changed in tumbled state to lie:

"Fie upon this lazy Johnny! Brother Clothes, observe the sun!

Two full hours ago, believe me, was this glorious day begun!"

Piped the cap from off the washstand: "Oh, the sky is blue and red!

What a joy to look up at it from the top of Johnny's head!"

Groaned the shoes beneath the bureau: "Ah, the grass is cool and sweet!

What a frolic with the clover were we once on Johnny's feet!"

Socks and shirt and tie and trousers in indignant chorus cried:

"It's a shame to make us lie here when the world's so fine outside!"

"Friends," the socks cried, "let us punish this great sleepy, lazy lout.

We, at least, when she does want us, will be found turned inside out!"

Instantly the shirt assented, muttering with sarcastic cough:

"I've a button, Master Johnny, which I fear is coming off!"

And the shoestrings from the bureau added themselves to the plot:

"When Sir Johnny goes to tie us he will find an ugly knot."

Said the cap: "I'll run and hide me." The suspenders, old and thin, Threatened breaking, and the necktie innocently lost its pin.

Thus they schemed and thus they plotted, till at length persistent Kate

Woke up lazy Master Johnny at precisely half-past eight—

And the school at nine! Young Johnny, half-shut eyes and sleepy face,

Falls to dressing in a pause, at a most alarming pace.

But the shirt sticks at his elbows as he tries to draw it on,

And, in all his lifetime, never were the socks so hard to don,

The suspenders break. A button impolitely takes its leave.

Johnny's left arm gets acquainted with the right-arm jacket sleeve.

The shoe-strings knot and tangle, and unseasonably snap.

And "Oh, Mother, where's my Reader?" and "Oh, Mother, where's my cap?"

There's a hurry and a worry and a grumble and a fret,

And a very scanty breakfast is the best that he can get.

"I do wonder," thought young Johnny stumbling, tardy, to his place:

In the midst of tittering schoolmates, with a very sheepish face,

"What's the reason all goes wrong when a chap has overslept?"

But he never understood it, for the clothes their secret kept.

—Amos R. Wells, in Christian Union

EXHIBIT OR EXIT.

Why Tom Should Learn to Read Before Another October Comes Round.

Tom and Helen and Kate and Jack all went to the same school, and were great friends.

In October, when they were at home from school, they kept hearing their mammas and papas and older brothers and sisters talk about the exposition that was being held in the great new hall, built for the purpose, in the city where they lived.

They heard of the wonderful machines, of the beautiful dresses and dress fabrics, of the elegant furniture and the splendid toys, of the lovely jewelry and the fancy pickle department, and of the man who painted a landscape in oil for you free in three minutes.

They heard of the phonograph exhibit where a lady sung out of a machine, and the sewing-machine exhibit and the piano and organ exhibit. They heard about the fine band that played, and about the apple and popcorn stands, until they were wild to go and see all these things for themselves, and I do not wonder that they were.

So they talked about it after school one day. "It costs twenty-five cents apiece to get in," said Jack.

"Who is ever going to give us a dollar?" said Helen, in despair.

"Let's each earn our own quarter," said hopeful Tom, "and then we'll all go together."

"That's easier said than done," answered Kate.

But they all agreed to try, and on Friday to compare notes. Then if they had the money, they would go to the exposition on Saturday. When Friday came each one had a quarter.

"I got mine for pulling all the bastings out of two of mamma's new dresses," said Kate.

"Pooh! That isn't worth a quarter," said Tom.

"Just try it and see," replied Kate. "How'd you make yours?"

"Cutting the lawn for my father," said Tom, with an air of pride. "There's some work in that."

"And I made mine rocking the baby to sleep for mamma evenings," said Helen.

"And I found mine in the alley," said Jack.

"O-o-oh!" said all the children at once.

On Saturday they went to the great building. They paid their money to the man at the little window, and then went eagerly through the big turnstile in the doorway.

There they were in the great main room. They caught a glimpse of rows and rows of wonderful things, like a whole city-full of shop-windows all together, and then Master Tom said:

"This isn't the room to look at first. I know the way. We must go through that big door over there that says 'Exhibit' over it—that's where to begin, and then we come back here."

So they followed Tom straight across the big room, and never stopped to look at any thing, not even the card over the door.

They opened it wide and through they went—the door slamming behind them. Then they stopped short and stared at one another.

Where do you suppose they were?

Why, the card over the door said "Exit," not "Exhibit," and there they were outside again, in another entrance hall, and right alongside of a big, burly policeman, who wouldn't let them go back!

Poor little children! Their money was all gone, there stood that dreadful policeman, and worst of all, it was the very last day of the exposition.

The girls sat right down on the steps and cried, and the boys came as near it as they could and not let the girls see, while Kate sobbed out:

"I could 'a' read better than that if I can't mow a lawn!"

But it was of no use. Tears would not avail. So they got up and walked home, and that was the way they saw the exposition.

Before it opens again I think Tom had better learn to read more carefully—don't you?—Winifred Ballard Blake, in Youth's Companion.

A BIG STORY.

How Fussy and Her Little Family Returned Home Through the Storm.

It's a pretty big story, but it's true, and the minister will tell you so. It is about Deborah, the minister's cat. She was a fine large tabby, with three white stockings, two green eyes, and a wise old head.

Once upon a time, Deborah had six little blind kittens, and they and their mother lay fast asleep in a round basket behind the stove in the minister's study.

Deborah was sleeping so hard that when Mr. Neal, the milkman, came into the room she only pricked up her left ear and then went on snoring. She did not know that Mr. Neal had come to borrow her to kill off the rats in his house. Indeed, she did not know that he had any house, or any rats, either. He lived a mile away across the plain, and she caught her rats nearer home.

But Mr. Neal knew all about Deborah. He had not for years sold milk at the parsonage without hearing what a famous mouser she was; and he said now to the minister:

"Good evening, Mr. Fenn. I've called this stormy night to ask if you'll be kind enough to lend us your cat."

"Certainly," answered the minister, laying aside his pen; "only you'll have to take her family, too."

"Of course," said Mr. Neal; "and I'm glad that she has the kittens; they will keep her happy."

Mr. Neal had brought a great, strong bag, and by the help of the minister he put Deborah into it—basket, kittens and all. She tried her best to get out, but Mr. Neal tied up the bag and held it firmly while he walked to his wagon, there he dropped the bag into a box that stood under the seat, and fastened down the cover. Then he drove away.

"Poor Deborah can't see where she is going any more than her blind kittens can," thought the minister, with a little smile, as he turned from the window. "I hope she won't be homesick, for I'm sure she could never find her way home. Why, why, the ground is really getting white with snow!"

Presently he sat down again to his sermon, and he wrote, and he wrote, till every body else in the house was asleep. All at once he was startled by a sound from the porch. It was the mewing of a cat. He threw open the door, and in ran Deborah, carrying in her mouth a kitten.

"Dear me, Deborah, can this be you?" he cried, in great surprise. She dropped the kitten on the rug at his feet and ran out before he could close the door. He put the little wet, cold kitty on a warm cushion, and went to bed; but he was wakened from his first nap by another mewing upon the porch. Deborah had come with her second kitten. An hour or two later she came with the third, and by the next noon she had taken them all home—all six of them.

Soon Mr. Neal followed, bringing the empty basket.

"I thought I must return it quickly or Deborah would come for it," said he, laughing. "You may tell her that I've bought a rat-trap, and I'll never disturb her again. A puss that'll travel eleven miles in the snow for the sake of getting her family back to it's old corner, deserves to live in peace."

Now, isn't this a pretty big story? I shouldn't have dared to repeat it if the minister hadn't told it to me himself.—Penn Shirley, in Our Little Ones.

FROM YOUTHFUL MINDS.

"Willis," said the teacher, "how did electricity first come from the clouds?" "It came a-kiting, ma'am."—Washington Post.

"Why don't 'oo tis tumbody of 'oer size," said a three-year-old girl, pertingly, to her uncle who had Herr Most whiskers on his face.—Texas Siftings.

Boy—Say, master, please give me five cents' worth of castor-oil and give me very short measure, too." Druggist—"Short measure? Why?" Boy—"Why, I've got to take it myself."—Brooklyn Life.

Mr. Bingo—"Tommy, when you get to the head of a family what will you say to your sons?" Tommy (thoughtfully)—"I will tell them how good I was when I was a boy."—N. Y. Sun.

Teddy—"What does your father do when you are naughty?" Freddy—"He submits me to a board of arbitration." "In what way?" "He takes a shingle and spanks me."—St. Joseph News.

Willie (who has eaten his apple)—"Mabel, let's play Adam and Eve. You be Eve and I'll be Adam." Mabel:—"All right. Well?" Willie—"Now you tempt me to eat your apple and I'll succumb."—Peoria Herald.

A Detroit mother tells this story of her little girl. The child was left alone at the table and called vigorously for her mamma. "What do you want, Kitty?" inquired her mother, hurrying back to the table. "Want oo to tickle my tea wif a spoon, pease, mamma," was the child's reply.—Detroit Free Press.

Florence is a little girl who is just learning to go to church. Last Sunday when she came home her mother asked her what she thought of the sermon. "Ugh!" was the irreverent answer, "me sitted, an' sitted, an' sitted, and got dreffful tired, an' the preacher said, an' said, an' keeped on sayin'.—Washington Star.

When Ernest was three years old he had some little downy chickens which he watched with never-failing interest. One day he caught two of the chickens fighting. He looked at them for some time, and at last exclaimed: "I guess those chickens were hatched from bad eggs."—Youth's Companion.

HE PAUSED FOR APPLAUSE.

But the Audience Hadn't Been Educated Up to the Point of Appreciation.

THE heat of the political campaign they called on me for a speech at West Oakland," said Justice Charles E. Snook, of San Francisco. "I don't take very kindly to political speech-making, and I was especially timorous about making an address where everybody knows me and where, in consequence, I would be sure of the severest criticism. But I was in for it, and set about preparing myself for the ordeal. After I had thought out an address, which I imagined had enough hurrah in it to make the boys hit the floor, I thought I'd try it on my wife.

"So I placed her in a good seat in the front row of our parlor furniture, struck my most statesmanlike attitude and unlimbered my mouthpiece. Finally I reached one of my most impressive periods, and came to a full stop a good deal out of breath.

"'Well, what are you waiting for?' calmly inquired the wife partner of my joys.

"'That is where I pause to permit the tumultuous applause to get in its work,' I replied.

"'Oh, I thought you were afraid you had awakened the baby,' was her unsympathetic and disheartening response. Still, I noticed that when I poured that speech into the listening ear of West Oakland my wife was the first and only listener to appreciate and applaud when I paused at that critical point."—San Francisco Examiner.

A Natural Inquiry.

A certain witty bishop found himself, a few months ago, crossing the Bay of Fundy, from Digby to St. John, in company with a certain Mr. Caswell. The Bay of Funday has a reputation for turbulence only to be matched by the English Channel or the Bay of Biscay. Mr. Caswell was struggling with a violent attack of sea sickness; but the bishop, who was above such weakness, was very cheerful, and inclined to conversation. He had failed, however, to catch Mr. Caswell's name correctly, and persisted in calling him "Mr. Aswell." At last the sufferer, in a moment of ease, corrected him, saying:

"Caswell, my lord; my name is Caswell, not Aswell."

"Oh!" said the bishop, eying him critically, as a new spasm seized upon his unhappy acquaintance: "Well, Mr. Caswell, don't you think you would be Aswell without the sea?"—Harper's Magazine.

The Market Was Manipulated.

Visitor—Your little boy doesn't seem to be very cheerful. Isn't he well?

Broker—Yes, he's well enough, but he is feeling pretty blue just now. You see there was a great drop in leather this morning.

V.—Bless me! You don't mean to tell me that child knows any thing about the market?

B.—Well perhaps not generally speaking, but you see the particular leather that dropped this morning was his mother's slipper.—Boston Courier.

Family Trees to Order.

Mr. Porcine—What's the matter, Sophronia? You seem annoyed.

Mrs. Porcine—Annoyed! I should think so. I've been to call on Mrs. Montgomery. That woman makes me sick. She's always talking about her family tree.

Mr. Porcine—Well, dear, you just find out what kind of a tree it is, and we'll have half a dozen of 'em in the front yard.—America.

ABOVE THEM ALL.

Boy—I be the highest in school.
Ma—The highest in what?
Boy—The highest in height.—Golden Days.

What Ailed Him.

"You ought to enter a prize contest for the handsomest man," said a lawyer in the lobby of the police court to a prisoner who had both eyes blacked and his nose skinned.

"That's exactly what ails me," replied the man. "I went into such a contest, got the prize, and four of the unsuccessful candidates pitched into me and brought me to this."—Detroit Free Press.

How It Rolled In.

Loving wife—Now that you are ruined, Henry, I will disclose my secret. For years I have been saving up and now (pouring a shining heap of gold into his hat) this may tide you over.

Husband—Oh, my darling, how did you manage to do it?

Wife—Easy enough. Every time you said a mean thing to me I put ten cents in a box.—N. Y. Sun.

An Inappropriate Place.

"What was the matter with you this morning, John?" asked the minister's wife. "You trembled all over when you stepped into the pulpit."

"It was only an attack of stage fright," returned the clergyman.—N. Y. Sun.

A CELESTIAL CONTRACTION.

Customer—But I sent you six collars, and here are only three.

Laundryman—Geulemal buyee berry poor collee. Shrinkee in washee. Six collees when go in washee; shrinkee three collee when comee out.—Jury.

Better Than a Stove.

Mrs. Hashly—You say you haven't put a stove in Mr. Prettiboy's room. How does he keep from freezing?

Mrs. Tartly—I put a couple of mirrors in his room.

Mrs. Hashly—But they won't compensate him for the lack of a stove.

Mrs. Tartly—They do. He keeps himself warm by constantly walking from one mirror to the other to look at himself.—Harper's Bazar.

A Smart Postmaster.

It is hard to get the better of a postmaster. Recently the postmaster of a Western town came across a letter on which were written these three words:

Bill
John
Mass.

Did he send it to the Dead Letter Office? By no means; in fifteen minutes he "got" to the little joke of the sender and decided that it was meant for John Underhill, Andover, Mass.—N. Y. Tribune.

An Impossibility.

Cholly sings:

"Oh, would that I might fly away
And be forgot for many a day—"

Miss Bowers (interrupting)—Impossible, Mr. Budd.

Cholly—Couldn't you weally forget me?

Miss Bowers—Oh, I referred to the flying part.—Munsey's Weekly.

Society Note.

She—You must come and see us. Come any time.

He—When do you dine?

She—Always at six, and we are through by eight. We shall be delighted to see you at eight. Don't forget the hour.—Texas Siftings.

Sympathy.

"What's become of Ebenezer Mudd?"

"He's in New York doing literary work. He is making quite a name for himself."

"Well, I don't blame him. The one his father gave him is awful."—Harper's Bazar.

Not Surprising.

Scribler—Are you managing to make a living out of writing poetry?

Scrawley—Oh, yes, such as it is. The muses have fallen into bad hands, though. I notice that a plumber has won the last Oxford prize for poetry.

Scribbler—A plumber, eh? Oh, well, a plumber ought to be a good hand at meter at all events.—America.

Not a Point in His Favor.

"Why, Mr. Pinkington, how do you do?"

"How dy do? Your face is familiar to me, but I can not recall—"

"I am Dr. Smithkins, who made you and Mrs. Pinkington one."

"Oh, you are, are you? Well, you go hang yourself!"—Jury.

Water Would Be Awful.

"They say that drowning is the easiest death one can die," remarked Bleeker.

"It depends on the fluid used," replied Colonel Blood, of Kentucky.—Munsey's Weekly.

The Queen's Little Joke.

"Your Majesty does not seem to be enjoying Punch," quoth the Prime Minister.

"No," quoth the Queen. "It awakens too many memories of my happy youth."—Puck.

Could Prove It.

Guest—You say that this is oyster soup. I don't believe it.

Waiter—Yes, it is, boss. If you'll wait a minute, sah, I'll bring you the oyster we made it from.—Jury.

A Mystery Explained.

Mrs. Talkerman—I married my husband when he was almost blind.

Miss Caustique—I can understand now how you came to marry him at all.—Spirit.

A Proposition.

He—This is a lovely afternoon. Let's do something.

She—All right. What do you propose?

He—Let's get engaged.—Puck.

Charitable.

Tramp—I say, ma'am, can't ye gimme a bite o' something cold to eat?

Mrs. Pancake—Why, yes, poor fellow! Go and take one of those icicles off the fence.—Judge.

Questionable Company.

Mother (to young hopeful)—I wonder with what ragabond you were running around all last night?

Young Hopeful—With pa.—Texas Siftings.

Must Have Been Born.

"What a nonsensical sentence this is: 'Poets are born,'" remarked Gibbs.

"Why of course they must have been born or they would not exist."—Boston Herald.

Able to Choose.

Visitor (to Boston parrot)—Polly want a cracker?

Polly (disdainfully)—I'll thank you for a biscuit.—Puck.

A WOMAN BEST UNDERSTANDS A WOMAN'S ILLS.

The experiments of Lydia E. Pinkham that years ago gave to the world that blessing, this Vegetable Compound, were made through a feeling of sympathy for the afflicted of her sex. She discovered that nearly all the diseases of woman have a common origin, and therefore may have a common cure. That cure is known in all parts of the civilized world, and an average of 100 letters per day are received from grateful women.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

PINE RIDGE EXCITED

Heavy Firing in the Direction of the Hostiles' Camp.

TROOPS PREPARING TO MOVE.

Lieutenant Casey Shot Through the Head by the Savages.

Shoshones on the Rampage—Reports that They Have Burned the Buildings at Pocatello Agency—Nebraska Settlers Fleeing—State Troops Called Out by Gov. Thayer—Buffalo Bill to the Front.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 8.—A courier has just come in from General Brooke's headquarters on Wounded Knee Creek with a dispatch for General Miles, to the effect that heavy firing is going on in the direction of the hostile camp, and that he believes some portion of the troops have engaged the rebellious Sioux.

His forces are ready to move just as soon as it can be definitely learned where and what the fighting is. Scouts have been sent out from here to get at the truth, and all is excitement.

Late last night Gen. Miles received official information of the killing, near the hostile camp, of Lieut. Casey, of the 22d Infantry, who had ventured too near the savages.

He was shot through the head. Lieut. Casey was one of the brightest young officers in the army.

THE SHOSHONES UP.

They Have Burned the Buildings at Pocatello Agency.

EVANSTON, Wyo., Jan. 8.—Word has just reached here to the effect that the Shoshone Indians at the Pocatello, Idaho, reservation are on the rampage, burning the town and destroying property, and that the residents are fleeing for safety.

The Indians have been in war paint at that point for some time, and trouble has been daily anticipated. It is reported that the authorities have asked Boise City for troops, but nothing definite concerning the situation can be learned.

NEBRASKA IN ARMS.

Settlers Thoroughly Alarmed and Appealing for Troops.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 8.—All along the line of the Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Railroad the people believe themselves in great peril in case the battle that seems imminent at Pine Ridge should result adversely to the troops. A part of the National Guard is already in the field.

Reports from Rushville are to the effect that the country is in an uproar and the stampede amounts to a wild scramble. Appeals for arms and soldiers are being received day and night by Governor Thayer.

Ten companies of State troops are already in the field, and the rest of the militia force will be in motion by to-night.

Col. Cody (Buffalo Bill), chief of staff to Governor Thayer, will confer with General Colby at Rushville and the two will decide upon the best points at which to station troops.

A dispatch just received says that in many places the citizens are building forts with deep cellars into which to crawl if the stockades should be carried by the foe.

From Fremont as far west as the hills armed men are on duty as defenders of villages.

Buffalo Bill takes a gloomy view of the future and says it is his opinion that a big battle is almost sure to occur within a few days in the immediate vicinity of Pine Ridge. The Indians, he thinks, have reached that stage of their madness in which they will court death.

The Ghost Dance a Failure.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 8.—The ghost dance, which was to have been at Red Rock to-day proved a failure. Representatives from many of the Territory tribes who were present were dissuaded by the friendly Indians from holding the dance.

Suffering Among the Hostiles.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Jan. 8.—There is great suffering among the hostiles on account of the scarcity of food and shelter. Sixty-five squaws, with about the same number of papooses, came in from the hostile camp about six miles away.

WOMEN REPRESENTATIVES

A Big Majority in Their Favor in 368 Methodist Districts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Returns from 368 districts of the Methodist Episcopal Church of a vote on the question of changing the constitution so as to admit women as representatives to the General Conference have been received at the Methodist Book Concern.

The total vote of these 368 districts is 314,602, of which 196,938 were cast in favor and 117,674 against the proposed amendment, showing a majority to date of 79,234. The districts heard from comprise about three-fifths of the districts of the United States.

Horrible Criminal Revelations.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 8.—A dispatch from Springfield, O., says that Edie Taylor, a crippled old maid, committed suicide there last night. She confessed that she aided J. M. C. Clark, a Baptist preacher, and Carrie Moss to poison Clark's wife, succeeding after four attempts. The preacher two weeks ago married Carrie Moss. The woman Taylor also said she had been in a place one story below purgatory ever since. It was brought out before the coroner that Dr. Heisberger, knew her secret, got all of her money, and that Clark and Carrie Moss blackmailed her. She also said her father and Carried lived together. Clark and Carrie Moss are in jail charged with murder. A vigilance committee is talked of.

MRS. BEERMAN'S ASSAILANTS.

Startling Revelations Promised When Anticipated Arrests Are Effected.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 8.—The Bergen County detectives, who are trying to capture the men who assaulted Mrs. Beerman on a lonely road near her home on the night of December 6, expect to make important arrests in a few days. Yesterday two of the detectives appeared in New York and went off with Mr. Beerman. They visited the Clifton track and to-day will visit the Guttenburg race-track. They refused to make known the result of their visit to the Clifton course.

Prosecutor Campbell and the attaches of his office held a long private consultation yesterday at Hackensack, regarding the case. While the consultation was going on, the Prosecutor was called up on the telephone by Detective Haggarty, the State officer, who is working up the case.

The detective told the District-Attorney that he had worked up "that clue," and intended to make an arrest in a few hours. What "that clue" is Mr. Campbell refused to say, but he intimated that some startling revelations would ensue just as soon as the anticipated arrests were effected.

PROF. HOGAN HEARD FROM.

Campbell, the Flying Machine Man, Says the Aeronaut is Living.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Professor Hogan, the aeronaut, who was supposed to have been lost about two years ago, 12 miles off Sandy Hook, is, from all indications, yet alive, awaiting an opportunity to return to the world in a manner that will be of financial benefit to himself.

He sailed away in an airship of his own invention about two years ago, and was last seen by a passing vessel, slowly descending to the ocean.

Peter C. Campbell, the Brooklyn flying machine man, who is now in this city, throws much light on the disappearance of Hogan. He met several of Hogan's relatives in Detroit, who were not at all grieved at his loss. They evidently knew him to be still alive, though keeping his whereabouts from all but his wife. Mrs. Hogan lives in Jackson, Mich. Hogan left property amounting to nearly $30,000, some of which is now in litigation. Hogan's relatives in Detroit said they believed he was still living quietly in a foreign country. The fact that Mrs. Hogan has been absent from home for three months at a time, and that she is cheerful at all times regarding her husband gives color to the story.

Published the Wrong Speech.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 8.—A remarkable mistake made by the Albany Argus in making Lieutenant-Governor Jones the subject of much criticism, when, really, he is innocent of any offence. At a reception held Tuesday night by the Chamber of Commerce to the people interested in the Hudson River improvement the Lieutenant-Governor delivered a very appropriate address, without any political reference. The Argus printed an address, which the Lieutenant-Governor intends to deliver at the Democratic Business Men's Association in New York to-night. Mr. Jones is very indignant over the matter.

Tried the Lymph on Himself.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—Dr. Arthur K. Stone, of this city, tried Dr. Koch's lymph on himself in order to test its effect on a well person. Dr. Koch himself tried it, and had a pretty serious time, because he took an injection of 250 times the amount ordinarily given. Dr. Stone took the amount ordinarily used, and has had no ill effects from it. The significance of this is that any one afflicted with lupus, consumption or tuberculosis can try the parataloid without fear of any injury.

Met Death, but Saved His Boy.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—Patrick Carroll, together with his horse and wagon, fell over a 30-foot stone wall at South Sixth street and Carroll received injuries from which he died. Before the horse and wagon went over Carroll threw his young son, who was riding with him, from the wagon to the street, thus saving the boy's life. The accident was caused by Carroll being unable to control his horse.

The Icemen's Strike Extending.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The icemen's strike, which began at the Knickerbocker Company's house at Washington Point, has extended to several other houses. The men demand 25 cents more per day than is offered. The scale of prices asked is the same as that of two years ago.

Arab Revolt Against Turkish Rule.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The inhabitants of the Arabian province of Temen have organized a formidable rebellion against the Turkish Government, which has treated them with great severity in the matter of onerous taxes.

British Army Movements.

HALIFAX, N. S., Jan. 8.—The War Office has issued orders that the Duke of Wellington's regiment, now stationed here, shall remove on March 2 to Barbadoes. The 18th regiment, now on duty at Bermuda, is expected here.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

No Trouble in the Cabinet Over Indian Affairs.

SECRETARY NOBLE SATISFIED.

He Says He Approves the Change in Agents at Pine Ridge.

Senator Stewart Says a Vote Will be Taken on the Financial Bill Saturday. Mr. Lodge Afraid of a Panic—A Bill Introduced for the Relief of Colored People—$50,000,000 Asked For.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The published statement that there was a stormy Cabinet meeting, growing out of the discussion of the Indian troubles, and that there were disagreements and friction between Secretaries Noble and Proctor, because of the disposition on the part of the War Secretary to trench upon the domain of authority of the former in Indian affairs, is authoritatively denied.

The meeting, it is said, was entirely harmonious, and the change in agents at the Pine Ridge Agency, determined upon last evening, meets with the approval of both of these officers, Secretary Noble approving it as heartily as Secretary Proctor himself does.

ROYER REMOVED.

The Official Dispatch Sent With the Approval of the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—After a consultation between Secretaries Noble and Proctor, the following despatch, relating to the displacement of Indian Agent Royer at Pine Ridge, was sent, with the approval of the President, by Gen. Scofield to Gen. Miles:

"After mature consideration of your recommendations, respecting Indian agents, it has been decided to appoint one of the army officers named by you to be agent at the Pine Ridge Agency, to have full charge of all the Indians assembled at that place. His appointment will be sent out without unnecessary delay. It has also been decided not to appoint any officers to act as Indian agents at any other agencies, but to leave you to exercise the necessary military control under orders heretofore given by the President and through the officer named by you and approved in my dispatch of yesterday, and such others as may hereafter be selected for that purpose, it being understood that this military supervision and control will need be only temporary. This conclusion is regarded as a final settlement of the question."

WORK OF CONGRESS.

The Financial and Shipping Bills Discussed in the Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In the Senate Mr. Shoup, of Idaho, drew the term ending in 1895, and Mr. McConnell that ending March 3 next.

The conference report of the Urgent Deficiency bill was agreed to. The bill for education in Alaska was discussed but not disposed of. The financial measure was then discussed, Messrs. Daniel, Plumb and Hiscock speaking at length.

The House passed some minor military measures and continued the debate on the Shipping bill.

For the Relief of Colored People.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Mr. Teller introduced in the Senate at the request of the "Afro-American Colonization Society, of Washington, D. C.," a bill for the relief of the American colored man. The bill appropriates $50,000,000 for the purchase of land in Southern California, transportation and subsistence for the permanent settlement of the colored people of the United States, to be returned to the government, with interest, in 40 years.

Mr. Lodge Afraid of a Panic.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Henry Cabot Lodge is reported as being opposed to any financial legislation at this session. He says that when it seemed evident that no legislation of this character was imminent the tone of the money market was improved, and confidence was restored. If a financial measure is tinkered with he thinks a panic will result.

The Vote on the Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Senator Stewart, who is in charge of the Silver bill, said yesterday that he expected to have a vote on the bill on Saturday. He is very confident of its passage.

Death of Ex-Attorney-General Devens.

BOSTON, Jan. 8.—Charles Devens, Associate Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court and Attorney-General under President Hayes, died suddenly last evening of heart failure. Judge Devens had been ailing for several days, but was not thought to be seriously ill until 5 o'clock last evening, when a sudden change in his condition was noticed. A physician was hurriedly summoned, but before he arrived Judge Devens was dead. He was in his 71st year.

CAMERON THE CHOICE.

Very Little Opposition Against His Renomination in the Republican Caucus.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—The Republican Senators and members of the House of Representatives met in joint caucus at 12 o'clock to nominate a candidate for United States Senator to succeed J. Donald Cameron.

The caucus was called to order by Senator George Handy Smith and the clerks of the two Houses acted as secretaries. There was a pretty full attendance, there being but eighteen votes short of the full number when the roll was called.

Mr. Taggart, of Montgomery County, moved to postpone the caucus until the 13th inst. in order to give the members a chance to go home and see their constituents and find out their wishes. This was voted down and Mr. Taggart withdrew from the caucus.

Senator Thompson, of Dauphin, nominated Senator Cameron in a brief speech reviewing Senator Cameron's career. Senator Gobin, of Lebanon, seconded the nomination in an eloquent speech, in the course of which he said he was authorized to say that Senator Cameron is for the Elections bill and always has been. Mr. Coray read a letter from Senator Cameron, dated December 28, in which the Senator stated that no man knew his attitude on the Elections bill. Mr. Coray said he had been "smoked out."

The nominations were then closed and the roll was called. The result was 134 votes for Mr. Cameron. Chairman Smith then formally declared him the nominee amid applause, and the caucus adjourned.

WAS HE MURDERED?

Another Englishmen Who Went to Canada to Become a Farmer.

WATERBURY, Ont., Jan. 8.—Intense excitement exists here over the disappearance of Tony Wadsworth, who came here about three months ago, probably from the South of England. He is known to have had a large sum of money, probably $3,000, on his person, which he showed to several acquaintances. He was desirous of buying a farm.

He stopped with a man named Hardy. Suddenly Wadsworth disappeared, and Hardy's son spread the report that the Englishman had chloroformed him on a certain night and robbed him of $3,500. He made no attempt to catch the alleged thief, however, and the neighbors began to think that there was something wrong, and suspicion attached to young Hardy. He has since disappeared, but no move has been made to hunt up either Wadsworth or young Hardy. The Attorney-General has been notified.

Jugiro Gets a Stay.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Lawyer Roger M. Sherman filed with Judge Lacombe a request for permission to appeal the case of the Japanese murderer, Jugiro, to the United States Supreme Court; his chief ground being the exclusion from both Grand and Trial Juries of Japanese or colored men. Judge Lacombe granted the appeal. Jugiro was to have been electrocuted in Sing Sing during the week beginning Monday, Jan. 19. This saves his life until at least after the 2d of October next, when the Supreme Court convenes in Washington.

Blacks Uneasy in South Africa.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Private advices, which have been received in this city from South Africa, state that 20,000 Matabele fighting men are preparing to make an attack on the fortified posts which were established by the Mashonaland expedition. The forces of the South Africa Company are in a bad condition, and are not likely to hold their ground in the face of a serious attack, so that if the natives are not dissuaded from their purpose the work of that expedition will be virtually destroyed.

Emma Abbott's Body May be Cremated.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—It is believed that Emma Abbott's will gives directions that her body be cremated. Her father, who says she had a horror of being laid in the earth, has already entered into correspondence with the managers of the Detroit Crematory. If her will is silent on the matter she will be buried with her husband at Gloucester, Mass. The remains will reach here to-day, and public services will be held to-morrow.

Twenty Gamblers Skip.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 8.—When the Criminal Court met in the morning there were eight old gambling cases on the docket and a dozen new cases, the result of the work of the last grand jury. Not a gambler could be found in town; however, and the only clue that the court officers could get was that the indicted men had "gone sleighing for the rest of the winter." All the gamblers forfeited bail, bonds being from $1,000 to $2,000.

Corbett's Match With Slavin Off.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—James J. Corbett of California, who is matched to fight Peter Jackson for $10,000, and his manager, Charles Steinzeit, arrived here last night. They have come to witness the Dempsey-Fitzsimmons fight. It is stated that Corbett's match with Slavin before the Olympic Club of this city is off on account of Slavin's illness.

Strikers Successful.

OLEAN, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The employes of the Sole Leather Pad Company, who struck on Tuesday because of a heavy cut in wages, were notified this morning to appear at their benches at once and all wages heretofore paid would be continued.

A Blind Lady Burned to Death.

CANDEN, N. Y., Jan. 8.—The house of Samuel Chilson was burned at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Chilson, an aged lady and blind, being alone in the house, was burned to death before aid could reach her.

Two More Victories for Donaghue.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 8.—Donaghue, the American skater, won two more contests here, the mile race in 3 minutes, 2-5 seconds, and the five-mile race in 18 [illegible]

PARNELL TO RETIRE

An Agreement Reached at the Boulogne Conference.

DILLON OR O'BRIEN TO LEAD.

The Settlement Regarded as Satisfactory by the McCarthyites.

Leading Irishmen Credit Parnell With Having Gained a Decided Advantage—Peace Among the Nationalists Expected—Loud Notes of Dissent Heard in Liberal Quarters in London.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Advices from Boulogne are to the effect that Mr. O'Brien, at his own request, has been authorized to ask Mr. McCarthy to retire from the chairmanship of the anti-Parnell section of the Irish National party in favor of Mr. John Dillon, or, should Mr. O'Brien prefer, in favor of himself.

Mr. O'Brien announces that his conferences with Mr. Parnell have been concluded. Negotiations with Mr. McCarthy will follow.

The above news was received by the Irish leaders on this side of the Channel with mixed feelings.

Healy is Hurt.

Healy is strong in his opposition to any recognition whatever of Mr. Parnell, and expresses himself as hurt because Mr. O'Brien consented to confer with the former leader. Healy declares that McCarthy ought to stick to the leadership, which, in the general opinion, means Healy's actual control. But Healy has also given his friends to understand that if McCarthy does retire he (Healy) is a candidate for the place. The consensus of opinion in the Irish party, however, is against Healy's views, and favorable to a compromise, and the election to the leadership of some man who has not incurred the enmity of either side.

Parnellites Pleased.

The Parnellites are well content with the situation. John O'Connor is quoted as saying that it would be madness for the anti-Parnellites to try to couple O'Brien in their ostracism; that O'Brien's voice from jail would drown all the appeals of the Healyites. Everybody credits Parnell with having gained a decided advantage. If the Boulogne terms are accepted he gets rid of McCarthy's leadership, and if they are not he has O'Brien for an ally and follower in the future.

The Liberals Dissatisfied.

Loud notes of dissent are already heard from the Liberal national headquarters in London, owing to what is believed to be O'Brien's surrender to Parnell. Such action is recognized as a severe blow at the Liberal party's chances of regaining the position of advantage which it seemed to have reached just before the unfortunate O'Shea scandal upset the situation. The opposition is that Mr. Gladstone will secretly consent to any arrangement whereby Mr. Parnell is to retain commanding influence in the Irish party, is scouted by many, but finds believers in other quarters.

McCarthyites Discuss the Situation.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The McCarthyites held a conference at the National Liberal Club to discuss the present situation. The majority of the members present regarded the proposed settlement as satisfactory, and the sentiment was expressed that there need be no fear that the McCarthyites would take any action tending to weaken the alliance between the Irish and Gladstonian parties.

Approved by Dillon.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Mr. Dillon has cabled his approval of the plan for Mr. Parnell's temporary retirement, and the election of Mr. O'Brien as chairman of the Parliamentary party. Negotiations are now to follow with Mr. McCarthy, to gain his assent to the arrangement.

DEATHS FROM EXPOSURE.

The Severe Weather Causing Terrible Distress in London.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The severe cold weather is causing great distress in London among the poorer classes. Seventy deaths from exposure are reported as occurring in the East End since the cold snap set in. Outdoor trades are generally suspended, and the enforced expansion of the ranks of the unemployed is leading to a corresponding increase of begging and theft in the streets.

Killed By Russian Police.

VIENNA, Jan. 8.—A Jewish lawyer who recently left Kieff was arrested by the Russian police while endeavoring to make his way across the border into Austrian Poland. He had committed no crime but decided to leave Russia because his practice was ruined through the enforcement of the anti-Jewish laws. He made an attempt to escape after capture and was killed by the police.

Is Parnell Afraid?

DUBLIN, Jan. 8.—It is stated in this city that Parnell is very uneasy at the prospect of the Queen's Proctor intervening to prevent the decree of divorce granted in the O'Shea case becoming absolute, as Labouchere in Truth suggested that he ought to do. This can be done at any time before the expiration of six months.

Terrific Snow Storms.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—Terrific snow storms continue to rage throughout Germany, accompanied by hurricanes. A heavy gale also prevails on the Adriatic, and commerce is suspended on those waters. Trieste is in danger of inundation. Nine thousand workmen are engaged clearing away snow in this city.

England and Portugal Agree.

LISBON, Jan. 8.—A mutually satisfactory treaty on the African disputes has been nearly concluded between England and Portugal. It will be submitted to the Cortes before being signed by the representatives of the two governments.

No Ammonia in Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder.

THE SCOTCH STRIKE.

The Railroad Directors Ready to Discuss the Trouble With the Men.

GLASGOW, Jan. 8.—The Provost of Glasgow has convened a public meeting for to-morrow to consider the best means of reaching a settlement of the strike difficulties.

Mr. Baird, M. P., a director of the North British Railway Company, addressing a meeting of his electors declared that the directors were ready to discuss the matter of grievances with their old servants. He pleaded for a suspension of judgment upon the company, the task of reconciling the interests of the shareholders with those of the public and the men being an exceedingly difficult one.

John Burns addressed a public meeting at Perth, and accused the leading Scotch papers of misleading the people in regard to the strike situation. Heed call on the men to stand firm and they would soon have the shareholders as well as the public on their side.

Burns declared that he would bring about such a deadlock of traffic as to compel the companies to surrender. He appealed to the wives and sweethearts of the strikers to encourage them to hold out until victory was attained. Resolutions were adopted, asking the companies to accede to the demands of the men. The meeting was a very large one and good order prevailed.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Ex-Alderman John Simpson, a wealthy and retired business man, died in Plainfield, N. J., last evening.

John M. Tilford, the founder of the large grocery firm of Park & Tilford, of New York, died during the morning of heart trouble.

The Phoenix Iron Company of Lancaster, Pa., obtained judgments for $5,500 against Theodore P. Rutterson, manager of the Safe Harbor Rolling Mill.

Reporter Smith of the Buffalo Courier staff has received the appointment of private secretary to Speaker Sheehan of the New York Assembly.

The Rev. Howard MacQueery, a popular Episcopal clergyman, of Canton, O., is on trial before an ecclesiastical court at Cleveland on a charge of heresy.

Connecticut's legislature is deadlocked on the question of Governor. The Democratic Senate declared Luzon B. Morris elected, but the Republican House refused to concur.

A revolution in electric lighting is expected, because of the discovery by Bradford McGregor, the mechanical expert, of Covington, Ky., of a system for fusing glass and aluminum.

The Governor and Council of Massachusetts sold to the Fitchburg Railroad Company the Southern Vermont Railroad for $175,000 in 4 per cent. coupon bonds expiring January 1, 1920.

The President has granted a pardon, to take effect on September 20, 1891, to the Rev. William E. Gould, convicted in Maine of embezzling bank funds, and sentenced in September, 1880, to 10 years' imprisonment.

Democrats in the Massachusetts State Senate, deciding that body evenly with the Republicans, allowed the Republicans to organize in order not to delay the inauguration of William E. Russell, the Democratic Governor-elect.

The Minnesota Senate organized by electing officers who had been decided upon by the conference committees of the Alliance and Democrats. The House did not organize yesterday and a deadlock of several days is among the probabilities.

Emin Pasha is to be Governor of the western portion of German East Africa, including the lake territory, and Herr Soden to be Governor over the remainder. Baron Wissman will probably retire or be sent to settle affairs in West Africa.

All of the Oxford Iron and Nail Company's works at Oxford, N. J., are shut down but the blast furnaces. The nailers have all been discharged and the outlook is very gloomy. A good many of the men will seek employment elsewhere.

Harvard students were thrown into paroxysms of delight last night by the announcement that the Corporation voted to employ an instructor in rowing, to occupy the same relation to that department of athletics that Mr. Lathrop does to track sports.

Famine Contributions.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—It is announced that upwards of £6,000 have been received in response to the declaration and appeal in behalf of the famine-threatened people of Ireland, issued by the Viceroy and Chief Secretary for Ireland.

BY THE WAY.

—Bound Brook talks of a street railway!

—Read on fourth page the advertisement of N. H. Guttmaa, dealer in segars, etc., 12 West Second street. It will interest you.

—The Crescent League only rents the Olympia alleys during three nights of the week. At all other times the alleys are open to the public.

—The funeral of Frederick J. Clark will take place at the home of his uncle, Thomas Clark, 25 Somerset place, to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. He was twenty-nine years and ten months old.

—There is a fine lot of gentlemen's underwear at Hallock & Davis's, 5 West Front street, that is to be sacrificed to make room for new Spring goods. Go early and buy before the assortment of sizes is broken.

—When the snow and ice stay long, it is an indication of rich and abundant fruitage in the following seasons. This is the old adage, and will probably hold good for the peach crop this year, as well as for all the others.

—The Rev. Father Sullivan will give a lecture in this city Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum. The subject will be, "The Catholic Church, the Mother of Saints and Scholars."

—The big fair the Crescent League is getting up to be held in its new clubhouse about Feb., 1, will surpass everything of its kind. There will be an entertainment every night, and a number of novelties never before seen in this city.

—There will be much matter of interest and value to the young men of the city in the talk to be given by ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph on the subject of Gambling, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, this evening, at eight o'clock. Admission will be free, as usual.

—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company will not, as has been announced be able to open their new road from South Plainfield to Newark in January. It will be late in February, or perhaps early in March, before the road will be in readiness for passenger traffic.

—A rare real chance to buy estate cheap will be afforded Friday afternoon, January 9 at 2 o'clock, when the brick house at No. 100 East Front street will be sold at public auction on the premises to the highest bidder by order of the chancellor in partition proceedings.

—The borough-government movement in Bound Brook is receiving public favor and will probably go into effect. More than the required number of property-holders have signed the application, and a petitioned notice is in circulation, saying that the matter will be presented to the Court of Common Pleas, at Somerville, Tuesday, Jan. 20, at 10:30 a. m. If the application be granted the Court will also fix a day for a special election to be held.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Louis R. Ross, of LaGrande avenue, son of ex-Councilman Ross, sails for Europe again on Saturday.

Prof. G. E. Whitten, of Warrenville, has accepted the position of Principal of the public school at Adamsville.

The Rev. B. Fay Mills expects to begin a series of evangelistic meetings in Evanston, Ill., January 22. His visit to Westfield will be in March.

Mary Downs, wife of Charles S. A. Davis, died at her home, 176 Broadway, yesterday, in the eighty-first year of her age. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Among the children of Mrs. Davis, besides two daughters who live with their father, is a son, Capt. Chas. E. L. B. Davis, a graduate of West Point, and an officer of the United States Army.

THE COMPANY SETTLES.

Responsibility Acknowledged for the "Act of Providence" that Killed John Chandler's Horse.

The suit of John Chandler against the Plainfield Electric Light Company, to recover the value of his trotting horse "Rambo," which was killed by coming into contact with one of the company's "live" wires, was to have come to trial at Elizabeth to-day, but was settled this morning out of court by a compromise. The wire which caused the death of the horse was one which had been torn from its fastenings on the polls by the falling of a tree during a violent thunderstorm, and in settling with Mr. Chandler and paying him damages the company virtually acknowledges the responsibility for what it hitherto contended was a visitation of Providence. The scene of the accident was near the Crescent Avenue church, and the date was June 4, 1890. "Rambo" was valued at $2,500.

Even Fanwood Beats Elizabeth.

The second bowling team of the Elizabeth Athletic Club were defeated at Fanwood Tuesday evening. Several of the Elizabeth boys did some very poor rolling, and the team had really good work only two of its members. Fleming made 214, and Pepin 180.

THE JOCKEY CLUB CONVICTED.

Judge VanSyckel Thanks the Jury—His Charge Very Severe.

The New Jersey Jockey Club was convicted yesterday afternoon of keeping a disorderly house. Judge VanSyckel was determined the club should not escape this time if he could help it, and his charge was very severe. It seemed to leave the struck jury no alternative but to convict. The jurors filed out of court and returned immediately with a verdict of guilty. The Judge thanked them for acting, as he said, according to the law and the evidence. Numerous exceptions were taken to his rulings by counsel for the defence, who declared their intention to carry the matter to the Court of Errors.

No time was lost by the prosecution in picking a jury for the second indictment against the club, the verdict first rendered having been on the indictment over which there was a disagreement of the jury at the last term. The selection of jurymen was made from the regular panel, and the trial opened. The prosecution had not rested when adjournment came, but there is no reason for supposing that the outcome of the trial will be anything but another conviction. Such a verdict, of course, will also be appealed from. The club [illegible] rather stand the expense of the trial even though the result be discounted in advance, than plead non vult, as this would weaken their case in the upper court.

Matthew Corbett, against whom there were two indictments for illegal pool selling, appeared in court and pleaded guilty. He was fined $1,000 and costs, and he paid the money, $1,066, to Sheriff Hicks. The Sheriff kindly allowed THE PRESS reporter to hold the thousand-dollar bill in his hand for a moment. Bookmaker Anderson's case is yet to be disposed of. It was thought the State would not press the indictment against him, but his case is noted for trial on the 15th.

The Adventures of Iza.

The Clemenceau Case, which has acquired considerable notoriety in other cities, will be produced at Amphion Hall, Plainfield, Saturday evening. The story is that of the exploits of a banished Russian countess who has gone, in her poverty, to Paris, and with her daughter, Iza, is forced to live in top floor apartments till her daughter shall have made a hit, which she soon does by conquering one Pierre Clemenceau, a talented and not rich artist, who falls desperately in love with the girl. Iza marries him, but soon finds in Paris a former lover, who is rich. The subsequent amour is made known to the husband by a friend. A duel follows, in which the lover is wounded. Clemenceau returns to Paris and declares anew his love to his wife, who insists that she is true to him. The husband soon afterwards, however, finds that the wife in her unfaithfulness has taken up with a duke, and the curtain is rung down after he has killed his wife in the real Dumas style. Iza is a most skillful intriguer all through, and her mother is a good second in the schemes.

The climax of the play, so far as it has been fixed by its notoriety, is at the beginning of the third act, which takes place in the studio of the artist. Iza, Miss Emma Bell, is discovered, when the curtain rises, in the guise of a model posing for the sculptor. She stands on a slightly raised platform, with a background of black. Before her, as she stands with arms slightly uplifted and with an easy pose of body, is held a drapery of pink silk. The silk drapery conceals much of the beautiful outline. She has stood there scarcely half a minute when the sculptor leaves his work, throws aside the drapery, and shrouds about the exquisite form a dainty wrapper of pink silk trimmed here and there with white; and the two sit down and chat as lovers might be expected to do in quite an extravagant fashion.

In the first act Miss Bell, as Iza, appears in black, dressed as a page; and in the next wears a charming Japanese gown of silk. Later she appears in a gown of soft, green silk, and in a sort of reception dress with train.

The fourth act, in which the schemes of the wife are discovered to the husband, whose mother is killed from the shock, affords good opportunity for strong dramatic work.

For the benefit of inquiring readers it may be added that Clemenceau is correctly pronounced "Clem-en-saw", with the accent on the first syllable.

The New Regime.

The officers who were installed in Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., Tuesday evening, were as follows:

Worshipful Master—Wm. J. Ford.
Senior Warden—C. H. Rugg.
Junior Warden—J. C. Blackford.
Treasurer—N. W. Conway.
Secretary—D. R. Weaver.
Chaplain—E. H. Holmes.
Senior Deacon—W. F. Bartlett.
Junior Deacon—E. L. Odam.
Senior M. of C.—F. P. Stoors.
Junior M. of C.—J. P. Homan.
Stewards—F. W. Rand, H. Weber.
Marshal—J. Ulrich, P. M.
Organist—D. W. Jones.
Tyler—E. Bosterli.
Finance Committee—L. B. Woolston, J. T. Odam, E. H. Holmes.

The newly installed Worshipful Master received numerous congratulations, and a supper was subsequently served in the banquet room of the Lodge.

Do not throw away your hard earned cash for every new cough syrup, when that standard remedy for coughs, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, is 25 cents.

"Ouch!" said a little girl, "I'm not to be [illegible] because of that horrid neuralgia. Mamma has bought a bottle of Salvation Oil."

TAXATION IN NEW JERSEY.

Abuses Now Existent—Scandalous Evasion of Assessments—Remedies Suggested.

The question of taxation—says a dispatch from Trenton—will occupy a large space in the first annual message of Gov. Abbett to the Legislature, which convenes here on the 13th inst. With a large and unmanageable Democratic majority, the Governor sees the necessity of laying out a programme for the legislative session, and he is taking a good deal of care in the preparation of his message. The State finances and the farming interests will receive particular attention, but the vital important matter for legislation is the reform of the tax laws of the State. The last Legislature appointed a commission to investigate the operation of the present tax laws and receive suggestions from tax officials and citizens. The Commission visited every county of the State and heard a good many statements. It will have a report ready to submit to the incoming Legislature.

There is room for vast improvement in the system of assessing and collecting taxes. About $400,000,000 of personal estate escapes assessment and is not taxed at all, while the grossest injustice prevails everywhere in the valuation and tax of real estate. The law permits a man to swear off his indebtedness as an offset on his property, and millions of valuation are lost by the creation of fictitious debts. Many more millions of personalty are temporarily converted into non-tax-paying securities just before the owners make their sworn statements, and downright perjury is by no means uncommon. In some sections the evasion of personal taxes is greater than in others. For example, in Hudson County, about 8 per cent. of the personalty is assessed, while in Mercer the percentage is about 24 per cent.

In real estate it is the large properties that pay the least taxes proportionately. In Newark two years ago a brewery property assessed for only $10,000 was sold to an English syndicate for about $600,000. The Essex Passenger Railway in Newark paid taxes on a valuation of less than $200,000, and the property and franchises were first mortgaged for $1,600,000, and then sold for $3,000,000. Bank stock until a year ago was assessed at a fraction of its value, and manufacturing corporations get off with only a nominal tax. On the other hand, a small homestead property worth say $5,000 is assessed at four-fifths its value.

The wretched system of assessing taxes is responsible for this inequality in real-estate taxation. Every assessor is interested in keeping down the valuations of his district, and the majority of them are influenced by the large property-owners. There is always a struggle between the city and the townships in fixing valuations, and this leads to compromises by which the public treasury is defrauded. One of the plans suggested is that of a State Board of Valuations, to which appeals can be taken, and which can arbitrarily read just the assessments of local assessors, whenever the necessity appears.

This will undoubtedly be included in the scheme of taxation to be recommended by the State Commission. Gov. Abbett is, however, expected to make some radical suggestions of reform with particular reference to the evasion of personal taxes.

It should be remarked that, except the school tax, which is only collected under the auspices of the State as the almoner for the school districts, there is no State tax on the people. The reform relates entirely to local taxation in the municipalities and townships. It is demonstrable that if a reasonably fair and equitable plan of taxation can be devised and successfully carried out, the average rate of taxation will not be over 1 per cent., and that at this rate ample amounts can be raised to pay all the expenses of local government, and provide for all needed public improvements.

Ancient Order of United Workmen Officers.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., at their regular meeting, Tuesday evening, installed their newly elected officers, as follows, under the supervision of P. G. M. W., J. W. Diefendorf, and P. M. W., Collier of Newark:

Past Master Workman—Salmon C. Baker.
Master Workman—Wm. A. Westphal.
Foreman—James T. Vedard.
Overseer—Thad. C. Smith.
Recorder—Lewis R. Blackford.
Financier—Henry Liefke.
Receiver—Wm. H. Broker.
Guide—Robert H. Puller.
Inside Watchman—David A. Eyno.
Outside Watchman—Geo. W. Clark.
Trustees—1 year—Jacob Kinney, 2 years—A. T. Oakley.

In Explanation and Congratulation.

(From the Westfield Leader.)

Mr. Seymour G. Smith, the brother of our townsman, Mr. Chester M. Smith, was on Monday evening elected President of the Common Council of Plainfield. Our office cat got around among our type last week, and made Mr. Smith a candidate for Mayor instead of the President of the Council, a mistake for which we here tender our amende honorable. It is evident we were not mistaken in the character of the man if he were in the office, and so, congratulations all around.

Not the Slightest Doubt.

(From the Westfield Leader.)

Wm. J. Keys, the Senator-elect from Somerset county, will not need much assistance either in taking or defending his seat at the coming session of the New Jersey Legislature. The late investigation of the charge that he voted in New York in 1887, and was therefore ineligible, developed into a farce, and Mr. Keys takes his seat without the slightest doubt as to the legality of his election.

George Abbett's Views Awaited.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:

DEAR SIR—I have observed in your journals, THE PRESS and The Constitutionalist, a uniform loyalty to our County Road system from the time of the passage of the act by our Legislature to the present, when the work under that act is substantially completed. In the petty attempts here and there of an occasional fault-finder, no sympathy has ever been shown by your journals. The Board of Chosen Freeholders, the Surveyor-in-chief of the county roads, and everybody else doing service in promoting this great improvement, has had your honest and earnest support. Apparently, you have been blind to politics, knowing no friends of any sort, having no interests of any kind to serve, to the prejudice of the main object in view, to-wit, securing first-class public roads for the county of Union. We have them at last; and as soon as Providence gives us good weather for a few weeks we shall have them completed. Our tax-bills have come in; all the croakers have been heard; but the citizens are justly proud of their public roads and need no further assurance than their own observation and good judgment, to satisfy them that the county roads are the most important and beneficial improvement accomplished in this county since its organization.

If any reader of THE PRESS doubts the wisdom of our Road Act, let him read the annual messages of Governors of adjoining States, the States of Pennsylvania and of New York, and the approving comments of the entire press of these great States. The last message of Governor Hill sent in to the Legislature of New York, Tuesday, says: "I renew my previous recommendations with reference to the improvement of country roads. While the suggestions upon this subject made in my annual message a year ago, seemed to meet with popular approval, very generally, throughout the State, they were misapprehended by some persons. I need not remind you of the present disgraceful condition of our highways. For a great part of the year, many of them are almost if not quite impassable. They are, as a rule, inferior to those of other States. They are said to compare most unfavorably with those of England and the continent. Sooner or later our State must begin a systematic attempt at improvement, or our farming lands will depreciate still further in value, and other States will attract the wealth and population to which our resources and natural advantages entitle us. When once proper roads are constructed, the cost of maintenance is slight. With little care, the roads will last for generations."

Whatever may be said of Governor Hill, he has expressed sound views for two years on the subject of public roads in his annual messages. Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, and Governors of other States, including ex-Governor Green of our own State, have long advocated reform in the construction and care of our highways. Union county, N. J., is in advance, in this reform, and the growth of Central New Jersey will show it, more and more, year by year.

We sincerely hope that it may enter the mind of Governor Abbett, to express, in his forthcoming message to our own Legislature, his own favorable views respecting the public roads of New Jersey knowing as we do, the encouraging attitude he assumed shortly after entering on his present term of office. Without such favor as he manifested then; without prompt action on his part, more than once; our County Road Board would have been crippled, and much of the benefit since secured would have been lost. We want the roads already built by the county well cared for, at least; and quite likely more such roads as the county roads already constructed will be desired—in other counties, certainly, if not in Union.

Very truly,
CHAUNCEY B. RIPLEY.

"Had Been Worried Eighteen Years."

It should have been "married" but the proof-reader observed that it amounted to about the same thing, and so did not draw his blue pencil through the error. Unfortunately there was considerable truth in his observation. Thousands of husbands are constantly worried almost to despair by the ill health that afflicts their wives, and often robs life of comfort and happiness. There is but one safe and sure way to change all this for the better. The ladies should use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

A Pennsylvania Senator's Misfortune.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—James Rooney, the new Senator of the Wayne-Susquehanna district, was not here to qualify at the organization of the Senate. It is learned that he is lying at the point of death at his home in Susquehanna County, with diptheria. Within the last week the Senator has lost four children from the same malady.

Doctors Want a Scale of Prices.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Jan. 8.—At a meeting of the Ulster County Medical Society, it was decided to petition the Legislature to pass an act establishing a schedule of prices for doctors' services in cases of inquests and lunacy examinations, and thus taking the auditing of their claims out of supervisors' hands.

HERE'S THE "STUNNER"!

A Contemporary on the Spot Says "Some Person" Imposed on Corporation Counsel Marsh's Own Paper With a Subtle Piece of Lying.

(From The Somerset Messenger.)

We will charitably suppose The Plainfield evening news of Jan. 5, was imposed upon by the person or persons who furnished the article under the headline "Counselor Marsh's Stunning Challenge." It is a subtle piece of lying, with the purpose of deceiving and misleading the public. See how deceitfully the testimony of Manus and Myer, the two New York election inspectors, is handled! The slime of the serpent is seen all across the testimony of these two men. Manus is made to say that he is "well acquainted with incumbent Keys"—and that's true; also to say that he is "positive that Keys"—not incumbent Keys, mark you: incumbent is now dropped—simply Keys; a Keys, if you please—"voted in New York in 1887," and that's true, also.

But witness did not testify that it was incumbent Keys but distinctly said it was not; it was another Keys he had reference to in his affidavit. This little unimportant fact the writer of said article forgot to mention.

Indeed, it's perfectly plain he meant to deceive the reader by mixing up these two Keyses, and so mislead him by lying by indirection.

Myer's testimony is treated in the same dishonest manner. It's "Keys" again, not incumbent Keys, that Myer testified he knew, and who come in to register; and when asked by counsel of the side who brought him here whether he had seen William J. Keys, incumbent, since he came to Somerville, he answered he had. Counsel then asked witness, "Is he the Keys that registered in New York in 1887?" He emphatically answered he is not the same man.

This was the climax of the case; it practically ended it, and it's had no life in it since. There was a general stampede of the witnesses on the contestant's side, who before knew a great deal about whether Senator-elect Keys voted at Newshanic. Some got out of town, others were in hiding or could not be found, and the few reluctants who were dragged in had no heart in the business for which they were there, and confessed they knew nothing about it, and seemed greatly relieved when told "that will do", and were quick to step down and out of the witness chair.

The most marked effect of Myer's testimony was seen on Counselor Marsh. If a thunderbolt had struck him he could not have been more visibly affected. He was hit hard, in a vital point, and he was mad through and through. His first impulse was to get satisfaction out of the witness, in doing which, in the flurry of his excitement, he committed an inexcusable professional impropriety, and thereby insulted Mr. McDermott, who wasn't slow in realizing it, and Mr. Marsh paid dearly for it.

Mr. Marsh in his rage turned on his own witness and asked him whether, in going and returning to and from court, he had been in conversation with opposite counsel. Before the words had fairly ceased to echo Mr. McDermott took him up, saying, "If you don't know yet the courtesy due to your profession, it is time you were taught it. You are mad, sir, that this witness is not willing to testify falsely and perjure himself; the whole thing is a Republican political trick from first to last".

It is needless to say that Mr. Marsh, being brought up with this round turn, subsided and calmed down. So far from it being true that the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee didn't dare to put Mr. Keys on the stand, or that the latter was afraid to go on, Mr. McDermott offered that he should go on any time after the witnesses from New York were examined; and on the last day Mr. Keys sat by his counsel in court, and they could have put him on at any time. The truth is that, while the Democrats were anxious to put him on, the Republicans were the people afraid to do it.

Mr. McDermott managed the case with consummate skill and perfect fairness. He deserves much praise and receives it on all sides.

The Week of Prayer.

(From The Elizabeth Journal.)

Aside from the purely religious feature of this the week of prayer, there is something grand in the co-operation of all the Christian people of the world, for the purpose of effecting some good. Prayer and other religious services are the main work of this co-operation, but without attempting to appreciate the good results that may possibly flow from these, there must also be incalculable good from the activity, the hand-to-hand work that must follow such a world-wide sentiment concentrated on special objects and consecrated to special purposes. The merely mental and physical effects of such a universal feeling, directed to good purpose, cannot but result in great good. It is like public sentiment aroused and directed against some evil. While all will not put the sentiment into practice some will, and moral victories are thus accomplished. Just so the week of prayer, by inspiring a desire for good to come, arouses an activity that helps it come. And this is only the earthly phase of it. The other cannot be calculated.

Dunellen Gets Another Mail.

Beginning to-day, Postmaster Harold, of Dunellen, despatches a new direct mail to New York, closing at his office at 11 A. M. With this addition, Dunellen has now four daily mails to New York.

KEYS OFFERED HIMSELF AS A WITNESS.

But the Republican Contestants Were Afraid to Put Him on the Stand.

Only such expressions as "Oh, if we only had not done it!" uttered agonizingly, can properly describe the distressed feelings of the Republican managers since the contest to deprive William J. Keys of his seat in the Senate, before Special Master James L. Griggs, has panned out in such un Republican form. Those who have heard the evidence can best understand the unenviable position in which appear the instigators of this outrageous attempt to defeat the will of the great majority of voters of Somerset county and to discredit an honorable man. Severe as it would have been upon Mr. Keys had they, even by some slight evidence, apparently substantiated their dastardly charge, yet it could not have been so severe as the rebukes they are receiving from Republicans and Democrats alike. If ever Wm. J. Keys is called on to prove the contrary of the statements made during the campaign about his ineligibility to the office of State Senator, issued in printed form, all he need do is to refer his interrogators to the evidence that has been produced by the Republicans in this contest. That evidence established conclusively the fact that the man who in 1887 registered and voted in New York as William J. Keys was another man, 20 years younger than Senator-elect William J. Keys, and wore a glass eye and had died some time ago. When this fact came out, Mr. McDermott interrupted by saying that "it would never do to have as a member of the Senate a man with a glass eye and who was dead." This caused a roar of laughter.

Wednesday, while Mr. Keys was absent, in the afternoon, the Republicans made a great fuss and said they wanted to call him as the next witness. Friday Mr. Keys put aside important matters, came by an early train from South Jersey, and took a seat at the side of his counsel, awaiting a call to the witness chair; but no call was made—showing that the Republicans appreciated the fact that if they gave him a chance to testify he would, by his evidence, show them up in a very bad light.

The law requires that eight days' notice shall be given each party to the contest that testimony is to be taken, Counsel for the contestant said he would waive the right to notice and consent that counsel for the incumbent call Mr. Keys, who sat near, to the witness chair. Mr. McDermott said that if they would consent that two other witnesses might also be called he would put Mr. Keys on the stand, but that he did not propose to have him sworn and then have to stop, thus having a chance to prove half the case. Mr. Marsh would not consent. Mr. Keys had been subpœnaed by the contestant and had been waiting to be called, but, for what reason is not fully known, they failed to do so. He offered himself as a witness, but they refused to put him on the stand.

This taking of testimony was only a preliminary matter. Before a contest can be noticed by the Senate a prima facie case must be proved by the contestant and then the incumbent may present his side of the case. Whatever may have been proved will now be returned to the Senate by the Special Master before whom it was taken. Under the Constitution the Senate is sole judge as to the qualifications of its own members. If the Senate Committee, after examining the testimony taken, determines that there is nothing to warrant the contest, they will so report, and that will be the end of the matter. The manifest failure of this contest leaves no doubt in the minds of all fair men that the Senate Committee will refuse to put the State to any expense.

"Uncle How Sung Gee, Yum Cha Lo!"

One of the most conspicuous figures on the streets of Plainfield the past few days has been Judge W. T. Birdsall, whose home is in Dunellen, but who has learned to love this city so well as to visit it constantly. He calls himself the veteran paper salesman of the United States, and rejoices that his friends are a multitude, from Canada to the city of Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He speaks Spanish, German, Italian, and Chinese, and was a schoolmate of Chauncey M. Depew. He used to play poker with Gen. Grant; was a 49er of California; and never had occasion to pay a doctor's bill in his life. He is "hail fellow well met," and says he loves the poor better than the rich. His greeting to all is: "Guie! How sung gee, yum cha lo!" which he translates from Chinese into English as "How are you! Drink tea!"

Lawyer Hall's Tin Cup Again.

[From The New York Telegram.]

There is no instrument too trifling for Satan's use when he wishes to make good men fall out and to disturb the harmony of the righteous. A tin cup has introduced discord into a happy club of Jersey commuters, just as an apple brought sorrow into Eden. It fell out of a sachel of a member in the Fanwood Club's car. Neither intoxicants nor games for money are allowed in this car. This discovery of the cup moved some members to joking, a joke got into a local paper "and there you are." Accusations and counter-accusations are heaped up and all is discord in a once happy club because a tin cup got loose. It is a warning against the pernicious practice of carrying tin cups.

Big Crowd Expected at the Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8.—The railroads centering here are making preparations for the large influx who are expected here to witness the great fistic battle which is to be decided on the night of January 14, at the rooms of the Olympic Athletic Association, between Jack Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons. The latter is still at Bay St. Louis and his condition is reported to be almost perfect.

The Divorce Lawyers Indicted.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The grand jury indicted William H. Buttner and William D. Hughes, the divorce lawyers whose bogus divorces bore the seal of the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois. Buttner is indicted for forgery and grand larceny and Hughes for forgery, all in the second degree. It is probable that they will be arraigned to-day.

Clerk Jewett's Roll.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 8.—Clerk Jewett's roll for the House includes 179 Republicans and 158 Democrats. This makes the Republicans successful and gives the party the Governor and Senate.

Steinitz Captures Another Game.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Mr. Steinitz won the game of chess from Mr. Gunsberg last night, making the score of the tournament Steinitz 5, Gunsberg 3, drawn 5.

Chief of the French Republicans.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—General Boulanger telegraphs to his followers here to deny the report that he has abdicated his pretensions to leadership, and declares that he remains, as he always has been, the chief of the National Republican party and a servant of the Democracy.

Dropped Dead in the Station.

JAMAICA, L. I., Jan. 8.—Isaac Morrell, 69 years old, a well-to-do farmer, dropped dead at Hollis Depot while purchasing a ticket to Long Island City. He was to serve on the grand jury.

Accident to a Sleighing Party.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 8.—Thirty-two members of a sleighing party from Scranton were hurt, 11 of them seriously, by the overturning of their sleigh on a hill at Rendham, Lackawanna County, early in the morning. Miss Annie Delacey had a shoulder and collar bone broken.

Mrs. Cleveland Opens a Charity Ball.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—Walter Platt Pepper and Mrs. Grover Cleveland opened the eleventh annual charity ball at the Academy of Music last evening. Afterward Mrs. Cleveland retired to one of the procenium boxes. The ball was one of the most successful ever given.

Some of the Furnaces Will Run.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 8.—It is announced that only a portion of the Mahoning Valley furnaces will be put out of blast next Saturday. The furnace men are not at all in favor of shutting down, and, therefore, about half of the establishments will continue running.

DIDN'T REPORT IT.

He Thought the Cow Signaled Him to Go Ahead.

IN THE early days of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad," said a railroad man, "stock was so frequently killed on the road that Manager Clark found it necessary to require the locomotive engineers to make a note of whatever they killed. The engineers had to fill out a form stating when, where and what kind of animal had been killed, and turn the report in to the superintendent, of stock claims. One day a complaint from a farmer was received by Manager Clark in which the killing of a valuable cow by the Santa Fe engine was related. The letter was referred to the stock claim department, but no report from the engineer of the train in question could be found. Mr. Clark sent for the engineer, an old employe of the road named John Norton, and asked him why he had not reported the collision with the cow.

"'Didn't know I hurt the cow,' said Norton.

"'You remember hitting the cow?'

"'Certainly—and I slowed up when she rolled over on her back, but she waved her feet to me to go ahead, and I concluded she was all right.'"—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A Batch of Interesting Items from That Entertaining Sheet.

NE LESS—We know of one Indian who won't gambol along the flowery war path any more. We refer to Lay-Down-And-Roll-Over-On-The Grass, otherwise known as Big Jim. He was helping himself to a mule from Thompson's corral the other night, when one of the herders killed him so dead that he didn't have time to pull in his tongue. As usual, most of the funeral expenses had to come out of our pocket, although he was not our meat.

GETTING MONOPOLISTS—Some one in Omaha is selling off land in this neighborhood for gardens and pasturage, and every day or two a tenderfoot shows up to take possession. He finds the land to belong to the Government, and to be composed as follows:

Cactus	15
Sage brush	15

In five different cases our private graveyard has been included in sales, putting us to considerable trouble and expense to hold it. We are getting rather tired of this sort of thing, and the next pilgrim who comes along and takes that graveyard for a cattle-range of which he is the sole owner has got to skip at the word, or he made the tenth man sleeping under the sands.

WE APOLOGIZE—The editor, owner, publisher and proprietor of the thing called "Our Contemporary" was driven frantic with jealousy because we were able to order and pay for three bundles of paper at once. We happened to meet him in Bonny's hardware store Tuesday afternoon, where he was dickering for a grindstone to use as a balance-wheel on his "only steam press," and he boiled over and called us a liar. We hope he can be patched up, sewed together and saved from the grave, though the latest reports are discouraging. We didn't mean to. If he only will get well he may abuse us the rest of his natural life and we won't say a word.

ANNOUNCEMENT—We hereby announce ourselves as a candidate for mayor at the election in April. It is a little early, but no man ever secured an office by being a little late. We don't propose to let any sense of false modesty stand in the way of our getting there. We can read and write and cipher. We represent the intelligence and manners of this community. We are the top-sheaf of society and can borrow one hundred dollars at the bank any day. In brief, we are the best candidate who can be put up for this office, and we are doing the public a favor by consenting to run. We shall have something further to say on this subject later on. We don't want the office, but the office wants us. At least, we think she does.

THE CANDIDATE.

IT'S OUR WAY—We understand that Judge Rich feels very bitterly towards us because we said in the Kicker last week that he got only his just deserts in the row with Major Baldwin. It's our way to state facts. The two gentlemen were disputing as to the color of a jack-rabbit's eye. The Major was the soul of good nature until the judge pulled his nose. We stood close by and saw it all, and distinctly heard the "spat!" of the bullet as it struck the judge in the shoulder. The fact that Major Baldwin subscribes for five copies of the Kicker, while Judge Rich won't have it in the house, does not bias us in the least. We say that when a man pulls another man's nose in malice he should be prepared for the worst. If the judge was not prepared it was his own fault. He is bragging that he will serve our nasal organ in the same way. Judge, don't you try it—not unless you are tired of this vain world and want to go hence!—Detroit Free Press.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. The gain by obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample in the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how we can sell for CASH instead of how high we must sell for credit.

FOR SUNDAY READING

ON LIFE'S GENNESARET.

No land in sight; a wild, strange storm about me roars;
Darkness intense, and clouds; no star in azure soars;
Waves beat against my skiff; my toiling oars are vain;
My life the idle buffet of the angry main.

A mountain shrouded deep, and One who watchful prays;
He knows my deepest peril, my tumultuous ways;
His eye no darkness dims. To me in midnight gloom
The pathway seems bereft, the lurid waves my tomb.

A flash of light—One walking radiant in the storm.
My fears increase. I dread the specter's mystic form.
When lo! a voice: "Good cheer. 'Tis I. Be not afraid."
He stood beside me, and the storm-tossed waves were stayed.

O timid soul! How slow to learn thy Saviour's power.
He's near thee in the storm, in midnight's darkest hour.
Be not afraid. Thy skiff shall life's rough billows ride,
And all the storms be calm with Jesus at thy side.

—Rev. Dwight M. Pratt, in N. Y. Observer.

OURSELVES FIRST.

Differences Between the Questions of Honor and Profit and Those of Character and Duty.

There is a sense in which we are prone to put ourselves first, in our planning and purposing; and there is another sense in which we are disinclined to do so. When we think of good results to be attained, and of good things to be secured, we all want to have ourselves first in the final apportionment. But when we think of good to be done in the world, of burdens to be borne, and of personal responsibilities to be discharged, we are by no means so forward to assert our own pre-eminence. We are quite ready then to let others go before us.

So, again, when it is a question as to who shall have honors and privileges, we are prompt to see reasons for our standing in the foremost place; but when the question is as to the person who shall make the effort to win those honors and acquire those privileges, we are tempted to think that it is not fair for us to be all by ourselves in the struggle. Others ought to help us, and if they can do more for us by being in the advance just now, we are glad to have them there—on our account.

The one of these methods of putting ourselves first is right, and the other is wrong. The one is selfish and the other is unselfish. In questions of honor and profit, we have no right to put ourselves first. In questions of character and duty, we ought to put ourselves first. We are here in the world to live for others, not for ourselves; but it is ourselves who are here to live for others. Ourselves are to be put first in the mission of living for others than ourselves.

If a school-boy would stand well in his classes, he must look to himself, rather than to his classmates or to his teachers, as a means of such attainment. If a student would be a picked man, among the chosen few, for coveted college honors, he must look to himself, rather than to his family associations or to interceding friends, to secure him such precedence. In football or in a boat race, it is what a man is himself, rather than what the captain of his team or his crew would like him to be, that gives him his relative position among his compeers. A man can, in the long run, do more for himself, in the business struggle of life, than all his backers or friends can do for him. They can not help him if he will not help himself. A party leader can neither win nor hold public confidence by any vote of his party, if he himself fails to be true to his principles, to his professions, and to himself. What a man is, is the main factor in what a man does, or can hope to do.

In showing the success and the failure of Lord Bacon, in his day and sphere, Dean Church quotes the pregnant saying of Canon Mozley, that "men are made up of professions, gifts and talents; and also of themselves," and he adds: "With all his greatness, his splendid genius, his magnificent ideas, his enthusiasm for truth, his passion to be the benefactor of his kind, with all the charm that made him loved by good and worthy friends, amiable, courteous, patient, delightful as a companion, ready to take any trouble—there was in Bacon's self a deep and fatal flaw. * * * And a ruin of a great life was the consequence." A splendid career, like Bacon's, may be brought to a disastrous close by a neglect to care for self, while caring for all things else. An humble career may prove a failure by a like neglect.

As a means of high achieving in any sphere, it is important to be in order to do; and before a man can look to results of his work on behalf of others, or to the recognition of his work by others, he must see to it that he himself works worthily. In honor, in privilege, and in reward, a man can give the first place to others; but in character, in duty and in responsibility, a man must look to himself first of all.—S. S. Times.

CHRISTIANITY EXALTS MAN.

A Religion That Lifts Up It's Followers, But Pricks the Bubble of Their Vanity.

We have often heard that it is the aim and effect of religion to humble the pride of man; but it is just as true to say that it is the purpose and work of religion to exalt and dignify the believer. The point of view determines the judgment. The Indians who swept across these interior plains spurned the teachings of missionaries who would wash the vermillion from their cheeks, strip the featers from their crests, pluck the otters' skins from their scalp-locks, and slip the scarlet streamers from their ponies' tails. Such degradation of the braves was not to be tolerated. But the men who came hither to build the cities of a Christian civilization and who sit to-day in their homes surrounded by the refinements of wealth and art are somehow sensible of an exalted manhood instead of lost honor. Nothing at once so humbles vanity and exalts worth as the revelation of God made in the Bible.

Twice in the sacred volume, once in the Old Testament and once in the New, we hear the command "Son of Man, stand upon thy feet;" and each time it is the majesty of Heaven lifting up the prostrate worshiper. When that first vision was granted to the priest Ezekiel—when he saw break out about him all the splendors of a Heavenly estate—wheels of fire and wings of seraph, hosts of celestial armies and ministers of Divine power—when he stood suddenly before that throne which was beautiful and bright as an individual sapphire and circled by the bow "which one sees after the rain"—It is not to be wondered at that he fell awe-struck, dumb. That which wakes our astonishment is that out of "the excelent glory" comes the voice: "Son of Man, stand upon thy feet."

The practical repetition of this is found in the more familiar incident of Paul's conversion. It is the Heavenly light which prostrates him; it is the Heavenly voice which raises him up with the reassuring word: "Rise, and stand upon thy feet." That is but a poor conception of the truth which sees the prostration, but like Paul's companions fails to understand the voice.

Man is the only creature of this earth that can stand self-poised. From the moment that the creeping child swings itself up upon its dimpled feet and stands smiling back upon its proud mother, it is the world's prince. That which Burns calls man's "Heaven erected face" marks him as one "beneath whose feet" all creatures are divinely put. Beautiful as is the painted trout, the silvery grayling; exquisite as are the colors of the bird unfolding in its flight the "azure, green and gold;" pliant as are the flexile members of the ape, it is man only who can stand erect as a spear and look Heaven in the eye.

For a generation the court of the Chinese Empire was closed to the ambassadors of christendom from the fact that this "Son of Heaven" received neither Prince nor plenipotentiary except as he crawled before the throne. But the majesty of the Most High, as revealed to us in the blessed Word, exalts that dignity by grace which was conferred by creation. True power is always simple, and true worth sympathetic. There is no need to sing Stennett's lines:

> Forbid it that Omnipotence
> Should crush a feeble worm,

for it is the part of petty power to be only terrible—it is the part of Omnipotence to be gracious. Many a princeling in India rides loftily through his ranks of prostrate subjects, while the English Premier, upon whose word his semblance of power depends, rides unnoticed through the cowds of London in a hansom.

Christianity exalts, never degrades, man. It pricks the bubble of his vanity, but it stands all his nobler faculties and ambitions upon firm footing. It strikes off the bondage of a servile fear and enriches him with the liberty of the sons of God. The chains of sin are broken and the soul leaps as the lame man whom Peter bade to rise. The shame of guilt is gone and with it the downcast face and averted eye. Let it be understood and preached that the Gospel always humbles but never humiliates; that out of the very effulgence which prostrates comes the voice that bids him: "Son of Man, stand upon thy feet."—Interior.

Sincerity Not All of It.

Sincerity of purpose is very well, as far as it goes; but sincerity of purpose does not secure correctness of opinion with consequent rectitude of conduct. A man may be sincere in his belief that communism and anarchy are a better basis of society than any on which an existing government is founded; but his sincerity on these points does not in itself make him a good citizen. Sincerity in the realm of morals or of religion is no safer guide than in the realm of politics. To show that a man was sincere in all his life-course is to show that he did not intend to be wrong or to do wrong; but it does not show that he was right in his opinions or correct in his conduct. There is such a thing as giving too much credit to a man simply on the ground of his unmistakable sincerity.—S. S. Times.

WISE SAYINGS.

—Hope is the cordial of the human heart.—Chicago Standard.

—The man who overcomes himself disappoints himself.—Ram's Horn.

—Devotedness is all that is the grandest and most sublime in human life; it is, so to speak, the Divine side of our humanity.—P. Felix.

—The seeming shipwrecks we meet with in the voyage of life often prove the very things which best speed our course to the haven where we would be.—N. Y. Observer.

—It is one thing to praise the beatitudes; it is another thing to practice their spirit. Any one can do the former; it requires grace to succeed in the latter.—United Presbyterian.

—He is a fool who hopes that our reason will follow to their conclusions the mysterious ways of Him who is one Being in three Persons. Know, then, how to restrain thyself, O man, when thou desirest to question the things of God.—Dante.

—The peace of God is rich in its blessings. It tells us that our sins are forgiven and that we are walking in His commandments. His peace is essential to enjoyment and progress in the Christian life. Only as we possess it can we use the Divine word with profit. As Mr. Spurgeon says: "Put sheep in good pasture and they can not thrive if constantly driven about by dogs."—Christian Inquirer.

—Every man and woman has a lion to fight. If you have not fought the lion, it is because you have let the lion eat you up. This very moment the contest goes on. The Trajan celebration, where ten thousand gladiators fought and eleven thousand wild beasts were slain, was not so terrible a struggle as that which at this moment goes on in many a soul. That combat was for the [illegible] of the body, this is for the life of the soul.—Talmage, in N. Y. Observer.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

PROHIBITION IN ARABIA.

A Country Where Total Abstinence Has Been Practiced for Centuries.

The ancients had a proverb to the effect that "milk is the wine of youth and wine the milk of old age." That absurd adage has been made the test of numerous dissertations in defense of the old world drink habits. "America," said those apologists, "is a young country, offering its inhabitants sufficient excitement in the form of adventures in the struggle with the perils of the wilderness and of manifold inducements to activity and enterprise. The older civilized nations, on the other hand, need an artificial stimulus to prevent the stagnation of their vital spirits."

Such sophists ought to visit Arabia, the ancient home of total abstinence. The Mohammedans date the triumph of their religion from the year 622, though the complete conversion of the Arabian peninsula was not accomplished before the end of the seventh century. But under the Caliphate of Omar prohibition of intoxicating beverages was enforced throughout the Moslem dominions, and since that time the followers of Islam, with the rarest exceptions, have remained total abstainers in all continents and all climes. It would be a mistake to suppose that the Mohammedan Scriptures interdict wine alone and permit other noxious stimulants. Wine-drinking, indeed, had become a synonym of the poison-habit, but the precepts of the Koran are comprehensive enough to answer all the practical purposes of Temperance: "Avoid Drunkenness;" "Renounce the Vice of Intoxication." The Wahabites, or Mohammedan Protestants, as they have been called, on account of their reform doctrines, make, indeed, the Koran their warrant for prohibiting coffee and tobacco, as well as wine and brandy, and the opium excesses of the modern Turks have never been sanctioned by the strict expounders of their faith. In that part of Araby known as Arabia Felix (the hill country in the south of the peninsula) grapes flourish in hundreds of gardens, but the crop is gathered exclusively for the sake of the raisins, and the natives actually dispense with all fluid stimulants except coffee; yet the effects of that abstemiousness can by no means be traced in their lack of mental energy. "What struck me most in the character of the nation," says the traveler, Burkhardt, who visited every part of the peninsula, "is the dignified bearing of their poor and the vivacity of their old men. Patriarchs of sixty or seventy years will enter with unaffected pleasure into the spirit of the liveliest conversation; will bandy repartees with a precocious youngster, or shake with laughter at the recital of a practical joke. So universal is that disposition among the graybeards both of the well-to-do classes and of the poorest, that I can not help thinking the lack of mental buoyance among the aged persons of our own nation must be due to some cause besides the depressing influence of long-continued drudgery."

Can there be much doubt that that "other cause" is the lethargizing after-effect of habitual intoxication? Wine and brandy stimulate or rather irritate, but eventually blunt the mental energies, and the Arabs escape that cause of vital exhaustion in spite of their torrid climate, and in spite of their rather far-going habit of early marriage. In the nomad camps of Yemen, boys of twelve years are frequently married to girls of ten, and young fellows of twenty may thus be burdened with all the cares of responsibility for the support of a numerous family, for polygamy, too, is practiced now and then. War, fearful droughts and famine add their share to the sorrows of existence, but Temperance-steeled health bears up against all that, and an Arab sheik at eighty years is, to all purposes, younger than a French Marquis at fifty. Wrestling-matches and horse races are amusements shared by all the adult males of an Arab tribe with the exception of cripples, sickness being so rare that it is almost limited to indigestions contracted by the eating of unwholesome substances in time of famine. On the flight before a pursuing enemy the Arabs of the desert brave with impunity almost indescribable fatigues, thinking nothing of bestriding a trotting dromedary for twenty consecutive hours, or of traveling for days in the teeth of a blinding sandstorm.

Nor does poverty daunt the spirit of that plucky race. "The natives of Araby have no proletariate," says Baron von Wrede; "no lower classes in our mob-and-rabble sense of the word. The poorest tiller of the soil maintains his dignity as a man, declines to cringe before superior wealth or power, and never loses sight of the rules of decorum in the presence of a guest. The wealthy sheiks of Hadramant, with all their overbearing treatment of menial foreigners, at once drop their hectoring manner on approaching a fellow countryman. They know that a negro will put up with kicks for the sake of bread, and a Frankish peddler with taunts for the sake of profit; but they also know that the self-respect of an Arab is poverty-proof."

In the pursuit of science Arabia has remained behind the countries of the civilized North, but in a land of deserts the development of educational institutions is hardly a fair test of mental energy. Science, like art, is more or less a product of leisure which again presupposes a surplus of wealth. In their prosperous colonies, in Syria, Northern Hindostan and Egypt, the Arabs cultivated science with a zeal not surpassed by any nation of classic antiquity, or by the Greeks alone, and during the long night of the Middle Ages the Arab portion of Spain was an intellectual Goshen, strangely contrasting with the barbarism and the gross ignorance of the surrounding countries. During the long period from the end of the eighth to the middle of the thirteenth century, when every sovereign of Christian Spain was at daggers drawn with his Moorish neighbors, he fame of the Moslem high [illegible] frequently induced Christian [illegible] to send their sons to Cordova and Toledo, and history records the name of more than one North Spanish monarch who obtained a safe conduct for his own person or a near relative in order to consult a Moorish physician of international fame. If it were not for the culture of Arab Spain, one might, indeed, often be tempted to doubt the progress of mankind during the thousand years' interval from the downfall of Rome to the discovery of America, but even the chronicles of hostile historians make it probable that the kingdom of the Cordova Califs was in several essential respects a more civilized country than the Empire of the Roman Cæsars. Industry and agriculture flourished in the valley of the Guadalquivir as they never flourished anywhere in Italy or Greece; medicine, astronomy, geography and mathematics reached a summit then attained for the first time in the history of science, and the culture of the magnificent Moorish cities was not defiled by orgies of vice and intemperance. Their kingdom perished, but they can boast that under their rule the Spanish peninsula enjoyed a degree of prosperity not equalled before or after; and the same claim might be justly advanced by the Arabian colonists of large portions of Eastern Africa and Central Asia. Eight hundred years ago a Chinese Emperor imported an army of Arab auxiliaries who, in compensation for their services, were permitted to colonize the Province of Yunan, and that colony, in the extreme west of the Chinese Empire, has ever since remained exempt to a remarkable degree from the famines, insurrections and other calamities of its eastern neighbors. Islamized Turkestan is an oasis in the midst of dreary deserts, and in all the vast dominions of the Czar the finest specimens of physical manhood are found in the Mohammedan settlements of the upper Caucasus.—Felix L. Oswald, M. D., in Union Signal.

NOTHING BUT BEER.

The Cost of Taking Just Plain Beer Every Day.

A gentleman was walking in Regent Park, London, and he met a man whose only home was in the poor-house. He had come out to take the air and excited the gentleman's interested attention.

"Well, my friend," said the gentleman, getting into conversation, "it is a pity that a man like you should be situated where you are. Now, may I ask you how old you are?"

The man said he was eighty-nine years of age.

"Had you any trade before you became penniless?"

"Yes; I was a carpenter."

"Did you use intoxicating drink?"

"No; oh, no! I only took my beer, never any thing stronger; nothing but my beer."

"How much did your beer come to a day?"

"Oh, a sixpence a day, I suppose."

"For how long a time?"

"Well, I suppose sixty years."

The gentleman had taken out his note-book, and he continued figuring with his pencil while he went on talking with the man.

"Now, let me tell you," he said, as he finished his calculations, "how much that beer cost you my man. You can go over the figures yourself." And the gentleman demonstrated that the money, at sixpence a day for sixty years, expended in beer, would, if it had been placed at interest, have yielded him nearly eight hundred dollars a year, or an income of fifteen dollars a week for support.

"See how much a gallon of whisky costs," said a judge, after trying a case. "One gallon of whisky made two murders; it made two wives widows and eight children orphans."—Cumberland Presbyterian.

RECENT GLEANINGS.

BEER contains but one per cent. of nutritive matter, and is, therefore, not a thing to be taken for nutrition at all.—Dr. Lancaster.

THE Lutherans in the Baltic provinces of Russia have undertaken a vigorous campaign against intemperance, and have already achieved a notable success.

A SOCIAL innovation in New York City is the "Blue-ribbon invitation" to dinners, indicating (by a knot of blue ribbon in the lower left-hand corner) that wine will not be served.

GEORGE W. CHILDS, of Philadelphia, says that since the introduction of foreign and native mineral waters as a table beverage the use of wine has decreased one-half at dinner parties and entertainments.

THE news was sent all over the State that some thieves had robbed a saloon-keeper's till—but no mention was made of the fact that the saloon-keeper had worse than robbed his patrons of their money, first.—Michigan Advocate.

A TEMPERANCE lecturer recently invited by some Kentucky distillers to speak in their town, expressed his surprise that men in their business should want an address in favor of Temperance, whereupon one of them replied: "We want you to understand that we don't make this whisky for our Kentucky boys; we make it to poison the Yankees and the Irish!"—National Temperance Advocate.

THE saloon, by general voice of the most enterprising business in the country, the business of transportation, is declared to be a menace and a curse. The saloon has its interdict. The saloon is the enemy of life and property. The saloon deserves to be outlawed by the general voice of the State and Nation, as it is already outlawed by the railroads.—N. Y. Independent.

MR. JOSEPH MALINS reports that Norway has reduced its consumption per head of intoxicants by more than one-half, and thereby effected a vast reduction in intemperance and crime. Sweden has suppressed household distillation and given local option to town and county municipalities, which enabled the Gothenburg town council to take over the drink-shops, suppress one-half of them, enact Sunday closing and early week-day closing. From Christiania and other Scandinavian parts come equally cheering accounts.—Christian Inquirer.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD

The Governor of Nebraska Spurns His Successor.

STORMY SCENES AT THE CAPITOL

Almost a Riot to Secure Control of the House of Representatives.

The Sheriff Bursts Open the Doors and Serves a Writ on the Speaker—The New State Officers Sworn In Amid Confusion. The Contest in Connecticut Still Undecided—Republicans in Control.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 9.—It looked at one time here as though there would be a riot in the legislative halls. In the morning all the doors of the Representatives' Chamber were closely guarded and none but members of the Legislature, State officers and persons having business inside were admitted.

All the members were on hand promptly, although they found great difficulty in pushing their way through the crowds that filled the corridors and besieged the Capitol at all points. The Alliance members had taken possession of the House at five o'clock in the morning. They placed the Speaker in the chair and put a cordon of assistant sergeant-at-arms around him.

When Lieutenant Governor Mickeljohn appeared he was not allowed to take his seat, but stood in front of the Speaker ready to call the joint session to order.

At 9 o'clock the Speaker issued an order for the arrest of Lieutenant-Governor Mieckeljohn, on the charge of misconduct in office and breach of the peace. The Lieutenant-Governor was not taken into custody.

Both sides had a force of sergeant-at-arms within call, and any attempt on either side to proceed with the canvass of the vote would have precipitated the row. To avoid this, a committee from each party was sent with a statement of the case to the Supreme Court.

Troops Ordered Out.

Governor Thayer ordered out a company of National Guards, and at 11 o'clock they stacked arms in the corridors of the capitol. Crowds had arrived to attend the inauguration of Governor-elect Boyd, and considerable impatience was shown at the delay in counting the votes. The militia was called out only as a precautionary measure.

The Doors Burst Open.

At noon the Supreme Court issued a writ of mandamus, directing the Speaker of the House to canvass the returns. The sheriff of Lancaster County, with deputies and a bailiff of the Supreme Court, burst in the doors of the House, and fought their way through the crowd of Alliance men guarding the entrance to the chamber.

The Speaker of the House proceeded to open the returns, and the Democratic Governor, Boyd, and the full Republican State ticket, with the one exception, was found elected on the face of the returns.

Thayer Holds the Fort.

Governor-elect Boyd called on Governor Thayer, and was informed that the latter would not give up the office, on the ground that Boyd was not a citizen of the United States, and therefore not eligible. Governor Thayer has barricaded the executive office, and remains inside with policemen and a company of militia on guard. It is impossible to reach him to ascertain his purposes, but it is understood that he will remain Governor, if possible, until all questions regarding his successor are settled.

CONNECTICUT'S CONTEST.

An Exciting Rumor that the Democratic Officers Had Been Sworn In.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 9.—The Senate has adjourned until next Tuesday. The House has taken a recess until January 20.

There was much excitement in the capital just before the Senate adjourned over a rumor that the Democratic State officers had been sworn in and were about to claim the offices. The doors were locked and other precautions were taken, but no movement was made, and, as now reported, nothing of the kind was contemplated.

The House Committee of Inquiry into the canvass of votes for State officers held a session and the members discussed the scope of their inquiry, but adjoined without final action to next Wednesday.

The House Democrats held a caucus immediately after recess to consider a nomination for United States Senator, but decided not to hold any regular nominating caucus until the evening of January 19.

The present situation of affairs is that the Senate has declared the Democratic State officers elected; the House has set about an inquiry as to whether any one was elected, and, meanwhile, the old State officers, Republicans, hold their offices, although Lieutenant-Governor Merwin has not appeared in the Senate, and that body is presided over by its own President pro tem.

Baptist Church Burned.

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 9.—At Springfield Center, near Richfield Springs, the Baptist Church and Mrs. Conkling's millinery store were burned to the ground. There was no insurance on the church. The loss will not be over $10,000.

Father Craft May Recover.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Gen. O'Beirne received the following dispatch from Father Craft at Pine Ridge: "Brooke received letter, for which I thank you. Wound better. May recover. Will write."

Donoghue to Skate in London.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Joseph F. Donoghue, the champion American skater, is expected here to-day, and efforts are being made to arrange a match in the metropolis.

THE HERESY TRIAL ENDED

It Is Conceded that the Rev. MacQueary Will Be Found Guilty.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 9.—The famous MacQueary trial is now at an end, all but the decision of the court. After the arguments on both sides were completed the court withdrew until it could formulate its opinion. It is expected that a decision will be reached in a short time, as it is quite generally conceded that the Rev. MacQueary will be found guilty.

In his closing argument Rev. MacQueary stated explicitly that his object in writing a book was not to create a sensation but to, if possible, assist in conforming Christianity to common sense and 19th century thoughts.

In closing with the final reply to the prosecutor, he said the church and the prosecutor were dogmatists and that the latter admitted that the council of Nice did not insist upon virgin birth, and literal resurrection of the body.

Rev. MacQueary has been advised throughout the trial by a Unitarian clergyman, and it is anticipated that he will adopt that creed.

HELPING THE STRIKERS.

British Trades Unions Rallying to the Support of the Railway Men.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The British trades unions are rallying on all sides to the support of the Scotch railway strikers, and the prospects of the companies are not so good as a few days ago, when the strike appeared to be about to collapse.

The non-union men from England are disgusted and frightened, and numbers of them are deserting the employ of the companies. Funds are supplied to all desiring to go back to England.

A director of one of the railways narrowly escaped from a mob in Glasgow last evening.

The directors of the North British Railway announce the failure of their efforts to arrange an amicable settlement of the differences between the company and the men. The feeling among the strikers and their sympathizers is growing more bitter, and the situation is serious.

Entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—This evening Mrs. Cleveland will be the chief guest at a dinner given by Mr. George W. Childs at his city residence. Later in the evening she will probably attend a ball given by Mrs. Frasier in the foyer of the Academy. This morning at 11 o'clock, ex-President Cleveland was given a breakfast by Mr. L. Clarke Davis, of the Public Ledger. The gentlemen who joined Mr. Davis in doing honor to the ex-President were Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, Hon. John E. Russell, of Massachusetts; Hon. Robert E. Pattison, Governor-elect of Pennsylvania; Anthony J. Drexel, William F. Harrity, John C. Bullitt, Samuel Gestine Thompson, William M. Singerly and Colonel McClure.

Attacked With Convulsions.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—Payson Tucker of Portland, president and general manager of the Maine Central Railroad, was taken suddenly ill at the Adams House here, and was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital. He is now in a stupor, but the physicians say he will recover unless he has another attack of convulsions, with which he was attacked in the morning. Mr. Tucker was en route home from Washington, where he urged upon the President the pardon of defaulter Gould of Portland.

King Humbert to the Rescue.

ROME, Jan. 9.—While workmen were excavating a cellar for a new building, the earth, softened by the heavy rains, caved in, burying a number of the men beneath it. King Humbert, hearing of the accident, hastened to the scene, and personally directed the work of rescuing the unfortunate men. All were taken out unhurt, except three, who were only extricated after great difficulty, and in an injured condition. One of them, it is feared, is likely to die. The king was loudly cheered by the crowd as he drove away.

Placed a Cartridge in the Oven.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 9.—The foreman of an asbestos mine in Pelham placed a powder cartridge in the oven of J. R. Rowell's house, where he boarded, to warm. The cartridge exploded, blowing the stove to pieces, smashing all the windows, and setting fire to the house. Mrs. J. R. Rowell had both legs crushed, one leg being torn off, and Mrs. Nelson Rowell, her daughter-in-law, was badly injured.

Governor Tuttle Sworn In.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 9.—Goveror Hiram A. Tuttle was inaugurated in Representatives Hall in the presence of the members of both branches of the Legislature and a vast throng of spectators.

WILL VETO THE BILL

Poor Prospects for the Free Coinage Amendment.

OPPOSITION FROM ALL SIDES.

Speaker Reed Says It Will Never Pass the House Coinage Committee.

A Vote Ordered in the Senate on Wednesday—Another Skirmish Expected Over the Elections Bill—It Will Be Antagonized by the Pure Food Measure—Fate of the Shipping Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Should the Financial bill with its free coinage amendment be passed by the Senate and House, the President will, in all probability, return it to Congress without his approval. In this event, support sufficient to pass the measure over his veto cannot be found.

Speaker Reed is of the opinion that the bill will never pass the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures. The silver men in the House are not altogether willing to admit this, but as the Speaker appointed the members of the Coinage Committee, he doubtless knows whereof he speaks.

With the Silver bill out of the way in the Senate the floor will be cleared for another skirmish, and it seems bound to come. The Elections bill will probably be awakened and its form materialized in the Senate just as soon as the way is made clear for it. Senator Hoar has determined to seek a renewed consideration for his pet measure.

When Mr. Hoar makes his motion, which he will do, unless he changes his mind, it will be antagonized by Senator Paddock, of Nebraska, who will return to Washington to move that the Pure Food bill be taken up. The passage of the Pure Food bill has been petitioned for by the farmers in all sections of the country, and Mr. Paddock is personally interested in having it become a law.

Mr. Hale is anxious to have the Appropriation bill passed as soon as possible, but will not bring it forward as an obstruction to the Elections bill. Senator Allison says he has no appropriation bills to bring forward at this time, hence there will be no opportunity to demand consideration of those measures until it is absolutely certain that the Republicans can not pass the Elections bill.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

An Agreement to Take a Vote on the Financial Bill Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—In the Senate, Messrs. Platt and Allison gave notice of their intention to call up at an early day respectively the Copyright and Land bills.

An agreement was reached by which general debate on the Financial bill will be closed on Tuesday, and a vote taken Wednesday.

The House passed the bill authorizing the issue of certificates of service to telegraph operators with the Union army in the late war.

The House refused to pass the resolution, limiting debate on the Shipping bill, and discussion of it continued, Mr. Grosvenor speaking in favor of it.

The President at the Theatre.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The President and Mrs. Harrison, Vice-President Morton and friends, Count Arco Vally, the German Minister and guests, occupied boxes at the New National theatre last night to witness the performance of E. H. Sothern in "The Maister of Woodbarrow." The theatre was crowded to the doors. Mr. Sothern was called before the curtain, and expressed thanks for the hearty reception at the hands of such a brilliant audience.

New Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The President sent to the Senate nominations of the following postmasters: New Hampshire, E. Y. Coblelch, Lancaster; W. A. Churchill, Lebanon. Massachusetts, N. D. Stoodley, Reading; H. A. Burdett, Clinton; New York, C. N. Norris, Brighton; W. I. Halstead, Mount Kisco; J. L. Hays, Walden; A. J. Taft, Whitehall. New Jersey, Fred. Boorman, Bayonne. Pennsylvania, B. Steele, Irwin; Henry Howard, North Clarendon.

No Opposition to Vilas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A dispatch from Milwaukee says that General Bragg has drawn out of the Senatorial contest, leaving a clear field for Vilas on promises that he will be unanimously supported by the Democrats to succeed Sawyer two years hence.

Four Men Fall Fifty Feet.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 9.—The scaffolding on the tower of St. John's Church, upon which four men were working, gave way precipitating them to the street, a distance of 50 feet. Henry Redmond and Isaac McCutcheon received injuries from which they cannot recover, while Christ Walker and James Swisher are in a critical condition.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

HONORS FOR CLEVELAND.

The Guest of the Philadelphia Young Men's Democratic Society.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The banquet given by the Young Men's Democratic Association in the Academy of Music last night was a brilliant affair and a great political gathering. Leading Democrats from all parts of the country, including ex-President Cleveland were present.

The banquet began at 7 o'clock and covers were laid for over 600 diners. The decorations were profuse. The Association is said to have expended $10,000 in the preparations for the banquet and the scene presented when all were seated at the table has probably never been excelled. Mr. Cleveland occupied the seat of honor, Mr. Bayard being on his right and Governor Pattison at his left.

At the conclusion of the banquet proper, the balconies were opened for the admission of the public, and were soon filled with a brilliant gathering, mostly ladies in evening dress. Prominent among the guests was Mrs. Cleveland. Her entrance with a party of ladies was greeted with applause, which was redoubled when she kissed her hand to her distinguished husband, who sat nearly opposite to her.

When Mr. Cleveland rose to respond to his toast, all the diners waved napkins and handkerchiefs, the speaker remaining several minutes on his feet before he was permitted to proceed. His speech, which was a long one, was upon the "Principles of True Democracy," the toast to which he responded.

Governor-elect Pattison's speech was received with much applause.

Ex-Secretary of State Bayard responded to the toast, "The Federal Government—Its Perpetuity Depends Upon Constitutional Limitations." His address was mainly eulogistic of the Cleveland administration.

MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTED.

Desperate Attempt to Rob a Well Known Stock Raiser.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Jan. 9.—Charles Eisensmith a wealthy resident of this place, was almost murdered while driving on the outskirts of this town during the evening. He was returning to his home in Jockey Hollow, and when in a deserted part of Western avenue was stopped by a stranger wearing a slouch hat, who asked for a ride. The request was granted and the man had no sooner got into the wagon before he caught Eisensmith by the throat, and struck him several times with a thick piece of iron. Eisensmith did not at once lose consciousness, and a desperate struggle ensued, during which the men fell from the wagon into the road. A wagon approaching scared the highwayman and he left his victim and took to the woods. His identity is unknown. Eisensmith, who is well known throughout the State for his stock of blooded horses, is at present in a critical condition. The assault is the first of its kind in this city for years, and has created considerable excitement.

Stepniak Greeted by a Large Audience.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Sergius Stepniak was greeted by a large audience at the Metropolitan Opera House last night to hear his lecture on "Count Tolstoi, Novelist and Social Reformer." His lecture, like the first of Stanley's, was given ostensibly for a charitable purpose, but each lecturer had a substantial share of the receipts set apart for him. The lecture last night was for the society to befriend working girls. About $10,000 was realized.

A Fight With a Prairie Dog.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 9.—When Thomas Murphy, a Roger Williams' Park employe, went to feed the prairie dogs in their cage during the day one of them seized his hand and began chewing it. The dog could not be clubbed off, and Murphy, as the little brute tore the flesh from his hand, swung the animal over and over against a rail, finally dashing its brains out. The surgeons fear hydrophobia.

John Jacob Astor Engaged.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—An engagement which will be of international interest is that of John Jacob Astor, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Astor, of New York, to Miss Eva Willing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willing, of Philadelphia. This engagement has been prophesied and announced a number of times, but this time there can be little doubt of its being a settled fact.

Boy Burglars Captured.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 9.—The gang of boy burglars who have infested this city for some time past were caught early in the morning while breaking into the store of Boise & Clark. They are George Deno, 19 years old, and Fred Loncto, 15 years old, of West Springfield, and Adolph Foster, 17 years old, of this city. The boys have confessed to a long list of burglaries.

Two Green Goods Men in Custody.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The police have in custody two green goods men known as O'Brien, alias "Paddy the Pig," and George Evans. They were arrested last night. O'Brien is believed to be the swindler who was cowed with revolvers by James Hadley and Robert George of Monroeville, Ala., recently, and robbed of $1,700 by the men he was trying to swindle.

New Railroad Superintendent.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 9.—Henry F. Sampson of this city has been selected superintendent of the Connecticut River Railroad to succeed James Milligan, recently elected president. Mr. Sampson has been a conductor on the road for many years.

Dillon Will Sail To-Morrow.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—John Dillon, the Irish envoy, announces that he will sail for Europe on the French steamer to-morrow. He said that complications had occurred on the other side and that his presence was needed there. He had cabled to Mr. O'Brien and his colleagues to suspend further hostilities until his arrival on the other side.

TO FORCE THE ISSUE

A Big Battle May be Reported at Any Moment.

PRESSING UPON THE SAVAGES.

General Miles Says the Fight Will Take Place Near His Camp.

The Soldiers Are Closing In Upon the Redskins from All Sides—A Plan to Drive Them Into a Funnel—A Masked Hotchkiss Gun that Will Sweep the Valley—Red Cloud Surrenders.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 9.—A crisis is approaching. The cordon of soldiers under Generals Brooke and Carr surrounding the hostiles are marching, and are very close to the camp of the Indians.

This move has been discovered by the Indians, and they have a big force of pickets in every direction. A strong line of them is placed not far from this camp.

General Miles is determined to force the issue from now on. He holds the opinion that a battle is imminent, and believes that it will take place very close to this camp. He favors this point, believing that he can defeat any number of the enemy.

The soldiers are pressing upon the redskins from the rear and flanks. The month of the funnel is Pine Ridge, and it is here that the savages will be driven and crushed. The hostiles are nearly 1,000 strong, and they have sent word that they will not surrender until the soldiers were taken to the railroad.

Preparations for receiving the redskins in their rush through the funnel are now completed. A trench has been dug west of the school house, with bags of dirt piled up for breastworks. A Hotchkiss gun, masked with saplings, has been planted in such a position that it can sweep the valley in all directions. Fortifications on the hillsides to the north and east have also been finished and rifle pits have been dug everywhere.

Buffalo Bill, accompanied by Buckskin Jack, arrived at noon from Rushville in the face of a stiff breeze. He was warmly greeted by several hundred Indians, who thronged about the sutler's store, and later he called on General Miles. He bore a letter from Governor Thayer, setting forth Colonel Cody's connection with the State militia, and assuring the General of the hearty co-operation of the State troops.

RED CLOUD COMES IN.

He Reports a Band of Large Proportions in the Hostile Camp.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Jan. 9.—Red Cloud came in during the morning from the hostile camp, bringing along with him a few of his followers. During the day numerous small bands kept slipping away from the hostile camp reporting at the agency and soon there will be none left at that camp but the Brules, the Indians who first premeditated the present trouble.

Red Cloud reports that much dissatisfaction exists among the Indians in the hostile camp.

INDIANS IN WAR PAINT.

Troops Rushing to Pocatello to Prevent Pillage and Murder.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 9.—A special from Pocatello says that there is great excitement there over the action of the Shoshone Indians. They indulged in a war dance and otherwise evinced a desire for bloodshed.

Mayer Jim, their chief, declared that the Indians would fight, giving as a reason that the Ft. Hall Indians got heap grub and blankets, and Indians got nothing. Indians heap mad; will fight." The Indians are in war paint and cannot be restrained.

Later advices say that the Governor's guard and the U. S. cavalry stationed at Boise City have been ordered to Pocatello, and by this time they ought to be en route. The town is in a state of wild excitement. Not over 200 men at the place can be mustered for service, and ranchmen and cowboys from the surrounding country are assembling to the rescue.

The people of Pocatello are pleading with the railroad people for trains to remove their families from the town. Requests from Blackfoot, Idaho, for transportation of arms have been sent to the Union Pacific people here.

The young bucks have been gathering all day, and a cowboy reports a gang of 200 pillaging the ranches outside of the town of Blackfoot. A friendly Indian said to-day that the Indians are gathering in bands and will then begin to pillage and murder.

Iowa Indians Restless.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—A dispatch from Waterloo, Iowa, says it is reported there that the Musquake Indians, located in the southern part of Tamaq county, have an attack of the Messiah craze, and there is apt to be an outbreak at any time. There are about 300 of them. Troops have been ordered out by the State.

Reduction of Liquor License Fee.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 9.—The representatives of the liquor interest of the State have prepared a bill, which will be introduced in the Legislature at an early day, providing for a reduction of the license fee to $300. Representative Stewart, of Allegheny, in speaking of this move, said: "If the liquor men are wise they will keep that bill where nobody can see it."

Miner Killed.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 9.—News has just reached here from Logan County that the Brumfield-McCoy vendetta had been renewed, and that in a fight on Hart's Creek six men were killed.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

It Is Not Yet Certain Who Will Succeed Parnell as Leader.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—It is stated that Justin McCarthy has personally agreed to resign the chairmanship of the Irish party, the majority to proceed to elect another chairman. It is not yet certain who the successor will be. O'Brien, Dillon, Sexton and Arthur O'Connor are prominently mentioned. All that is certain is that the choice will not fall on any of the opponents of Mr. Parnell.

Mr. Healy, as a last resort, has appealed to Archbishop Walsh to bring influence to bear on O'Brien and McCarthy to prevent their surrendering to Parnell. The Archbishop, however, shows no signs of interfering.

Mr. Gladstone very emphatically denies having offered office to Mr. Parnell, or having agreed to a merely temporary retirement of that gentleman from the leadership of the Irish National party.

United Ireland says that Mr. Parnell will make an important statement on Sunday in an address which he is to deliver at Limerick.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Fierce conflagrations are reported from Paris and Lyons.

Three convicts escaped from the Ohio penitentiary by scaling the wall with a ladder.

In their recent revolt against the Spaniards the natives of the Caroline Islands killed 200 foreigners, including 190 Spanish soldiers. They looted and burned the houses of all the missionaries at Ponopi.

It is reported that nineteen of the leading glass tableware manufacturers of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia have formed a combine, the object being to avoid waste of money during dull seasons.

At Brewsters, N. Y., an early morning fire destroyed J. A. Maher's meat market, H. B. Fowler's clothing store, Hutching's barber shop and a Chinese laundry. The buildings were all frame. The total loss is estimated at $30,000 and the insurance $10,000.

The suit of John Banas against the Rev. Aloysius Stefiens, the pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church of Woodham, L. I., for alienating the affections of Banas' wife, was tried before a jury in Long Island City, who returned a verdict giving Banas $7,500 damages.

Notice has been given that the wages of employees in the several departments of the Pennsylvania Steel Company at Steelton, Pa., will be reduced after February 1. The reduction will amount to 8 and 10 per cent. and will bring the wages down to what they were prior to November, 1889, when an increase was granted.

BRANDED IN OPEN COURT.

The Grand Jury of Union County Present T. W. Morrison to the World as the Instigator of Scurrilous, Unfounded Assaults on Private Reputation.

In open court at Elizabeth this morning, in the presence of the full bench and a large gathering of the Counselors of the State, newspaper reporters and others, the Grand Jury of Union County presented Thomas W. Morrison of Plainfield for publishing in his paper a series of scurrilous articles regarding President Elmore Moffett and Councilman Walter Hetfield, for which the Grand Jury could find no cause or defence.

They branded the man as the inciter of wanton attacks and unjustifiable assaults on private reputation. The full text of the presentment will appear in these columns to-morrow.

WINTER TRAVEL TO FLORIDA.

The Series of Pennsylvania Railroad Tours.

That Florida is to be the haven of refuge and recreation this year is manifested by the travel already directing itself there. To meet the demand of many who cannot afford the time nor expense of several months' sojourn in the land of sunshine and soft breezes, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has announced a series of five tours to leave New York January 20, February 3 and 17, and March 3 and 17, at the remarkably low rate of $50.00 from that city, and $48.00 from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. Tourists will travel in Pullman Palace Cars in charge of a Tourist Agent and Chaperon. A limit has been made allowing one hundred and fifty passengers only to each tour, so that applications for space and tickets should be made well in advance.

The round-trip rate includes Pullman accommodation and meals en route in dining car attached to the train, and tickets will be sold from all principal stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad system to a connecting point with the special. For detailed information and descriptive itinerary application should be made to Pennsylvania Railroad ticket offices.

The Success of the New Fire-Alarm System.

Chairman Hetfield, of the Fire Committee, Chief Doane, Charles Wann, representing the contractors, and others, made a formal test, yesterday, of the new fire-alarm system the Gamewell company has just completed in this city. Everything worked to the entire satisfaction of the city's officials, and met with their approval.

As box after box was rung the test became a most severe one, and one that the system will never be called upon to stand again. After the steam gong had been struck continuously for 368 times, of course the sliding valve became greatly overheated and expanded so that it could not shut itself. This was the only break in the perfect success of the test.

A Rural Observer's Sarcastic Parallel.

The Glen Gardner correspondent of The Clinton Democrat arises to remark that "from accounts published it appears that some of the citizens have become indignant because the Plainfield Reform Club hold their meetings on Sunday, but the Central New Jersey Railroad Company can thunder their coal through the town on Sunday and not a word be said."

BY THE WAY.

—Mme. Getti offers a job lot of mousquetaire gloves, eight-button lengths, just arrived from Paris, at only 90 cents a pair.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. B. Fay Mills will begin a series of evangelistic meeting in Bloomfield, in March, similar to those held recently in Plainfield.

Fred. Hockridge, a bright new chip from the old block, who does such good service for Arnold, Constable & Co., is on the road as assistant to Lorenzo Duncan, of T. B. Sheaff & Co. With such an able coach as this, young Hockridge should graduate an expert traveler in no time. Hockridge, Sr., is one of Plainfield's most popular people.

ANOTHER STORMY MEETING.

DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF, THE REFORM CLUB NEARS DISRUPTION.

Strong Charges of Antagonism Against the Christian Church—Heated Personal Debate—Cries of "Gag Law" Raised—Grave Accusations of Pledge-Violation—Officers and Members Resign.

The Plainfield Reform Club had another stormy meeting last night, when some very excellent Christian gentlemen found occasion to find great fault with some very conspicuous happenings. The first evidence of a renewal of a lack of harmony was seen in petty differences of opinion over the acceptance of the minutes of the previous meeting, when the first public wrangle over the question of closing the Sunday night meetings of the club took place. Considerable fault and counter-fault was found with the report, and Secretary George Musgrave had to explain that he had had only a small half-sheet of paper on which to record the doings of that meeting, which all readers of THE PRESS know was entirely inadequate to represent faithfully the doings of that lively occasion.

Scarcely was the minute-difficulty out of the way when up loomed another obstacle to that meek and lowly harmony which gentle-minded people love. The first glimpse of this new mischief-breeder was visible when Chairman Nathan Harper, the retiring President, announced that he had in his hands the written declination of James McGee of the election to the Presidency of the Club, and that the Club would therefore proceed to elect a President in his place.

The Rev. W. E. Honeyman, the Club's Chaplain, protested against another election, and moved that the resignation of Mr. McGee be not accepted. Judge Harper held that as Mr. McGee had not yet been installed as President he could only decline to serve, and could not resign; and on the ground that Mr. McGee's communications was not a resignation but a declination he ruled that Mr. Honeyman's motion was out of order. This was the signal for vociferous applause from John Goodwin and a party of cronies in one corner of the hall. Mr. Honeyman started to his feet as though to demand an appeal, but seemed to reconsider his thought, and sat down again.

J. D. Spicer, the Club's Treasurer, then arose with the nomination of H. Newton Spencer for President. He said that to his mind the presiding officer of such an institution should be a reformed man, and as Mr. Spencer was one, and had for seven years served the Club earnestly and faithfully, he ought to have the position.

"Best man you ever had!"—shouted Ab Cook from the corner, and laughter and applause were given.

Then George F. Opdyke struggled to his feet. At the last meeting—he said—the question of continuing the Sunday night meetings was put. Many were satisfied that the vote of the members at that meeting, despite the ruling, was against continuing the Sunday meetings. In consideration of the announcement of the Chairman, however, Mr. McGee had declined to serve as President. Still, believing that as President Mr. McGee could settle the prevailing feeling of discontent, he would re-nominate Mr. McGee for the office.

A motion that the nominations be closed was carried, and the Chairman appointed Messrs. Bauersachs and Burnett to act as tellers.

At this point Alexander Titsworth arose to inquire if members who had violated their pledge were going to be allowed to vote. Judge Harper stated that all members could vote whose names had not been stricken off the roll. Francis C. Harder thereupon called attention to that clause in the Constitution of the Club which provides that any member who violates his pledge thereby forfeits his membership. John French retorted that while that was true the Constitution also provided that all pledge-violators had to be called before the Executive Committee, who alone had the right to strike names off the roll, and that only after charges had been proved. All men were innocent till proved guilty.

Mr. McGee announced that he was opposed to any election until the question of policy as to the Sunday night meetings was settled, and offered to withdraw his letter of declination, which had not yet been accepted, and which would leave him still President-elect, and give the Club a chance to decide the Sunday night question. Or, he suggested, the order of business could be suspended and the question of policy could be taken up that way. At any rate, he would not run in an election against such a good and faithful member as Newton Spencer.

At this the hoarse whisper, "He's afraid so!" from the John Goodwin cohorts went echoing through the room, and Judge Harper ordered that the election proceed. Ethan Lanphear tried to put in a protest, but, the Chairman thundered forth the order "Proceed with the election of President!"

But now the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut took the floor. "The better plan"—said he—is to settle first the question of policy, and I therefore move that the order of business be suspended."

"You are out of order!" retorted Chairman Harper.

"Out of order!" echoed the astonished clergyman; "out of order to suspend the order of business!"

"I declare you out of order"—was the answer.

"Then I appeal from the decision of the Chair"—cried Mr. McGee.

A standing vote on the appeal was at once taken, and a very unfair vote it seemed to an unbiased looker-on. No effort, seemingly, was made by the tellers to distinguish between those who were Club members and those who were not. Numbers who had been Club members but who had lapsed in their dues or for some other reason felt that they were now outsiders were conscientious enough not to vote at all, though they favored the Sunday-closing movement; while some others who did vote, and whose refraining to vote would have materially changed the result, not only had never been Club members but were under the influence of liquor when they arose to their feet and were counted. To those spectators who wanted to see an honest vote this seemed very unjust. However, the tellers announced a vote of 29 in favor of sustaining the chair, and 27 against. Mr. McGee promptly withdrew his name from the contest, and John French jumped up to move that Newton Spencer be unanimously chosen President.

Scarcely had Mr. French resumed his seat when Secretary Musgrave blurted forth, with a meaning glance towards the ex-President, that in his opinion anyone having anything to do with the workings of the Club, or having any voice in its deliberations, ought to be a sober man. If men who are not sober are going to have a voice here,—he added—I don't want anything more to do with the Club.

The Chair again ordered the election to proceed; and, a ballot being taken, it was announced that Newton Spencer had received 41 votes and James McGee 2, while 3 were blank. This made a total of 46 votes, and the fact that every Club member cast a ballot gives conclusive significance to the fact that on the previous standing vote 56 voted and were counted, and in a subsequent standing vote 55.

The announcement that Mr. Spencer was the choice of the Club for President was given loud applause, and on Mr. French's motion the election was made unanimous. Mr. Spencer was thereupon conducted to the platform, and, with Treasurer J. D. Spicer, Financial Secretary J. W. A. Bauersachs, First Marshal William Hand and Second Marshal Wm. C. Smith, submitted to installation.

Secretary George Musgrave, First Vice President George F. Opdyke, and Third Vice President Francis C. Harder declined to serve, and resigned the offices to which they had been re-elected.

The women waved their handkerchiefs at President Spencer as he took the chair.

The formal installation over, Dr. Hurlbut suggested a renewal of the consideration of the Sunday night question. Mr. French retorted that that matter was in the hands of the Executive Committee. John Goodwin bellowed forth in his loudest tones "What's the idea of breaking up these Sunday night meetings? People go to them that don't go to church."

Half a dozen people jumped to their feet and began to talk. Judge Harper and John Goodwin both shouted out "I move we adjourn!" T. J. Gillies seconded the motion, but before he did so Mr. McGee had gained recognition from the Chair and was introducing a motion that a vote on the Sunday meeting question be taken, so that the sense of the Club in the matter could be referred to the Executive Committee for action.

But again John Goodwin thundered forth. "You heard me!"—he shouted.—"I moved to adjourn. You heard me, Mr. Chairman!"

"I had the floor before any seconding was done"—insisted Mr. McGee.

Peace-loving Mr. Vanderbeek arose. "I move that Mr. McGee be given the floor"—he pleaded.

Mr. McGee's eyes flashed, and he proclaimed in his sternest voice: "Mr. McGee has the floor, and Mr. McGee proposes to keep the floor till he his heard."

A half-suppressed murmur of approbation arose, then there was the stillness of solitude, and Mr. McGee continued in strongest-worded, plain-spoken speech.

With a great deal of patience and forbearance—he said—I have sat here these past two meetings and have submitted to the most preposterous rulings I have ever heard from any presiding officer. [Cries of "That's so!" were uttered.] If the majority of those present propose to sustain that method of ruling those in the minority will of course be governed accordingly. Decisions have been rendered here that are against all judgment, all knowledge, all common-sense. At the last meeting a majority of at least three and perhaps five were opposed to the motion to continue the Sunday night meetings, but the Chair decided the vote a tie. The same thing is undertaken here to-night. The most high-handed ruling I ever heard of has been enforced. Even a motion to suspend the order of business has been ruled out of order.

Now as to why the Sunday night meetings ought to be abolished—he continued—I have this to say: A very large number of men have come here to-night who are not in the habit of paying their dues. They have no interest in the true work of the Club. But because it suits their purpose to have meetings here Sunday nights they come here to express their purpose against the good judgment of the people who originated and who perpetuate the Club and who contribute the money to keep it flourishing. The Sunday night meetings ought to be closed because their sentiment is opposed to Christian churches. The people who actually support the Club ask that the meetings be stopped—not because they are opposed to temperance meetings, but because of the evil spirit that long has predominated. If by continuing its Sunday meetings the Club could save each year one man like Newton Spencer I should stand in favor of continuance, but as long as the sentiment of these meetings is against the Christian church, the Christian ministers, the Christian people, the Club could never succeed. It might keep up the form of holding meetings, and call them temperance, but it would never save men while opposed to the church of Christ. There were higher and better things than the mere signing of a pledge. It made one's heart sad to know that men who claimed to be prominent in the management of the Club had forgotten their pledge and had violated their promises. The Club must come to recognize and to practise Christianity, and must must cease inveighing against the church and its ministers. The good of the Club demanded it.

S. A. Haines followed in much the same strain. In seconding Mr. McGee's motifs to discontinue the Sunday meetings, he said that the intent was the betterment of the Club. The Christian element of the city—he explained—cannot now give the Club the support it would like to because these meetings interfere with the church. The Club should be a helper of the church, not a supplanter. It should bring men into the church through the pledge.

He concluded an eloquent exhortation with: "Vote as the Master would vote. I believe in temperance, but I believe in it most of all for Christ's sake."

By this time other suggestions to adjourn were made, and Dr. Hurlbut felt moved to assert that "on this question we merely want to see a vote. We don't want to be gagged by having motions to adjourn railroaded through. We merely want to find out the sense of the Club. I hope a vote will be taken to-night, and now; and though I have no desire to shut off debate I would move, if no one else wishes to speak, a call for the previous question."

Dr. Burnett misunderstood this and accused Dr. Hurlbut himself of trying to "railroad through" the previous question. Dr. Hurlbut instantly flashed forth a demand for an apology or a retraction. Explanations followed, and Dr. Burnett "took back" what he had said.

Then Dr. Burnett took sides with the Chairman, and expressed regret for harsh assertions which had been made. The rulings of the Chair had not always been satisfactory to him—he said—but he believed that they had been dictated by honest judgment. Mr. McGee might just as well have accepted the presidency and he and his Executive Committee could have settled the Sunday meeting question to their own satisfaction, without all this fuss.

Mr. McGee retorted that the rulings to which he objected could not be found in any book, and could not be conscientiously sustained by anyone conversant with parliamentary order. As for the plan suggested to avoid a "fuss," he knew that he could have taken possession of the Club in that way, but preferred to be open and above-board in the matter.

John French argued that the discontinuance of Sunday night meetings had killed every other Reform Club in the State, and insisted that the matter be left entirely to the Executive Committee. He considered as fanatics those who wanted the meetings closed, and pleaded that the Club was to gather in Sunday nights those who were not professors of religion. It was the only temperance club—he added—in a city with eighteen churches, and was "the most beneficient association the town had ever knew."

Mr. Vanderbeek said that as a member of the Executive Committee he should like to see a vote taken. The standing vote (of forty-six nominal members and nine non-members), which followed, counted 27 for the motion to discontinue the meetings and 28 against. The motion was therefore declared lost.

After a motion to adjourn had been hastily carried, President Spencer invited all to attend the annual collation down stairs. A great many did not go.

Swelling the Hospital's Treasury.

The collections in the various churches on Hospital Sunday for Muhlenberg Hospital, most of which have already been announced in THE PRESS, were as follows:

Grace	$84.22
Unitarian	22.95
Crescent Avenue	146.23
Seventh Day Baptist	22.15
Holy Cross	35.00
Total	$310.57

Collections are yet to be taken in some of the other churches where it was not convenient to do so on Hospital Sunday.

A Tremendous Sensation

Would have been created one hundred years ago by the sight of one of our modern express trains whizzing along at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Just think how our grandfathers would have stared at such a spectacle! It takes a good deal to astonish people now-a-days, but some of the marvelous cures of consumption wrought by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have created widespread amazement. Consumption is at last acknowledged curable. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only known remedy for it. If taken at the right time—which bear in mind, is not when the lungs are nearly gone—it will go right at the seat of the disease and accomplish its work as nothing else in the world can. It is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will benefit or cure in all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

A Country Editor's Lament.

Lives of poor men oft remind us
Honest toil won't stand a chance;
The more we work, there grow behind us,
Bigger patches on our pants;—
On our pants once new and glossy
Now are stripes of different hue,
All because subscribers linger,
And won't pay us what is due;
Then let all be up and doing,
Send your mite, however small,
Or when the snow of Winter strikes us
We shall have no pants at all.—O. J. C.

THE PLAINFIELD FIGHTER LOST.

His Hand All Cut to Pieces, His Pain and Rage Prompted Vicious Fouls.

A scrub prize fight—says the New York World—took place at an early hour Thursday morning between "Dick Lester," of Plainfield, N. J., and Pat Malloy, of Brooklyn. The fight was the result of an argument which occured over a cocking main. The men had it out in the back room of a saloon. The Plainfielder who fought under the name of Lester is an amateur who is being trained, by a leading athletic club of the Amateur Athletic Union, to meet Pat Cahill, the champion amateur middle-weight of America. Only two rounds were fought, and the amateur would have won in a gallop had it not been that he lost his head in the second round. By missing a right-handed swing, which went through a pane of glass, his hand was cut all to pieces; and in his pain and rage his judgment vanished. With another blow he succeeded in knocking his man down, but instead of giving him a chance to get up he hit him twice while he was lying on the floor. This foul lost him the fight.

Things About the Theatres.

"Noah's Ark," the new play which is to follow the season of the pantomime of "Babes in the Wood," at Niblo's, late in February, is not all descriptive of the flood, but deals with life in the big city—the Noah in this case being a pawnbroker, and the "Ark" the title by which his loan bureau is known.

When the Sturtevant House caught fire from the blazes which swept across from the burning Fifth Avenue Theatre, during the disastrous conflagration in New York on the night of January 2, the corridors of the hotel were quickly filled with smoke. E. G. Gilmore, owner of Niblo's Garden, and part owner and manager of the Academy, was in one of the rooms on the top floor arranging with other theatrical magnates for next season's tour of "A High Roller." Rushing pell mell down stairs at the first alarm of fire, the party stumbled over the kneeling form of a woman. Clasping the Niblo's manager about the knees, the woman sobbed, "Let me pray!" Quickly lifting the frightened female to her feet, and dragging her rapidly earthwards after his fleeing companions, Manager Gilmore phlegmatically ejaculated, No; let us run."

A peculiarly interesting suit at law is one in which Eugene Tompkins, owner and manager of the Boston Theatre, Boston, finds himself the defendant. The engagement of "The Soudan," the English romantic drama which enjoyed a season at the Boston Theatre more lengthy and prosperous than any similar production given in the Hub, was distinguished by the distribution at various times of souvenirs more or less handsome and costly. The gift of souvenirs with theatrical managers from the time of their inception has always been confined to the purchasers of higher priced seats, and this custom seems to have been accepted by everyone as a perfectly proper proceeding. "The Soudan" souvenirs, however, have brought into question the legality, if not justice of such discrimination. One of the holders of a cheap seat at the Boston Theatre during a souvenir performance of the play asserted his claim to the ownership of one of the handsome mementoes, and on his failure to receive one of the souvenirs addressed his claim to the courts. The judicial minds of Boston are now about to grapple with the question. The souvenirs are said to be worth twice the cost of the highest priced seat sold. While it is not to be expected that the manager of a theatre or attraction can afford to include among the recipients of such a gift the occupants of the cheaper seats, yet there is a certain sense of justice in the less favored of the audience expecting to receive a token, especially where the purchase of such seats followed the announcement of a souvenir performance, without the declaration of the classes to be entitled to the gifts.

For Lack of Partisan Opportunity Kyte Will Do Nothing.

The New York World has been asking the members of the new Senate and Assembly of New Jersey what new bills they propose presenting to the Legislature. The reply of Assemblyman George T. Kyte, of Fanwood, the Republican member from this district, is given in a series of published interviews as follows:

"The Republicans are in a hopeless minority this time, and we have no show to accomplish anything. Under the circumstances I have not given a thought as to what measure to introduce. You know it is my first legislative experience; and my position, I fancy, will be largely one of watchfulness and doing what I can to oppose any vicious legislation which others may try to enact for Union county."

He Knows Whereof He Speaketh.

An illustrated lecture on "How the Other Half Live," is to be given in The Casino, Saturday evening the 24th inst., by Jacob A. Riis, under the auspices of Dorcas Circle, King's Daughters. The lecturer is one rescued from the depths of which he speaks, and his story will consequently be of vivid interest.

GAMBLING A MONSTROUS VICE

ITS AWFUL EVILS PORTRAYED BY EX-MAYOR RANDOLPH.

Happiness Wrecked, Lives Ruined, by Games of Chance and Hazard—A History of Gaming, from Old Roman and English Days—The Gambler Half-Wolf, Half-Fiend—Race Tracks, Pool Rooms, Bucket Shops, Lotteries, Speculating, Wasteful, Despicable—The Stock Exchange a Grievous Pitfall—Advice to Young Men.

The talk on "Gambling" given by L. V. F. Randolph, ex-Mayor of Plainfield, at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association last night, was highly enjoyed by a large gathering of men. The lecture was of great interest, and was as instructive as it was entertaining. Beginning with a brief discussion of selfishness as the meanest thing in life, and as opposed to love, the greatest, the speaker went on to show that rapacity and dishonesty were the direct offspring of selfishness, and that the chief object of selfishness was to get money at any hazard.

In its most degraded state and degree—he continued—selfishness loses all thought and care for appearance. In its more refined, but scarcely less reprehensible method of operation, it maintains a seeming respect for the more decent opinions of mankind; and when it is found inconvenient to defer strictly to this class of opinion it seeks to stand on a certain middle ground which shall be safe, if not wholly respectable or harmless. In gambling, for example, it seems to fancy that it has discovered a decent, or partly decent, mode of accomplishing its ends.

But gambling had its rise partly through certain dispositions of the mind not entirely sordid. The spirit of adventure, not wholly dissociated from a brave or knightly inspiration, on the one hand, and, on the other, a mere thirst for amusement or diversion, have both been more or less apparently identified in the earlier day, with the career of the gamester. It is to be admitted that this fact has somewhat modified and palliated the degree of the sin in its more incipient stages. But gambling has been a progressive vice—alike in the history of the world and of the individual.

The ancient games of the Greeks, (the Olympian, the Pythian, the Nemean and the Isthmian) were originally associated with the culture of religion, patriotism and personal courage. Under the Roman Consuls and Emperors, however, the Ludi Publici came into the largest popularity and splendor. Here the betting ring was fairly established. Lounging, gallantry and gambling came to supplant aesthetic and patriotic culture. Augustus and Trajan and their degraded subjects applauded spectacles which Pericles would have abhorred and despised. Even for four centuries after the beginning of the Christian era, the Roman amphitheatre continued to attract the thoughtless and debased, and cruelty went hand in hand with gaming; the gay populace, heartless as gay, staking their money or jewels on the bloody and terrible chances of gladiatorial encounters.

But, though Honorius abolished these cruel contests the passion for gambling, which the world had begun to gratify, did not expire. In England, for example, we find it in quite full tide of indulgence in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, and it was found necessary to repress or to regulate the betting houses of that period. Under King Henry VIII games were in part prohibited—even such as were not always connected with gambling; and indulgence in them was also limited to certain privileged classes. To farmers, mechanics, servants, sailors and fishermen they were forbidden. To the lawmakers of those days one of the chief objections to gaming was not so much that it tended to poverty and crime, as that it interfered with what was called the "maintaining of the artillery"—that is, interfered with proper attention to the art and practice of archery, which in those days constituted an important arm of the national defense, and was thus a matter of high public importance. But more and more did the evil of gambling become manifest; and, despite the many legislative enactments aimed against it, it spread and flourished. In some earlier English days, as now, they who should have shown patterns of good behavior were sometimes the very ones to set patterns of ill behavior, and on holidays, as well as other days, might have been seen offering the worst example to their humbler fellowmen. For example, "Twelfth Night," grew to be a court festival in which gaming was a costly feature. Evelyn records that on the Twelfth Night of 1662, according to custom, his majesty Charles II opened the revels of that night by throwing the dice himself in the Privy Chamber where was a table set on purpose, and lost his £100. (The year before he had won £1,500). The ladies also played very deep. Evelyn came away when the Duke of Ormond won about £1,000 and left them still at passage, cards, etc., at other tables.

But it is in these later days that gambling has reached the zenith of its power and the culmination of its control over men's minds and lives. Ours is, preeminently the age of invention, and the inventive faculty of man has been fully taxed to devise new methods and fashions of playing as hazard. The betting houses of three centuries ago are still in vogue, but with modern improvements adapted to the progressive spirit of the age. The pursuit has become more varied and amplified, and of gamblers there are many names and sorts.

Perhaps there is no type of human character more hateful or repulsive than that of the professional gambler. With a mind clear, keen, alert, with a genius and an expertness in his pursuit, perfected to the highest degree, he is destitute of all the finer feelings and faculties, such as constitute moral character and worth. His heart is dead, and in its place has grown up and developed the controlling passion of greed. To him the world is but a victim, a lamb of sacrifice. He is grasping, heartless, and cruel as the grave.

It is perhaps singular how this half-demoniacal character of the gambler will in many cases impress itself on the features and mien, and even the attire, of the individual who has given himself to this pursuit. It is true that even here the type somewhat varies. In the one case, perchance, it is represented in such a face and bearing as not long since came under my notice in the Southwest—a man of vulgar face and look; of steely, restless eye, slightly bloodshot from practicing his games through the night hours, and perhaps from some indulgence in stimulants; hair and mustache long and oiled; coat of plush or velvet; necktie of the loose and "loud" order; shirt-bosom ample, somewhat ruffled and considerably soiled; trousers plaid, and hat and boots well polished. These are at least possible elements in the external make up of the man who is less respectable, in the eye of moral law, than the beast of prey. After all, the specimen that I have described is only a chance manifestation and one of the lower-bred sort. Among his brethren are to be found personages of much higher order as to culture and cleverness, having far more taste, better and more gentlemanly appearances, and manners proportionately more engaging and seductive; but their motive and pursuit are the same. They are half-wolf, half-fiend.

But all habitual gamblers are not professional gamblers. Many play for the excitement, or, as they perhaps choose to express it, for the fun of the game. This is often the case with idlers who ought to be at some useful occupation, but who, being either rich or lazy, manage to live without work. In some newly settled parts of the country gambling is a diversion even of the most industrious, and is regarded as quite a pardonable or venial offense. One of the brightest members of the Texas bar, who was some ten years ago prosecuting attorney in one of the middle counties of that State, told me that at that time everybody gambled, though it was contrary to law, and it had in some cases been found necessary to enforce the law against the gambling fraternity. He himself, he said, had prosecuted gamblers many a time all day, and convicted them, and had then sat up most of the night playing for the amount of his fees—his comrades at the gaming table being the District Judge and some one or more of the counsel who had defended the accused.

There has sometimes been a partial attemp to apologize for even the professional gambler. I remember being told by a clergyman in Leadville, Colorado, in 1885 that the men who kept the faro-banks were liberal with their winnings, were ordinarily mild and quiet in their behavior and even paid a certain outward respect to religion and its advocates and representatives.

Perhaps the best apology that has been made for the professed knights of the green cloth is found in Thackeray's admirable satire entitled "The Memoirs of Barry Lyndon, Esq." in the interesting story of The Chevalier Redmond de Ball Carl.

It surely is not necessary for me to prove to young gentlemen who admit the value of Christian culture that whatsoever things are pure and honest and of good report have no natural affiliations with the gaming table, the race track, the public pool-room or with any other resort or occupation the chief feature of which is gambling. A young man can no more frequent such places or indulge in such pastimes without losing both reputation and character, than he can touch pitch without being defiled. The associations are of the most degrading. A congeries of vices forms wherever any one vice is rampant. Body and mind both suffer. Self-respect is sacrificed and confidence which others may have felt in the deluded victim is soon wrecked and destroyed. These things have been said so often that they are indeed but platitudes, but the young man who thinks that he can afford, because of their being platitudes, to ignore the truth that is within them, is doomed to sorrow and despair and ruin.

Nor should it be necessary to warn the young men of this audience particularly against lottery gambling. This buying of lottery tickets is at once a sneaking and a wasteful business. No intelligent and well-bred person will run the risk of being caught in playing at lottery. Perhaps few, if any, who hear me would accept a considerable lottery prize along with the notoriety of having realized a profit in that way. In the Southern States, among the negroes and the meaner class of white people, the lottery is popular, and many a hard earned dollar is thrown away on the poor chance of a large prize. There are many lottery gamblers who think of little else than the possibility of their enrichment by this means. They will labor to earn money with which to buy lottery tickets, and will forget or neglect all proper uses of their wages. In some portions of Europe this same despicable sort of gaming is carried on very extensively. The whole life of the lottery gambler is debauched and rendered profitless by his infatuation. It is a marsh-light leading on and on to depths of disappointment and misery. Even of the small percentage of those who draw prizes the larger number are doubtless more injured than benefited by their seeming good luck.

But what I have just said is rather a digression from a theme which I consider of great practical moment, and not less so because it is not always thought of in connection with this subject of gambling. It is the tendency, hinted at in the satire from which I have quoted, and, in this stage of progress in the world's business more and more manifesting itself, the tendency I mean, to gamble for wealth, or for a living, in some of the markets of the world.

The man not too inconveniently troubled with a conscience prefers to gamble either in certain necessities of life, such as wheat, cotton, oil or coffee, or in corporate shares at the stock exchange rather than pay his way by honest, useful work.

It is admitted, of course, that life is full of what may be called chances. The farmer sows, not knowing that he will reap; the artificer constructs with only reasonable hope of reward; the honest merchant buys without positive assurance of profitable custom for his wares, and so on through all the operations and vicissitudes of industry and human affairs. But the "chances," so-called, and the exceptions to the rule of recompense, hardly do more, or otherwise, than emphasize the rule that the laborer is not only worthy of his hire, but he receives it, whilst the man who scorns to work for hire, and plans to capture a fortune, finds generally only disappointment and ruin, and can never have an honest satisfaction even in such transient success as may fall to his lot.

Gambling at the exchanges is in some respects worse than gambling at cards or billiards, or even at races—though about the former there is more of an air of respectability than about the latter. But it is worse, for example, at the Stock Exchange because the stakes are almost necessarily larger, and because the play becomes far more absorbing as to mind and time. It is worse even for the reason that the gambler deceives himself as to the decency of his occupation and rapidly loses sight of moral distinctions and qualities. It is worse because it opens a larger and more pressing temptation to a man to betray truste—that is, to steal or borrow trust funds in order to try the chances of the market. It was only last week that the President of a Trust Company in New York showed me confidentially a letter sent to him from prison by a young man now awaiting his sentence for embezzlement and forgery, and promising that if possible he would, after serving the term to which he expected to be sentenced, make good the debt he had contracted on an altered stock certificate. I had known the young man well myself for years, and had myself paid him on account of other people hundreds of thousands of dollars. He was a clean-built, nicely-kept, pleasantly-spoken young man. But the air of Wall street proved in the long run injurious to his moral constitution. He speculated, he lost, he forged and stole and now he suffers in a felon's cell.

I remember in my younger days that I read the sorrowful story of The Old Curiosity Shop by Charles Dickens. The struggle of poor little Nell to lead gently away, far away, from the horrible temptations of the gaming-table, her feeble and infatuated grandfather—a struggle in which she at last, weary and worn out, lay down and died—is an impressive picture-lesson of sin and sorrow, as well as of pure and loyal childhood. But, for examples of like infatuation, one need not go out of hearing of old Trinity. How many, many have I known of such cases within the past thirty years!

The sad spectres of ruin come trooping through my memory, and time would fail me even to mention them. Each spectre seems to wear on his face and form his history, and that history is expressed in a line—Ruined by Stock Gambling!

Gamblers produce nothing. Even what it costs to support them is a tax on the community. They are worse than drones in the human hive. I know of no more pitiable sight than that of a young man hanging about a "bucket shop" and chipping his dollars on a chance that the telegraph tape may show a decline or an advance in some particular stock. Ask any merchant, or other man of business, if he would employ a young man who had spent a year at that occupation—if he would think a young man's mind or character the better of such an experience. I know of no more detestable thing than a "plunger" at the Stock Exchange—a man who watches for big chances and gambles heavily on them—often selling largely of properties in which he does not own a dollar—bearing values by any and all means to force a profit for himself. I know of nothing more absurd than for a gambler to talk about honor, and I know of nothing more ludicrous or grotesque than for a Wall street plunger to arise among respectable people (as I have actually known one to do) and recommend to young men or boys the virtue of honesty.

But—perhaps some one will ask—are we to have nothing to do with anything that is ever used as a means of gambling? Do the beginnings of evil that are to be avoided go so far back as that? And I answer frankly that they do not go so far. Wheat is used to gamble with—or in. But that is no reason why we should not buy flour to make bread with. Men gamble in sugar, but that is no reason for not using sugar. Men gamble in railway stocks, but that is no reason why you should not buy a few shares of stock—or many for that matter—if you have bona fide money to invest in it, and can find any stock quite worthy of your confidence; which (parenthetically) in these days is a point of some reasonable doubt. Men run horses for gambling purposes, but that is not a reason against owning a good horse. Men have bet money on chess, but that does not bar out chess as a pleasant and intellectual diversion for a leisure hour. Men bet on games of cards, but that fact does not condemn a game of whist between sociable neighbors. Where does the harm begin, then? Well, it may begin with giving too much time even to innocent amusement. We are responsible to God for the proper employment of all our time. And life is so short that we cannot afford really to waste any of it. But the harm certainly does begin the first time we stake or bet money on any play, or on any mere chance, of whatever sort. Nor does it matter if chance and skill are mixed in the game. Nor does it signify if, as in the various world markets, a supposed business acumen and knowledge of affairs qualifies the situation. There is a clear line of demarcation and separation between legitimate business and gambling. If you doubt where the lines keep on the safe and right side of it. Touch not the unclean thing! Never bet so much as a dime, or a cent, on anything. Resolve to earn what you get, and earn it conscientiously. Don't waste your time or fritter away your moral stamina in dreaming of acquiring a fortune in any other way than by honest work—conscientious pains-taking—faithful service to mankind.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also paying one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

A REASONABLE EXCUSE.

Weary Raggs—What you doing wid an umbrella, yer dude?

Bleary Waggs—Dude be derned! I was afraid I'd get washed wid the rain.—Munsey's Weekly.

They Were Too Good.

There are a good many people who prefer old things to new things, sometimes, perhaps, without as good reason for the preference as an old beggar once showed in the matter of shoes.

This man called at the house of a lady and begged for a pair of shoes. She gave him a nearly new pair of her husband's which he had laid aside for some reason. A day or two afterward the beggar returned.

"Mum," he said, "can't you give me a pair of shoes—some old ragged ones?"

"But," said the lady, "I have just given you an entirely new pair; you have them on now."

"Yes'm," he said, "but there's the trouble. They're so new, ye see, that they hurt my business."—Youth's Companion.

He Satisfied Himself.

"Katie," said he, when the time came for him to take his departure, "do you think you care enough for you to link your lot with mine? Could you leave this home and be happy in another with me?"

"Yes, Augustus, I think I could," softly, but unhesitatingly, answered Katie.

"I didn't know whether to ask you or not," continued Augustus, "so I thought I'd see how you felt about it." And having satisfied himself as to her feelings toward him, he took his hat to go, but he went without a good-night kiss.—Boston Herald.

Bound to Sell.

Clerk—That's a very fine piece of goods, madam.

Madam — I don't believe there is enough here.

"We have more just like it."

"It's a little too light, too."

"We will order a darker shade, with pleasure."

"And it's awfully expensive."

"You will not be hurried about the bill, madam."

"And I know my husband won't like it."

"We will inclose a divorce with the goods."—N. Y. Weekly.

Glad to See Him.

Dashaway—I visited my native place last week. Thought I would show my old schoolmates how prosperous I had been since I left home.

Cleverton—Did they seem to appreciate your rise?

Dashaway—Well, I should say so. Almost every man I met wanted to borrow a dollar.—Munsey's Weekly.

From Bad to Worse.

Miss May Ture—Oh, Edith, dear, do you know that Fred actually proposed last evening?

Edith—Just as I expected.

Miss May Ture—Why did you expect it?

Edith—Why, when I refused him last night, he said he would go and do something desperate.—London Fun.

Just as Good.

"You must understand," said the editor, "that we pay only on publication."

"Very well, sir," returned the bard; "that will suit me exactly. I had thought of taking out an insurance policy for my children's benefit, but this arrangement will do equally well."—Life.

She Hit Him Just Right.

Miss Nestle—Are you interested in the language of flowers, Mr. Appolis?

Mr. Appolis (of St. Paul)—I should say I was! Spring wheat, longs an' shorts, staple brands, an' millin'-machinery is my pet hobbies. Seen them patent bags for packin'?—Judge.

The Written Word.

Mr. Wrinkles—What's the matter, Mose? You look puzzled.

Mose Coonsticker—Yassah; I'se been studyin' ober dis t'ing in der noospapah, but I kaint make nuffin outen it.

Mr. Wrinkles—No wonder, poor fellow; it's a negro dialect story.—Puck.

Needed Diluting.

Step Father—I wish that boy of yours had been born twins.

Loving Mother (with a flutter of pleasure)—Why?

Step Father—Then he'd only have half as much cussedness in him.—West Shore.

Local Pride.

Mrs. Smitherly (of Canajoharie)—Ernest writes from New York that he's got a new valet.

Mr. Smitherly—Well, he can try an' try, but I'll bet he won't find nothin' t' beat th' old Mohawk.—Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper.

An Exception.

She—For my part, I like to strive for a thing and win it, and not have it drop in my lap. Don't you agree with me, Mr. Dobson?

He—Ye-yes—unless it is the girl that I am courting.—Munsey's Weekly.

Art Note.

"Do you want your wife's portrait in oil?"

Grocer—Yes, I think it would be the best; particularly if you get the oil at my store. I keep none but the best.—Texas Siftings.

THE TRAINING OF GIRLS.

They Are Deficient in Knowledge of Every-Day Affairs.

One very serious deficiency in the education of the average girl is her ignorance of the ordinary affairs of life. Nearly every man, whatever his profession, has a general knowledge of these things; he knows how the new building goes up, understands the principle of the steam engine, can tell why crops are rotated or explain the construction of a suspension bridge. As a result, he finds everywhere suggestions for thought, and his sympathies trained in many directions. This is because, when he was an intelligent boy, his attention was continually called to these things—a course of action which would never have been thought of had he been merely an intelligent girl. There is a feeling that all this kind of information is superfluous, if not positively out of place, in the training of young girls; so they grow up with their fields of observation and reading narrowed to a minimum, says a writer in Kate Field's Washington. On account of these lesser ignorances they find themselves surrounded by a world full of mysteries, of which the least unintelligible are clothes and servants. Is it any wonder that they fall back persistently upon the few concrete interests which seem to be within reach of their understanding?

There was a little flurry of discussion not long ago about "Why women read novels." Well, they read them for the same reason that men do, because novels are the best expression of the quality of modern life; and they read more of them than most men can, because they have more leisure. For exactly the same cause women read more poetry and more metaphysics than their husbands and brothers. The reason they do not read so many newspapers and serious periodicals is that they find them full of stumbling blocks, on account of the narrow limits of their education in practical affairs. How many women understand any thing about a new election law, or an improved system of drainage, or the condition of Irish politics, or the latest application of electricity? This ignorance is not the more excusable because it is shared by a great many men. It should be a part of every education, whether of girl or boy, to make a not too interesting world as amusing and suggestive as possible.

THE TIME TO RETIRE.

Regularity in the Hour to Be Observed Rather Than Earliness.

It is all nonsense about "beauty sleep" coming in the hours before midnight, and that the rosy cheeks of the country lass is the reward of retiring at the time when the proverbial pale-faced city girl's evening commences. The late hours of fashionable life would not necessarily scatter the roses from the cheeks if the late hour for retiring could be the same every night without variation. It is irregular hours and meals that cause pale and haggard faces. The handsomest couple I ever saw, says a writer in the Chicago Herald, retired regularly at half past eleven, and always indulged in a light lunch just before retiring. They were both pictures of health. The lady did not look over twenty-five, though she never hesitated to say that she was thirty-eight years old, and the husband looked at least ten years younger than he really was. They were both devotees to the laws of health. For years they have allowed nothing to interfere with the regularity of sleeping and eating hours. Almost the midnight hour was chosen for retiring, because it allowed them evenings at the theater and an hour or so at even the most fashionable receptions. When alone in their home they never indulged in an earlier hour, because then it unfitted them for entertainment of which they were very fond.

NAPOLEON'S ENEMY.

The Woman Whom the Emperor Most Hated.

The woman whom the Emperor Napoleon III. hated most on earth has just died, says the Boston Herald. During the brilliant days that followed the coup d'etat, Napoleon made countless efforts to live on good terms with the old nobility. There was no limit to the bribery, cajolery and even threats to which he resorted in order to induce them to frequent his brand-new court. The Marquise de Castellane, whose death is just announced, took the lead in bidding him defiance. She not only refused to go to court herself, but she let any of her acquaintances whom she knew to meet with favor there, and as her salon was the most charming in Paris, the chance of being excluded from it was not to be lightly encountered. The Marquise was a grand niece of Talleyrand, and it was through her influence that the great diplomat signed an act of retraction and became reconciled to the church of Rome. For some years she lived in retirement, but in earlier days she was one of the most brilliant and powerful of the grandesdames of Paris.

The Key-Chain Fad.

An Eastern fashion paper—the very highest authority upon such matters—says that key-chains are entirely out of fashion, and that only waiters in restaurants wear them. There are a few of them left in Kansas City, however. I saw a man with one of them on the other day, says a writer in the Kansas City Times. He sat down to his desk and unlocked it, leaving the key in the lock. He is a busy man, and is also rather absent-minded. The key ring was fastened to the back of his trousers tight enough for a trace-chain. The key-chain was stoutly built. In a few minutes he jumped up in a hurry and started somewhere. I heard a desk rattled, a chair upset, papers rustle, a chain snap, keys fly about on the floor and two or three rather fiercely muttered oaths. And then the man performed a war dance on the chain. He threw it out of the office; he reviled the man who gave it to him; he prayed for total blindness on the man who had invented key-chains, and I heard him say: "By jim. That's only the fifth time this week."

AN ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

Three Tall Americans Retire an English Lecturer from Business.

Mr. Robinson, six feet high, builder of Tremont Temple, and Rev. Phillips Brooks, six feet two inches high, both of Boston, and Rev. Dr. McVicker, six feet four inches high, of Philadelphia, in company made a trip over the water.

En route they determined that when they should arrive on the other side they would travel apart, lest three such tall men in company would provoke remark. But, arriving at Leeds and learning that a lecture was to be delivered to working-men on America, our friends determined to hear the lecture.

Entering the hall separately they took seats apart. As the lecturer proceeded his utter ignorance of America soon became manifest to the three Americans. Finally, however, a statement concerning the size of Americans was too absurd to be endured in silence. The speaker had barely time to conclude a sentence asserting that Americans are proverbially short of stature, never exceeding at the utmost five feet ten inches, when Mr. Robinson arose and said: "My friends, I am an American, and, as you can see, I measure fully six feet. If there is any other American in the house I request him to stand up." An expression of surprise was followed by roars of laughter as Dr. Brooks arose and said: "I am an American, and my size, six feet two inches, occasions no particular remark in America. If there is any other American in the house I in turn request him to stand up." After a lapse of a few seconds, in order to give the lecturer a little time to recover himself, Dr. McVicker slowly raised his majestic figure to its full height of six feet four, and began: "I am an Am—" But he got no further. The audience had lost all control of themselves, and the speaker's disappearance from the stage brought the entertainment to a close.—Christian Nation.

HOW THESE GIRLS LOVE ONE ANOTHER.

Winifred (insinuatingly)—Mr. Randolph comes to see you every day, doesn't he?

Julia (with the sailor hat)—Oh, yes; but he's very easily entertained.

Winifred—He must be.—Life.

An Unfailing Remedy.

Mr. Shoddy—I am going to move out of the house I'm living in now. The chimney smokes dreadfully, and I don't know how to stop it.

Candid Friend—I'll tell you how to stop it from smoking. Just give it one of those cigars you gave me the other day. If that don't cure it of smoking nothing else will.—Texas Siftings.

A Boston Burglary.

Mrs. Leahey—Hullo, Bill!

Mr. Leahey—Well, I'll be eternally jeewhizzled!

Mrs. Leahey—What's up?

Mr. Leahey—I'm a lamb if I ain't got mixed up on these crooked streets an' went an' broke inter my own house!—Judge.

Carrying Religion Into Business.

Youth—I have called for the amateur photograph camera I selected this morning.

Photograph Supply Clerk (a member of the Y. M. C. A.)—Here it is, sir, all ready for you. Take it, my friend; but remember that every profane word you utter will be recorded above.—N. Y. Weekly.

AN EXPERT.

Foreman (of logging camp)—Can you handle an axe?

Employe—Well, I should smile if I couldn't! Why, for five years I did nothing but engrave portraits for the daily papers.—Light.

Domestic Economy.

Wife—I wish you would buy me one of those patent inkstands that hold the ink in tightly when accidentally upset.

Husband—Those inkstands are expensive. I think it would be cheaper to spank the baby.—N. Y. Weekly.

Another Case.

Dolley—Hello, Goslin, isn't that powder on your shoulder?

Goslin—So it is. I can't imagine where it came from.

Dolley—Of course not. You never suspected that Miss Mabel's face was loaded.—West Shore.

The Antidote.

Mr. Briggs (at the restaurant)—Bring me some limburger.

Mrs. Briggs (dining with him)—Bring me some chloroform.—Jury.

STOCKINET CLOTH.

The Difference Between Knit and Woven Goods.

Strictly speaking, stockinet is not a cloth, for it is not woven fabric, but a knitted texture. "By a process of knitting, and not by weaving, the individual threads of which a stockinet fabric is composed, are, says the Dry-Goods Chronicle, interlaced into one regular texture. The work is performed in a kind of a frame or loom, in which the yarns are arranged in parallel order, at uniform distances apart, as in ordinary weaving. Of course, the machine is automatic in its movements and capable of producing a great length of cloth in a very short time. The fabric thus formed is ornamented with a fine ribbed pattern, similar in character to that seen in common knit goods. This article generally handles soft, full and elastic, but lacks those valuable characteristics of strength and firmness of texture or make which obtain in a woven cloth proper."

The difference between the structure of this fabric and that resulting from weaving warp and weft yarns together may be illustrated as follows: Take a sample of stockinet cloth and try to withdraw a thread and what is the result? The whole construction is unraveled. Next submit a loom product to a similar examination and it will be found that if a longitudinal or warp thread is removed the transverse or weft thread will remain, while, on the other hand, if the latter are withdrawn the warp threads will, although the texture may be partly destroyed, still remain, to a certain extent, undisturbed. Again, the manner in which a knitted fabric is constructed limits the designer to one class of weave effects—these being of a stockinet character—whereas the principles of weaving are of such a description as to admit of an unlimited change or variation in design.

AN EXPENSIVE MISS.

What It Costs to Keep One Little New York Girl.

Here are some figures regarding the cost of a little girl of fourteen for the past year, says the New York World. She is the only daughter of a teller in a New York bank. The family lives in a private boarding-house, and the ambition of her parents is to make the child a bright, sweet, sensible woman. Her wardrobe costs $215 a year, including laundry.

She attends school up-town where she pays $250 a year. Last season she was sent to dancing school at an expense of $90. For this accomplishment she needed a special supply of slippers, four little dancing frocks, a long, quilted ulster and fifteen yards of sash ribbon, for which a bill of $71 was presented.

During the summer she learned to swim, and the cost of her bathing suit and the services of the bathing master amounted to $13. Her board for the entire year cost $350. Here are some trifles, as the mother calls them, copied from the little girl's expense account:

One pug dog, $5; eight silver bracelets, $15; one doll, $3; one doll's carriage, $2.50; to mender, three days' service, $4.50; hospital attendance for dog, $5; burial of same, $1.75; one gold ring, $3.50; rent of tricycle, $3.85; medical treatment, $35; gifts for relatives, $7; monkey muff and cape, $27; gum, ice-cream, soda-water tripod, $24; tennis racket, $2.50; opera glass, $8; silver watch, $6; treatment for stuttering, $60.

Making the annual cost of this sweet little tyrant, $1,311.70.

MARBLE CANYON.

A River Whose Bed Is Three Thousand Feet Below the Plain.

We took up our march for the Colorado river at Lee's Ferry, so named from John D. Lee, one of the destroying angels executed by the United States for complicity in the Mountain Meadow massacre. Here we saw the most remarkable river in the world, writes a correspondent in the Indianapolis Sentinel. Imagine yourself upon a broad, white plain; you can hear a dull, distant roar; you can see nothing save the mountains and the waving grass; you go on and the noise gets more distinct, until you can hear it apparently beneath your feet.

All at once you see a few feet from you a fissure, which at first glance looks to be scarcely twenty feet wide. You cautiously crawl up and look down, down for three thousand feet. There is the river, a white torrent, surging against its perpendicular marble sides. You wonder, having walked to within fifty feet of that chasm without seeing it. You look at it flowing, and trace its course directly towards those mountains, yet they do not stop it; it goes through them, separating the Budskin from the San Francisco range, and the small dividing line looks like the cut of a knife from the top to the bottom. Here is where the canyon reaches its greatest depth, being a little over a mile from the top to the water.

THE ONLY ONE LIVING.

A Man Who Once Struck the Prince of Wales.

Pittsburgh boasts of a man who slapped the Prince of Wales in the face, says the South Side News. He lives on the South side, and for many years has worked for the Monongahela Water Company as a laboring boss. The circumstances of the adventure, as told by himself, are as follows:

"In my early life I was a soldier in the British army, and once my regiment was reviewed by Queen Victoria, who held by the hand the youthful Prince of Wales. When the mother's back was turned the boy playfully expectorated on my red-coat, and I resented the insult to the British flag by slapping him in the face with my open palm. He told his mother, and very soon the Colonel heard of it and came dancing along to wreak vengeance on the man who dare lift his hand to a son of the Queen.

"The Queen sought me out and graciously inquired what my name was. 'William Dickson, sergeant, your Majesty,' said I, and she commended my sense of propriety in administering a timely rebuke to the heir apparent of the English throne, and recommended me for the promotion which never came."

"HURRY UP."

The words came harshly from the stage manager; an impatient audience are awaiting the next act, and she who has fainted takes the leading part. This is "a peep behind the scenes," and a sight familiar to the "green-room" of every theatre. "Has she worked too hard, or been careless of her health?"

Actresses, singers, and others in the profession, do not always think; they rush into the tide of popularity, regardless of all save fame and fortune. How often we read of some favorite actress—"Ill in London, nervous prostration, etc." We have the cure of hundreds of such cases on record. Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

WASHINGTON TOPICS

The Treasury Surplus Again Fast Piling Up.

IT IS NOW OVER $18,000,000.

If the Increase Continues Secretary Windom Will Purchase New Bonds.

Friends of the Shipping Bill Believe It Will be Defeated—No Report Yet on the Silver Pool—Seventh Day Adventists Want the World's Fair Open on Sunday—Pension for Gen. Sigel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Treasury surplus is again fast piling up, and at the close of business was $18,000,000. Since the first of the year, despite the heavy payments on account of pensions and interest, the receipts have largely exceeded the expenditures, and as a result the surplus daily increases.

The fact that money is easier in New York and elsewhere has much to do in swelling the surplus, as merchants are taking out goods from the custom houses, which heretofore they have not done. The receipts from custom duties have increased more largely in proportion than the receipts from internal revenue sources.

Since the beginning of the fiscal year the Treasury Department has purchased more than $92,000,000 of 4 and 4 1-2 per cent. bonds, and if the surplus continues to increase it is not improbable that Secretary Windom will find the usual outlet for money in the further purchase of bonds.

The amount of 4 and 4 1-2 per cent. bonds redeemed to-day under the circular of October 9 is $34,300.

THE SHIPPING BILL.

The Advocates of the Measure Convinced that Their Work Has Been in Vain.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—It looks now as though the Shipping bill would be defeated. All the persons interested in its passage and who have been here working to that end for the past week have gone home convinced that their work has been in vain.

It is said on good authority that all the Democrats except Cummings and Manger, and 20 Republicans, will vote against the bill. This will defeat it.

Want the World's Fair Open on Sundays.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Seventh Day Adventists will bitterly oppose the proposition contained in a resolution introduced in the House to close the World's Fair at Chicago on Sundays. A. T. Jones of Battle Creek, Mich., a member of that faith, is in Washington, and he has applied to Chairman Candler of the World's Fair Committee of the House for a hearing on the proposition. Mr. Candler has not given an answer to the request, but it is probable that he will set some day next week for a meeting of the committee to hear what Mr. Jones and those in favor of the measure have to say.

The Vice-President's State Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Vice-President and Mrs. Morton last night gave their first dinner of the season in honor of President and Mrs. Harrison and the Cabinet. The dinner was followed by the largest and most brilliant reception of the season. The Vice-President's mansion was elaborately decorated with flowers and growing plants in honor of the event. The guests at the reception included the members of the Senate, justices of the Supreme Court and their families, most of the members of the diplomatic corps with their families, General Schofield and many others prominent in social and public life.

No Recount for Brooklyn.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Representatives of the city of Brooklyn in the controversy between the municipal government and the Census Office have abandoned their demand for a recount and the House Committee on the Census will not consider the matter. Brooklyn's Congressional representation and a delegation of Brooklyn citizens were given a hearing on the subject by the Census Committee, but action on the case was postponed until additional information favorable to the claim could be obtained. This information could not be furnished and hence the abandonment of the case.

Miss Goodale Will Marry an Indian.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Word has reached Washington that Miss Elaine Goodale, the poet and philanthropist, who is now at work in the Sioux country as Superintendent of Schools, is engaged to be married to Dr. Charles A. Eastman, the full blooded Sioux who was graduated last summer from the Boston University, and whose letters descriptive of the recent troubles near Pine Ridge Agency have been widely published. Dr. Eastman took his professional degree at the Harvard Medical School.

The Coin Commission.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The President has sent to the Senate the following nominations: Wm. A. Russell of Massachusetts, Lambert Tree of Illinois, Nathaniel Phill of Colorado to be commissioners to consider the establishment of an international coin or coins, as provided for in an act making appropriations for the diplomatic and consular service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891.

No Report on the Silver Pool.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The House Committee on Rules has not made a report yet on the Dockery resolution to investigate the charge that there was a silver pool last summer. Speaker Reed says that the committee had been and were still looking for something which would be a warrant for an investigation,

THEY MAY NOT HANG.

Gov. Beaver Reported as Doubting the Nicely Brothers' Guilt.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—One more effort is being made by the attorneys of Nicely brothers to save their clients from the death penalty. Yesterday the case was heard in private before Governor Beaver. The object of the argument was to secure the withholding of the death warrant, so that new evidence might be presented at the next meeting of the Board of Pardons. It had been the Governor's original intention to issue the death warrant during the present week.

The attorneys of the Nicelys, Lyman D. Gilbert and S. J. M. McCorrell of this city, are so firmly convinced of their clients' innocence that they have secured another chance for the prisoners. It is said that Governor Beaver himself does not feel perfectly convinced that the Nicelys are guilty. Among other points of evidence presented to the Governor to-day were affidavits and facts proving that the identity of the Nicelys was unreliable, that these same witnesses have since stated that they might have been mistaken on the night of the murder.

STABBED HIS FATHER.

A Boy's Savage Attack with a Big Butcher Knife.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—Colonel J. W. Moore, the millionaire coal and coke operator of this place, was almost fatally stabbed last night with a big butcher knife in the hands of his son Bert.

The two were in the sitting room of Mr. Moore's house when Bert suddenly attacked his father with a knife, cutting a deep gash in his left side. A neighbor was passing by, heard a noise and running in caught Bert and held him until the police came, when he was taken to jail. A physician was sent for who dressed Colonel Moore's wounds, which, though bleeding profusely, the doctor thinks will not prove fatal.

The cause of Bert's act is not known. He has been leading a rather wild life of late and was intoxicated at the time.

HER FAITHFUL DOG.

He Fought Hard to Save a Girl from Burning to Death.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 10.—The 15-year-old daughter of Isaac Hastings, in the adjoining county of Monongahela, W. Va., was in a room alone warming a cloth with which to ease an aching tooth when her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death.

The family shepherd dog, moved by her screams, plunged at her and fought the fire with remarkable sagacity, tearing the clothing from the girl with his paws and mouth until both were severely burned and much of the faithful creature's hair was singed off.

Ex-Senator Wallace's Debts.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Jan. 10.—The statement that the assignment of ex-Senator Wallace has been abandoned is incorrect. The time for filing the assignees' bond has not yet expired. It will be approved and filed as required by law. The real estate within this county belonging to Mr. Wallace will be sold on Jan. 31, but this is for the purpose of expediting the settlement of his estate and to control its management by Mr. Wallace himself. It is generally believed that the ex-Senator will pay all his debts in full and have a surplus left.

Holkeley Still Governor.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 10.—All was quiet about the Capitol to-day. The politicians are waiting for the Supreme Court's decision regarding the "For" ballots. Judge Hall of the Superior Court has already declared them illegal. If the Supreme Court sustains the decision, the Democratic candidates will be seated. If on the other hand, it is reversed, the election of a Governor will be left to the General Assembly.

Dillon Sailed This Morning.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—John Dillon, the Irish envoy, was escorted to the French steamer La Gascogne last night by prominent local Irishmen, and sailed for France this morning. In regard to his departure he said: "Difficulties have arisen in the negotiations now going on between Mr. Parnell and Mr. O'Brien, and I have been called upon to commit myself to a definite opinion on the points in the debate."

Ran Off with the Lodge's Funds.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Jan. 10.—A Tonawanda Sons of St. George man, treasurer of his lodge, Andrew Maitland, has skipped to Canada with considerable money belonging to the order. He was also chorister of the Episcopal church and very popular. He took with him money belonging to the church. He was foreman of the Daily News office.

Postmaster at Utica.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—James Miller was nominated for postmaster at Utica, N. Y., yesterday, but by a clerical error his name was omitted from the official list given out for publication.

A Pension for General Sigel.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Representative Turner, of New York, reported favorably from the Committee on Pensions the bill granting Gen. Franz Sigel $100 per month pension.

WAR OR SURRENDER

The Situation at Pine Ridge Nearing a Crisis.

THE HOSTILES CANNOT ESCAPE.

Gen. Miles Suspicious of Red Cloud in Case of an Attack.

The Plan of Battle Criticised by Old Campaigners—It May Prove Disastrous to the Troops—No News Received by the War Department—Several States Apply to the Government for Arms.

PINE RIDGE, Jan. 10.—All the commands in the field marched from three to six miles nearer the hostiles last night. Every hour the cordon will be drawn more tightly around the hostiles until they surrender or are whipped into submission. The disposition of the Indians, it appears, is to surrender if they may retain their arms; if not, to die in defense of them.

The declaration of General Miles that he would endeavor to make this the battle ground in case a fight was forced upon him, has created no end of alarm among civilians. While it is generally admitted that the intrenchments on every side are a source of strength and that the heavy artillery could be used with great effect from this point, there are many old frontiersmen who shake their heads and say that such a move would bring about terrible results. These men are not up in military tactics, but they have an extended knowledge of Indian affairs and know their character better than all the army officers combined.

Bulletin from Gen. Miles.

The following bulletin has just been issued by Gen. Miles:

He Dog, Jack Red Cloud and about 75 or 100 came in last night, and more are on the way. They decided in council yesterday to all come in, but they change their mind every few hours. Their camp is a perfect pandemonium, fighting and quarreling among themselves. There is no head to the hostile elements, who are mostly young desperadoes, perfectly frenzied, destroying their own property, beating their own people, wanting to fight, but afraid of the consequences of their own acts.

No News at the War Department.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—There were no telegrams from General Miles at the War Department this morning, and the idea prevailed that the situation was unchanged at Pine Ridge. The opinion is spreading that the crisis of the campaign, so often predicted and so long deferred, is really near at hand.

Secretary Proctor is constantly receiving requisitions from the Governors of States adjacent to the scene of the trouble, asking arms from the Government stores with which to provide the local troops raised for defense.

AFRAID OF RED CLOUD.

It is Suspected That He Will Prove Traitor to Gen. Miles.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Jan. 10.—No one can tell what the cover of darkness may impel the Indians to undertake. That they contemplated and do still contemplate an attack upon this agency is believed by all well-informed people; that they are now awaiting the opportunity is almost an established fact. Red Cloud is living in his own house in the midst of the alleged friendlies. At a signal from the hostiles it is believed he will communicate the same to the friendlies. The agency could then be attacked on all sides. There are now fewer than one thousand soldiers within a mile of headquarters. Before those stationed in the field could reach here great damage could be done.

Gen. Miles, impressed with this fact, is extending the breastworks around the school, which will command a larger extent of the friendlies' camp. He also received word from Gen. Brooke that a number of hostiles last night tried to break through his lines and escape to the Rosebud. They found the line too strong, however, and retired.

Capt. Pierce the newly appointed agent to succeed Royer, arrived at noon to-day. A Troop, Seventh Cavalry, Capt. Maylan, left as escort to-day with Paymasters Baker Comegy, who will visit all the troops in the field.

Red Cloud says there are 100 wounded Indians whom little Wound wants to send to the agency.

Gen. Miles has placed Col. Schafer, First Infantry, in command of the troops at the agency.

Sitting Bear and Long Bull have written Gen. Miles that they propose to come with their followers and be good Indians.

Arms for Railroad Employes.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 10.—Acting Governor Sells has secured from the commander at Fort Douglas 200 rifles and 5,000 rounds of ammunition to be sent up the railroad for the protection of its employes at Pocatello.

The Shoe Strike Off.

ROCHESTER, Jan. 10.—The great shoe strike has been declared off.

Appropriation Bill Reported.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill was reported to the House. The bill appropriates amounts aggregating $21,550,146, or $1,136,137 less than the estimates. The amount appropriated for the same purposes for this year was $21,767,357. The whole number of salaries specifically provided for by the bill is $10,207, or $261 less than the number estimated and $58 less than the number provided for by law for the current year.

Plotting Against Mexico.

LAREDO, Tex., Jan. 10.—Gen. Ruis Sandoval and his followers arrived here yesterday, and held a conference. Sandoval was tried and acquitted only a short time ago of organizing a revolutionary movement against Mexico. The officers here will take no steps toward the arrest of the conspirators, but allow them to mature their plans and let them cross into Mexico, where they will certainly be captured and killed.

Believed to Be Hostile Spies.

PENDLETON, Ore. Jan. 10.—Two strange Indians arrived here yesterday morning on a train from Montana. It is thought that they are runners from dissaffected tribes sent here to lead away the young hot-headed bucks on the Umatilla reservation.

KNIGHTS IN CONVENTION.

K. of L. Delegates Meet at Harrisburg and Adopt Several Resolutions.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 10.—The Knights of Labor legislative convention met here during the day, and a resolution in reference to the abolition of railroad relief was adopted. Resolutions recommending a law to prevent bribery in primary elections; suggesting the appointment of a commission to draft a general mine law; favoring the Farrell bill in regard to company stores; recommending a bill regulating the weighing of coal; favoring free text books, and in favor of the enforcement of the semi-monthly law were adopted.

A resolution favoring the calling of a State convention of all labor organizations and inviting a legislative committee to co-operate with the committee appointed by this convention was also adopted.

Ex-State Senator Emery, representing the oil producers of Pennsylvania, sent a telegram conveying the congratulations of his associates, and recognizing in the convention wise and timely concern for the cause of legislative reform. A message of thanks was sent to Mr. Emery thanking the oil producers for their expression of good will.

ESCAPED IN TIME.

Actress Adah Richmond Chased by a Young Man With a Knife.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 10.—Adah Richmond, the burlesque actress playing here, met with an experience of a thrilling character. Shortly after the curtain went up on the second act. Manager Klunk was approached by a young man, who presented a card bearing the name of "Charles Waters, Philadelphia," and asked permission to interview Miss Richmond in the interest of the Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Klunk led the alleged newspaper reporter to the dressing room, where he introduced him to Miss Richmond and left them together. Ten minutes afterward a scream was heard and a second later Miss Richmond dashed out of the door, closely followed by Waters. Miss Richmond's hair was dishevelled and her costume in shreds.

She rushed into the room behind the manager's office, crying: "Save me, Mr. Klunk; he will kill me." In another moment Waters had entered the room, an open clasp knife in his hand, but before he could use the weapon Klunk knocked him down. Waters rose from the floor, hissed out an oath and dashed from the office into the street.

DELAMATER ARRESTED.

A Charge of Embezzlement Preferred Against the Meadville Banker.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 10.—Delamater & Co. (including George W. Delamater, late candidate for Governor), bankers, who assigned recently, were during the day summoned before an alderman charged with embezzlement.

The complaint was made by the outgoing board of county commissioners, who charge Delamater & Co. with the embezzlement of $30,000 of the county funds, having received the deposits of the county treasurer while knowing themselves to be insolvent and converting the same to their own use.

A plea of not guilty was entered and a hearing waived. Bonds were given by each of the defendants in the sum of $10,000 for their appearance at the February term of the court.

Death of Sister Mary Ignatius Kelly.

DOVER, N. H., Jan. 10.—Sister Mary Ignatius Kelly died at the St. Mary's Orphanage during the night, aged 50. She was born in Birmingham, Eng., and professed in the Convent of St. Mary's, Manchester, N. H. She spent eleven years in Whitefield, Me., where she was Mother Superior. She opened the Orphans' Home at Nashua and then came here, where she was the first Mother Superior of the Orphanage.

Emma Abbott's Remains in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—On the arrival here of Emma Abbott's remains brief services were held and they were then taken to a vault in Graceland Cemetery. There the body will repose until Miss Abbott's will has been made public. Then if she has so expressed her wishes her body will be cremated and the ashes will be deposited beside the dust of her husband, Eugene Wetherell, at Gloucester, Mass.

Arms for Nebraska Troops.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 10.—In response to an order from the War Department 1,000 Springfield rifles were shipped to-day to Governor Thayer of Nebraska, from the United States Armory of this city for use by the State troops in the Indian campaign.

SPANIARDS EXCITED

The Caroline Islands Outrage May Cause Trouble.

AN AMERICAN CRUISER STARTS

It Is Feared That the United States Will Demand Heavy Damages.

The Ministry in Madrid Say They Have Heard No News of the Insurrection—The American Board of Foreign Missions Lay the Case Before Secretary Blaine and Demand Reparation.

MADRID, Jan. 10.—An enormous sensation has been created here by the receipt of the details of the fighting in the Caroline Islands between the Spaniards and the natives. Fears are expressed that the United States will demand very heavy damages for the destruction of the missionary buildings and the residence of Dr. Rand by the Spaniards in their Sunday attack upon the Ponapeans.

The Americans here hope that the action of Admiral Becknap in despatching the cruiser Alliance to Ponapi, in order to protect the American missionaries, will have a beneficial effect.

In an interview with the President of the Council regarding the reported troubles in the Caroline Islands, the Minister of War declared that it was impossible for anything of such a nature to have occurred in the Carolines without his being informed of the fact.

The Minister of the Colonies declared that he had received no news of the alleged insurrection. He added an expression of regret that the Government lacked the means of obtaining frequent precise reports of events which were transpiring in the Carolines.

The Case Before Secretary Blaine.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, after obtaining full reports of the indignities practiced upon its missionaries by the Spaniards at Ponapi, has laid the case before Secretary Blaine, with a demand for reparation.

THE KOCH REMEDY.

The American Consumptive Patient on His Way Home from Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The American consumptive, William Degnan, who was brought to this city by Dr. William Talcavall of New York, is as well as could be expected.

If the condition of the ice in the river at Antwerp is such as to permit of the steamer Waesland sailing to-day Degnan will take passage on her for New York. If not, he will sail from Rotterdam.

Through the efforts of Minister Phelps and Dr. Cooper of San Francisco, Dr. Taltavall has secured two bottles of the lymph.

French Opinion on Koch's Lymph.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The committee of French physicians appointed to study the Koch system of inoculation as a cure for consumption reports that sometimes injurious results follow the application of the lymph. Extreme caution in its use is claimed to be necessary. The report also states that the cleverest physicians are bewildered by the use of the remedy, and suggests that it is advisable to await further developments before bringing it into general adoption.

McCarthy Can Settle the Trouble.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—An Irish M. P. said to-day: "The solution of the Irish trouble is entirely in the hands of Justin McCarthy, and there is no doubt that Mr. McCarthy will do what is best for his country, irrespective of personal feelings. Healy had an interview with McCarthy immediately after the return of the former from Paris, but it is understood, without receiving any pledge as to McCarthy's future course. After the arrangement Mr. O'Brien will probably return to America and resume his tour, with the added eclat of Irish leadership and of having put an end to the fratricidal conflict."

O'Brien Denies All Newspaper Rumors.

BOULOGNE, Jan. 10.—William O'Brien, referring to a report that he had announced his intention of returning to England at once and surrendering to the authorities in order to serve the term of imprisonment to which he has been sentenced, says: "The report is baseless, as also is every telegram I have seen about our intentions, here, or in America. We do not intend that newspaper rumors or criticisms shall hurry us in the steps we consider necessary for the safety of the cause."

No Change in the Scotch Strike.

GLASGOW, Jan. 10.—The status of the railway strike is but little changed from yesterday. Only a few men have accepted the opportunity offered by the companies to return to work on a promise of consideration of their grievances. Those who did resume work yesterday and to-day, however, have resisted all the efforts of the strikers to induce them to again leave their positions.

The Pope Preparing a Manifesto.

ROME, Jan. 10.—A prelate of the Vatican asserts that the next consistory will take place in February, when his Holiness will pronounce the most important discourse of his pontificate. It will be a manifesto of the highest order.

Parnell's Reception in Limerick.

LIMERICK, Jan. 8.—Arrangements for the reception of Mr. Parnell to-night are complete. There will be a grand torchlight procession and a banquet. A great outpouring of the people is expected.

The Queen's Contribution.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Queen has sent £200 to Mr. Balfour for the Irish distress fund. Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has contributed £100. The fund now amounts to £14,000.

Crisis in Portugal.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Portuguese Ministry is on the point of resigning, and much excitement prevails. The Progressists will probably control the next Cabinet.

Jews to Leave the Caucasus.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 10.—The Minister of the Interior has issued an order for the expulsion of all Jews in the Terek regions of the Caucasus.

An Elopement Brought to Light.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10.—The resumption of studies at the Woman's College has brought to light the elopement and marriage during the holidays of Katie Gilbert, a student from Piedmont, W. Va., with Arthur Lee of the same place. The girl's father has not yet relented.

Keim & Co. Compromise.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—At a meeting of the creditors of George De B. Keim & Co., who made an assignment on Tuesday last, the liabilities were shown to be $310,864.24, and the assets $208,486.50. The creditors accepted a compromise.

The Crew Mutinied.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The American ship Indiana, from Barrow for New York, has put into Holyhead for relief, her crew having mutinied. During a fight among the sailors several of the combatants were stabbed.

Earthquake Shock in Ohio.

TOLEDO, Jan. 10.—At noon a shock of earthquake was felt here. It came apparently from the south, and a slight rumble accompanied it.

Known to Bacon by an Expression.

OIL CITY, Pa., Jan. 10.—Expressions of Francis A. Bacon employed by the High Explosive Company of this city, in the negotiations for the sale of the magazine, it is supposed, will be known to Bacon by an expression he used two years ago when he was married and leaves to be children.

Trade Moves Over Non-Union Men.

LYNN, Mass., Jan. 10.—The police had to be called to disperse the most extensive crowd ever seen in front of a shoe factory here, when the Lynn Manufacturers' Protective Association began to move the machinery of the Boston Co-operative Company, a syndicate organized to defeat all the companies in the country in November last, with a paid up capital of $25,000,000, has gone to pieces. It employs non-union men and has been the object of threatening missives through the mails, so arrests were made.

$25,000,000 Trust Collapses.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—The American Hardwater Company, a syndicate organized to defeat all the companies in the country in November last, with a paid up capital of $25,000,000, has gone to pieces. It employs non-union men and has been the object of threatening missives through the mails, so arrests were made.

Cleveland Will Not Be Disturbed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Dr. Lamoy, Grover Cleveland's family physician, has declared that Mr. Cleveland has not been confined to the house during the past week by illness, and that he is not suffering from any disease. He has been confined to the house by the inclemency of the weather, and will be able to go out in a few days.

Will Prosecute the Boodlers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—District Attorney Nicoll has decided that he can prosecute the indictments against Alderman Jacobus and Dalton, and has directed that the Board of Aldermen shall meet in Secretary Kelly's office to-day. It is expected that the Board of Aldermen will pass the resolution necessary to remove the two aldermen from office.

Crisis in Portugal.

Uncle Peter Wooden of North Plainfield, who will be 91 years old on the 24th of next May, has been reported dead for two days past. He was met on the street yesterday morning by a friend who said, "Why Uncle Peter, I thought you were dead." The old gentleman replied with a drawl, "Is that so? Why I aint heard anything about it."

In spite of all rumors to the contrary, Miss Dot Parkhurst will positively appear with the Gilbert Dramatic Society in "Mixed Pickles," at Music Hall, Jan. 20, under the auspices of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum. She was only with Monroe & Rice's company at the Brooklyn Academy, while their leading lady was sick. Miss Parkhurst, although an amateur, was sought out because of her ability to fill the place.

JUSTICE REACHES HIM AT LAST.

First Cast Out by the City, the Editor of the "news" is Now Denounced by the Grand Jury of Union County, and Ordered to Cease His Scurrilous Assaults on Private Reputation.

By the unanimous vote of the Grand Jury of Union county, composed of reputable men of both parties selected for their sound judgment and unbiased minds, Thomas W. Morrison of this city was presented in the Court at Elizabeth, yesterday morning, for the good and sufficient reasons set forth in the verdict below.

Because of the same course of vindictive journalism pursued week after week—when the private character and reputation of one citizen after another was assaulted, and the public service of one municipal officer after another was misrepresented and wilfully lied about—the Common Council last Monday evening, cast out the news as an official paper of the city. Such action was unprecedented, but it had to be in the cause of justice and decency. For the twenty-one years that Plainfield has been a city, all its papers have been official papers without exception—and all are still so honored but the one that's disgraced. The Grand Jury, following in the footsteps of the Council, announce to the world this verdict in the same case:

The Grand Inquest for the State of New Jersey, and for the body of the County of Union, upon their respective oaths present: That their attention has been called to certain articles that have appeared in the issues of The Evening News, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in the city of Plainfield, in this State, in the issues of March 19, 1890, March 28, 1890, April 1, 1890, July 12, 1890, and August 6, 1890, attacking the well-known reputation of Elmore D. Moffett and Walter L. Hetfield, two well-known citizens, who were at the times mentioned Councilmen of said city, charging them with dereliction of duty, and holding them up to ridicule and contempt. Nothing has appeared before us to show that there is any justification for such attacks. On the contrary, it has appeared that such publications were wholly unjustifiable and without any foundation. It has also been shown to this Grand Jury that one Thomas W. Morrison is the editor and publisher of said paper, and we believe that the publication, as well as all persons interested in its support and publication, should be presented to this court. We recognize the widespread influence of the press and the benefits arising from its freedom; but public sentiment revolts against the license that stoops to wanton attacks and unjustifiable assault on private reputation. These are evils for which there can be no complete recompense, or adequate compensation made, and in many cases the well-known inability of the successful enforcement of a judgment in a civil suit but prompts to more unwarrantable attacks. This Grand Inquest deems these articles uncalled for and a serious reflection of Elmore D. Moffett and Walter L. Hetfield, said Moffett at the time above mentioned being President of the Plainfield Common Council, and Mr. Walter L. Hetfield being a member of the said Council; and they therefore deem it their duty to present the said Thomas W. Morrison, editor and publisher as aforesaid, and demand that henceforth the said Morrison refrain from unjustly attacking the integrity of those who are exercising the rights conferred on them by the law. A just criticism is right; but when it descends to vituperation then the law should be invoked.

Stirring the Pot.

This mystic rite was performed on Saturday night last, at the Bicycle clubhouse, by the doctor, the patriarch and the boy with the auburn hair. The committee for to-night is composed of A. L. C. Marsh, F. W. Walz and J. Sandford.

The proceedings are a renewal of the festivities of last Winter, and those members who have been there before, many a time, will doubtless be glad to go again.

A contract has been almost closed with a prominent professor of gymnastics, who is teacher of the Seventh Regiment and at the Columbia Grammar School, to take charge of the Saturday night class at the club-house.

It is under consideration to limit the club membership to one hundred, and, if you are "not in it," you had better get there before it is too late.

Mr. Schneider Wins One Case and Mayor Male the Other.

Two cases of interest to the readers of THE PRESS were tried at Elizabeth, yesterday, and it was not until seven o'clock in the evening that the two juries agreed.

One case was that of Elizabeth Schneider, of this city, against Elizabeth Geisse, her daughter. The plaintiff sued for $300, loaned on a promissory note to pay for a building lot. The second case was a suit of Wm. Clum, an architect, against ex-Mayor Job Male of this city, for money he claims is due him for plans for an alleged city hall, which were ordered by the ex-Mayor when in office.

The jury in the first case found for the plaintiff, and the jury in the second case found for the defendant.

THOSE JEWELS AGAIN.

The Horsewhipping Having Failed to Produce Them, a Lawsuit Will Be Tried.

Mrs. Ada Aguirre, the dashing blonde who horsewhipped Dr. William Gale, her brother-in-law, at Westfield, a month ago, because he wouldn't surrender several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry which she claimed he was keeping from her, has made a formal demand, through a New York lawyer, on the doctor for the jewels; and because he now admits that he had them but claims that they were stolen she threatens to take the case into the courts. She doesn't seem to believe the physician's story of the alleged robbery.

Mrs. Aguirre is the divorced wife of Dr. Carlos Aguirre, a well-known Cuban dentist of New York. She is a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. J. T. Wright, a prominent Methodist clergyman of Elizabeth, and is a sister of Dr. Gale's wife, between whom and herself the Rev. Dr. Wright divided his property. She is celebrated for her beauty and accomplishment throughout New Jersey and New York city, where she achieved fame under the stage name of Miss Ada Wright.

Malicious Mischief-Makers.

T. O. Doane, Chief Engineer of the Plainfield Fire Department, found the key-hole of one of the fire-alarm boxes plugged up with a grain of corn, Thursday, and several minutes were wasted in cutting the kernel out. In case of actual fire this bit of maliciousness might have caused serious delay.

Some young fellow Thursday night stole two tin signs bearing the legend "Unitarian Church ahead" and hung them on the lamp-post at the Crescent triangle so that the fists pointed to the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church building.

Calls for Vigilance and a Gun.

Depredations in New Market and vicinity by chicken thieves — remarks the Bound Brook Chronicle—are startling and call for eternal vigilance and a gun. Recent losses foot up as follows: Ephraim F. Randolph, 2 turkeys; Mrs. Laura Ransom, 50 chickens; Geo. W. Newton, 15 chickens; Nelson Bunyon, (Vail farm), 40 chickens; Freeholder Henry Garretson, 40 chickens.

The Salvation Army Coming.

Major Evans of the Salvation Army made arrangements yesterday with the Executive Committee of the Reform Club to hold a series of meetings at the Hall, beginning to-morrow evening. Col. and Mrs. Evans, Major Evans, Adjutant Leyh and Lieut. Briggs are expected to be present. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

—A slight fire occurred this afternoon at the home of George Feller, Pearl street. A carpet and a door casing were burned. Mrs. Storr had her hand severely burned while assisting in putting out the flames.

Some Secret Sins.

Hon. Elkanah Drake, of Newark, will speak on the subject of Personal Purity at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow at 4:15 P. M. Mr. Drake, who is a most interesting speaker, will be remembered as the President of the Convention of the Y. M. C. A. of New Jersey, held in this city in 1888, and also as the leader of the men's mass meeting at the recent District Convention at Westfield. All men are most cordially invited.

—Through Hezekiah Hand, auctioneer, the brick house at 100 East Front street, was sold yesterday to Benj. B. Force for $2,044.

—Two well-known machinists tried to settle their differences in a prize-fight, yesterday noon. A ring was formed over the brook, and a lively set-to resulted.

—A regular meeting of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, will be held Monday evening. There will be an installation of officers and final arrangements for the entertainment of Jan. 20.

—A fine assortment of oranges has been received by Wm. Hand from the grove of his brother, Henry, at Sanford, Florida. Mr. Hand expects to receive five hundred boxes of this delicious fruit this Winter, for distribution among Plainfield families.

—About six months ago Master Stanley Brampton had the misfortune to hurt his ankle, since which time he has been obliged to go about on crutches. Dr. Field, of Plainfield, has examined the injured member, and last week, in consultation with Drs. Hancock and Compton, it was decided to place the ankle in a plaster paris cast, there to remain for a period of three weeks or more, and if that does not bring about the desired results an operation will be necessary.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

THAYER HOLDS ON.

Nebraska's New Governor Assumes the Duties of Office.

LINCOLN, Neb. Jan. 10.—Ex-Governor Thayer applied to the Supreme Court for a quo warranto restraining Governor Boyd from exercising the functions of his office. Judge Maxwell stated to Thayer's attorney that inasmuch as their petition admits that Boyd is Governor, their position is untenable. Maxwell believes Boyd to be Governor and refuses the writ. The Supreme Court then adjourned till Tuesday.

The Board of Public Lands and Buildings is in session and has notified Thayer to vacate the Governor's rooms or the board would officially designate another room to be the Governor's headquarters. Thayer is locked in his room with friends, some of whom advises him to submit gracefully and not have to be ejected dishonorably.

At 12:30 Thayer requested the crowd to stand back from his door and said: "I will not surrender until the proper tribunal declares I shall." All the mail was delivered to Governor Boyd by the mail carrier. Governor Boyd has been duly installed, and the prohibitionists and their allies, the farmers, have been defeated.

In the Senate Lieutenant-Governor Majors is presiding. Gov. Boyd has ordered Adjutant Cole to report to him for directions and to disperse the militia on duty.

The constitution gives the Governor power to declare the Legislature adjourned if he so desires. It is now rumored that Gov. Boyd will adjourn the Legislature if they do not proceed regularly to business.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

WORK OF THE WOMEN'S UNION.

A Wide-Awake Circle for Young Girls Organized—Pitiful Cases of Misery—A Little Child's Clothing Pawned for Drink—A Coming Conference, and Other Details.

At the regular business meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held in their rooms, the usual reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were given, after which followed very interesting accounts of the different branches of work, selections from each department, as follows:

Literature—476 pages of Gospel temperance reading distributed; 13 renewals of The Union Signal subscriptions for 1891. Others who wish to take advantage of the Club rates, should report without delay to the Superintendent, Mrs. Yates.

Kitchen Garden—Classes filling up and a new department organized recently, to be called The Wide-Awake Circle, consisting of young girls over twelve years who are to meet weekly; ladies of the Union have volunteered an hour's instruction in various branches of practical art work, such as darning, mending and making buttonholes. There will be on charge for lessons, and every young girl in Plainfield will be welcome. During the hour it is intended to have readings or music, and, in fact, to make the afternoon one of a very helpful character. On the day of organization Mrs. Tomlinson, the President of the W. C. T. U., gave a talk on Europe and showed pictures of people and Places. A Secretary, Edith Vail, one of the Circle's number, was chosen for three months. The circle will meet every Tuesday at four o'clock in the W. C. T. U. rooms. Mrs. Wm. Griffin, the artist, has charge of the next week's lesson, and all are invited to bring lead pencils with them to the class. Three graduates from the Kitchen Garden department are to be admitted to the Cooking Class on Saturday.

Evangelistic—Reports of meetings growing in interest. A member of the children's Home Committee referred to the meeting held in behalf of that charity work; and said that of the eighteen records given, each child was there because of drunken parents unable to protect or to care for the little ones. One little child in Plainfield was barefoot while clothing given to keep it from the cold is pawned for drink. Another child, learning from his Sunday school teacher to say "Thank you" and "please," was cruelly beaten by his intemperate mother, who claimed that she herself had no manners and her children shouldn't either. "Surely" it was said—"the temperance work underlies all other charities in our city."

By vote of the Union the County School of Methods will be entertained here in March. It is expected that Mrs. J. K. Barney, National Superintendent of Prison and Jail Work, will deliver the evening lecture. Those who have heard Mrs. Barney's lecture, "From Jerusalem to Jericho," will need no further introduction to her.

A member of the Union brought in a mite box containing $2 for the work.

The New Year's Day afternoon meeting of the Union was of great interest. At least two-thirds of those present were men, and three of the local pastors came in during the afternoon and evening and encouraged the women not only by their presence but their words. Refreshments were served all day and evening, and some who the Union had been trying hard to reach came in and signed the pledge.

Thanks From the Little Ones.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Kindly allow me space to give a message of thanks from the Board of Officers, and from the children in our home, for our Thanksgiving Day enjoyments, and to all the friends whose generous and thoughtful gifts of money, or of pretty and useful articles, made them all so happy last Thursday. As all the children old enough are in Sunday school, and receive gifts there, our "Home Tree" is always lighted between Christmas and New Year's Day. The dining-room was decorated to give the desired effect, and, at four o'clock, eighteen children, several of whom had never before seen a "Christmas tree," marched to the music of their own carol into the room.

After a brief prayer and a few words from Dr. Ketcham, the eager little people had their arms well filled from the pretty tree. There were warm mittens, stockings, scarfs and a pair of rubbers, for each one; besides books, oranges and toys galore. Just before the tree was lighted, a gentleman and wife who had not known of the tree, called and left for each child a beautiful gilt-edged Testament. Even the children too small to realize the value of the books were delighted with their beauty. So ended "the finest tree we have ever had," according to the children's verdict.

N. E. KIMBALL, President.

More Money for Muhlenberg.

At the meeting of the Union County Freeholders, yesterday, by resolution of Mr. Vanderbeck, the County Collector was authorized to pay over to the hospitals the money appropriated for their use, the Elizabeth General Hospital to receive $382, and the Muhlenberg Hospital at Plainfield $175.

Do not run any risks in experimenting with untried remedies if you have contracted a cold. Take Hires' Cough Cure. It is sure. It is pleasant. It is safe, and always reliable. Do not forget to try it when you have a cough.

All are welcome.

Unwritten Stories.

There are stories that never can be written. No man has ever seen or heard one of them. No editor has ever had one of them submitted to him. And yet millions of them have been told. Children only, have devoured them. Every mother has one exclusive story for her little favorite that nobody else knows. It is drunk in through round eyes and open mouth and tense ears. It is more wonderful than any Mr. Haggard or Mr. Kipling ever told. But it is forgotten as the child grows up and the mother old. Do you remember the one your mother told to you in the twilight long ago?—Echoes of the Week.

What It Cost to Settle.

As exclusively published in THE PRESS of Thursday, the Plainfield Electric Light Company which was sued by John Chandler for killing his horse, settled the matter out of court before trial was begun. The sum paid Mr. Chandler was $200 in cash and $1,000 in bonds of the Company. R. V. Lindabury was Mr. Chandler's counsel and C. A. Marsh the Company's.

—Next Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock the final official test of the new telegraph fire-alarm system will take place.

—A portion of the Somerset County court house at Somerville settled about two inches, yesterday, and caused great excitement, as a large crowd was present.

—The Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark, paid to John R. Clark today $500 in full for his policy on the life of his son. John S. King is the Plainfield agent of the company.

A Tremendous Sensation

Would have been created one hundred years ago by the sight of one of our modern express trains whizzing along at the rate of sixty miles an hour. Just think how our grandfathers would have stared at such a spectacle! It takes a good deal to astonish people now-a-days, but some of the marvelous cures of consumption, wrought by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, have created widespread amazement. Consumption is at last acknowledged curable. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only known remedy for it. If taken at the right time—which, bear in mind, is not when the lungs are nearly gone—it will go right at the seat of the disease and accomplish its work as nothing else in the world can. It is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee that it will benefit or cure in all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

BERNESE PEASANTS.

A People Who Have Some Strange Traits and Queer Customs.

They are a well-to-do race, on the whole, these peasants of the canton of Berne, sturdy and strong of aspect; but they have the reputation of being a little hard and close-fisted, and it must be acknowledged that prosperity has not lent them charm any more than the merci, often followed by rielmal, has imparted grace to their speech. On Sunday, writes Sophia Kirk, in the Atlantic Monthly, the men walk among their acres like lords of the soil, with a rolling holiday gait, point-device in their attire, their immaculate shirt sleeves of a fullness suggestive of episcopal dignity. The beautiful peasant dress of the women appears in its completeness only on Sunday—the sleeves a marvel of starching; the velvet bodice caught with silver chains and edelweiss. The people cling to their customs as to their dialect and costume; they can not be said to be spoiled by contact with the purse of the tourist, as is sometimes the case with Swiss peasantry, for Zimmerwald is not yet a popular resort; nor are they tainted by city notions, for some of them have never so much as seen Berne, which is within two hours' walk. The local spirit is strongly conservative. The youth in one Bernese commune who would court a girl of another district meets with a rude reception from her fellow-villagers, who consider their claims to her favor not only primary, but absolute. Landed property descends not to the eldest, but to the youngest son, saddled, however, with obligations which constitute an indemnity. Unfortunately, too, even in this region of stately, fertile farms mortgages are not unknown, and usury takes its tithe as elsewhere. Drunkenness is found here to a degree unknown in other cantons, the tax on wine, which is not a Bernese product, having led to the distillation of brandy by the farmers. Recently, however, the Government has taken the distillation of spirits into its own hands. There are customs surviving in the canton which, framed in an age of less moral sensitiveness than our own, leave much to be desired in the matter of delicacy. But to judge fairly of such things one would need to have a knowledge of the language, and a closer acquaintance with the country than can be gained by the passing tourist. We can see the Bernese peasant better in the novels of Jeremias Gotthelf than with our own eyes. Even industrial occupations and agricultural methods are not to be gauged by standards brought across the water. Again and again my New England partiality has welcomed some familiar trait in this Swiss farming scene, but beside the resemblance stands a difference of larger proportions, rendering comparison impossible.

BATHING IN JAPAN

Frank Exposure Goes There With the Most Perfect Modesty.

Next comes the bath-house, says Sir Edwin Arnold, in Scribner. If you do not recognize the furo-do by the Chinese or hira-gana characters stamped on the blue curtains fluttering outside its door, you shall know it by the boys and men emerging from the "honorable hot water" with hands and feet bright red by reason of the parboiling which they have just undergone, or by the women with wet hair brushed back from their foreheads and tied up at the end in a triangular piece of paper. When these latter get home, O Kami San, the coiffeuse, will come and dress their moist, black tresses for the next two or three days in one of the many modes perscribed by fashion. There is the mage for married women, where the hair is drawn over a pad in a solid, shining, single boss, and there are other elaborate styles for unmarried damsels, musumes, girls, and geishas, not to be achieved without much appliance of kanzashi—the carved and tinseled hairpins.

Inside the bath-house are to be seen tubs, tanks, and a sloping wooden floor—the spaces for males and females being divided, if at all, by a mere lattice as often as by any solid partition. The Japanese are not in the least ashamed of the body, the "city of nine gates" which the soul temporarily inhabits. In summer time there is not much of anybody concealed, especially in the country villages, where the police are not as particular as sometimes they show themselves in the towns. This frank exposure goes with the most perfect modesty, and indeed leads to it. He would be considered a very ill-bred person who gazed with eyes of too much curiosity at what the bath-house, or the toilet in the shop-front, or the maternal duties attended to upon the pavement should casually reveal. Morality rather gains and sentiment decidedly loses by the candor of Japanese manners as regards nudity; for no one looks at what all the world may see and it is the veil which makes the sanctum.

INDIANS AS JUDGES

A Court of Justice Presided Over by Indian Chiefs.

At Standing Rock, S. D., the court of Indian offences holds bi-weekly sessions at the agency of two days each, where all Indians committing offences are brought for trial, and the valuable aid rendered by this court can not be too highly commended. Eighty-three cases were heard and adjudicated by this court during the past year, says the Boston Herald, and all the decisions have been intelligently and impartially rendered upon the evidence adduced.

Offenders were punished by fines of rifles, shotguns, revolvers, etc., also by imprisonment at hard labor and sometimes by close confinement. In every instance the decision of the court has been sustained by public sentiment, and not a single appeal to a higher authority was asked.

The three judges of the court are John Grass, head chief of the Blackfeet Sioux band; Chief Gall of the Hunkpapa band, leader of the progressive element of the late hostile Sioux, and Standing Soldier of the Lower Yanktonais; all of whom are full-blooded Indians, eminent among and respected by their people.

VESSELS OF THE ANCIENTS.

In the Matter of Size They Were Up with Our Modern Steamships.

We moderns are justly proud of the wonderful and magnificent specimens of naval architecture that crowd the great ports of the world. If there is any thing new under the sun, a first-class ocean steamer, it is believed, is that rarity. In our conceit we recall only the galleys and triremes of the the ancients, that scarce ever ventured beyond the coast line, and the small barks in which Columbus and those that followed him conquered the new world and gave commerce its greatest field. But the ancients built many goodly-sized craft and made luxury a study on some of them.

That much-controverted craft, the ark, is an example of bigness, says the Maritime Register. Her tonnage is estimated at about 15,000 tons—smaller, it is true, than that of the Great Eastern. No less an authority than Lindsay thinks that she was simply a raft of stupendous size, having upon it a structure resembling a huge warehouse. As no means of propulsion was necessary, this description may be correct. The cargo, however, was unique, and probably the largest and most valuable ever carried.

The description of the ark as given in the Scriptures, makes the vessel about 450 feet in length, 75 feet in breadth and 45 feet in depth—proportions similar to those now in use to-day for great vessels. But as the agnostic is not sure that this life-boat of the human race ever existed, and, as the materialist is sure she never was built, let us take for example of big ancient vessels some other craft vouched for upon the authority of profane and not sacred writers. The Egyptians, fond of large things and big dimensions, made the big tonnage vessels of ancient times.

Ptolemy (Philopator) would have appreciated the Great Eastern. He was fond of building big boats. One of these is said to have been 420 feet long, 57 feet broad and 72 feet deep from the highest part of the stern. This vessel had four rudders, or what some would call steering oars, as they were not fastened, each 45 feet long. She carried 4,000 rowers, besides 3,000 marines, a large body of servants under her decks and stores and provisions. Her oars were 57 feet long, and the handles were weighted with lead. There were 2,000 rowers on a side, and it is supposed that these were divided into five banks. That this extraordinary vessel ever put to sea is doubtful, but that she was launched and used at times, if only for display, several historians are agreed.

Another "ship" the Thalamogus, built for one of the Ptolemies, is said to have been 300 feet long, 48 feet broad and 60 feet deep. This was a far more magnificent vessel than any previous one. An Alexandrian historian, Callixenus, in describing her, speaks of her having Colonnades, marble stairs and gardens. Another great vessel, historical by reason of its size, is one built by Hiero, King of Syracuse. Her dimensions are estimated to be large from the description of her cargo and the number of her decks and houses. She is supposed to have been sheathed with lead, and accomplished at least one successful trip.

A full description of her would read somewhat like that of one of our Long Island sound or Hudson river steamboats. She had three entrances, the lowest leading to the hold, the second to the eating-rooms and the third was appropriated to the soldiers. There were thirty rooms, each having four couches for the soldiers; there were fifteen couches in the soldiers' supper-room, and there were three more cabins, each having three couches. The floors in all these rooms were laid in stone mosaic work. There was also a temple of cypress inlaid with ivory and dedicated to Venus. The mainmast was composed of a single tree, and the vessel carried four wooden and eight iron anchors.

As a freight carrier she would rival the largest of our ocean tramps. It is recorded that one or two of the launches belonging to her would carry about eighty tons. This vessel is said to have carried "60,000 measures of corn, 10,000 jars of Sicilian salt fish, 20,000 talents' weight of wool and of other cargo 20,000 talents, all of which was in addition to the provision required for the crew." These are the notably big vessels of ancient times, but the supposition is that as rulers, whether king or people, were as emulous in those days as these, other big craft were also built. From the foregoing description the thought is suggested that the first designers of our own river steamboats may have heard of the Egyptian and Syracuse vessels and taken a hint from them in building floating palaces.

Girl Queens of Europe.

During the present century, says the Philadelphia Telegraph, three girl queens have, before the advent of Queen Wilhelmina, almost simultaneously ascended the throne of an European nation; Maria da Gloria of Portugal, Isabella of Spain, and Victoria of England. The two first had the misfortune of attaining to the regal power while still mere children. There has been a wide difference between the histories of the spoiled daughter of Spain and the headstrong Portuguese damsel, and that of the grand and conscientious maiden of eighteen who was called upon to reign over Great Britain. By her close affiliations, through her sister, the Duchess of Albany, to the English Court, Queen Emma will probably profit by the example set by the Duchess of Kent in the education of her daughter.

Didn't Have to Confess.

The Department of War of Russia has resolved that soldiers not confessing the Greek Catholic faith on being examined for promotion to the rank of officers shall not be obliged to stand any religious examination. Testimonials from their respective religious ministers or churches or confirmation certificates will henceforth be accepted as sufficient testimony as to their religious proficiency.

Stabbed Himself Nine Times.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 10.—Charles H. Rees committed suicide last evening by cutting his throat and stabbing himself in the left breast nine times. No cause is known for the suicide. He was a wholesale oyster dealer and was well known in this vicinity. He leaves a wife and five children.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,
The Plainfield Produce Company
Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!
We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.
In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented is the one who must pay these larger profits.
By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.
We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

TOO LATE! TOO LATE!

How George Murgatroyd Disappointed His Better Half.

"GEORGE! oh! George!"

It was on a Sabbath morn, and George Murgatroyd had just turned over to sleep again, after making his sixth resolution to get up. But the cry, fraught with anxiety and trepidation, that came from the room below, banished sleep instantly.

It was his wife's voice—the dear girl whom he had taken from a parent's—or rather, two parents' care.

"George! come quick!"

What could be the matter? He remembered now, with an agonized gasp, as he ripped his night gown up the back, and put one leg into the arm of his undershirt, that Maud had functional derangement of the heart. Still, she could not cry out like that if stricken down by—

"George! why don't you come! Come! Come!"

In his frantic haste he had on his trousers hind part before and his shirt was a wreck, but what of that? Like a flash it came to him, the tale of yesterday, told by his little wife, at which he had scoffed—God help him! A tale of a dark-browed man who came to read the gas-meter, and who had behaved so strangely that Maud suspected him of being a burglar's spy. The man had come again—even now, perhaps—

"George! If you don't come, it'll be too late!"

What were collar buttons now that he should search for them? With one bound he overturned the rocking-chair and smashed the water pitcher; in another instant he had collided with a half-opened closet door; at the third step he tripped over his suspenders and came down-stairs on his elbows and countenance.

"Courage, Maud," he cried. "I am coming!"

He was only a pale book-keeper, and unarmed save with nature's weapons, but not for a moment did he falter.

"You're too late," said Maud, with a pretty pout, as George dashed into the room with fire in his eye, that the blood on his nose could not dim.

"What—where is he?" he gasped, looking around with an awful faintness at the heart.

"I wanted you to see the baby," said she, in a disappointed voice. "He had his foot in his mouth, and you've no idea how cunning he looked."—Drake's Magazine.

Turkey Stuffing.

City Boy—Do you like turkey stuffing?

Country Boy—Naw! Nobody eats turkey stuffing.

"Guess you don't know what it is."

"Yes I do. It's the half a pound o' corn that you stuff into its crop after it's dead, to make it weigh heavier."—Good News.

An Object of Envy.

"Isaac."

"Yaiz, fader."

"I wish I vhas Stanley, Isaac."

"Vhy, fader?"

"Shoost think of dose advertising he vhas getting py dher newspapers!"—Puck.

A MATTER OF CHOICE.

Lieutenant Meachim (who enjoys the reputation of being the plainest man in the army)—Madam, we have arrived just in time. Permit me to release you.

Emigrant's Wife—I dunno, Cap. I dunno. Blamed if I don't think I prefer injuns.—Once a Week.

What He Reminded Her Of.

He—I must be going, so I will bid you good-night.

She—Oh, your call makes me think of one member of a base-ball nine.

He—What member, pray?

She—Why, the short-stop.—Texas Siftings.

For the Best of Reasons.

"Why don't you join the City Club?"

"Bosh! It's nothing but a mutual admiration society."

"Then join the Garfallan Society."

"I guess not. The members there are eternally fighting among themselves."—Harper's Bazar.

Right to Raise Blazes.

"There goes a man who has been raising blazes in this town every day for years, and the police dare not touch him."

"Why not? Is he such a desperado?"

"No; he's an honest blacksmith."—Boston Herald.

On the Landing.

Penelope—Don't! Stop!

Jack—I can't help it (kisses her).

Penelope—How dare you, when I forbid it?

Jack—You merely said: "Don't stop."—Life.

An Unexpected Answer.

Mrs. Bob Tayl—Bob, what did you mean by talking in your sleep last night about chips and three of a kind?

B. Tayl—Why, we'd been playing poker at the club all evening.—Life.

THE "LANDESVATER."

A Ceremony in Use Among the German Students' Brotherhood.

One of the most popular usages of the Burschenshaft—the German students' brotherhood—is the so-called Landesvater, a ceremony which is graphically described by Mr. H. H. Boyesen in the Cosmopolitan. The fellows, seated around a long table with their beer-jugs before them, rise at the command of the two presidents and place their hands upon each other's shoulders. Of the song which is always sung on this occasion Mr. Boyesen has translated a few specimen verses, preserving rhythm and meter:

"Silence, brother, with each other
We will sing a festive song.
While the rapiers flash and glisten
To the solemn tones ye listen,
Germans brothers, true and strong.

"Let us loudly praise, and proudly
Sing our fatherland's renown;
To thy service dedicated
Are thy sons, the consecrated Guardians of thy stainless crown.

"Life and treasure at thy pleasure,
Lay me down, oh, fatherland!
Draw our swords and fight with valor,
Heeding naught death's pain and pallor—
Sweet to die at thy command!

"Who aspiring and untiring
Hoists not with true accord
German worth, let him not, daring,
By this hallowed rapier swearing,
Desecrate the German sword.

"Hear our singing, loudly ringing,
While in honest student wise,
On this blade that brightly flashes,
Merrily his cap each dashes,
And with one accord we rise."

Here two rapiers are handed to the two Burschen, standing vis-a-vis at the upper end of the table; they lift their colored caps from their heads and dash them on the points of the rapiers; they then mount with one foot on the chair and the other on the table and cross their swords while singing the next verse of the song, in which they swear always to remain honorable fellows (Burschen). The two chairmen thereupon take the swords and reach them to the next pair in order, and the ceremony is repeated until the bottom of the table is reached.

THE BEAUTIFUL SEYCHELLES.

Islands in the Pacific Which May Have Been the Biblical Paradise.

The Seychelles islands, which are supposed by many to be the site of the Eden of the Old Testament history, form an archipelago of 114 islands in the Indian Ocean, and are situated in 3 degrees 38 minutes south latitude, about 1,400 miles east of Aden and 1,000 miles from Zanzibar. They rise steeply out of the sea, culminating in the Isle of Mahe, which is about 3,000 feet above the level of the ocean, and is nearly the center of the group.

Only about thirty of the islands are inhabited, says the Chicago Mail, the last census giving them a population of 12,000 souls. All these islands are of coral growth. The beaches which surround the Seychelles are the most beautiful in the world. They are of glistening white calcareous sands, inclosed in coral reefs of the most subtle and varied structure. These coral reefs form a sort of wall around the islands, and when the sun's rays fall slanting on the sands the shore reflects here and there light-tinted rainbows of the most exquisite shades.

The waters, which are shallow and clear, abound in fish, most of them of rare colors, which can be plainly seen as they swim to and fro, varying their graceful movements by leaping out of the water. The houses are built of a species of massive coral hewn into square blocks, which glisten like white marble and show themselves to the utmost advantage in the various tinted green of the thick tropical palms, whose immense fern-like leaves give pleasant and much needed shade.

These palms grow as high as 100 feet, and sometimes more. They overtop the houses and even the coral built church—a novel sight and one of the curios of Mahe. They line the seashore and cover the mountains, forming in many places extensive forests. Many trees display simultaneously buds, blossoms, unripe and ripe fruit.

Modest and Unknown.

While all the world is talking about Henry M. Stanley, says the London News, a man who has done as great an exploring feat is, owing to his natural modesty, unnoticed an unknown. In 1874 John F. Ingram, of Durban, Natal, then a beardless youth of nineteen, was sent by a syndicate of traders into Swaziland for the purpose of opening up the country and bringing to light its resources. Not content with being the first man to cross the country alive, he crept on through Amatongaland, through the Portuguese territory far beyond the Zambesi, until Egypt was reached and his self-instituted task completed. This stupendous achievement was accomplished in eighteen months, during which time Mr. Ingram was entirely alone, having dispensed with even an escort of native servants and carriers. In person Mr. Ingram is not unlike Emin Pasha, being small and wiry and looking a veritable Turk. He is very well educated, speaking English, French and fourteen African dialects, besides possessing no mean ability as an artist. At present he is editing a paper in South Africa.

Expensive Dinners.

New York has become a city of extravagance in dinner-giving, says a writer in Ladies' Home Journal, and many of these entertainments, with all the delicacies of the season and rare wines, cost from twenty to one hundred dollars per cover. Of course the latter is the outside figure; but reckoning that one gives a dinner once a week to a party of, say fifteen, at the first-named figure it will prove a snug sum at the end of the year. In order to render these dinners complete and perfect, the hostess must possess a dinner service more or less elaborate, and it is rarely, if ever, that the majority of outsiders stop to consider what these consist of and how much money is spent in this direction. In the old Roman days, no greater magnificence could have existed in the way of table decoration, wines and service than a millionaire New Yorker displays when his wife gives a large dinner.

AMERICA'S OLDEST CHURCH.

It Was Built a Hundred Years Before George Washington Was Born.

About two hundred miles south of the city of Washington and a few miles south of the mouth of the James river in the ancient county of the Isle of Wight, in the State of Virginia, stands the oldest building erected on this continent by English-speaking people, says the Washington Star. It is a church built entirely of oak and called "St. Luke's" and "Old Smithfield Church," while its historic name is "The Brick Church."

For two hundred years the house of worship from time to time of the six generations that sleep around it under the fine grove of oaks, sycamores, walnuts and cedars, it resounds with no voice of praise or prayer, it having been abandoned in the year 1830 as a church on account of most of the members having died or moved from the parish.

This venerable church was built in the year 1632, one hundred years before Washington was born and only twelve years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. The antiquity of the church is proven by two deeply-marked date bricks that came down with the east wall in 1887, when the original top fell in.

The church was erected under the superintendency of Captain Joseph Bridges, a "man of affairs" in the shire of Isle of Wight at that time, and finished after that substantial fashion intended to last for ages, so that to-day the massive walls are as strong as when first put up.

The chancel was the east end of the nave valled off, eighteen by nine feet in size. The pulpit, wine-glass in shape, with its handsome sounding-board above, was set against the sink-wall about the middle, and the rest of the nave was given up to pews. Two aisles admitted the people, one from the tower door, five or six feet wide, and the other from a wide, square door in the south wall, the two forming a T.

On the other side of the chancel were two pews—one for the warden and the other for the parson's family. Immediately over the entrance from the tower there stretched across the church a gallery, approached by steps from the church and through which the parson made his way from the vestry-room in the second story of the tower.

The chancel (east) window is eighteen by twelve feet in size, square at the bottom and a quarter circle in shape at the top. It is composed of seventeen small windows, ranging in size from five by two feet to two by one feet.

The orientation is perfect, the rising sun shooting his first rays directly through it. Each side of the church contains four double-lancet windows, eight by six feet in size, and the second story of the tower (vestry-room) is lighted by three like-shaped windows about six by four feet. The vestibule in the tower has an elliptical window in each side about thirty by twenty-four inches in dimensions, and the third story has four windows shaped much like the chancel window. The dividing mullions are all of ornamental brick.

The church having been abandoned as a house of worship in 1836 in the year 1885 Rev. David Barr, then rector of the church at Smithville, Va., and now assistant rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Washington, D. C., undertook the work of having the old church put in perfect and complete order. Since then he has devoted much time to his labor of love and with great success. At this time there is lacking only about one thousand dollars to finish the work.

In the restoration of twelve of the small windows composing the east window the nave windows and vestry-room windows are to be memorials. In the east window will be one each to Washington (the only memorial window to him in the United States); Lee Bridges, the builder of the church; Rev. Mr. Hubbard, the last colonial parson of the church (up to 1802, when he died); Bishops Madison, Moore, Meade and Johns, Virginia's four deceased chief pastors; Sir Walter Raleigh, Captain John Smith, John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, and Rev. Dr. Blair, founder of William and Mary College.

The southeast corner window in the nave will be a memorial of Pocahontas, provided principally by her descendants, and the two opposite ones are memorials of Parsons Hunt and Whittaker, first and second chaplains with Captain John Smith in the Virginia colony. Whittaker baptized Pocahontas and married her to Rolfe.

The first roof was put on the church in 1633, the second in 1737, the third about 1821 and the present one in 1887.

The contributions for the work, more than four hundred in number, have come in sums from one cent (the first by a little Virginia girl) up to two hundred dollars by a Californian, and have been made by rich and poor, the eminent and the lowly, white and colored, Episcopalians, Roman Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and Unitarians. At an early day it is expected that the work will be completed and the "Old Brick Church" again open for the service of God as in days past.

A Tempest in a Teapot.

The true origin of the phrase "A tempest in a teapot" is probably very ancient, says the Chicago Inter Ocean: Cicero quotes a similar phrase, as though well known in his time: "He raised a tempest in a ladle, as the saying is." An author of the third century makes one famous musician ridicule another who had attempted to imitate a storm at sea in one of his musical compositions with the expression: "I have seen a greater tempest in a boiling pot." The French form of the phrase (a tempest in a glass of water) was applied to the famous insurrectionary movement in the republic of Geneva in the seventeenth century. Historians generally ascribe this application of the phrase to Paul, then Grand Duke of Russia; others say that the Austrian Duke Leopold originated it. The English phrase is evidently taken from the French, the word "teapot" being used for the sake of alliteration.

A ROMANCE IN CITY LIFE.

Remarkable Career of an Indefatigable Writer and Her Life Story.

Not far outside of New York City, in one of the suburbs whose shores are splashed by the waters of the Hudson, stands as tidy and attractive a house as it is possible to find. Its plate windows glisten brightly in the sun, the well-kept lawns are the comment of every one who rides by; in short, it is an ideal suburban home. It is occupied, says a writer in Ladies' Home Journal, by a woman now a trifle over forty years of age, with a face which still bears the marks of its singular beauty in youth. Early in life she was one of the belles of one of our great Eastern cities. She became engaged to a young man of brilliant prospects and social standing; but a lovers' quarrel broke off the match and almost shattered the intellect and health of the beautiful girl. She left home and living alone and in poverty she determined to begin a career for herself.

She had literary talent, and this she developed by writing stories. At first she met with but poor success, but faced by starvation and too proud to return to her family she resorted to writing sensational stories for the cheap weeklies. Success began to favor her, and she soon found her stories in greater demand than she could supply. Night and day she worked with the pen, however, and for eight years she toiled on, denying herself every pleasure and comfort, carrying ninety cents of every dollar which she earned to the savings bank. Her goal was a home of her own, nestled in some quiet place, somewhere away from the theater of her youthful career, where, all alone, she might enjoy the peace and quiet for which her aching soul pined.

At the end of nine years she chose the spot where she now lives, and under her own eye built the beautiful little home which to-day is her temple of rest. During the process of building she kept on with her literary work, writing more industriously than ever to gain a competency on which she might live. Two years after the time she had purchased the ground she moved from her humble city apartments to her country home. From that moment till the present day she has never written a line for publication, although for a long time her publishers offered her large prices. She had accomplished the object for which she toiled so hard; and now, with a home of her own and a small, but comfortable income from her invested literary earnings, she lives in quiet and peace, her lot shared only by a young girl who runs her errands and does minor housework.

Her neighbors never see her except when she is working in her garden during the open season. Her home faces the water and looks over to the opposite shore of the Hudson. There, directly opposite to her house, began to rise, two years ago, a palatial residence, now completed, the upper windows of which often throw the reflection of the setting sun into the open door or curtained windows of the more modest dwelling of the literary recluse. The handsome home on the eastern side of the river is that of a rich merchant, whose wife is a well-known society leader, and whose children are the admiration of their circle. The merchant knows not who lives in the trim little house on the opposite shore. The sweet-faced woman, whose life happiness now is within herself and her home, is ignorant of the occupants of the mansion on the other shore. Only a few persons know the occupants of both houses, and they do not lift the vail, for peace and contentment dwell in the houses on both shores, and why disturb their tranquillity?

THE VALUE OF A DEAD DOG.

A Peculiar Suit Brought in Illinois on Behalf of an Englishman.

"Child of the forest, the paleface wants his dog." Such was the pathetic remark made by Artemus Ward when he was captured by Indians, and after going two days without food walked up to his captor and asked for a piece of roast dog. Another paleface wants, not his dog, but the price of him, and thereby hangs a tale.

When, says the Peoria Transcript, the town was talking a few months ago of Lafayette Cole's alleged shortage as manager of the Jenny Electric Light Company, mention was made of his then recent purchase of a valuable dog. The dog in question was a large English mastiff and was purchased from a man named Hutchings, living at Exeter, Devonshire, England. The purchase was made by correspondence, and it is alleged that Cole cablegramed to Hutchings to ship the dog at once, as he (Cole) had already mailed a draft for the amount of the purchase. The Englishman now avers that the draft never came, and from a distance of three thousand five hundred miles he institutes in the Peoria circuit court suit to recover the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars, the value of the dog at the time of his shipment. The dog has no value now, because he is dead, but when still in the flesh he was accounted the handsomest representative of the mastiff breed in this State. The case is a peculiar one, not only on account of the dog, but from the fact that the plaintiff lives on one side of the Atlantic Ocean and the defendant on the other.

A Peregrinating Bank.

New Zealand has a bank on wheels. On certain days of the week a clerk from one of the Palmerston banks travels up and down the railway line from Palmerston to Otaki, transacting the ordinary business of the bank en route. Laden with a sachel containing his supply of cash, and provided with a teller's usual precautions against danger of robbery, he makes the carriage his headquarters, and there receives visits from customers at the way stations, changing checks or taking deposits as occasion may require. This plan is said to bring a good share of grist to the banks mill, and proves a great convenience to settlers, who are saved all the trouble of journeying to town to relieve themselves of surplus money or to procure change. This will probably continue until some bold rascal interviews the clerk and cleans out his bank.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Perfectly Well!

FILLMORE, Dubuque Co., Ia., Sept., 1889

Miss K. Finnigan writes: My mother and sister used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tire of praising the Tonic.

Recovered Health and Happiness.

LAWRENCE, MASS., Dec. '87.

I was suffering for 18 years from a nervous disease more or less; tried everything I heard of, spared neither money nor time to get well-being, but none had the desired effect, until Rev. Mag. recommended the Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, of which I used but three bottles and completely recovered my health and happiness. I hope others will be benefited by the remedy as much as I was.

MARY SENNE.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

The Sioux Warriors Start for Pine Ridge Agency.

TROOPS FOLLOW THEM CLOSELY.

The Hostiles Going In Because of Their Destitute Condition.

A General Feeling of Uneasiness Prevails, and Families Leave the Agency—Trying to Avoid a Repetition of the Wounded Knee Affair—The Firing of a Single Shot May Precipitate a Conflict.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 12.—Scouts report that the entire hostile camp, with few exceptions, is coming toward the agency with the evident intention of surrendering to the authorities. They are traveling with accustomed slowness. Should nothing happen to again stampede them they will arrive not later than to-night.

The total number of Indians of all ages here now is estimated as being in the neighborhood of 3,000.

When the hostiles arrive and disarming commences bloody scenes may be expected at this agency. The troops placed on the sides and rear of hostiles are gradually closing in on them and following them to the agency. It will be but a short time after the arrival of the hostiles that the troops in full strength will also be here to assist in what is expected to be the final tableau.

In their present devil-may-care frame of mind the firing of a single shot when the final windup takes place may precipitate a conflict. The disarming of the Indians in order that they may be prevented from again going on the warpath in the spring is a difficult problem, but it must be solved.

MILES MAY STOP THEM.

Great Precaution to Prevent a Repetition of the Wounded Knee Affair.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 12.—It is not known whether General Miles intends to stop the hostiles or permit them to come into the agency and mix with the people here. General Brooke will follow them closely.

The Wounded Knee affair is so vividly impressed upon the minds of the people here that a general feeling of uneasiness prevails, and many of the mixed blood families are moving out into Nebraska. Dr. Royer's family has left for Rushville.

An old Indian woman, who came from the hostile camp, describes the frenzied state of the hostiles as awful beyond anything she ever witnessed. She says they will go into each others' lodges and help themselves to whatever they want, paying no attention to the protests of the owners. They kick the dogs and children, and do everything to create and keep up a reign of terror.

One of the hostiles informed a Cheyenne scout of Lieutenant Getty's party that they were not going in from fear of the soldiers, but because of their destitute condition.

More Indians on the Warpath.

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 12.—Alarm has been caused in the southern part of the province by a report brought to Deloraine that the Indians have left the Turtle Mountain Reserve south of the boundary and gone on the warpath, plundering settlers and killing cattle. Forty families or more in North Dakota have taken refuge in Bottineau, and more are coming in great alarm. This morning a detachment of 80 mounted police left Regina to reinforce the detachment at Deloraine and prevent the Indians crossing the boundary.

The Indians Fired First.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Gen. O'Beirne has just received a letter from Father Craft, the Catholic priest, who was wounded in the recent battle with Big Foot's band of Sioux Indians. Father Craft says he has disregarded all the laws of medicine and disappointed all the prophets, and is steadily improving. He was stabbed in the back while trying to stop the fight, the knife penetrating his right lung. He says the Indians fired first, and that the soldiers were not to blame for the wholesale killing, as everything was done at close quarters.

Bold Robbery.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—About 9 o'clock last night, as Charles Tealowoney was passing the corner of Michigan avenue and 23d street, two masked men suddenly sprang from a doorway, and leveling revolvers at his head ordered him to give up his valuables. After robbing him of $35 in gold and bills, a sight draft on the Bank of England for $1,500, a diamond stud and a gold watch and chain, they tied him to a railing and escaped. The draft for $1,500 was made payable to bearer, and can be cashed at any bank. There is no clue to the robbers.

Attacked by Ravenous Wolves.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 12.—Wolves are invading the western border counties of Kansas in great packs in search of food. A short distance from Liberal during the morning Mrs. Garvey and her child were attacked by a pack of wolves a few steps from their home, and while the woman escaped with slight injuries the boy was carried some distance and mangled so horribly that he cannot recover. The men about the place finally beat off the savage beasts.

Stonecutters Locked Out.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Eight hundred journeymen stonecutters, employed in 56 yards, have been locked out by the Stonecutters' Association until the Stonecutters' Union recognizes the rules and regulations recently adopted by the Stonecutters' Association. The rule that they object to most strongly is the following: "The union shall not be permitted to discipline the employer for any reason whatever."

ELEVATED ROAD CRASH.

Two Trains Collide in New York and an Engine Falls to the Street.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—At 9:45 a. m. a collision occurred on the Third avenue line of the Manhattan Elevated Railway which completely demolished one engine, seriously damaged another, injured two men and created a panic among four car loads of passengers. A switch engine was employed in making up trains on the middle track, and in the course of her work was run out on the down track at 118th street, the danger signal being set to cover her.

Disregarding the signal, the engineer of a south-bound train continued on his way until his engine, with four loaded cars behind her, crashed into the switch engine with such force as to carry her a distance of 40 feet, tearing away the footpath and railing of the structure and throw her into the street 20 feet below. The engineer and fireman of the switcher were thrown from their engine to the middle track, and the former was seriously and the latter slightly hurt.

The collision knocked out a cylinder head of the passenger engine, and the escaping steam, together with the shock of the colliding engines, filled the passengers with alarm, but none of them were hurt.

The switch engine, which fell into the street, was broken to pieces. In its descent it smashed a wagon standing by the curbstone, but miraculously did no other damage.

STEAMERS COLLIDE.

Two Vessels Foundered and Twelve Men Swept Away by the Swift Current.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The steamer Brittania, from Leith, and the Bear, from Grangemouth, collided in the Firth of Forth early yesterday morning. The Bear sank immediately. The Brittania launched a boat, which rescued two of the Bear's crew, but 12 were swept away by the swift current and drowned.

The Brittania was badly damaged by the collision, and the steamer Thames, which came up soon afterward, took the Brittania's 45 passengers off, and started to tow the disabled steamer to Leith. The cables snapped, however, and before the connection could be re-established the Brittania foundered. The crew took to the water in their lifeboats, and all were rescued, except the chief engineer, who was drowned.

Mrs. Beerman Hit by a Woman.

FAIRVIEW, N. J., Jan. 12.—It is now reported that the persons suspected of assaulting Mrs. Beerman are two women who were seen in the vicinity of Nungesser's Hotel on the night of the assault. An anonymous correspondent, whose identity was subsequently disclosed to the county officials, gave the first clue to these women. The informant is a woman living in New York, who supplied information concerning Mr. Beerman's life. It is thought that the arrest of the suspected women will soon occur. Prosecutor Campbell promises to tell the whole story in a few days.

No Proof that He Is Padlewski.

MADRID, Jan. 12.—The man arrested at Olot as Padlewski, the murderer of General Seliverskoff, at first gave the name of Leopold Frances and described himself as a commercial traveler. Finding that the police suspected him of being Padlewski, he intimated that they were right. On being examined before a magistrate the prisoner made incoherent replies, indicating insanity. Although he resembles Padlewski the police lack convincing proof of his identity. French police agents are on the way to see him, and the Russian Consul at Barcelona has sent an officer to examine him. A revolver and 22 cartridges were found in his room.

Received a Shock that Killed Him.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—At 234 Congress street, John Tierney, a workman employed there, attempted to replace the globe of an incandescent light, which had become broken, and, in doing so, he took hold of the brass ring at the small end, instead of at the glass end, and he received a heavy shock, which killed him instantly. In his fall he carried the globe and wire to the floor with him, the former so tightly grasped in his hand that the wire had to be cut before it could be removed. Tierney was 31 years old and unmarried.

Monte Carlo's Latest Victim.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—Steps have been taken by the authorities here to find out the name of the Russian gentleman who committed suicide at Monte Carlo Saturday by blowing his brains out with a revolver. According to a letter found on the suicide's body the writer had lost 800,000 roubles at the gambling tables of Monte Carlo, and that being ruined there was nothing left for him but self-destruction. So many suicides have occurred there within the past few months that the great gambling palace may be suppressed.

Lieutenant Casey's Body Brought East.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 12.—General Thomas L. Casey, United States Engineer Corps, will probably arrive at Rickford to-day with the remains of his brother, Lieut Edmund F. Casey, U. S. A., lately killed by the Sioux in South Dakota. Lieutenant Casey will be buried in the family plot on the farm in North Kingstown.

IN CONGRESS TO-DAY

The Copyright Measure Called Up in the Senate.

RESULT OF THE VOTE DOUBTFUL.

General Debate on the Financial Bill to Close To-Morrow.

Final Vote on Its Passage to be Taken Wednesday Evening—Lively Week in the House—Pushing the Subsidy Bill for a Vote—Senator Hearst Dying—His Family Summoned.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the Senate to-day, directly after the morning business, Mr. Platt moved to take up the Copyright bill, with a view to having it considered in the morning hour until it is disposed of. There is probably a majority of the members of the Senate in favor of passing the bill, but the result of the vote on Mr. Platt's motion is still very doubtful, in view of the other business which is pressing for consideration.

This afternoon and to-morrow afternoon will be devoted to the Financial bill, general debate to close to-morrow evening. Wednesday afternoon will be given up to debate and voting on amendments to the bill, and the final vote on its passage will be taken Wednesday evening.

An effort may be made to hold a Republican caucus early in the week to agree upon an order of business. Some of the friends of the Elections bill still think that it can be passed, and Mr. Hoar expects to move that it be taken up again on Thursday.

The latter part of the week may be given up to the discussion of the Apportionment bill. Mr. Hale will move to take it up Thursday, unless this motion will bring him in antagonism with Mr. Hoar.

THE HOUSE PROGRAMME.

The Champions of the Shipping Subsidy Bill Anxious for a Vote.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—There may be a lively fight in the House this week between the Committee on Military Affairs and the champions of the Shipping Subsidy bill.

An effort will be made to have a vote taken on the Shipping bill on Thursday, but the Military committee members may endeavor to have the Army Appropriation bill considered. If they are successful action on the Subsidy bill will probably be postponed. It is probable, however, that the vote on the Subsidy bill will be taken on Thursday.

The Army Appropriation bill will be considered if this intention is carried out and if any time remains during the week it is likely that the Naval Appropriation bill will be called up.

SENATOR HEARST DYING.

His Relatives Have Been Summoned to His Bedside.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator George Hearst is at death's door. His family have given up all hope of his recovery and the relatives have been summoned to his bedside.

The physicians say he is liable to pass away at almost any time. The malady, cancer of the stomach, has grown far more aggravated within the past 24 hours and the Senator suffers intensely.

His 73 years makes the fight for life one-sided. His men of affairs, who have been engaged in investing his estate, say that he will leave a fortune of at least $20,000,000.

Will Mr. Harrison be a Candidate?

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Politicians are busily discussing the report which comes from Indianapolis that notice has been given to the Republican leaders in Indiana that Mr. Harrison will be a candidate for renomination and every friend of the administration is being urged to labor industriously toward getting the State in line for him. It is said that the notice was personally served by Russell Harrison, the President's son.

McKinley to Answer Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Great interest is taken here over the Lincoln banquet to be held in Toledo, O., on Feb. 12. On that occasion Congressman McKinley will reply to ex-President Cleveland's speech in Columbus at the Thurman banquet. Mr. McKinley's toast will be: "An American Tariff for the American People."

Delamater & Co.'s Creditors.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—The meeting of creditors of Delamater & Co. to-day is awaited with interest, inasmuch as the prospects are fair that the promises of the assignees to pay 50 cents on the dollar will be redeemed.

THE UNITED WORKMEN.

A Satisfactory Condition of the Order's Finances Reported.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Much interest has been manifested in fraternal society circles as to what the official figures for the past year as to the condition of the Ancient Order of United Workmen in this State would show, on account of the unusually heavy death rate, 27 assessments having been levied in 1890 as compared with 21 in 1889.

An important meeting has just been concluded at the office of the Grand Recorder at Dunkirk. The books were examined and balances struck, the result being considered especially satisfactory. During the year 3,866 new members joined, as compared with 3,662 in 1889. The amount collected for the beneficiary fund in 1890 was $638,501, as compared with $654,446 collected in 1889. This makes a total of nearly $5,000,000 paid out since the establishment of the Grand Lodge jurisdiction in 1877.

The proper documents for the presentation of a claim for relief from the Supreme Lodge were prepared and will be presented at the meeting of the Supreme Lodge Relief Board, which will be held in Detroit, to-morrow. The amount of the claim will be in the neighborhood of $132,000. It is understood that Pennsylvania will also make application for relief.

A TOWN SINKING.

The People Ready to Abandon Their Homes at a Moment's Notice.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 12.—The ground in the vicinity of Port Bowkley, three miles from here, is settling, and the people are thoroughly alarmed. The pillars have been "robbed" in the upper vein of the Lehigh Coal Company's collieries, and to this the sinking is attributed.

The Second District school, a handsome new building, has settled eight inches, and will have to be rebuilt. The people in the vicinity have everything ready to abandon their homes at a moment's notice.

New Hotel Blown Down.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Jan. 12.—A new hotel in the course of construction at Monmouth Park was blown down last evening by the severe gale which passed over Long Branch and the surrounding country. The building was partially finished. It was completely razed to the ground and the damage amounts to $20,000. The wind traveled at the rate of 45 miles an hour, and for a time it was thought that considerable damage would be done to the beach and outbuildings. Several bathing houses were blown down by the wind.

Strike of the Troy Shirtmakers.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The strike of the female employes of the United Shirt and Collar Company remains practically unchanged, beyond that several different departments have joined the strikers, each having its own grievance. Both sides remain firm. Several children under the legal age were ordered discharged at the Lion Factory by Deputy State Factory Inspector Hooley. The company have issued a notice that all employes must claim their positions by to-morrow or remove their machines from the factories.

New Jersey's National Guard.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—The Adjutant-General reports that the National Guard of this State now comprises 835 officers and 8,895 enlisted men, divided among 57 companies of infantry and two Gatling gun companies. The total number of men shows a decrease of 118. The militia reserve of the State is estimated to comprise 284,887 men. Hudson County, with 55,117, contains the largest number; next in order being Essex, with 46,799, and Camden, with 17,562.

Railway Changes.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 12.—S. C. Prescott, Assistant General Freight Agent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, has been appointed General Freight Agent of the Concord & Montreal Railroad, to take effect Feb. 1. M. T. Donovan, for several years connected with the general freight department of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, and later in the Boston office of the Canadian Pacific freight department, will succeed Mr. Prescott on the Boston & Maine.

Steamer Sunk by Ice.

DELAWARE CITY, Del., Jan. 12.—The steamer Absenboro, of the New York & Baltimore Transportation line, was cut down and sunk by the ice off Reedy Island in the Delaware Bay. No lives are reported lost, and no particulars of the accident are yet known. The Absenboro left New York on Saturday, with a general cargo for Baltimore, the value of which is said to have been large. The boat was valued at $25,000.

Depew Lectures on "Contrasts."

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Chauncey M. Depew opened the series of lectures for the New York Press Club at the Broadway Theatre last night. His subject was "Contrasts." There was a large crowd present, and he received rounds of applause for his humorous hits.

Emma Abbott's Monument.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—A granite monument for Emma Abbott is being constructed in Quincy. It is said that it will be one of the finest monuments in the country. It is to cost $83,000, and will be placed over the remains of the singer and her husband in the family lot at Gloucester.

Cut to Pieces by the Cars.

MOUNT MORRIS, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Thomas Caulking, a brakeman on the Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad, was cut to pieces here while attempting to couple a rapidly moving freight train. He leaves a wife and infant child living in Elmira.

Furnaces Shut Down.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—All the furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys, 23 in number, have closed down. The shut down is due to high railroad rates and the high price of coke.

PARNELL'S ADDRESS

He Speaks to Twenty Thousand People at Limerick.

A HINT ABOUT THE CONFERENCE.

He Is Willing to Retire When Home Rule Is Safe.

Rumors of a Stormy Meeting Between O'Brien and McCarthy—O'Brien Accused of Scheming to Obtain the Leadership, which He Hotly Denies—Parnell Must Marry Mrs. O'Shea.

LIMERICK, Jan. 12.—Fully 20,000 persons assembled here to greet Mr. Parnell, thousands coming from all the adjoining counties. In response to addresses, Mr. Parnell made a long speech. He held that Mr. Gladstone had caused the present trouble by issuing a mandatory letter, demanding that the Irish members depose their leader.

Referring to the denials of Mr. Gladstone as to the accuracy of his statements regarding the interview at Hawarden, Mr. Parnell declared that he could now confirm their truth by a letter written on March 29, only three months after the interview, when the matter was fresh in his mind, and when even his bitterest enemy could not say he had any reason to misrepresent or suppress the truth.

Will Retire When Home Rule Is Safe.

Mr. Parnell said he could not forecast the result of the present negotiations without a breach of confidence. He thought, however, that Mr. O'Brien would not object to his saying that so far the negotiations had resulted in an agreement, and that they fully recognized that future steps will have to be taken by other men, upon whom the very great responsibility will rest, if Mr. O'Brien and himself are not again able to resume negotiations with an assured hope of success. [Cheers.]

As for himself, he only asked them to believe that he had not been actuated by the contemptible and paltry motives attributed to him. As soon as the future of the Irish question was assured, he would cheerfully retire from the leadership of the Irish party. [Cries of "No, no!"] He should scarcely be asked to lead the Irish party, composed as it was at present. [Cries of "Hear, hear!"] He believed the future would vindicate him fully, but he certainly would never seek vindication beyond the voice of the Irish people. (Cheers.)

O'BRIEN FOR PEACE.

His Love for Ireland and Parnell Causes a Break With McCarthy.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Times this morning publishes the following dispatch from its correspondent at Boulogne:

"It is known that at the conference here between O'Brien, McCarthy, Sexton and Condon the most serious differences arose.

"I have it from what I consider the very best authority that the question of Mr. O'Brien's attitude toward Mr. Parnell led to a discussion of a very angry and heated character, and that Mr. O'Brien was reproached for not adhering to his first unqualified endorsement of the anti-Parnellite party.

"My informant said: 'Mr. O'Brien was immovable upon the question of Mr. Parnell's retirement. He held out for an amicable settlement, but a settlement based upon the selection of a leader agreeable to both sides, leaving the question of Mr. Parnell's resumption of the leadership to the future development of events.'

"This the McCarthyites refused to entertain. They called for Mr. O'Brien's unqualified support. Mr. McCarthy repelled any suggestion that left a loophole for the return of Mr. Parnell at any future time. The position occupied by Mr. O'Brien at this moment is that of a mediator. He practically represents the interests of Mr. Parnell, and is convinced that unless the party is reunited it is forever damned.

"He urges the absolute impossibility of cementing the existing differences unless the programme received the sanction and approval of Mr. Parnell, and further pointed out that Mr. Dillon would support his views and approve any sensible scheme for bringing the factions together, and as Mr. McCarthy held to his position and Mr. Parnell to his, the interest of Ireland would suffer until the people of Ireland had a chance to decide to whom they owe allegiance, and, in Mr. O'Brien's opinion, it was not difficult to prophesy what the result of the election would be.

"I am told also that one honorable member lost his temper during the conference and flatly accused Mr. O'Brien of scheming to obtain the leadership himself, and that Mr. O'Brien retaliated in passionate and uncomplimentary language. It is certain that Messrs. McCarthy and Sexton Bir. here dejected and discomfited-looking men."

Archbishop Logue Defies Parnell.

ARMAGH, Jan. 12.—Archbishop Logue, replying to an address of welcome on his return from Rome, declared that the bishops and priests of Ireland would have nothing to do with any compromise with Mr. Parnell on the subject of retirement until he married Mrs. O'Shea. He defied Parnell to carry on an agitation against the clergy.

The Czar Careful About His Money.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The policy of Russia in keeping the bulk of the foreign deposit with one house has been abandoned since the Baring failure, which nearly resulted in heavy loss for the Russian treasury. The Czar has just distributed $20,000,000 among the banks of various European money centers on deposit.

Annie Oakley Not Dead.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12.—Annie Oakley, the sharpshooter, writes from England that she is very much alive, and enjoyed reading her obituary notices.

WHO WILL BE THE VICTOR?

Everything in Readiness for the Great Dempsey-Fitzsimmons Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—The fight between Jack Dempsey and Bob Fitzsimmons, which will take place next Wednesday before the Olympic Club, is expected to be one of the best battles seen in this country for many years. Both men have been training hard and earnestly for the fight, and both are well aware that it is to be the fight of their lives. If the Nonpareil is beaten he will have no excuse to offer, but will have to give in that he was beaten by a better man than himself. His fight with La Blanche, the Marine, has taught him a lesson about underestimating his opponent's qualities, and he is now in the pink of condition, ready to put up a great battle.

Opinion is about evenly divided as to who will be the victor, both men having a host of supporters. Dempsey is a slight favorite in the betting, and he should be, if good form counts for anything.

He began his pugilistic career in 1883, only seven years ago, and during that time has won 51 battles, defeating the best men in the country in his class, and some in a heavier class. This is a record second to none, and he well deserves the title of "Nonpareil." His last battle with the Marine, when he was defeated in 32 rounds, is one that he will always regret, as he treated it too lightly, and did not train for it as well as he might have done. Even as it was, it proved to be a chance blow that knocked him out, or he might have had La Blanche's scalp dangling from his belt for the second time.

Jack is aware that Fitzsimmons is a good man, although he has never laid eyes on him. He has been fighting for ten years, defeating some good men in his time. He is taller than Dempsey, has a longer reach, and, if reports are true, his hitting power is something that should make him a dangerous foe with any man. The people at Ray St. Louis, where he is training, think him a wonder, and will be greatly astonished if Dempsey licks him. Jimmie Carroll, who is training him, thinks he has a world beater in Fitzsimmons, and will send his man into the ring as fit as a fiddle.

Arthur Upham has been assisting Dempsey to get in trim, and on Wednesday night he will have Jack McAuliffe, the light weight champion, and Denny Costigan in his corner with him. The men must weigh in five minutes before entering the ring, and if either weighs more than 154 pounds in ring costume there is likely to be a hitch in the matter. Dempsey will weigh about 147 pounds, while Fitzsimmons cannot very easily get below 154. The fight will be for a purse of $15,000 and an outside wager of $5,000 a side between the principals, the largest wager ever contended for.

It may be stated without fear of violating confidence that James J. Corbet of San Francisco will referee the fight.

Harmless Socialist Demonstration.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Socialist demonstration which the London police have been apprehending for several days actually occurred yesterday, but turned out to be a very harmless affair. The Socialist agitators succeeded in capturing only a few hundred of the great army of unemployed, and the procession which marched to Hyde Park was more pitiable than formidable. There was a black fog, and as the wretched company passed along, with banners inscribed with demands for work or bread, they presented a most forlorn appearance.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Ex-Minister Mizner has passed through Acapulco on his way to San Francisco.

A reorganization of the sugar trust has been successfully accomplished under the laws of New Jersey.

The First Presbyterian Church at Huntington, Pa., is split over the question of whips and means. Subscriptions having fallen off alarmingly, it was proposed to raise the rent of pews. This was objected to as a scheme to get rid of the poorer members, and many have left the church.

Skater Donoghue Coming Home.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Joe Donoghue, the great skater of Newburgh, N. Y., sails for America on Wednesday, taking with him as prizes a diamond pin, several gold medals and numerous championships, including the championship of the world. He says foreign skaters have not nerve enough to come to America to compete in the races there.

THE DAILY PRESS.

BY THE WAY.

—Skating is spoiled for a time.

—A meeting of the Warren Mission Boys' Society will be held in the chapel this evening at eight o'clock.

—The Clerks' Association will hold a special meeting on important business Thursday night at eight o'clock.

—Big bargains are promised by the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association, next Friday. Look out for their advertisement on that day.

—The Fireman's Herald copies from THE PRESS the annual report of Chief Engineer T. O. Doane as the commendable showing of a model fire department.

—The Treasurer of Muhlenberg Hospital acknowledges the receipt of $50 from St. Mary's church, in addition to other amounts already stated in these columns.

—The regular meeting of Branch 1199, Iron Hall, will be held to-morrow night. A full attendance of the members is requested, as business of importance will come before the meeting.

—A red lamp should be substituted for the white one on the electric light post nearest each fire-alarm box. Then anyone at night would be guided at once to the right spot to send an alarm.

—The book-keeping and penmanship classes will meet at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms to-night, and the mechanical and drawing classes to-morrow night, as usual. An opportunity is still afforded young men or boys to join the classes that meet to-night.

—Seats will be on sale to-morrow and thereafter at the pharmacies of Miller, East Front street, and Williams, Park avenue and Fourth street, for the appearance of the Gilbert Dramatic Society, in "Mixed Pickles," at Music Hall, Jan. 20, under the auspices of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum.

—The joint installation of the officers of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and Winfield Scott Relief Corps, No. 10, W. R. C., will take place in Grand Army Hall, East Front street, this week Tuesday evening. Comrades of the G. A. R. from other Posts, in uniform, will be admitted; others on invitation only.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Frances Crossley, of 92 Jackson avenue, Jersey City, is paying a short visit to friends on Somerset street, North Plainfield.

Col. Charles K. Moore, who had been very ill at his home in Fanwood, has been taken to his father's, in Elizabeth, where he is rapidly recovering.

The young people of the First Baptist church will hold a sociable at the residence of Miss Nettie Worth, No. 87 Grove street, to-morrow evening.

The Rev. W. R. Richards, the present pastor, and the Rev. Dr. J. C. Bliss, a former pastor, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, conducted funeral services over the remains of the late John Simpson, Saturday. The house was filled with mourners.

W. T. Smith, the celebrated rug and curtain manufacturer of Philadelphia, has a host of friends in Plainfield, some of whom entertained him in a proper manner, on the occasion of a flying visit to this city Saturday evening. "Smithy" was so well pleased with his reception as to miss a pressing engagement elsewhere.

Morrison in the Toils.

The suit between Shotwell and Rice, of North Plainfield, dragged its weary way along in the Somerville Courts to-day, and was adjourned over to Wednesday for continuance. Thomas W. Morrison, one of the witnesses, failed to put in an appearance, and a constable was sent to his home here by the Court. In the afternoon the Sheriff escorted Morrison to the bar of the Court, where he gave as an excuse for non-appearance that of sickness. His plea was received and he was ordered to appear again on Wednesday. One of the counselors gave him a scoring in open Court, and intimated that Morrison had defiantly announced that he would refuse to obey the Court and appear as a witness.

The Court Says Carey Must Pay His Debts.

Some months ago the Miller Bros. sued Tunis J. Carey before Justice Nash for $25 for the balance due on a check given for borrowed money. After several adjournments had by Carey, judgment was taken against him. Carey appealed the case to the Court of Common Pleas. On the day on which the case was set down for a hearing, Mr. McClure appeared for the Miller Bros., but neither Carey nor his counsel was present. Mr. McClure asked for and obtained a dismissal of the case. Subsequently notice was served on Mr. McClure, based on affidavits of Carey and W. A. Coddington, who respesented him in the court below, of a motion to be made before the court to reinstate the case. At the hearing of the motion, Mr. McClure appeared for the Millers, and ex-Judge Cross for Mr. Carey; and after an argument heard the court reserved an opinion. Saturday the opinion of the court was given, refusing to reinstate the case, and charging Carey with the costs. Thus ends a cause celebre, with the decision that Carey has to pay his honest debts.

A SUNDAY MORNING BRAWL.

Women Scratch Eyes and Pull Hair Over the Possession of a Husband—One of Them Seriously Hurt—Disgraceful Row in a Tenement House, But As All The Men Fled There Are No Arrests a Yet.

Mrs. McCready, who lives on East Front street, near Washington, complained to Police Captain Grant, Saturday night, that her husband had deserted her and for months had not contributed anything to her support. She also accused him, with her sons, of frequenting a house of questionable repute, and asked that the place be raided. Mr. Grant advised that the woman first make a formal complaint, accompanied by affidavit, and have him arrested for non-support, as he then could examine thoroughly into the merits of the case. Instead of adopting this course, however, she herself made a visit to the house in question, after midnight of Saturday, and made things lively and interesting for the tenants.

The women in whose apartments Mrs. McCready had accused her husband of taking shelter were Mrs. Prentiss, who has a one-armed husband, and Mrs. Wilson, who has a one-legged spouse. Mrs. McCready first saw Mrs. Prentiss, and pulled her hair and scratched her face to her heart's content. Mrs. Wilson rushed forward to join in the row, and in frisking about made a misstep on the landing and fell headlong down the steep flight of stairs. The noise brought Mrs. Horace VanNess and Mrs. Estelle M. Jackson out of their rooms in the house, and the accident put an end to hostilities. Mrs. McCready escorted her not-entirely sober husband home, while Policemen Cooney and Kiely, who heard the racket and rushed in, sent for a physician. Dr. Jenkins arrived and found that Mrs. Wilson had sprained an ankle very seriously. Several other men who were in the house sneaked out as soon as the free fight among the women began, and escaped the arrest they might otherwise have had to undergo.

The house is one of the tenements back of French's Mill on Somerset street, near Front. The landlord was warned by Captain Grant three weeks ago that the place was becoming notorious from the disreputable people who were in the habit of visiting it, and advised that the tenants be put out and a more respectable lot substituted.

PUBLIC SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS.

More Room at the Bryant—New Science and Sewing Classes—Appreciation of a Faithful Officer—Committees for the Year.

At a special meeting of the Board of Education Saturday night Architect Oscar S. Teale's plans for the enlargement of the Bryant school building, so as to add four large class rooms, were adopted, and the Committee on Buildings were authorized to secure specifications. Mr. Teale was given superintendency of the work of building.

The Board expressed its heartfelt thanks to John W. Murray, the retiring member, for his long and valuable services, and gave him a special invitation to co-operate with them at any time and to attend their meetings and give them the value of his views of experience.

The Committee on Teachers were authorized to procure a teacher for the new Science Class at a cost not to exceed $1 per hour.

The Principal was authorized to introduce sewing into the school, and to secure a list of the necessary articles required for a sewing class.

The following appointments for the year were made:

City Superintendent—Dr. Hurlbut.

Committee on Teachers—Messrs. Kirkner, Hurlbut and Babcock.

On Finance—Messrs. Finch and Babcock.

On Repairs and Buildings—Messrs. Probasco and Finch.

On Fuel—Messrs. Probasco and Finch.

On Stationery and Supplies—Messrs. Kirkner, Hurlbut and Babcock.

Preparation for Life.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut will give one of his most interesting and helpful talks at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms Thursday evening of this week at eight o'clock. The subject will be "Preparation for Life." Substantially the same talk was given to two hundred young people at Ottawa, Kansas, and to an audience of three hundred at Chautauqua last Summer. It will contain a number of interesting incidents and stories that Dr. Hurlbut has picked up in various places. Admission will be free. Young men are advised to reserve the date.

Plainfield: The City of Refuge.

In a lurid pamphlet entitled "The Stricken Nation," which gives a highly-colored story of the imaginable bombardment and demolition of New York, Washington and other "doomed cities of the coast" by a foreign power, an alarmist author has New York so completely under the thumb of the British that the metropolitan newspapers have to flee to Plainfield, N. J., to find a secluded and impregnable spot where they may publish their daily issues unmolested.

ICE FIELDS BROKEN UP.

A Heavy Rainstorm Floods the Ponds and Streams, and Spoils the Skating.

A deluge of rain fell throughout Central New Jersey all day yesterday, and serious freshets were threatened. The ice in many of the ponds and streams was broken up, and such of the masses of fragments as dashed down the brooks of the mountain notches were caught together, on reaching the lowlands, and reared themselves into formidable dams, so that some of the villages in the valleys of the Watchung Mountains were seriously flooded. Along the course of Plainfield brooks some of the householders had an active time keeping the cakes of ice from accumulating and crowding the water back over their land. Numerous cellars at Scotch Plains and Dunellen and in sections of North Plainfield's outskirts were flooded, and some country houses unfortunately situated were entirely surrounded by shallow water.

George Bennett, a New York business man, occupying a country seat along Greenbrook, three miles from here, fell into the foaming torrent while trying to break an ice dam which was flooding his property, and was carried swiftly along a distance of several hundred feet. An overhanging tree branch caught and held him till help came. He was nearly drowned, and was severely hurt by heavy blows from floating cakes of ice.

In the neighborhood of Bound Brook the Raritan River overflowed its banks, and the meadows and some of the country roads were submerged. It was feared that the ice would cause a jam in one of the sharp bends of the river, and men armed with long boat-hooks were busy all the afternoon keeping the cakes in motion. They remained on duty until after dark to guard against the threatened danger, but the storm abated, the swollen waters ceased rising, and the ice began to pass safely out. The lower floors of the houses on the meadows, occupied by the poor people of Bound Brook and Bloomington, were in some cases several feet under water, and considerable furniture and stores of eatables were spoiled.

Some of the larger dams of the neighborhood drew groups of spectators, despite the cold and driving rain. At such of the ponds as had shaken off the fetters which had kept them ice-bound great cakes of ice and tremendous volumes of water thundered over the dams, causing a roar that could be heard a considerable distance, and presenting a fine spectacle. All of the dams newly-built since the last freshet proved their strength and solidity.

The storm has caused delay and loss to the ice dealers of the neighborhood, and will throw their men out of work till the frost is again monarch of the ponds. They had just begun to harvest ice fifteen inches thick and of superior quality. Now the crop is ruined, and considerable harvesting machinery that had carelessly been left exposed has been swept away.

She Rivals the Flute.

As already stated, the star of the evening upon the occasion of the first concert of the Melopoia, next Thursday evening, at The Casino, will be the beautiful Miss Mary Howe. It is rumored that she is paid $500 for her appearance here. Be that as it may, the usual price she receives is even more than that.

She is only twenty-two and has not yet reached her best, but today there is not a voice in this country, at least, so phenomenal, She will sing a solo with flute obligato, Thursday evening, and it will be impossible for ordinary ears to distinguish the voice from the instrument.

As to the rest of the programme, it will include some of the selections sung upon the occasion of the private rehearsal a few weeks ago. The finale to "Die Meistersinger" will not be repeated, however; the "Hymn to Apollo," by Roeder, taking its place in the attractive programme.

Two Good Speakers.

The value of personal purity to young men was forcibly emphasized in the strong, helpful words spoken by the Hon. Elkanah Drake at the young men's Gospel and song service held at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms yesterday afternoon. The audience was large, in spite of the inclemency of the weather.

Next Sunday afternoon, at the same time and place, an address will be delivered by Robert P. Wilder, one of the originators of the Students' Volunteer Missionary Movement, who will describe what has been termed the college uprising. Mr. Wilder, by his eloquence and burning zeal for foreign missions, has thrilled the blood of college men all over this land, and the young men of this city are highly favored in being privileged to hear him speak.

His Aspirations Still at Large.

W. R. Chapman, of the Melopoia, is conducting six choral societies this season. They are the Metropolitan Musical Society, the Musurgia, the Rubinstein Club, the New-Rochelle Choral Club, the Melopoia of this city, and the Kingston Philharmonic. With these forces consolidated Mr. Chapman can have a chorus of 650 voices, and with this chorus talks of giving a music festival in New York city in the Spring of 1892, with the aid of Theodore Thomas and his orchestra.

—The "Two Orphans" will be presented at Amphion Hall, to-night, by a good company.

BETTER WAGES FOR LIFE SAVERS.

Plainfield's Congressman Joins the Rev. Mr. Young in an Effort to Accomplish Brave Men's Deserts.

The Rev. S. Edward Young, the pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Asbury Park, is endeavoring to secure larger wages for the surfmen and Captains of all the life-saving stations in the United States. His idea is to increase the salaries of the surfmen to $500 a year and those of the Captains to $800; also to provide permanent pensions for the families of those who are lost while assisting a wrecked vessel. At present the law says that these families shall receive $400 a year for two years, but after that time the pension stops. Mr. Young is now in correspondence with the heads of the department all over the country, and he has been conferring with some of them personally. He proposes to modify one of the bills now before Congress, but if this cannot be done satisfactorily he will have a new bill framed.

Congressman Jacob A. Geissenhainer, the representative of the people of this city and district, at Washington, has introduced a bill to raise the wages of the life savers to $600 and those of the Captains to $900.

Spoiled a Wagon Load of Groceries.

John Bicknell, foreman of J. P. Homan's blacksmith shop, is one of the most obliging of young men. He drives down, with a fast horse, from his country residence every morning to business. Henry Wise, the efficient clerk at P. M. Demarest's, is a friend of Bicknell's, and shares in the just pride of such a trotter; so when Wise's horse was taken sick he naturally went to John for the loan of his animal. John promptly acquiesced, the only stipulation being that the horse should be tied while the driver was delivering goods. After arranging a large load of groceries in his wagon, Wise started for North Plainfield, and drove to Duer street, to a customer's. It being a small order, and expecting to be back instantly, he neglected to tie the horse. A milk wagon driving quickly by started a desire for home in the heart of the animal which had been impressed into the grocery service, and acting on the impulse of the moment he started up Duer street to Green Brook road and up that street to Somerset, in the direction of home, where he was fortunately caught. The only damage was the irrevocable mixing up of the numerous packages of groceries which the wagon contained.

Why Your Electric Light Bill Increased.

Everybody is complaining of an increase in their electric light bill for last month over any month before since the service was established. Some bills show an increase of 50 per cent. Many consumers are attributing this to the consolidation of the Gas and the Electric Light Companies. Manager Moore tells a PRESS reporter that "that's all bosh." He says December was one of the "longest" months he ever knew, and the cause of the increase in anybody's bill was that they burned more light than ever before. That this is so is apparent at the electric light station, where 190 tons of coal were consumed, which is a very large increase over any month in the plant's existence.

After the Scalps of the Bayonne Men.

The Crescent League team of ten men will roll a game with the team of the Newark Bay Boat Club, of Bayonne, next Thursday evening. The latter are a strong team, having lost but three games this season. The Elizabeth first team defeated them only by 20 pins.

Shall Women be Allowed to Vote?

The question of female suffrage has agitated the tongues and pens of reformers for many years, and good arguments have been adduced for and against it. Many of the softer sex could vote intelligently, and many would vote as their husbands did, and give no thought to the merits of a political issue. They would all vote for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for they know it is a boon to their sex. It is unequaled for the cure of the countless ills to which women are subject. It is the only remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee on wrapper around bottle.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

(In Charge of Superintendent of Press Work.)

If the traffic in ardent spirits is immoral, then of necessity are the laws which authorize the traffic immoral. And if the laws are not immoral then we must be immoral if we do not protest against them.—Gerrit Smith.

The point to be decided—to be decided by the legislatures of these United States; to be decided for all coming posterity, for the world, and for eternity—is, shall the sale of ardent spirits, as a drink, be treated in legislation as a virtue or a vice? Shall it be licensed, sanctioned by law, and perpetuated to roll its all-pervading curses onward interminably, or shall it be treated, as it is in truth, a sin?—Dr. Justin Edwards in 1833.

I wish some of our great statesmen would walk through our great towns, and would go from house to house with some of the devoted clergymen who know the condition of the people. I wish they would come and hear the biographies of intense misery which are to be found under the humblest roofs; and when they have learned these things, and found that they are to be traced up to one black fountain—intoxicating drink—I believe they would lay aside their political questions and conflicts, and take in hand that which touches the very root of the life and morals of the people. * * * * What are we about? How is that men who profess to be statesmen can waste their time and the time of the Legislature before they take this subject in hand?—Cardinal Manning.

Drunkenness causeth woes and mischief, wounds and sorrows, sin and shame; it maketh bitterness of spirit, brawling and quarreling. It increaseth rage, and lesseneth strength; it maketh red eyes, and a loose and babbling tongue. Jeremy Taylor.

I can keep no terms with a vice that fills our jails, that destroys the comfort of homes and the peace of families, and debases and brutalizes the people of these islands.—Lord Chief Justice Coleridge of England.

Ministerial Relief Among the Presbyterians.

The offering yesterday morning in the Crescent avenue church was for the Board of Ministerial Relief.

Last year, ending April 1, 1890, the number of families upon the roll of the Board was 642, of whom 18 were at the Ministers' House, Perth Amboy, N. J. To the other 624 families appropriations were sent in money, as recommended by the Presbyteries to which they belong. The number of persons who share in these appropriations is, of course, much larger than the number of families. The Presbyterial recommendations on their behalf came from 159 Presbyteries, showing how widely distributed throughout the church are these homes of "suffering brethren."

But the amount sent to each family is small. The largest annual appropriation is $300. The average has never reached $200. When it is remembered that missionaries, and the great majority of pastors, in the Presbyterian church, are paid salaries barely enough for the support of their families from year to year, it is not surprising that many, after having given their best years to the church, find themselves in old age without money, and without the ability to earn it. Many others, in the midst of their active ministry, are brought to the same condition by sickness. Others, called from their labors by death, leave widows and young children in a state of comparative helplessness. Last year's total contributions to the cause reached $105,369.

Counselor Marsh Wins Two in One Day.

In giving the results of the suits of Architect Clum against Mayor Male, and Mrs. Schneider against her daughter Elizabeth Geisser—published exclusively in Saturday's PRESS—the names of the counsel engaged were omitted from the despatches. Counselor Craig A. Marsh won both cases. In the first mentioned suit he had to defend his client against the combined efforts of a New York lawyer and a New Jersey lawyer. In his summing up Counselor Marsh handled the plaintiff without the slightest consideration or respect, and stigmatized him severely.

In the case of Schneider against Geisser, Counselor Marsh was opposed by Jackson & Codington and R. V. Lindabury. The jury stood eleven to one for the plaintiff on every ballot, and were ordered locked up for the night. The constable had started down the stairs for their supplies when his was called back and the obstinate one, seeing no chance to get home otherwise, voted unanimously with the others for the full amount of the claim.

A New Dye Stuff Company.

The New Brunswick Home News states that on Monday morning a certificate of incorporation was filed in the County Clerk's office for the Frank A. Ransom Dye Company of Dunellen, which is capitalized at $15,000, at $100 per share, and commenced business on Saturday. The incorporators are Frank A. Ransom, 100 shares; Emma Ransom, 1 share; Mary A. Brown, 1 share, all of Dunellen; George C. Wellbrook, Brooklyn, 1 share, and E. J. Tandy, Metuchen, 1 share.

Bid me discourse, I will enchant thy ear with remarkable tales of astounding cures of all sorts of suffering by Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain. Price 25 cents a bottle.

WOMEN IN THE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

A Big Majority in Favor of the Proposition in 368 Methodist Districts.

Returns from 368 districts of the Methodist Episcopal church of the vote on the question of changing the constitution so as to admit women as representatives to the General Conference have been received at the Methodist Book Concern. The total vote of these 368 districts is 314,602, of which 196,928 were cast in favor and 117,674 against the proposed amendment, showing a majority to date of 79,254. The districts heard from comprise about three-fifths of the districts in the United States.

Writing for the Press.

A Somerville editor sends to THE PRESS the following, with the suggestion that its publication may bring some bright contributions for "the best local paper in the State":

Lots of folks that we should be glad to have as regular contributors to our columns say to us, "Oh, we can't write like you do! We aren't up on grammar!" Can't write? Aren't up on grammar? Why, you can talk: can't you? What is writing but just putting down things on paper, instead of saying them by word of mouth? Your grammar comes right enough when you're talking, and it will not go back on you if you just let yourself write as you talk. We do not say that every man, woman or child can be an editor. That position requires God-given talents which not one person in a thousand possesses, and we are always humbly thankful that we are one of the chosen. But anybody can write who knows how to form letters with the pen, and we hope to encourage them to try it for THE PRESS. There will be nothing the matter with your grammar when you see yourself in print. We will iron out all inadequacies, superfluities, and inconventionalities. That is our editorial province. The numerous opponents whom we have stunted at spelling-bees know our powers in this respect. All communications are strictly confidential and will be treated as such when signed with the real names and addresses of the writers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Take a piece of paper, now, and try.

A Good Place to Live In.

The facts and statistics that are accumulating just at this time with reference to the city of Plainfield are of such an advantageous character that the people of Plainfield, may, if they will, make great capital out of them.

There is no greater necessity to the welfare of a city than a good sanitary condition, and a good and encouraging showing by the figures of vital statistics. The last report of Dr. Hunt, Secretary of the State Board of Health, places the county of Union and the city of Plainfield in an enviable position among the counties and cities of this State. In the first place it puts Union county at the head, in healthfulness, of all the counties containing cities of 20,000 inhabitants and over. In the next place it puts the city of Plainfield ahead of all other cities of its size or larger, in its healthfulness as a place of residence, judged by the low death-rates reported.

Plainfield stands as the most healthful city in a county which leads all other counties that contain large cities.

These are in themselves highly important and valuable facts, and they should be made much of. But they are increased in importance when one comes to consider what other progressive and desirable features are constantly developing in this city.

New Jersey a Healthful State.

[From The Camden Press.]

People living outside of the State should not be rash in reaching a conclusion, founded on the report of the vital statistics, that New Jersey is an unhealthy State to live in. The coast from Cape May to Sandy Hook is lined with health resorts, to which persons with all sorts of ailments repair in the hope that they will recover, a hope which in a great many instances unfortunately does not result as they expect. This increases the death-rate considerably, and makes it appear to the outside world as if New Jersey was a good state to stay away from. The truth is that this is one of the healthiest States in the Union, but it is difficult to preserve that reputation so long as it is made the "dumping ground," so to speak, of the sick and infirm from States far and near.

"Let 'Em Wait" Their Motto.

The Adams Express Company has issued a unique card of greeting to the new year. It is simply the name of the company printed in ornate black type on the polished surface of a transparent, ivory-like card, in size about two by seven inches; and for a centrepiece, printed in red ink, is a seal representing respectively a mythological messenger seated on a pile of boxes smoking a cigar; a snail; and three tortoises racing, each with a box of goods upon its back. At the top is the motto: "Let 'em wait;" while at the bottom is the legend: "Diligenter neq. Jaquam."

He'll Have Somebody Revise His Abuse Henceforth.

In copying the Grand Jury presentment published in THE PRESS of Saturday, the following line in italics was omitted: "And they therefore deem it their duty to present the said Thomas W. Morrison, editor and publisher as aforesaid, for the scurrilous articles aforesaid, and demand that henceforth the said Morrison refrain from attacking the integrity," etc.

President Brakeley on the Borough.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley, President of the Borough of Dunellen, writes to the Bound Brook Chronicle on the borough question as follows:

"Dunellen has been a borough five years, and during that time has macadamized all the principal streets in a thorough manner, has caused all the principal sidewalks to be flagged, concreted or covered with crushed stone, has stone crossings on all thoroughfares, has naturally improved the sanitary condition of the town by preventing all causes of disease from being left exposed anywhere in the streets, and expects within the next year to have electric lights and a lock-up—all at a cost so trifling that its citizens do not feel that they have been assessed for the improvements so manifest to all. A borough government is the best and most complete government for a growing town. Under it the town elects its own officers independent of the township, and its president or mayor has power to enforce all ordinances and has equal power with a justice of the peace in punishing malefactors."

Union County Assemblymen.

The two new Assemblymen from Union county who will join in the organization of the Lesislature at Trenton to-night are Thomas F. Lane and George Kyte. In The World to-day their personality is given as follows:

Thomas F. Lane is editor of the Summit Record. He is a bright newspaper man and an enthusiastic Democrat, besides being young and handsome. Mr. Lane intends to introduce a bill to have notice given of all applications for pardon. He thinks this is the best cure for the pardoning evil.

Geoyge Kyte was the only Republican elected last November in Union county. He is a member of the Board of Freeholders and has held a number of local offices. Mr. Kyte was born in South America in 1846. Two years later he came to this country. He was fond of adventure, and in 1863 he ran away from home and joined the army, where he made a creditable record. He has lived in Fanwood since 1869.

The Salvation Army in Town.

Five women and one man from the Salvation Army in New York held the first of a series of meetings for the month in Reform Hall last evening. The audience numbered five hundred. The speeches of the Army people were interesting, and their singing was very good. The Army will hold meetings every night except Thursday, for four weeks, beginning at eight o'clock.

Editor Wales Dies of Typhoid Fever.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Ira L. Wales, editor of the Daily Union, died at his home during the morning of typhoid fever. Mr. Wales had been ill but a few days, having contracted a cold which developed into the fever that caused his death. He was at one time editor of the Waverly Weekly Review, afterwards becoming editor of the Binghamton News. In 1884 he became a member of the editorial staff of the Albany Argus, where he remained as associate editor four years. In 1888 Mr. Wales became President of the Union Company. He was prominent in politics, having a large acquaintance in political circles throughout the State. He leaves a wife and one son. His remains will be removed to Binghamton for burial.

Yale Oarsmen Go Into Training.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—The candidates for positions on the Yale crew are now in active training. Twenty-two men presented themselves and were given instructions by Captain Brewster. Heffelfinger has not yet gone into training, and has caused the Yale men great uneasiness by announcing that he does not intend to pull an oar this year.

Big Saw Mill Fire.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 12.—Fire last evening destroyed the saw mill of the Tunis Lumber Company, who have a $2,000,000 plant in South Norfolk. But for a heavy rain which prevailed at the time millions of feet of lumber would have been burned. The saw mill was burned to the ground. Loss, $100,000; insured.

Thrown Out of Work.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 12.—By order of the window-glass trust the window-glass factories at Blossburg, Wellsboro and Covington have shut down. The employes had no previous intimation of the action.

Sober Men for Electric Cars.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 12.—President Barr, of the Newark Passenger Company, has notified the conductors and other employes that they must not frequent saloons, either when on or off duty. He attributes nearly all of the accidents that occur on the electric lines to the carelessness of the men.

Broke the Deadlock.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The Republican County Committee broke the deadlock which existed at the last three meetings in the voting for chairman by electing Benjamin Flagler, ex collector of customs. This is a defeat for ex-Congressman Richard Crowley.

English Blaming Emin.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The press comment on the fact that the route to the Victoria Nyanza is again insecure, owing to Emin's return to the coast and his arousing the hostility of the natives. Much blame is laid upon Emin by the English critics.

Appointed Archbishop of York.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Rt. Rev. William C. Magee, bishop of Peterborough, has been appointed archbishop of York to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Most Rev. William Thomson, D. D.

Killed by an Electric Shock.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Jan. 12.—Jerry Sullivan, a 15-year-old boy, caught hold of a guy wire attached to an electric light pole last evening, and received a shock that killed him instantly.

TERRAPIN FARMING.

A Flourishing Industry Along the Chesapeake Bay in Maryland.

Of late years a number of terrapin farms have been started along the Chesapeake, and Senator Bayard is said to be the proprietor of one of them. The biggest farm is on the Patuxent river, and it consists of a large salt-water lake, which could accommodate thousands of terrapin if they would breed as rapidly as was desired. The farmer has surrounded this lake with board fences to keep out the muskrats and foxes, which are the terrapin's enemies. He has made hatcheries of boxes partly filled with sand, and so arranged that when the females enter them they can not get out until they are taken out. He has nurseries for young terrapin, and he keeps the little ones there until they are ten months old in order to preserve them from their fathers, for the older terrapin are as fond of good living as a Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

They are cannibals, and they sometimes eat their own children when they are young and juicy. After the young are ten months old they are able to care for themselves, and there is no danger of their being destroyed. With the increase in the price of terrapin, terrapin farming ought to become profitable. Years ago they were a drug in the market, and you could buy them at Annapolis for twelve cents apiece. Twenty years ago they brought only six dollars a dozen in Washington, and now there are cases in which an extra fine article sells from six dollars to eight dollars apiece. Senator John M. Clayton, of Delaware, once bought a cartload for one dollar, and it is said that Washington, Lafayette and Cornwallis ate a terrapin dinner after the surrender at Yorktown.—Denver Times.

COURTSHIP IN HOLLAND.

The Manner of Making Engagements in the Land of Dykes.

In certain parts of Holland, when a young man thinks he has found his affinity, it is customary for him to ask for a match to light his cigar at the door of the beloved one's house. This little subterfuge is intended to arouse the parents of the girl to the fact that something is in the wind.

If a second call with a similar object is made soon after, no doubt is left of the young man's intentions, and the parents proceed to investigate the young man's character and antecedents, with a view of ascertaining his eligibility as a member of the family. When he calls a third time, always for a match to light his cigar, they are prepared to give him an answer.

If his suit is regarded with favor he is politely requested to step inside for the first time, and is served with a light. If he is not accepted, he is refused a light, and the door is shut in his face without further ceremony. But, having prepared for this contingency, the downcast suitor will, in all probability, light his weed with a match from his own box, and walk away musing on the transitory nature of all earthly things. When the accepted suitor is invited to enter the house, he, as a matter of course, informs the parents which of their daughters has captivated his fancy.

When this is settled, the young man steps forward and they join hands. While the engagement is by no means a settled fact, yet it is stated as a truth that when, on the occasion of the young man's third visit, his inamorata has offered him a second cigar, which he had smoked in their house, the engagement has never been cancelled.—N. Y. Press

A PET GUINEA PIG.

The Little Animal's Strong Attachment to His Master.

Some years since I had a guinea-pig who would come whenever I called him, who would follow me like a dog, even along the streets, and who never seemed happy out of my sight. When I sat down to read, this little creature would come and scratch at my shoes or trousers to coax me to take him up and nurse him. He would sit on his hind legs and hold a book for me to read, and if placed in a corner, would sit in this position for an hour at a time, and seemed to delight in it. After having him several years I was seized with a severe attack of congestion of the lungs, which confined me to my bed for upwards of a month; just as I was getting over this, my friends told me that my guinea-pig had been ill for some time, and that he refused to eat any thing, but that they did not like to mention it to me before. I at once had him brought to me; he was miserably thin, and could scarcely walk, but he at once took food from my hands, no matter what I offered him. After some little time, scarcely an hour, I think, he gave two or three little gasps, turned over on his side and died in my lap.—John Browning, in the Spectator.

CHINESE PASSPORTS.

Travelers Identified By the Impression of the Thumb.

In China, a traveler wishing for a passport is compelled to have the palm of his hand brushed over with fine oil paint; he then presses his hand on thin, damp paper, which retains an impression of the lines. This is used to prevent transference of the passport, as the lines of no two hands are alike. The cunning Chinese have also discovered that the impressions of no two persons' thumbs are alike, and also that the impressions of no one person's two thumbs are alike. The European police keep books of photographs to identify criminals; the Chinese police keep merely impressions of each criminal's two thumbs, carefully labeled and numbered. He may shave, he may appear young and lithe, or old and crippled, but he can not alter the impressions of his thumbs, which can at any time be traced on paper, and compared with the impressions always kept in safe custody by the celestial detective force.—London Globe.

—Offey Soffman—"Ah, Miss Ethel, do you know I—aw—mean to give that fellah a piece of my mind?" Ethel Sharp—"Good gracious, Mr. Soffman, don't! He wouldn't even recognize the gift and it would kill you."—American Grocer.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Mary Lee, complainant, and John C. Moore et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed, I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Court House, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, and is bounded and described as follows:

WEDNESDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF FEBRUARY, A. D. 1891,

Beginning at an iron spike at the intersection of the center of Cherry street with the centre of Second street; thence along the centre of Second street in a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees and forty-eight minutes east (n. 47 deg. 48 min. e.) for a distance of one hundred and fifty six and seventy-six one hundredths (156.76) feet to an iron rod in Elizabeth Ulrich's line; thence along said Ulrich's line and at right angles from Second street in a magnetic course north forty-two degrees and twelve minutes west (n. 42 deg. 12 min. w.) for a distance of one hundred and twenty-three and ninety-five one-hundred ha (123.95) feet to Ulrich's westerly corner; thence along said Ulrich's rear lines in a magnetic course north forty-seven degrees and forty-eight minutes east (n. 47 deg. 48 min. e.) and parallel with Second street for a distance of thirty and thirty-eight one-hundredths (30.38) feet to Josiah L. Laing's line; thence along said Laing's and Ayers Lesson's line in a magnetic course north forty-two degrees and twenty-seven minutes west (n. 42 deg. 27 min. w.) for a distance of fifty-five and six-tenths (55.6) feet to a corner of Ayers Lesson's land; thence along said Lesson's line in a magnetic course of south forty-eight degrees and forty-five minutes west (s. 48 deg. 45 min. w.) for a distance of forty-six and five-tenths (46.5) feet to line of land now or formerly belonging to J. M. C. Smith; thence along said line in a magnetic course south forty-two degrees and fifty-seven minutes east (s. 42 deg. 57 min. e.) for a distance of fourteen feet; thence in a magnetic course south forty-eight degrees and forty-five minutes west (s. 48 deg. 45 min. w.) a distance of ten and five tenths (10.5) feet to Jacob Thorn's line; thence along said Thorn's line in a magnetic course south forty-two degrees and fifty-seven minutes east (s. 42 deg. 57 min. e.) a distance of forty-nine and five-tenths (49.5) feet to said Thorn's easterly corner; thence in a magnetic course south forty-eight degrees and forty-nine minutes west (s. 48 deg. 49 min. w.) a distance of sixty-nine and seven-tenths (69.7) feet to the southerly corner of Jacob Thorn's brick store house and the northeasterly side of the Hotel building; thence in a magnetic course north forty-six degrees and thirty minutes west along the northeasterly side of the Hotel building twelve (12) inches, more or less, to the northerly corner of said Hotel building; thence along the northwesterly end of said Hotel building in a magnetic course south forty-three degrees and thirty minutes west (s. 43 deg. 30 min. w.) a distance of sixty-eight and eight-tenths (68.8) feet to a point in the centre of Cherry street, said point being in a direct range with the northwesterly end of the Hotel building; thence along the centre of Cherry street in a magnetic course south forty-six degrees and thirty minutes east (s. 46 deg. 30 min. e.) for a distance of one hundred and ten and three-tenths (110 3) feet to the centre of Second street and place of beginning.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company

Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care ours will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

WANTED A HOLIDAY.

It Wasn't Every Day That Presented Such an Opportunity.

FROM what I could hear there was to be a hanging at the county seat of a county in Illinois, and the night before the execution I stopped with a family about seven miles distant. Nothing was said about the matter until after supper, and then the man of the house said to his wife: "You call Bill in, and we'll see what the stranger says about it."

Bill proved to be an ungainly, slab-sided young fellow about eighteen years of age, who had been too bashful to show up at the supper table. When he entered the room his father said:

"Stranger, there's going to be a man hung at —— to-morrow."

"So I believe."

"Going to hang him right by the neck."

"Yes."

"He's my own brother!"

"No!"

"He is that. I don't say it won't serve him right, but I do say that Bill hadn't orter be one of 'em to look on. He wants to go, but I say it wouldn't look right. What do you say?"

"Well, I shouldn't want to see any one hung."

"Look-a-here, pap," said Bill, "am I to blame bekase he's my uncle?"

"N-o."

"Didn't I have to work last Fourth of July?"

"Y-e-s."

"Wasn't I laid up on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's?"

"You was."

"Well, don't I want a holiday?"

"Yes, but he's your uncle, you see."

"'Sposin' he is? Hain't I going to stand back in the crowd where he can't see me? If anybody asks if he's my uncle, hain't I going to lie about it? When Uncle Jim was hung wasn't I too small to go, and when they sent Uncle Dan to prison wasn't I sick in bed?"

"Well, I dunno—I dunno," sighed the old man as he dropped the subject.

I got away at six o'clock next morning, and Bill's tracks on the frost along the highway were then an hour old.—N. Y. Sun.

Jeemes—He said that I looked just like you.—Daheim.

A Little Mixed.

At a certain seminary for young ladies in the East the students of German are not allowed to speak in any other language at the table, but one young lady, more daring than the others, broke the rule and announced in English to her companions that she was "mashed" on a certain young man.

"Mashed?" asked the young fraulein who presided over the students and who is but imperfectly acquainted with English; "mash, what does that mean?"

"O," spoke up one of the young ladies, wishing to save her blushing and confused companion, "when a person is very much in love with anybody she says she is 'mashed' on him."

The girls thought that ended the matter, but what was their surprise when the next night in prayer-meeting the teacher rose with beaming face and declared: "I wish to testify, young ladies, that I am mashed on the Lord."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

PRETTY WOMEN.

They do Not Look Forward to the Time When Their Beauty Shall Fade.

The woman who is pretty is far too liable to think that that is enough; she will conquer her kingdom by means of it; and when the day of reckoning, the day of fading comes, the kingdom will be already hers by right of possession. Indeed she does not consider the day of fading; it is something as difficult for her to realize as death itself is to the young; it is far off, vague, all but impossible; how is she ever going to look other than she does now, and still be herself? And at any rate there are always the means to make the repairs of beauty, and sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. And so, in an average of more than half the instances, she goes dancing off about her pleasure like a fly in the sun, as full of the present, as careless of the future; she makes no preparation for the impending fate which is sure to come if she live long enough; she relies on her fair face, her blushes, her dimples, her radiance, her smiles, her glances, her sweetness. To please, to attract, to marry, to marry well, is the mark she has set before her; and it does not need cultivation of the sterner virtues for that; the sterner virtues are not greatly called into account in this quest, have little opportunity of asserting themselves, or even of being missed.

Nor is great intellectual cultivation in the scheme of our pretty woman's life; according to her plan of action it is entirely unnecessary. Who cares for syllogisms, lectures, instructions, she unconsciously argues from rosy lips? Who will stop to ask if the bright eyes have dulled themselves over dry pages of scholastic lore. Let who will be learned, it is enough for her to be gay and happy.

What, then, has our pretty creature left for the dim passages of middle age, when beauty has fallen away, but there still is left the desire to hold captive what once beauty gained? The time is coming when there will be deep crescents round the mouth whose lovely curves have been dragged down by flaccid muscles, when there will be fine spider-web lines about the eyes, when there will be hollows in the cheeks, when the red and white of the skin will have become blurred and mottled, or overlaid with yellow sallowness, when perhaps there will be present in the vacuous face only "that divine smile which has lost the two front teeth?"

Let the pretty girl remember that in the darkness of that middle passage the beauty that she had before she entered it will not signify; all faces are in the dark together then, the girl that was plain with the girl that was beautiful; the wreck of beauty signifies then no more than the wreck of what never was beauty. It is the sweet voice, the kindly manner, the burden of what is said, the tender heartedness of what is done, that tells with any effect then. It will not be long before she arrives at this time, which, in comparison to the blaze of youth, neighbors close on the dark; and she will need then all with which she can have filled her intellect and fed her soul, all that wit and virtue and breeding can have given her, in order to retain any thing of that kingdom to which in the early days she felt herself born by right divine.—Harper's Bazar.

THE FORMATION OF HAIL.

The Worst Hail-Storm that Ever Occurred in this Country.

Meteorologists are not a unit in agreement upon the manner of formation of hailstones. The theory of Dove has been given most credence. He believed that the hailstone passed rapidly from the cold air to the warm, moist air, and again from the warm air into the colder, thus alternately taking on a jacket of moisture and freezing it around the nucleus or heart. The formation of the nucleus itself, it is conceded, is from the snowflake in the cold cloud, which, being whirled about, forms a small ball, about which subsequent layers congeal as the ball is tossed about into the atmospheres of different temperatures. The hailstone, from its varying shapes and angularities, shows that it has had a wild and irregular career in the sky, sometimes melting into crooked shapes, then being tossed upward and congealed rapidly. It takes but ten minutes, so the meteorologists say, to form the largest hailstones known. Probably the worst hail-storm that ever occurred in this country was that of June 16, 1882, at Dubuque, Iowa. For thirteen minutes, beginning 2:35 p. m., hailstones fell, some of which were seventeen inches in circumference. The largest weighed one and three-quarter pounds. They exhibited diverse formations, some of them having knobs and icicles half an inch in length. Others were surrounded by rings of different colored ice, with gravel and blades of grass imbedded within. The foreman of the Novelty Iron Works stated that he melted two which had living frogs in them. This report comes from the "Monthly Weather Review," issued by the Government.—Baltimore Sun.

HE KEPT HIS RESOLUTION,

But He Lost the Credit for His Self-Denial.

A good story is told in the privately-printed "reminiscenes" of the late Dr. S. K. Lothrop concerning old Dr. Kirkland, whilom president of Harvard.

One evening the president and a certain Prof. Popkin were sitting together, and the conversation turned upon smoking. The two worthies were agreed that it was a bad habit, and they agreed to give it up, as both were addicted to the use of the weed. Some time afterward at a meeting of the faculty, which took place in the president's study, the cigars were passed around, and Dr. Kirkland took one with the rest. When the box came to Prof. Popkin he declined the cigar, observing with a pointed emphasis:

"I keep my resolution."

"A excelent plan, Dr. Popkin," coolly responded Dr. Kirkland, lighting his cigar, "only I have sometimes observed that one may lose by self-conceit all his gains by self-denial."—Boston Jury.

STONING THE RAISINS.

It Was Slow Work, But It Led to Glorious Results.

He and she are sitting in the window-seat in the study. Enter her mamma, with a pan full of raisins.

Her Mamma—If you young people aren't doing any thing, I'm going to make you stone these raisins. I'm making mince meat, and I'm just as busy as I can be.

She—Why, of course, mamma. It'll be just fun.

He—Delighted, Mrs. Muzzer! We'll turn the whole job out in just about seventeen minutes and a half.

Her Mamma—I guess not—there's two pounds there.

(Exit in the direction of the kitchen.)

He—Great scheme, isn't it? How do you stone the things, any how?

STONING THE RAISINS.

She—Why, you just squinch 'em up like this—so!

He—I don't seem to get the hang of it.

She—Why, how clumsy! You don't hold them right.

He—How, so?

She—No, so!

He—This way?

She—No; why how stupid you are! (Sets his fingers right with her own dainty hands.) There!

He—This is great fun. (She withdraws her fingers abruptly.)

She—Now, see how many you can stone while I'm doing one.

He—Why does your mother make her own mince meat? What's the matter with the cook?

She—Nothing. But there are two things that mamma says should never be left to servants—mince meat and sweet pickles.

He—Oh!

She—It's a religious duty with her.

He—I see.

She—Mamma's from New England, you know.

He—Oh! (After a pause.) If you had a house, would you make mince meat?

She—Oh! I don't know.

He—But would you? Just suppose.

She—Oh, yes, I guess so.

He—Chop up the stuff, and stone the raisins, and all?

She—Why, I suppose so. What an absurd question!

He—No, it isn't.

She—Yes, it is.

He—No, it isn't.

She—Ridiculous!

He—Because, you know, if you want to, you can have the house, don't you know, and I'll help you stone the raisins.

(One Hour and a Half Later.)

Her Mamma (from the kitchen)—Come, you young folks, are those raisins stoned yet? I'm waiting for them.

She—Oh, my heavens! Jack! how many have you got stoned?—one, two, three—gracious bless me, only four!

He—Who cares? Is it June?

She—Let go of my hands, Jack—oh, do, do, do! What will mamma say?

He—Well, tell me.

Her Mamma—Ag-ne-e-e-e-s!

She—Let go—oh—yes, June—May—April—any thing! In one minute, mamma—we're not quite through! Oh, Jack, do hurry up and help me stone these rasins. Yes, June, of course, you silly boy!—O. E. Calendar, in Puck.

ONE AT A TIME.

Bradley—Say, Flannigan, why don't yez take the elevator up wid that trunk?

Flannigan (just over)—Indade I'll not; I'll take but the trunk. It's yourself that kin carry up the elevator.—Texas Siftings.

An Ignorant House-Hunter.

Lady (looking for a cheap suburban home)—Mercy on me! You advertised this as a Swiss cottage. It's nothing but a hovel. What is there Swiss about it?

Agent (with dignity)—You will observe, madam, that the cow-stable is in the basement.—Judge.

Nothing Gained.

First Colored Child (proudly)—Mah sistah Dinah she's been from de normal school an' she's got 'er deploma, an' now she's a cultured young lady wif a finished edication.

Getting Him Ready.

Mr. Bingo—I am going into the country with a few friends to hunt duck and I wish you would pack my grip.

Mrs. Bingo—Certainly, dear. How many sets of poker chips shall I put in?—Jury

ANT BRIDGE BUILDERS.

An Instance of the Remarkable Intelligence of the Insects.

The following story, told by an eye witness, is entitled to a place among the instances of intelligence among the lower animals. A cook was much annoyed to find her pastry shelves attacked by ants. By careful watching it was discovered that they came out twice a day in search of food, at about seven in the morning and four in the afternoon. How were the pies to be protected against the invaders?

After many things had been tried without success it was suggested that a circle of molasses one inch in diameter be made around the pies. The next morning, therefore, one of the boys, who had a personal interest in the matter, got up early and prepared his attack. By a quarter of seven every thing was ready, and he took his point of observation.

He did not have long to wait, for at 6:50 o'clock he noticed that off in the left-hand corner of the pantry was a line of ants slowly making their way in the direction of the pies. They seemed like a vast army coming forth to attack the enemy. In front was a leader, who was larger than any of the others, and who always kept a little ahead of his troops.

They were of the sort known as the medium-sized, red ant, which is regarded as the most intelligent of its kind.

Slowly they marched along in double file, until the leader came within six inches of the circle of molasses. Then, evidently, a signal to halt was given, for every ant stood still, while the leader went on to investigate the unforeseen obstacle. Soon he returned, and instead of taking his place again at the head of the army, he went along the line, summoning here and there one—the leading intellects, probably—from the ranks.

About forty ants out of five hundred stepped out and joined the leader. The General and his aids held a council, and then proceeded to examine the circle of molasses. Certain portions of it seemed to be assigned to the different ants, and each selected unerringly the point in the section under his charge where the stream of molasses was narrowest. Then the leader made his tour of investigation.

He went around the entire circle and decided upon one particular spot as the narrowest; his aids joined him there, and then, one being left to guard this narrow point, the others returned to those who were still in line. The order to march was given, and the ants all made their way to a nail hole in the wall at which the plastering was loose.

Here they broke rank and set about carrying pieces of plaster to the place in the molasses which had been agreed upon as the narrowest. To and fro they went from the nail hole to the molasses until, at 11:30 o'clock, they had thrown a bridge across. Then they formed themselves in line again and marched over, and by 11:45 every ant was eating pie.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

KICKED HIS PATIENT.

The Novel Manner in Which a Doctor Cured a Case of Malaria.

None know the value of the imagination in therapeutics better than the doctors, who sometimes, with entire credit to themselves, put quite as much imagination as medicine into their patients, and with perhaps better effect. Not long ago a physician told an amusing illustration of this. He had been warned, he said, by a brother physician of a certain rascally impostor who was making the rounds of the profession with an assumed case of malaria. The real purpose of his visit was blackmail. One day a man exactly answering this man's description came into the house office of this physician, and, after detailing the symptoms of malaria, asked the doctor to treat him. "I asked him," said the doctor, "to step out into the yard with me. As soon as I got him safely outside I walked up to him and gave him the best thrashing I ever gave any body in my life, ending it by kicking him down to the gate. To my surprise he made little resistance, and when I released him at the gate, saying, 'There, I think that will cure you,' he responded, humbly: 'Thank you, doctor,' and went away. In a few days, to my utter astonishment, he came back to tell me that he was much better. 'But, doctor,' he suggested, mildly, 'could you kick a little easier this time?' Then," said the doctor, "I began to talk to the fellow, and found that I was altogether mistaken in the case. This poor fellow actually had malaria and was no more a blackmailer than I. I treated him thereafter with less powerful remedies, but he always declared that no treatment I ever gave him did him the good that one thrashing did. And did I ever tell him of my mistake? Certainly not. Why should I? It helped cure him."—N. Y. Sun.

Wanted His Own.

A Detroit lawyer received a letter from Texas the other day on which the postage-stamp was of an issue current fifteen years ago, and on the envelope of which there was a request to "return if not delivered sometime pretty soon." The contents read: "Some time in the year 1700 a man by the name of Hooten took up two acres of ground in your town. He is dead. I am his heir. I want to find out all about it. I want you to search the records and send me all the papers and information you can. If them two acres is there yet I want 'em. If not, I don't. I only want what belongs to me as his lawful heir. Enclosed you will find twenty-five cents in stamps to pay for your trouble. I am well. Answer as soon as possible.—Detroit Free Press.

Remarkably Cool.

Oldboy—Cool! Why, when the horse ran into the decapitated trunk of a tree she coolly remarked that the animal had "barked" his shins.

Clubly—And you?

Oldboy—Well, I was stumped.—Spirit.

—"This," said the dear girl, as she led the way into a secluded little nook in the conservatory, "is what papa calls his match-box." Every body comes in here to propose.—Harper's Bazar.

"HURRY UP."

The words came harshly from the stage manager; an impatient audience are awaiting the next act, and she who has fainted takes the leading part. This is "a peep behind the scenes," and a sight familiar to the "green-room" of every theatre. "Has she worked too hard, or been careless of her health?"

Actresses, singers, and others in the profession, do not always think; they rush into the tide of popularity, regardless of all save fame and fortune. How often we read of some favorite actress—"Ill in London, nervous prostration, etc." We have the cure of hundreds of such cases on record. Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

THEY ARE GLAD TO GET BACK.

There Is General Rejoicing Over the Peaceful Outcome of the War.

Few of the Redskins Armed—They Hid Their Arms in the Sand Hills—General Miles Has Divided the Hostiles—He Notifies Buffalo Bill to Withdraw the State Troops.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 13.—All the hostiles reached the Mission late last night. The troops were pressing them closely, guarding all avenues of escape. The delay in arriving was due to lack of transportation.

But few of them are armed, having hid their arms in the sand hills. It has been decided not to disarm the few who have guns, for the reason that they can procure more from the traders.

General Miles has divided the hostiles at the agency. The Brules were left at the Mission, while the Ogallalas were ordered in. The Brules will be sent overland to the Rosebud Agency, where they belong, under the guard of troops.

Already the Indians have begun to pack up their goods, preparatory to marching home. General Miles says the Indians are in bad shape and they have done well to get in as soon as they did. There is rejoicing at Pine Ridge over the peaceful outcome of the war.

The Ogallalas were delighted to get back to the agency. The Brules were a little sullen, but now, that the Ogallalas have left them, they see the futility of attempting to fight That the war is over is the general opinion of all.

Gen. Miles to Buffalo Bill.

Gen. Miles sent the following communication to Buffalo Bill, who is in command of the Nebraska State troops:

"I am glad to inform you that the entire body of Indians are now camped near here, within a mile and a half. They show every disposition to comply with the orders of the authorities. Nothing but an accident can prevent peace being established, and it will be our ambition to make it of a permanent character. I feel that the State troops can be withdrawn with safety, and desire through you to express to them my thanks for the confidence they have given your people in their isolated homes."

LITTLE CHIEF'S WARRIORS.

Government Troops to Take the Band of Cheyennes to Tongue River.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 13.—Captain Ewers is making preparations to start with Little Chief's band of 400 Cheyennes to the Tongue River, Montana.

The band have about nine hundred relatives on the Tongue River and have begged for several years to be transferred to the reservation. Capt. Ewers and his party will go across the reservation to Rapid Creek, thence to Fort Meade, next Winnesella, and from there along the stage road to the agency.

Little Chief and his band have been ugly fighters in every Indian war for the last twenty years. In 1876 they were sent from this region to Fort Reno, I. T., and in 1878, fought their way back through the settlement of Kansas and Nebraska to the Sand Hills, near Gordon, where they were captured. Since then they have been very friendly and made good scouts and police.

THE IRISH TROUBLE.

Mr. Harrington's Remarks at Limerick Evoking Much Comment.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Mr. Parnell's Limerick speech has made a more favorable impression than his Kilkenny deliverances, and the Tories and his Irish supporters are willing to accept his letter to Premier Rhodes, of Cape Town, as conclusive proof of the accuracy of his statements regarding the conversation with Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Harrington's remarks about the morality of Mr. Parnell's opponents, and especially of Justin McCarthy, is evoking much comment and gossip.

It is a matter of general rumor that one of Mr. Parnell's severest critics in the Irish Parliamentary party has a mistress in Glasgow, and pays frequent visits to that city. Another is educating an illegitimate son in a leading institute of learning, and has the mother for a housekeeper. As to Mr. McCarthy, his reputation has been free from scandal; and Mr. Harrington's remark occasions some surprise. It has also aroused much uneasiness, as Mr. Harrington is known to be a man of action, and to be capable of giving names when he has proof.

Has O'Brien Yielded?

PARIS, Jan. 13.—The Figaro announces that the political difficulty which existed between Messrs. Parnell and O'Brien has been settled, and that the only question remaining between them is of a financial nature. Mr. O'Brien, it appears, is convinced that Mr. Parnell's prestige in the United States has not lessened, and that the subscriptions of the Irish-Americans will always be for their old leader.

Gladstone Denies Parnell's Charge.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Mr. Gladstone, replying to an inquiry as to the correctness of a statement in Mr. Parnell's speech at Limerick that Mr. McCarthy had communicated to Mr. Gladstone the manifesto of Mr. Parnell before it was published, telegraphs that the assertion is untrue. Mr. McCarthy, he says, stated that he had a manifesto, but did not describe its contents.

Contributions to the Relief Fund.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Earl Spencer has contributed £100 and the Duke of Norfolk £200 to the Zetland-Balfour fund for the famine sufferers in the west of Ireland.

READY TO FIGHT.

Great Excitement in New Orleans Over To-Morrow Night's Mill.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13.—Not since the Sullivan-Kilrain fight has a ring event created such a sensation as the mill to take place to-morrow night between Dempsey and Fitzsimmons. The battle is all the talk in sporting circles in all the large cities, while the result of the fight will be eagerly looked for from all parts of the country.

Dempsey, accompanied by his wife and his trainers, Mike Conley, the Ithaca giant, and Tom Maher, of Brooklyn, arrived here during the day and put up at an aristocratic boarding house on St. Charles avenue. He is in the pink of condition. Fitzsimmons will arrive here this afternoon.

All the noted pugilists of the country are here and many a fight will be arranged before they leave the city. Peter Jackson arrived this morning having come along from San Francisco. W. R. Wise and 33 members of the California Athletic Club are on the way here. With all these people coming in, besides delegations from New York, Chicago and everywhere through the country, there will be a big boom in betting, which has up to this time been a bit slow. Dempsey is the favorite. His reputation and the fact that he represents America makes this natural.

There is a good deal of betting on the probable number of rounds, the Dempsey people ranging from 35 to 9, and the Fitzsimmons following 16 to 9.

There is no ground for the reports of the State interfering with the mill.

In a welter weight fight before the Audubon Club last night, Doc O'Connel, of Boston, defeated Eddie Conley, formerly of East Boston, in the eighth round Both men were badly battered and bled profusely. In the eighth round Conley was unable to get on his feet. The fight was for a purse of $800.

DOWN AN EMBANKMENT.

A Freight Train Falls 500 Feet—Two Brakemen Killed.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 13.—The freight train on the Maine Central Railroad that leaves Lunenburg, Vt., for Bartlett, N. H., at 6:15 a. m. started with an engine, 21 freight cars and a caboose. The train was several hours late.

After leaving Crawfords, the caboose broke loose and the brakes held it. The rest of the train began to slip on the icy tracks and the brakes did not hold. When near Bemis station the whole train, except the engine and the forward car, left the track and went down an embankment 500 feet high.

Two brakemen named Muir and Jarvis went down with the train and were instantly killed. Jarvis' body has been found, but Muir's has not.

THEY OFFER TO SETTLE.

The Delamater Banking Firm Submit a Proposition to Creditors.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 13.—At a meeting of the preferred creditors of Delamater & Co., the assigned banking firm offered for the purpose of compromise and release to pay 50 per cent. of all legal claims and stand morally good for the balance as follows: Ten per cent. May 1, 1891; 15 per cent. in one year and the other 25 per cent. at the end of another year.

A committee of seven was appointed to further investigate the assets of the firm and if it is found nothing further can be realized on, the creditors will likely accept the above compromise, although they did not bind themselves to do so.

Death of Howard Plant.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 13.—Howard Plant, one of the two brothers who gave its name to the manufacturing village of Plantsville, in the town of Southington, is dead, aged 64. About 40 years ago the Plant Brothers began the manufacture of carriage bolts in a modest way in that part of Southington known as Plantsville. They built up, in time, an enormous business. They were several times burned out, and after the last fire, in 1873, removed their shops to New Haven.

Dr. Tanner's Starvation Contest.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—A special from Clinton, Mo., says: "Dr. H. S. Tanner, the man who was famous so long for having fasted 40 days, now lives on a farm 18 miles southwest of this city. He now challenges Signor Succi to sit down with him in Chicago during the World's Fair to test the matter in a ninety days' fast on water only; or, if Succi prefers, let the fast continue from day to day till one or the other yields the contest."

A Sensational Failure.

GASPORT, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The failure of A. Ward Harrington has caused a sensation in this community. Harrington's liabilities are about $20,000 and his assets about $10,000. He borrowed money on his own personal notes almost up to the time of his failure.

Hanlan to Row O'Connor.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Hanlan, the oarsman, offers to row O'Connor a race on Toronto Bay for $1,000 after O'Connor has rowed Teemer and Gaudaur. Hanlan thinks O'Connor will be the favorite, but says he will get left unless he pulls faster than ever before.

DAMAGE BY FLOODS

Several Rivers and Streams Swollen Into Torrents.

ALARM FELT AT JOHNSTOWN, PA

Wharves Along the New England Coast Flooded by High Tides.

The Lehigh River Overflows and Many Pennsylvania Villages Suffer—Several People Compelled to Seek Refuge in the Upper Stories of Their Homes—Ice Causing Trouble.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 13.—The floods in the Lehigh Valley yesterday were the greatest experienced in the region for many years. The melting of the ice and snow and the heavy downfall of rain swelled the river and other streams into torrents. Thousands of tons of ice were swept away with the current.

The waters of the Lehigh river rose at the rate of more than a foot an hour, and at midnight, when the stream reached its highest point, it was twelve feet above low water mark. The river overflowed its banks and inundated the low lands along its course and carried away everything that was movable. Logs, stumps of trees, telegraph poles and sections of fences came down the stream in large quantities, and for several hours last night the river was blocked with ice from bank to bank.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad's new passenger line through this city was partially flooded when the freshet reached its highest point, and no trains could be run for nearly 13 hours.

At a number of places gorges formed, and it was with difficulty that they were removed. The tracks were washed out at several points.

The first floors of the Adelaide Silk Mills, the Iowa Barb Wire Works and the furniture factory of Johnston & Swartz were inundated, and there was a temporary suspension of operations.

The yard of the Pennsylvania, Poughkeepsie & Boston Railroad at Slatington was washed out by the flood.

The village of Franklin, a slate town, about 20 miles northeast of Allentown, was almost entirely submerged. The place is in the lowlands, and the water flooded the first floors of the houses, and the people were compelled to seek refuge in the upper stories. There are 50 houses in the place, and scarcely one escaped the flood.

UNUSUALLY HIGH TIDES.

Fall River and New Bedford Flooded, Merchandise Swept from the Wharves.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 13.—An extraordinary storm and high tide prevailed here and caused considerable damage. The wind blew a gale from the south and the waters were piled up until the principal wharves were flooded. A large quantity of merchandise was swept off Rodman's wharf into the river and bales of cotton and casks floated in all parts of the harbor from the Fall River line dock to Slade's Ferry bridge. The waters are receding.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 13.—The storm in this locality was particularly severe along the water front. The wharves are under water and several small buildings on them have been blown over. Water is breaking 20 feet high against the sea wall at the head of Clark's Cove and several skiffs have been driven ashore. A large part of Palmer's Island is under water.

Damage Along the Housatonic.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., Jan. 13.—The most serious freshet which has occurred in the Housatonic River in years swept down between 8 and 9 o'clock, doing much damage. The ice above the Housatonic dam broke and rushed down the river, sweeping under the bridges and passing to Two Mile Island, where it stopped against a solid field of ice, backing the water up in the river to an unusual height. In many places the meadows between Birmingham and Ansonia were submerged to a depth of six feet.

Ice Breaking Up.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The ice in the Hoosac River broke up and came down to the Hudson at 10 o'clock, and the ice in the Hudson at Mechanicville also broke up. At the big dam at Mechanicville the water and ice broke through the embankment, tearing down the trestle of the damways and the derricks. The wooden arches under the brick work of the tail races were broken.

Alarm at Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 13.—The river is still rising, causing considerable alarm, as a heavy gorge of ice is likely to come down at any time.

Death of Sister Ignatia.

FREDERICK, Md., Jan. 13.—Sister Ignatia, in the world, Miss Pequignot, of Philadelphia, died here of consumption in the Convent of the Visitation. Sister Ignatia was 40 years of age, and had been a member of the community for 20 years.

EVA CONTESTS THE WILL.

She is After a Widow's Share of Robert Ray Hamilton's Estate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Evangeline L. Mann, or Hamilton, who claims to be the widow of ex-Assembly Robert Ray Hamilton, and is making a fight for a share of his estate because he neglected to make any provision for her in his will, was the centre of attraction in the Surrogate's Court before Surrogate Ransom. The hearing before the court was in the contest started in her behalf over Hamilton's will, making the formal objections of undue influence and mental incapacity. The only question before the court is as to whether or not she was Hamilton's legal wife and is his lawful widow. When the case was opened Eva was not present, and her absence was commented upon severely.

Shortly before 1 o'clock Eva appeared, heavily veiled. She was dressed in deep mourning and wore a sealskin sacque. During the rest of the day she sat by the side of her counsel.

On several occasions she had to be requested to raise her veil so that the witnesses might see her face for the purpose of identifying her.

The question of the contestant's marriage was taken up. Rev. Edson W. Barr, of Elizabeth, who married Eva and Hamilton, testified that she gave her name as Evangeline L. Steele. They said that they had never been married before.

This closed the contestant's evidence on this point, and Lawyer Root called William T. Steele, of Laceyville, Pa., a brother of the contestant. He said Evangeline at one time came to her old home with Joshua J. Mann. She introduced Mann as her husband, and he was known as such by the family.

Alice Steele, wife of the last witness, corroborated his testimony. She identified photographs of Mann and Eva.

Mrs. H. S. Adams was about to testify when Mr. Root asked if she could identify the contestant. Eva was behind one of the marble pillars and could not be seen by the witness. Mr. Root asked that she be requested to throw aside her veil and step into view. She did this with an impetuous stamp of the foot. Mrs. Adams identified her as the Eva she knew, and who had stopped at her house with Joshua Mann. They were there as man and wife in the fall of 1888. The case will be continued to-morrow.

SHIPWRECKED SAILORS.

They Are on a Rock and a Terrific Sea Prevents Their Rescue.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 13.—The revenue steamer Woodbury discovered signals of distress at noon from a shipwrecked crew on a rock known as "Junk of Pork," about five miles east of Portland Head.

The approaches to the rock are lined with jagged boulders, and a terrific sea is running. No boat could live in the breakers.

The vessel of the chataways has been ground to pieces, and six of the crew are on the rock, well up out of the way of the sea. They cannot be rescued until the sea goes down. They are without food or shelter.

A YOUNG DESPERADO.

He Was One of a Gang Who Set Fire to an Orphan Asylum.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—John Cronin, the 14-year-old stowaway, who was found on board the steamship Newport and turned over to the police of this city, has made a confession to a reporter.

He states that he was one of a gang of young San Francisco desperadoes, who, two years ago, set fire to St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum at San Rafael, California, thereby causing the death of three boys.

Cronin has been placed in charge of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to children.

Took Poison and Died Together.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 13.—Charles Thieke and his wife, an elderly couple, were found dead in their apartments at No. 70 Thorn street during the day. Wine glasses on a table had contained poison, and a letter explained that they wanted to die together; that they had committed suicide of their own free wills, and wanted to be buried together. They had apparently been dead for three or four days.

Convention of Bricklayers and Masons.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 13.—The annual convention of the Bricklayers and Masons' International Union opened in the morning with over 400 delegates present. The convention was called to order by President Hearts, of Denver, Col., after which addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Clarke and other officials on behalf of the city.

The New Jersey Legislative Contest.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13.—A canvass in the Speakership contest in the Assembly shows 23 votes for Bergen and 17 for Mullone. The Republican Senators will nominate Senator Leaming of Cape May for President, and the Republican Assemblymen will name Robert Williams of Passaic for Speaker.

Mangled by an Iron Roller.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 13.—Siban Gibastian, an employe of the Diamond State Iron Company, in South Wilmington, was instantly killed shortly before noon. His body came in contact with a huge iron roller in the factory, and was virtually mangled into fragments. He was 40 years old and a native of Mexico.

Connecticut's Senate to Session To-Day.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 13.—The Connecticut Senate resumes its session at 10:50 this morning. The House will not be in session until the 20th. The House Committee on the election returns for State officers will begin its sessions to-morrow.

Damaged by Floods.

ELLSWORTH, Me., Jan. 13.—The tide is the highest ever known here. Cellars, basements and wharves are overflowed, and there is some damage to goods stored in other places.

A BRITISH SURPRISE

The Behring Sea Question Before the Supreme Court.

THE ACTION WAS UNEXPECTED.

It is an Appeal from the State Department to Settle the Dispute.

Two Weeks' Time Granted the Attorney-General to Make a Showing to the Motion—The Seizure of the Schooner Sayward to be Made a Test Case—An American Lawyer Retained.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Behring Sea fur seal fishing question was suddenly and unexpectedly brought before the Supreme Court of the United States during the day, when Sir John Thompson, Attorney-General for Canada, through Mr. Calderon Carlisle, the American counsel of the British Legation, and Mr. Joseph Choate, associate counsel, made a motion in the court for a writ of prohibition commanding the United States District Court at Sitka to annul the proceedings by which the schooner W. P. Sayward was libeled in 1887.

This move on the part of the Canadian officials, it was stated, was made in behalf of Canada by Sir John Thompson with the full knowledge and consent of the British Government, the purpose evidently being to appeal from the State Department to the Supreme Court to settle once for all the dispute.

The Attorney-General Surprised.

This action on the part of the British Government seemed not to have been expected and the Attorney-General was taken by surprise when the motion was made by Mr. Choate.

The Court ordered that two weeks' time be granted to the Attorney-General to make a showing to the motion.

The British government, it is believed, has had this matter in contemplation for some time, probably since last spring, when it was announced that negotiations between the United States and Canada on the Behring Sea question had ceased.

The schooner W. P. Sayward, of Victoria, B. C., was captured by the revenue cutter Rush, Captain Shepard, for killing seal in Behring Sea. When the capture was made the schooner was on Behring Sea, five miles from any land, and there were 477 seals on board.

Secretary Blaine's Views.

Secretary Blaine, when asked about this move on the part of the Canadian government's counsel, said: "I would prefer to remain silent on that subject just now. There will be something official to say later on."

MR. QUAY'S ELECTION BILL.

It is Introduced in the Senate and Creates a Little Excitement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Mr. Quay introduced his Federal Elections bill in the Senate and it created some little excitement. Its title is: "An act to prevent force and fraud in Federal elections and to insure the lawful and peaceful conduct thereof."

The bill is a long one and is materially the same as the Lodge bill, except that the phraseology in the first section is different and several of the sections are changed in place. The meat of the whole bill, however, is contained in the last section, which provides for the calling forth of troops.

The section is written in Mr. Quay's own handwriting and reads as follows: "When it shall appear to the satisfaction of the President of the United States that (in any locality) the provisions of this law cannot otherwise be executed it shall be his duty and he is hereby empowered to suspend there the writ of habeas corpus and to employ the armed forces of the United States, naval and military, for the enforcement and for the protection of the officers whose duties are herein provided for."

Some changes in the salaries of election officers are made.

NEW SILVER BILL.

An Effort Being Made to Bring Forward Another Financial Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—There is an effort being made among the silver men to patch up a compromise financial bill, which will embrace part of Stewart's free coinage amendment, so as to protect the American product, with the Plumb amendment, submitting the scheme to a monetary conference of foreign countries.

The bill will also cut out the proviso to purchase the $12,000,000 surplus, but will embrace the substance of Senator Sherman's bond plan. It is said such a bill will meet the favor of Republicans in both branches of Congress and that President Harrison will sign it.

When the Financial bill comes to a final vote in the Senate, if the free coinage amendment passes, it is likely the monometallist Senators will offer an amendment. This amendment will probably embody the principles of the Stanford Land Loan and the Farmers' Alliance Sub-Treasury bills.

Should these propositions carry, the bill with all its provisions will, of course, fail in the House.

Readmitted to the Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Decker, Howell & Co. were readmitted to membership of the Stock Exchange. The announcement was received with cheers.

Senator Vance Renominated.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 13.—Senator Vance was unanimously renominated for United States Senator by the Democratic legislative caucus here last night.

Aged 105 Years.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Rachel Stillwaggon, died at her residence in Flushing, L. I., last night, aged 105 years.

A Twenty-Second Talk.

"ALUM" baking powders are cheap and dear—cheap, because they are made for about four cents a pound and sold for about twenty; dear, because they do less than half as much as a strictly pure cream of tartar powder, and doubly dear, for their continued use injures the health. There is no alum, no ammonia, no adulteration of any kind, in Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder.

EMMA ABBOTT'S WILL.

Her Relatives Provided For and a Large Sum Left to Charitable Institutions.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The will of Emma Abbott, the opera singer, has been filed for probate here. The will was executed May 28, 1890, and names James L. Mitchell, V. Houghton and William F. Dunning as executors.

She first directs that her body be tested by electricity to ascertain if life is extinct and then be cremated. She requires her executors to deposit enough money with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company to enable them to pay interest amounting to $400 per month to her brother, Seth Abbott.

In the United States Trust Company $100,000 is to be deposited, and from it her mother, Almira M. Abbott, is to be paid also $400 per month. Martha G. Wetherell, mother of her deceased husband, is to get $10,000. Her brother, Leon R. Abbott, gets $25,000; her brothers, George H. and Frederick, $25,000 each, and her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Abbott Clark, $25,000.

Each of the children of the following persons gets $5,000: Leon Abbott, Geo. H. Abbott, Mrs. Etta Clack (deceased) and Mrs. M. L. Wetherell. Van Houghton gets $10,000, and her secretary, D. A. Considine, $5,000.

The following churches, where she says she enjoyed worship, get $5,000 each: Congregational Church at Gloucester, Mass.; Plymouth Church, of Brooklyn; Brooklyn Tabernacle; Madison Avenue Baptist Church, Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Church of the Divine Paternity, all of this city.

The residue of her estate is to be divided share and share alike among the following: Foundling Asylum of the Sisters of Charity, Children's Aid Society for the Support of the Newsboy's Lodging House, Home for the Friendless, of Newark, N. J.; Chapin Home for the Aged and Infirm, House of Mercy in East 86th street, St. John's Guild, for excursions for mothers and children in summer; Hebrew Benevolent Society, Sanitarium for Hebrew Children, Mrs. S. V. White of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Sarah Bird, a friend of Mrs. White. She hopes these ladies will use their shares in charity.

A Talk That All Ought to Hear.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis will give a talk at Reform Hall Thursday evening on the subject—"The relation of intemperance to social purity."

Shall Women be Allowed to Vote?

The question of female suffrage has agitated the tongues and pens of reformers for many years, and good arguments have been adduced for and against it. Many of the softer sex could vote intelligently, and many would vote as their husbands did, and give no thought to the merits of a political issue. They would all vote for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for they know it is a boon to their sex. It is unequaled for the cure of the countless ills to which women are subject. SETTLING DISPUTED ELECTIONS.

Old Business Re-Enacted, and New Work Done, by the City Common Council.

Nothing very exciting took place at last night's meeting of the Plainfield Common Council. The business transacted was almost entirely of a routine character. All of the members were present except Councilman Johnson. Bills to the amout of $1,892 were ordered paid. Chas. H. Dunham was made a member of Alert Hose Company, No. 1. The bond of City Collector John Johnson, for $25,000, with Levi Hetfield, C. Bock, Andrew Love and John Ross as sureties, was accepted and ordered recorded, as were also the bonds of Constables Amos Moffett, W. R. Mattox, Jacob Kriney, Geo. R. Rockafellow and Chas. A. Westerfield, in $1,000 each. The Finance Committee reported that warrants of 1890 for $2,324 were outstanding and could not be cashed as the money in the funds on which they were drawn was exhausted. The sum of $3,000 was borrowed temporarily from Fire Department fund, to meet a note due Jan. 16.

An ordinance to change the grade of a portion of Plainfield avenue, and one to establish a grade on West Fourth street from Plainfield avenue to Grant avenue, were referred to a joint meeting of the Street Committee and the Street Commissioner. Five hundred postal cards for use in calling committee meetings were ordered.

Councilman Hetfield moved that a committee of three be appointed to secure from the Legislature an amendment to the act permitting cities to contract with companies for the construction of public sewerage. This act—he explained—became a law at the instigation of Plainfield's Common Council, last year. The one bad feature was the clause requiring that a petition from fifty per cent. of the property owners of a city must be obtained requesting sewerage-construction before the council of that city could enter into a contract. This petition method the Councilman thought—was long, tedious, and entirely unnecessary, being productive of so much delay that few responsible companies would care to begin proceedings hampered by such a clause. It was an idea Judge Ulrich had had in his head, and had insisted on having appear in the act, though the committee from the Plainfield Council had been opposed to it.

The committee had become disgusted at the matter, because of his persistence, and had dropped the entire affair. Now it was desired to have the objectionable feature stricken out, so that no such long delay should be caused to the project to construct both water-works and a sewerage system in Plainfield this year. No one seemed opposed to Mr. Hetfield's motion, and it was carried without a dissenting voice. President Smith appointed Councilmen Moffett, Hetfield and Spangenberg as the committee.

Councilmen Rushmore, Ackerman and Ginna seemed inclined to doubt that the appointment of the city's official papers and the election of a City Clerk had been made in a strict parliamentary way, so Mr. Hetfield hastened to set their minds at rest. He presented two motions. The first was that THE DAILY PRESS and Central New Jersey Times be made the official papers of the city. Mr. Ackerman moved to amend by including The Evening News in the list. As at the previous meeting, the votes of Councilmen Gallup, Hetfield, Moffett, Roberts, Smith and Spangenberg rejected the Somerset street sheet. Councilmen Ackerman, Ginna Rushmore and See voted for it. THE PRESS and Times were again made the official papers by unanimous vote, and the matter was settled beyond all doubt.

Mr. Hetfield's second motion was to elect J. B. Coward City Clerk. The election followed in the regular way, and was unanimous, as at the previous meeting.

Mr. Moffett then asked, in a tone of sarcasm, if the Chair thought that everything was all settled now—if it was certain, for instance, that the President had been elected in strict legal form?

"Well,"—responded Mr. Smith—"the Chair still holds the fort." This sally caused a merry peal of laughter from all.

During the evening the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh was twice asked for, and was rendered in his usual lucid and helpful style.

Installation of Royal Arcanum Officers.

At a regular meeting of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum, held last evening in its rooms, the following officers were installed:

Regent—Louis M. Stover; Vice Regent—Aug. Wm. Kleinecke; Orator—Chas. W. Kellogg; Secretary—H. A. Thorne (re-elected); Collector—Wm. J. Leonard; Treasurer—Thos. R. Cone; Chaplain—Wm. B. Remsen; Guide—John M. Dayton; Warden—H. M. Stover; Sentry—A. W. Rand; Organist—Robt. H. Lowry; Trustees—A. Swaim, R. M. Stover and Wm. J. Ford (re-elected); Representatives to Grand Lodge—E. W. Conklin; Alternate—Wm. J. Leonard.

Washington Park to Have Its Club.

William J. Roome, William L. Saunders and Foster Milliken, a committee on organization, have announced a meeting of the subscribers to the bonds of the proposed Club in Washington Park, to be held Tuesday next in the Sunday school room of Holy Cross church, at 8 P. M.

The success of the project is already assured, yet additional subscriptions are being received every day. Those subscribing up to the date mentioned above, will take part in the organization. It will not be a "County Country Club," they say.

ITS OFFICERS AND PATRONS.

Plainfield's Very Best Interested in Private Theatricals for the Benefit of the City's Charities.

As already first stated exclusively in THE PRESS, a dramatic club called the "Pyramus and Thisbe" has been formed of members of Plainfield's upper circles who will soon make their debut in the first of a series of private theatrical entertainments for the benefit of the city's three general charities. The officers of the club are:

PRESIDENT—C. J. Fisk.

VICE PRESIDENT—Mrs. G. Wharton Edwards.

TREASURER—J. Parker Mason.

SECRETARY—Miss Kitherlyn Yates.

STAGE MANAGER—George Wharton Edwards.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Mrs. C. E. Brooks, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Mrs. V. B. Hart, J. Evarts Tracy, Rowland Cox, E. C. Perkins.

The first performance will be given at The Casino on Thursday evening of next week, and will consist of an old English play and a new American farce. Cards of admission can be obtained only of the following patrons:

ELIZABETH'S SWELL VOCALISTS.

Concerts to Be Given There and Here by the Elizabeth Glee Club.

The Elizabeth Herald says: "Residents of Plainfield have a treat in store for them. The Elizabeth Glee Club, which is a favorite among our lovers of music, decided at a meeting held the other evening to give a concert at The Casino in Plainfield, Tuesday, February 3, and Messrs. Knapp, Johnson and Pendleton were appointed a committee with full power to make all arrangements.

"As the Club will give its first private concert of the season in Elizabeth, February 2, the same programme will be sung in Plainfield. The soloists there, as here, will be Mrs. Gerrit Smith, soprano, and Miss Parslow, violinist. Mrs. Gerrit Smith is well known to Elizabeth audiences, and of Miss Parslow it is enough to say that she is highly recommended by Arnold, the first violin of the Philharmonic Club.

"The Club is doing excellent work under the conductorship of Arthur D. Woodruff of New York, and everything indicates that they will do far better this year than ever before.

"A Herald representative had the pleasure to attend a rehearsal of the Club last night and noticed the careful attention Mr. Woodruff gave to correct pronunciation, that important factor of choral singing which is so often overlooked by conductors."

Mr. Woodruff, the conductor of the Glee Club spoken of, has charge of the music at the Church of the Holy Incarnation, New York. This church spends $31,000 annually for its choir music.

It'll Spoil the Rod but Spare the House.

The property of static electricity to distribute itself over surfaces, thereby reducing its potential, is well-known. N. D. C. Hodges, of this city, editor and publisher of Science, has invented and received letters patent, as already stated in THE PRESS, on a method of constructing lightning rods based on this property of electricity, and if the theory is borne out by experience his invention will be classed as one of great value.

It is a well-known fact that lightning rods as ordinarily constructed seldom prove to be of any protection against the damaging effects of lightning strokes. Mr. Hodges seeks to make lightning rods more efficient by interposing in their continuity, above the roof of the protected building, a box filled with soot, the idea being that electric discharges conveyed through the rod will be dissipated over the large surface presented by the soot. If the discharge is not wholly dissipated, its potential will, at least, be greatly reduced, thus removing the element of danger to buildings.

Mr. Hodges also proposes to employ rods made of such substance that will be destroyed or dissipated by the lightning discharge. He argues that if something must be destroyed it better be the rod than the house.

The main idea of his invention is to interpose in the probable path of a lightning discharge some substance on which the discharge can spend its energy and become dissipated.

It will be extremely interesting to know how Mr. Hodges' invention works in practice. Theoretically, it seems to be all right.

Odd Fellows on a Straw Ride.

Elizabethport Lodge, No. 116, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will visit Westfield to-morrow evening to be present at the installation of the officers of that lodge. A "straw ride" on the big stage wagons of Red Jacket Engine Company No. 4, is part of the programme. Plainfield Odd Fellows will join in the fun.

ORGANIZING THE LEGISLATURE.

Bergen Gets the Speakership, and Adrain the Presidency—Other Officials Chosen.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13.—The New Jersey Legislature organized this afternoon. James J. Bergen, of Somerset, was chosen Speaker of the Assembly; and Robert Adrain, of Middlesex, President of the Senate. The other Senate officers are as follows: Secretary—John Carpenter, of Hunterdon; Assistant Secretary—Samuel C. Thompson, of Warren; Engrossing Clerk—John J. Matthews, of Union; Assistant Engrossing Clerk—J. B. Flynn, of Salem, and James H. Mattison, of Somerset; Sergeant-at-Arms—George R. Coleman, of Essex; Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms—Michael Nathan, of Hudson; Journal Clerk—Wm. Pintard, of Monmouth; Assistant Journal Clerk—Thomas Hurn, of Gloucester; Bill Clerk—Jas. Edelman, of Passaic; Assistant Bill Clerk—Wm. J. Lowe, of Mercer; Doorkeepers—John VanBusson, of Bergen; J. Hayter, of Middlesex; Wm. Beekman, of Essex, and R. A. Coogan, of Warren.

Plans for Cheap Freightage and Prompt Shipment.

The New Jersey Car Service Association gives an important notice to shippers and consignees of railroad freight. All the leading lines of railroad doing business in the State have formed an organization under the title of the "New Jersey Car Service Association," the object of which is to secure the prompt loading and unloading of cars, and to enforce a reasonable and uniform charge for their detention and use of tracks. Delay in loading and unloading of cars by shippers and consignees is a serious and growing evil, resulting in heavy losses to the railroad companies, which they have found it necessary to correct. The system which is about to be inaugurated in this State has been in operation for some time at various important points, and its advantages to the railroad companies have been so great that the car service of the entire system of the country will soon be handled through these organizations.

Statements by Archbishop Walsh.

DUBLIN, Jan. 13.—Archbishop Walsh replies in to-day's Insuppressible to Mr. Parnell's assertion in his speech at Limerick that the opposition of the bishops to his retention in the leadership is without moral effect because it came too late. The Archbishop states that before Mr. Parnell's re-election to the chairmanship he wrote to prominent Parnellites, advising that Mr. Parnell be retired, unless he could clear himself of the cloud resting upon him.

Expelled from the Church.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 13.—The Reformed Presbyterian Church believes that the institutions of these States should be boycotted because the word "God" does not occur in the text of the Constitution. It objects to any of its members even voting at an election. At the last State election Joseph Draper went and recorded his vote. The church got word of the fact, and his expulsion has been the result. What legal or other redress he will seek is not yet known.

Sitting Bull's Scheme.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 13.—A story is told here of a plot of Sitting Bull for an uprising of all the Indians of the West, and the massacre of all the settlers in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Idaho. The Indians were all to gather at Spirit Lake and defy the government. The scheme died with the old chief.

Joining the Scotch Strikers.

GLASGOW, Jan. 13.—Many of the men who had returned to work for the North British Railway Company have again joined the strikers. The situation is becoming critical.

The Ohio Ballot Box Forgeries.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The committee that investigated the Ohio ballot box forgeries made a report to the House. The committee acquits Governor Foraker and Murat Halstead of having any knowledge that the ballot box contract was forged; but additional findings are appended by all the members of the committee, excepting Chairman Mason, that a careful scrutiny of the contract must have disclosed its false character.

No Change in Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 13.—There is no change in the situation regarding the two Governors. The quo warranto case will come up in the Supreme Court to-day.

PLAINFIELD'S BOUNTEOUS HAND.

Public Alms and Private Charity Commended to the Aid Association.

The annual meeting and election of the Union County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association was held at Elizabeth Saturday. The Rev. Dr. Kempshall presided, and the Rev. F. M. McAllister, Mrs. Tiffany of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gales, Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Putnam, Samuel C. Blackwell, J. Aug. Dix, the Rev. Dr. Teal, Mrs. G. D. Stone, Mrs. Douglass G. Moore, Mrs. N. Trimble, and others, were present.

Reports were read from various committees, showing a large amount of work carried on by the society during the year past, and increasing interest in its prosperity. Early last Spring, at the instance of the Association, the Elizabeth City Council appointed a committee to examine into and report on the subject of out-door relief. That committee has been and is now at work and important results are expected in the future. The almshouse committee have continued the Sunday services at that institution for the poor, and report improvements in the management and condition of the place. The local committee from Plainfield reported that they had examined the whole system of administering the public alms in that city, a work involving much labor, and it appeared that many of the people of Plainfield were actively interested in the Association and took part in its work.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President—The Rev. E. Kempshall; Vice President—The Rev. F. M. McAllister; Secretary—Howard Richards; Treasurer—Mrs. J. E. Myers of Plainfield; Executive Committee — Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany of Plainfield, Mrs. Joseph Gales, Charles H. Langdon, Victor Mravlag, M. D., and E. B. Clark of Plainfield.

The Views of a Henry George Disciple.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Dear Sir:—In view of the impending legislation at Trenton on the subject of taxation, your remarks in the issue of the 8th were unquestionably timely and not a whit too emphatic. I do not know who is your authority for the assertion that $400,000,000 of personal property in this State escapes taxation altogether, but inasmuch as the amount of the same kind of property in the State of New York which escapes in the same way is set down by the State Board of Assessors at $2,500,000,000, the amount for New Jersey, as stated, must be approximately correct. The further fact that everyone is permitted by our hap-hazard law to swear off against his annual assessment all his debts—even to his grocer's bill—should convince anyone that a law which thus virtually makes everyone his own assessor so far as personal property is concerned, puts honesty at the mercy of rascality the State over, and therefore needs reforming of the most vigorous kind.

When those who own only their homes begin to realize that all who own more than that, if only in other forms, may be exempt by law from paying taxes or anything beyond, provided their consciences are sufficiently elastic to permit them to swear it out of existence, it would seem that the fact might stimulate them merely in self-defense to attempt devising a more equitable law.

The first question they must ask themselves is: What is wealth? The next: Where does wealth come from? When they realize, as they unquestionably will, —and the more clearly the more they investigate—that material wealth—food, clothing, houses, carriages, books, pictures, all the thousand and one things men labor for through life—comes primarily from the surface of the planet we inhabit, drawn thence continuously by the labor of mankind, they will quickly recognize that the only way to get from each with certainty the part he ought to pay for public purposes is to tax him according to the portion of this original or elemental wealth controlled by him, in other words, to put the tax on the land alone. Any tax laid there—at the very source and outset of human industry—will, through that inexorable averaging of prices due to the interchangeability of wealth — inevitably distribute itself through the entire industrial system, taking from each only his just share.

DAVID L. THOMPSON.

Give the Families a Chance For an Outing.

A commuter from Plainfield writes as follows to The New York Times:

"A great objection to living in suburban towns is that traveling is expensive to people who do not commute. The 'family-ticket' affair is almost as expensive as excursion tickets. If a man wishes to take his wife and family out, the first thing he thinks about is the amount for fare, and he begins to drop them off one by one until he and his wife are left.

"Would it not be well to get away from the old rut and try some new way, and attract people away from the crowded cities and build up the thousands of little towns along the different railroad lines?

"Let railroad companies issue tickets 'to bearer,' good until used, and at the same rate as commutation tickets are sold now, and they will be surprised at the result. It will be necessary for them to run an extra car on each train.

Trains go in and out of New York every day with only a few passengers, which, if the fares were reasonable, would always be filled by the different members of commuters' families. The railroads would sell just as many excursion tickets and many more commutation tickets."

TAX ASSESSORS' EXCUSES.

Mr. Cooley Was that He Feared Being Mobbed Out of Town.

(From The New York World.)

The report of the New Jersey State Tax Commission will furnish the text to the most notable features of Gov. Abbett's message to the Legislature to-day. But the report is merely preliminary to an exhaustive report to be submitted later in the season, which will be accompanied by a bill formulating a new tax system for the State.

Sittings have been held in every county except Union. All the preparations had been made for a sitting there, too, but on the appointed day neither lawyer showed up and the Hon. Fred. C. Marsh, who happened to live near the place of meeting, and the stenographer, were the only representatives of the Commission on hand to receive the throng of tax-payers who had responded to invitations to be present. The Union County Assemblyman was highly indignant that the lawyers should not have honored his county by their presence, and he refused to act in their absence.

The case that local assessors took to dodge the sittings was notable. Not 20 per cent. of them were on hand to tell of their tax vagaries. Those who did attend made some remarkable revelations. Nowhere except in Monmouth do values as assessed by them come anywhere near the line of real value. In some counties, especially in the Southern counties, the tax value falls below 50 per cent. and in one county down even so far as 25 per cent. of actual value. In Camden one assessor confessed that he fixed tax values in his district by first ascertaining full value and then choping off one-half all around.

Mr. Cooley, the assessor at North Plainfield, did even better than that by his constituents. When he had found out the true value of the estates in his ballwick he knocked off 60 per cent.

"What excuse was there for doing that?" the Commission demanded of him.

"I had to do it," was his frank confession.

"Why did you have to do it?"

"Because across the brook in Plainfield, they never think of assessing property at more than 40 per cent., and if I were to stick it on heavier among my people I'd be stoned out of the town."

The question of the taxation of church property is a live one in New Jersey. No one desires to put a tax on such property as is used for worship, but many of the churches have large holdings that yield them incomes. Some of them support seminaries that are sources of great profit. How much of this shall be exempt, if any, and if the exemption is to extend beyond the church building and the necessary area of ground around it, where shall the line be drawn? Incidentally the discussion of this topic is expected to involve the other topic of the taxation of the great educational institutions of the State.

"Dick Lester" Not Jimmie Butler.

The rumors, says the New York Sun, that have been published in the columns of several papers that Dick Lester of Plainfield, who fought Pat Malloy with skin-tight gloves early last Thursday morning, was none other than Jimmie Butler, are without foundation. Neither of the papers that have tried so industriously to circulate the rumor was represented at the fight. The man Lester is not Butler and bears no resemblance to the Varuna's man; and, furthermore, has never been in the amateur ring. He simply said that he contemplated doing so at no great distant date. In justice to Butler it is only fair to say that Lester is a stoutly-built, round-faced, rosy-cheeked fellow, with small blue eyes and exceedingly light curly hair. A perfect type of what he really is, a good-natured, happy-go-lucky countryman.

Ice Men's Labor Thrown Away.

The ice dealers of the neighborhood lost hundreds of dollars through Sunday's rainstorm, besides being forced to wait for another opportunity of gathering an ice crop. The ponds had been frozen for two weeks or more, and the ice was from twelve to fifteen inches thick, and beautifully clear. Many of the harvesters last week planed the surface and marked the ice for cutting, which it was expected would begin Monday. The labor which was thrown away because of the ruin of the crop by Sunday's storm, was expensive.

A "Pound Party" at Holy Cross.

A "pound party" was given in Holy Cross Sunday school building, last evening, and was attended by a large number of persons. The many pound packages were auctioned by Harry Bartling and some of them brought very high prices, considering their contents. The results of the sale were most gratifying, and the proceeds are to be expended in the purchase of additional seats to accommodate the rapidly growing Sunday school.

Thirty Coal Cars Wrecked.

A coal train on the Central New Jersey Railroad broke in two at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, Saturday. The rear portion ran into the front section, and a smashup followed, wrecking thirty loaded cars. The tracks were blocked four hours, and early passenger trains were delayed.

Although many remedies are pushed into the market by spicy advertisements, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup takes the lead, and druggists sell more than ever before. Price only 25 cents.

Mrs. Crow. "Chile, buy a bottle de Salvation Oil, it cure your rheumatis, sartia'." 25 cents.

STARVING TO DEATH.

The Intense Suffering Resulting From Lack of Food.

For the first two days through which a strong and healthy man is doomed to exist upon nothing his sufferings are, perhaps, more acute than in the remaining stages; he feels an inordinate, unspeakable craving at the stomach night and day. The mind runs upon beef and other substances, but still in a great measure the body retains its strength.

On the third and fourth days, but especially on the fourth, this incessant craving gives place to a sinking and weakness of the stomach, accompanied by nausea. The unfortunate sufferer still desires food, but with a loss of strength he loses that eager craving which is felt in the earlier stages. Should he chance to obtain a morsel or two of food he swallows it with wolfish avidity, but five minutes afterward his sufferings are more intense than ever. He feels as if he had swallowed a living lobster, which is crawling and feeding upon the very foundation of his existence.

On the fifth day his cheeks suddenly appeared hollow and sunken, his body attenuated; his color is ashy and pale and his eyes wild, glassy and cannibal like. The different parts of the system now war with each other. The stomach calls upon the legs to go in quest of food; the legs, from weakness, refuse.

The sixth day brings with it increased suffering, although the pangs of hunger are lost in an overpowering languor and sickness. The head becomes dizzy; the ghosts of well-remembered dinners pass in hideous processions through the mind.

The seventh day comes, bringing increasing lassitude and further prostration of strength. The arms hang lifeless, the legs drag heavily, the desire for food is still left to a degree, but it must be brought, not sought.

The miserable remnant of life which still hangs to the sufferer is a burden almost too grevious to be borne; yet this inherent love of existence induces a desire still to preserve it if it can be saved without a tax on bodily exertion. The mind wanders. At one moment he thinks his wearied limbs can not sustain him a mile; the next he is endowed with unnatural strength, and if there be a certainty of relief before him, dashes bravely and strongly forward, wondering whence proceeds his new and sudden impulse.—Yankee Blade.

A PICTURESQUE TOWN.

The Hottest Place in the Whole Country.

Yuma! What recollections the name itself brings up! Yuma, where they dig for wood and climb for water. Where there are more Mexicans than Americans, and more Indians than either. Where the thermometer "seldom gets above 118 in the shade," and where the wicked Yumaite in sheol sent home for his blanket. Where the seat of honor is the left hand, and the railroad hotel gives the traveler tender beef-steaks. Where the river is the color of the earth and the earth the color of water. Where the steamboats run comfortably on moist sand, and the prisoners in the penitentiary keep store in the prison yard. Where the girls are "tough" and the boys are "gentle and refined." Where they eat straw berries in January and where the desert blossoms like a rose. Where the rainfall is less in a year than it is in New York in a day, and where the old men pitch pennies and fly kites. Where the Indian warrior is practically peaceful and clean, and where the entire world seems topsy-turvy.

Such, according to a correspondent, is Yuma, a picturesque town situated in the heated corner of the world, where Arizona, California and Mexico meet.

There are few quainter or more interesting places than this singular city—possibly for the reason that it is so full of paradoxes, all of which exist precisely as I mention them. While one hears the liquid Spanish tongue more frequently than the English and the guttural Apache dialect is heard much more than the voice of the Anglo-Saxon, the American as a matter of course leads the intellectual procession. He is at present "just humping Yuma," to use the local vernacular, and has brought it to the attention of the United States Senate. It has had no Proctor Knott to laugh it into prosperity after the manner of Duluth, but it has taken up and coddled its most imposing and unsightly features, the great Colorado desert, and by that means expects to reach a glory and a greatness that shall make St. Paul and Minneapolis, Tacoma and Seattle hide their diminished heads as progressive and growing cities.—Omaha World-Herald.

MARK TWAIN'S PRESENT.

The Most Expensive Thing He Could Find in Paris.

All travelers on the continent will remember the high price of wood, and the expensive luxury of a constant fire. One gentleman friend, who was spending some weeks in a German city, found that buying large wooden dolls, which were plentiful in the shops, gave him a better fire, since the wood was well seasoned, and at less cost than buying bundles of wood at the hotel. He aroused much curiosity, as, day after day, a large basket of these dolls was sent from one or another shop to his room, until it was discovered that he burned them for firewood.

While Mark Twain was in Paris one of his friends was married there, and, with his usual humor, he bought a basket of wood, tied it fancifully with bright fresh ribbons, and sent it to his friend, with his card, upon which was written:

"The most expensive present I could find," which, as one can readily imagine, afforded great amusement.—Chicago Evening Post.

—Old Philosopher (reprovingly)—"I see you have a habit of judging men by their clothes." Young De Dude—"Aw, yaas; that's th' only way, don't y' know," Philosopher—"Do you see that shabby-looking man ahead? He is not quite in rags and tatters, but his clothes are terribly thread-bare, and doubtless were the cheapest kind of ready-made garments when they were new. That man is a profound Greek and Latin scholar." De Dude—"Waas he lookes it."

HOW PICKPOCKETS WORK.

Intelligence of a High Order Necessary in the Business.

Pickpockets usually work in gangs of three or four. Some will work with two, but not many. Dayton Sam always wants three. Their signal for action is "Round-up." I was standing on the corner of Illinois and Washington streets one day when, unexpectedly, I caught the words, "Round-up." I turned and saw four fellows approach a man standing alone, and before I could realize what they were about they had his pocket-book. I went up to him and asked him if he had lost any thing. He felt for his wallet, and exclaimed: "My God, some one has robbed me!" and, giving me a wild look, started and ran. I then gave attention to the thieves, and they were soon locked up. We found out the man's name and sent them to jail. These pickpockets get to be remarkably expert, and improve themselves by practice until they learn how. When after a wallet they use the thumb and forefinger to pull the lining of the pocket up till the wallet is in reach. If the victim has his hand in the pocket, one, known as the front stall, will back up in the crowd against the other arm, and another, the rear stall, will, as if by accident, knock the victim's hat over his eyes. He is therefore bound to draw out his hand to replace the hat. The front stall moves over so that he can not put this hand down again, and meanwhile the dexterous fingers of the thief secure the wallet or watch, as is desired. An officer bearer, a fourth man in the round-up, immediately receives the property, so if the thief is detected he will not have the stolen property on his person. The work is done quicker than you can tell it."

"Pickpockets usually have small hands, do they not?"

"Yes; but Garrity, the notorious Chicago pickpocket, was an exception. He had the biggest hands I ever saw, but was very successful in what he did. One minute he was selling some fakir articles, and the next passing bills in a crowd while he and his pals 'rounded up' some one they thought it worth while to attack. A characteristic of these people is that they always carry hundreds of dollars with them. When Dayton Sam was arrested here he was fined by the mayor, and asking one of the officers to retire to a private room with him, he ripped up one suspender and took out eight $100 bills with which to pay the fine and costs. Pickpockets will always put up money for fines or bail and then leave the place. They will do any thing to get away. While they make thousands of dollars only one out of fifty, perhaps, saves any thing. They waste their money as a rule in gambling or carousing."—Indianapolis Journal.

EVENING CLOAKS.

The Newest Ones Are Very Beautiful—How They Are Made.

Evening cloaks are closely wedded to evening gowns, as the possession of one necessitates the purchase of the other. The most bewildering, bewitching garment yet seen enveloped the figure of a slender, rather pale woman, and reflected marvelous tints upon her fair, clear skin. It is of fawn vicuna cloth, studded with large wafers of shaggy material in the same shade, and is lined throughout with pink merveilleux satin. All about the hood, down the front and down the sides, are plaited double frills of surah, the outer one of fawn, the inner one of surah, which frames in picturesque convoluted fullness the fair face of its wearer. A warm, soft cloak of pale gray cloth, lined with light yellow satin, has a yoke of chamois braided with gold, surrounded by a deep frill of the cloth, revealing the brightness of the lining in its folds.

A thick wavy-surfaced India cashmere forms the foundation of a beautiful wrap. The outside is red, the inside white fur, that the delicate dresses beneath it may not suffer by contact. The high collar and flat cape are bordered with sable and fastened with clasps simulating miniatures quite in character with the Old World air of the rich garment.

Another striking and costly cloak for evening wear is cut in the conventional circular form of cloth in a tint of the new dahlia red with a broche design in black and trimmed with a large roll collar reaching to the feet of white Thibet goat. The same fur borders and lines the cloak. A very pretty model of evening cape in the Huguenot style is of pale gray cloth with a woven silk design in gray, heliotrope and black. The fronts and wide roll collar are of white Angora, and the mantle opens over a long, close vest of heliotrope velvet. Couelle is a new fabric considerably employed for evening cloaks, and a stylish example in white has a collar bordered with white ostrich tips, which continue down the fronts of the mantle to the feet. The same idea may be carried out in pale heliotrope and silver galon. Another handsome combination is a cloak of crimson cloth with a collar and front edged with black cocks' feathers and richly ornamented with jet and passementerie. White Mongolian goat, ostrich feather bands or Russian sable borders, in combination with rich yellow brocades, make the most effective and elegant of evening garments.—N. Y. Sun.

A Relic of the Rebellion.

Relics from Southern battle-fields are still finding their way to the North, and they excite a good deal of interest among the veterans. There arrived recently a section of an oak tree about 4½ feet long and 12 inches through. It was purchased as a relic from a farmer at Chickamauga for $8, and he secured another dollar for carrying it to the railroad, nine miles away. This piece of oak is deeply imbedded with Rebel shells. There are two whole shells partly visible and fourteen small pieces. The cap on one of these shells is three inches in diameter, and a few letters can be deciphered on it which might tell its make. The pieces have grown in and are partly covered by the gnarled oak. This tree stood very close to the headquarters of General Thomas on September 19, 1863, at the battle of Chickamauga.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

The Quickness of Swordsmen.

A very interesting method of testing the quickness of a sword-thrust consists in photo-chronographic measurement. The movement of the foil-point is too quick to be measured by the eye, but by the aid of the photo-chronographic apparatus it can be plainly shown. The fencer is dressed in white, placed in front of a black back-ground, the foil is chalked and a metallic "spangle" is fastened to the tip by wax. The photo-chronographic machine being set in rotation, the trajectory of the tip of the foil during the movement of the fencer is shown by a series of dots. As two successive images are one fifteenth of a second apart in time it follows that by counting these images the entire time occupied from the beginning to the end of the movement can be determined. In a recent test it was found that the stroke occupied a little less than fourtenths of a second. By this means two swordsmen can be compared and their relative quickness easily and exactly determined.—Chicago Daily News.

The Power of Music.

Mr. Gowit—I wish Bridget wouldn't sing so dolefully. It annoys me.

Mrs. Gowit—Why, you never objected to her singing before!

Mr. Gowit—I don't—to a good lively air; but if she's keeping time to that tune she'll never get through her work in the world!—Puck.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,

The Plainfield Produce Company
Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. This by obtaining better quality, also saving one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

LOVELY PINK ONIONS.

She Wanted Them to Match Her Handsome China.

In a close-fitting, tailor-made dress and a light-colored cape of Persian lamb, she appeared before the stall-keepers at Washington Market. She carried a Russian leather note-book with a gold pencil, and the most artistic little willow basket imaginable.

"Oh, the dear little piggies," she exclaimed, walking up to where a number of pigs were incarcerated. "How much are they a pair?"

"Eight and a half, mum," said the butcher.

"Isn't that pretty dear?" she asked timidly. "I guess I'll take some oysters, instead," she said, walking over to where the men were busy opening the emblems of silence. "I want some oysters sent up; escalloped oysters," she said, "with plenty of raisins in them."

"Oh! those lovely pure pumpkins," she said, walking over to a stand where a lot of Edam cheese was displayed.

"I'll take four of these. I know it's plebeian, but Reginald does like pumpkin pies."

"Are all hams yellow, like these?" she asked, pointing to a counter full.

"No, miss; that's only the cover," said the man in charge.

"Those lovely pink onions will just match my china. How do you sell them a dozen?"

"Seventy-five cents a bushel," said the huckster.

"Send me up two bushels," she said.—N. Y. Times.

The Argument Didn't Take.

He was deeply in love with her, but she, while she liked him, did not like him quite so much as to run a risk of starvation to oblige him. She was quite practicable enough to identify at a glance on which side her bread was buttered, and, rather than look for plain, dry bread in preference, it was more in her line to keep her weather eye peeled on the jam dish. His arguments were much more passionate than forcible, while her replies were evidently the dictates of cool and deliberate judgment. "But, look here," he remonstrated eagerly, "there can be no really good reason why you should not marry a fellow who has a good salary just because he has no capital. If you go far enough back you'll find that Eve married a gardener without a halfpenny in his pocket." "What's the idea of your bringing that forward as an illustration? Do you not remember that the next thing he did was to lose his situation."—Scottish American.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

Feminine Tact.

Hostess (at dinner)—You own a very fine telescope, I understand, Mr. De Science?

Guest—Yes, madam, I was fortunate enough to secure a most excellent instrument.

Hostess—Are you interested in microscopes?

Guest—No, madam, I never had one.

Hostess—Marie, pass Mr. De Science the cheese.—N. Y. Weekly.

Young Lady (in fur store)—Do you think this cloak is becoming?

Proprietor—Becoming? My tear young lady, dot cloak make you look so shtrainzingly peautiful dot if you go a street car in mit dot cloak on some shentlemans would gif you a zeat.—Life.

Ministerial Tribulations.

First Preacher—How much is your salary?

Second Preacher (sorrowfully)—$400; but I don't get it all. How much is yours?

First Preacher (sadly)—Four donations; but I'm worse off than you are—I get them all.—Life.

A Fellow Feeling.

Potts—N-No.

Mrs. Potts—Yes, you do; you're trembling.—Judy.

A Professional Service.

Creditor—Can you do any thing for me this morning?

Debtor (undertaker, cheerfully)—Yes; I can bury you.—Puck.

THE HOUR MOST FATAL TO LIFE.

Death Is Abroad Between 5 and 6 O'clock in the Morning.

"Have the hours most fatal to life ever been ascertained?" was the question recently asked of a prominent Philadelphia physician.

"Yes, to a certain extent," was his reply. "I have the data here of some very interesting conclusions ascertained in 2,880 instances of death at all ages. The examples are taken from all conditions of life and during a period of several years. If the deaths of these 2,880 had occurred indifferently at any hour during the twenty-four, 120 would have occurred each hour; but this was by no means the case. There are two hours in which the proportion was remarkably below this—two minima, as it were—namely: from midnight to 1 o'clock, when the deaths were 83 per cent. below the average, and from noon to 1 o'clock, when they were 20¾ per cent. below. From 3 to 6 o'clock a. m., inclusive, and from 3 to 7 p. m., there is a gradual increase, in the former of 23¼ per cent. above the average, in the latter of 5¾ per cent. The maximum of death is from 5 o'clock to 6 o'clock a.m., when it is 40 per cent. above the average, the next during the hour before midnight, when it is 25 per cent. in excess. A third hour of excess is that from 9 o'clock to 10 o'clock in the morning, that hour being 17½ per cent. above the average. From 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. the deaths are less numerous, being 16½ per cent. below the average, the hour before noon being the most fatal. From 3 o'clock p. m. to 7 p. m. the death-rate rises 5 per cent. above the average, and then falls from that hour until 11 p. m., when it averages 6¼ below the mean. During the hours from 9 to 11 o'clock in the evening there is a minimum of 6¾ below the average. Thus it will be seen that the greatest mortality is during the hours from 3 to 6 o'clock in the morning, the midday hours, from 10 to 3 o'clock, furnishing the least average hourly death-rate."

CARRIAGE OF THE HEAD.

The Effect on the Stature of an Improper Poise.

The head is the crown piece of the human statue, and is usually in good proportion and capable of proper poise, but a head well set and sustained in due height above the shoulders is a rare sight, writes Emma Moffett Tyng, in Harper's Bazar. A woman of large full physique will diminish and make herself almost insignificant by a forward stretch and crane of the neck, or a contracted tuck-down between the shoulders, when her whole effort should be to extend and lengthen the support of the head, and so give the full effect of its size. The tall slender woman, whose head should stand like the bell on the stalk of a lily, gets an idea that she accentuates her height by an upright poise, and is therefore seen with a continued bend of the body and turn of the head to one side, which give her an expression of sympathetic or critical interest, alike with shop-keeper, servant, stranger and friend. These are small affectations and frills which do no one any harm, but they break the line of contour and beauty, and to the initiated mean lack of culture. The difficulty, in truth, lies oftenest in the weakness of the point d'appui—the joint or hinge of support at the back of the neck—and the lack of proper exercise of the muscles of the throat to gain strength and flexibility. The uplift of the chest has the effect of throwing the head upward, and placing the weight where it belongs—against the joint in the spine.

Died a Grandee.

The executors of the late Marquis de Urquijo have paid into the Spanish Treasury succession duties amounting to nearly four hundred and eighty thousand dollars on his fortune, which exceeded twenty-five millions. The deceased, says the New York Star, began life a penniless lad in an obscure Basque village, and that his fortune reached so vast a sum in less than half a century is the more astonishing when one considers the commercial and industrial stagnation which prevails in Spain. He was made mayor of Madrid and a Senator, and his abilities even gave him a place among the Castilian aristocracy, for he died a grandee of Spain. He has left nine hundred thousand dollars in bequests to charities in his native province, many of which he founded himself. He also left one hundred thousand dollars for masses to be said in various churches in Madrid and Vittoria, in the province of Biscay.

A Wonderful Clock.

A marvelous piece of mechanism has recently been exhibited in Paris. It is an eight-day clock, which chimes the quarters, plays sixteen tunes, playing three tunes every hour, or at any interval required, by simply touching a spring. The hands go as follows: One once a minute, one once an hour, one once a week, one once a month and one once a year. It shows the moon's age, rising and setting of the sun, the time of high and low tide, besides showing half ebb and half flood. A curious device represents the water, showing ships at high-water tide as if they were in motion, and as it recedes leaves them high and dry on the sands. The clock shows the hour of the day, the day of the week, the day of the month and the month of the year. The mechanism is so arranged as to make its own provisions for long and short months. It also shows the signs of the zodiac, equation and the difference between sun and railroad time for every day in the year.

Took Gladstone for a "Rounder."

Mr. Gladstone ran into London from Hawarden the other morning, and feeling uncommonly hungry he dropped in about eight o'clock at the Raleigh Club for a quiet breakfast. He looked so red-eyed that nobody would have suspected that he was the grandest of grand old men. The sagacious waiter mistook him for a "rounder"—one of the boys. "What have you got to eat?" demanded the old gentleman. "I beg your pardon, sir," answered the waiter, haughtily, "but we don't serve suppers after four a. m."

FIGHTING THE SIOUX.

A Memorable Battle Which Took Place Many Years Ago.

"It was in the summer and fall of 1868 that the northern Cheyennes and Sioux carried terror all along the border," said General G. A. Forsyth at Denver to a correspondent. "They killed many settlers and harrowed all the little settlements into the wildest excitement. I was then on Major-General Sheridan's staff, and asked that I might take the field to meet the savages. I was given a command of fifty scouts, having under me Lieutenant Beecher, a nephew of Henry Ward Beecher, and Brevet Brigadier-General McCall, who acted as my first sergeant. Most of the men had seen service in the rebellion, and were good shots and thoroughly to be depended upon.

"On the 9th of September we started from old Fort Harker, worked up to Fort Hayes, to Sheridan, Kas., and to Fort Wallace. We started with seven days' supplies on the Indian trail. After following the trail thirty miles it scattered over the prairie, and we were obliged to circle for three days before we struck the trail again. We found where five warriors had slept at a wickiup and soon we came upon a broad trail, which indicated that thousands of Indians were ahead of us."

On the afternoon of September 14 the party found itself out of supplies and at 4:30 o'clock went into camp. The spot chosen was where the Arickaree enters the Republican river. In the middle of the channel was a sandy island surrounded on all sides by water three or four inches deep. There were no river banks to cut off the view of the surrounding country, which seemed to meet the sky on all sides, the surface being a rolling prairie.

"During the night I arose several times to inspect the guard, and be sure that we should not be taken by surprise," continued the General. "We tethered our horses and mules in a circle around us, and every man was directed to dig a hole in the sand, as a defense against the arrows and bullets of the savages. At daybreak on the following morning the trouble began. A dozen Indians first appeared, with dried beef and bells tied to the sides of their horses, making a noise so as to stampede our animals. I took a shot at the savages, and called on the men to saddle up. Before we could mount the whole surrounding country seemed to grow Indians.

"They appeared innumerable and seemed to come from every quarter. They kept up a running fire all day, killing all our horses, but not coming near enough for us to do much to them. Toward evening, however, one of our men killed Roman Nose, their leader. This threw them into confusion, and they withdrew."

The next day the Indians renewed the attack, but made no more mounted charges. During the night General Forsyth had dispatched two scouts, who were to attempt to reach Fort Wallace, one hundred and ten miles away. They crawled out of camp in their stocking feet. The second night another detail of scouts was sent in the same direction. The party subsisted on horse and mule meat, but on the fourth day it began to putrify, and for four long days not a mouthful of food was found in the camp. From the actions of the Indians it was plain that they were preparing for retreat, but, fearing an ambuscade, the party remained intrenched upon the island. On the morning of the eighth day the first column of the relief corps was visible on the hills, and never did the eyes of despairing men rest on a more gratifying sight. Four troops arrived from as many directions within two hours. General Forsyth was carried to Fort Leavenworth, and it was two years before he recovered from the sufferings of those dreadful seven days.

"It was not until 1871 that I learned the true strength of the Indians," said he. "In my report to the Government I estimated the force at 500, but in Denver I met a Cheyenne chief who carried a bullet in his lungs as a memento of the battle. He said there were 970 warriors in the Indian camp, and that their loss during and immediately after the battle was seventy-five men. In his words, the wounded were 'heaps.' Had we attempted to leave the island, he said, we would certainly have been destroyed in an ambush which had been prepared for our reception.—N. Y. Star.

An Unkind Remark.

"Your quiet, easy, indifference," said Mrs. Walkingbeam to her spouse, "aggravates me to such a degree, that I am half dead with anger."

"Ah, my dear!" replied Mr. W., "let me give you a pointer about that."

"What is it?" snapped Mrs. W.

"No one should ever do things by halves."—Texas Siftings.

Timeliness and Style in Advertising.

The trite comment upon success of any sort that "there is everything in knowing how" is particularly applicable to the business of advertising. Merchants generally advertise their business, but not many of them regard advertising as a part of their business: that is, they do not put business methods and business brightness into their advertising. Judicious advertising pays every time, and he who knows how to advertise judiciously is a better equipped business man than is his merchant neighbor who does not know when and how to advertise.

A striking advertisement will run the gamut of popular attention and get into the air like a popular song. Advertisements have become as familiar as household words, and remained advertisements long after they had disappeared from newspaper columns and from advertising billboards. Who will ever forget the mystic "S. T. 1860 X!" It can no longer be seen in print, nor upon billboards, but the name of the compound it advertised comes to mind with the legend, and the advertisement is as bright as it was twenty-five years ago.

"You press the button; we do the rest!" It is hardly necessary to state what these words advertise. They have been so widely read and are so taking and so suggestive of ability that everybody knows what they refer to. To show to what extent an advertisement with brightness in it gets into the public mind, the fact may be cited in relation to the advertisement under comment that no less a personage than Chauncey M. Depew, in a speech before the merchants of New York at their annual dinner, closed an interesting statement of the advantages of reciprocity with the remark, "As merchants, as bankers and business men, we say to congress in the language which advertises that most universal and productive of our institutions, the Kodak, 'You press the button; we will do the rest.'"

If merchants and manufacturers want to win advertising of this happy kind, all they have to do is to advertise in the right way and put happy thoughts into their advertisements.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Earnestness.

The following extract from one of the best stories ever written contains a valuable suggestion for everybody, and especially is it golden advice to every advertiser. Be earnest. Have faith in your work. Attend to it. Be honest:

I have been very fortunate in worldly matters; many men have worked much harder and not succeeded half so well, but I never could have done what I have done without the habits of punctuality, order and diligence, without the determination to concentrate myself on one object at a time, no matter how quickly its successor should come upon its heels, which I then formed. Whatever I have tried to do in life I have tried with all my heart to do well; whatever I have devoted myself to I have devoted myself to completely. In great aims and in small I have always been thoroughly in earnest. There is no substitute for thoroughgoing, ardent and sincere earnestness. Never to put one hand to anything on which I could throw my whole self, and never to affect depreciation of my work, whatever it was, I find now to have been my golden rules.—David Copperfield.

It Pays, That's Why.

The advertiser in a small way often stands aghast at the large sums of money which certain masters of the art are known to spend annually in bringing their goods before the public. Having had experience only within his own narrow circle he asks in a bewildered way how it is possible that they can make it pay. He takes pencil and paper and begins to figure it out. Supposing their profits on a single sale to be so much, he determines how many sales they would have to make to cover their entire advertising expenditure. About the time he reaches this result he gives up in despair and falls back upon the old but safe conclusion that these princes of advertising are conducting their business for the purpose of making money, and that if they did not find their advertising paid they would not continue it.—Exchange.

Be Brief? Be Pointed!

In preparing their announcements advertisers will usually do well to confine their statements to one, or at most, a very few points. Few persons can do well more than one thing at a time, and it is much the same with the memory; but one or two points in any statement make an impression and are retained. As the number of points is increased the probability of any of them making an impression and bringing returns is proportionately reduced.

Perfectly Well!

PILLSBURY, Dubuque Co., Ia., Sept., 1889

Miss K. Finnigan writes: My mother and sister used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tired praising the Tonic.

Recovered Health and Happiness,

LAWRENCE, MASS., Dec. '89.

I was suffering for 12 years from a nervous disease more or less; tried everything I heard of, spent neither money nor time to get medicine, but none had the desired effect, until Rev. Sagg recommended the Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, of which I used but three bottles and completely recovered my health and happiness. I hope others will be benefited by the remedy, as much as I was.

THE COMPLICATIONS SERIOUS

The Senate Decides That All The Democrats Were Elected.

Governor Bulkeley Warns the Legislators That This Action Is Revolutionary—A Demand for the Offices Refused—Exciting Times Expected When Both Houses Meet—Democrats to Go to the Courts.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 14.—A resolution was offered in the Senate instructing the Democratic candidates to come in and be inaugurated. It passed after a debate.

A committee was then appointed to escort Governor Bulkeley to the inauguration of his successor. He told the committee that he should not recognize the authority of one branch of the Assembly to act in this matter and warned them that they did it at their individual peril.

The Democratic candidates were sworn in and the Senate then adjourned to Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

After adjournment, the persons who had just taken the oath visited the different offices and made demands for them. The present occupants refused to give them up until it was shown that the new officers had been duly elected and declared by the General Assembly.

The next move will be to start quo warranto proceedings against the Republicans now in office. This may not be done for a number of days. During the deadlock the Senate will not recognize any communication from Governor Bulkeley, while the House will not recognize Morris as Governor. The two Houses will meet on Jan. 21, when they must vote for a United States Senator. It is stated that at that time General Merwin will appear and demand his right to preside as Lieutenant-Governor. The complications have become more serious by the Senate's action.

THE INDIAN SITUATION.

It is Believed That Gen. Miles Will Disarm the Hostiles.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 13.—While the iron hand of the army has apparently got the Sioux rebellion by the throat, there is no telling at what instant the savage, grown desperate by hunger and fright, will make one more struggle to avenge his wrongs.

The hostiles are still in camp in the ravine to the northwest. Their messages to Gen. Miles are of a pacific nature, but in their peace councils the young men, who are the actual warriors, hold aloft. This element numbering between 300 and 600, it would seem, needs to be crushed if the wants to come to a speedy end. They are turbulent, insolent and belligerent.

It seems to be the plan of the military to remain inactive for a day or two, in the hope that the youngsters will become satisfied that they are not to be punished for the crimes they have committed, and that they will listen to the counsels of such chiefs as Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horse.

General Miles held no council with the chiefs of the hostiles to-day. It is doubtful if he will consent to any more powwowing. He has promised the savages plenty to eat and the immediate observance of existing treaties, but as a conquerer he has warned them that they must submit to whatever terms he may dictate.

It is believed that General Miles contemplates the gradual disarming of the hostiles, but it is the universal opinion of those who have been among the hostiles that they will not submit to such a cautious move on the part of the military.

Between 400 and 500 Indians broke away from the hostiles during the morning, and have started for the Bad Lands via Wounded Knee. They are crazy and frantic, committing depredations wherever they go. General Carr, with the Sixth Cavalry and one company of infantry, and Col. Wheaton, with four companies of infantry, are after them.

The Scotch Railway Strike.

GLASGOW, Jan. 14.—The strike situation to-day remains unchanged. None of the men of the Glasgow and Southwestern Railway have rejoined the strikers, notwithstanding the assertion of Mr. Tait, secretary of the strikers union, that they would do so. The companies generally are making desperate efforts to grapple with the coal traffic problem, and with partial success. At Greenock the refineries were enabled to reopen to day.

The Apportionment Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The report of the Census Committee of the Senate on the Apportionment bill was submitted by Mr. Hale. The committee says that it approves the bill passed by the House, providing for 356 members. Messrs. Davis, Henry and Blodgett submitted a minority report in which it is contended that New York, Minnesota and Arkansas are entitled each to an additional member, making the apportionment 359.

Poor Outlook for Creditors.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Jan. 14.—William C. Jillson, who owns three-quarters of the Hop River Wrap Co.'s stock and who is business manager of the company has assigned to Julius Phiney of Willimantic. The liabilities are stated to be over $65,000, and it is expected that the assets will realize about 15 cents on the dollar.

Warmer Weather in England.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A decided thaw has set in here. The seaport of Newport, in Belgium, is reported as being still icebound and inaccessible. The docks of Ostend are represented to be so crowded with shipping that the unloading of vessels is only accomplished with the utmost difficulty.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

State Officers' Reports Received—The Assembly Committees Announced.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—In the Senate the report of the State Treasurer was received. The report of the Board of Mediation on the Central strike was received and read. It recommends a law making arbitration by a State Board compulsory; making the railroads give notice to employes and employes to the railroads before breaking relations. It makes it a misdemeanor to combine to hurt a railroad or a corporation.

In the Assembly Speaker Sheehan announced his committees. The following are the chairmen: Ways and Means, McClellan of Westchester; Judiciary, Hitt of Albany; General Laws, Bush of Ulster; Revision, Lane of Otsego; Taxation and Retrenchment, Demorest of Rockland; Canals, Gunther of Erie; Cities, Bluementhal of New York; Railroads, Bush of Chemung; Commerce and Navigation, Sullivan of New York; Insurance, Connelly of New York; Banks, Gorman of Albany; Gas and Electricity, Demsey of Oneida; Internal Affairs, Townsend of Queens; Labor and Industry, Endres of Erie; Excise, Earl of Kings; Affairs of Villages, Osborne of Dutchess; Public Printing, Nolan of Albany; Public Health, Duffy of New York; Public Education, Lawrence of New York; Public Lands and Forestry, Ryan of Westchester; Public Institutions, Sulzer of New York; Military Affairs, Sage of Green; Soldiers' Home, McMahon of New York; Claims, Kerrigan of New York; Federal Relations, Sohmer of New York; Charitable and Religious Societies, Stein of New York; State Prisons, Rice of Ulster; Fisheries and Game, Gould of Lewis; Trade and Manufactures, Schaef of Kings; Agriculture, Dunham of Lewis; Indian Affairs, Smith of Erie; Rules, Mr. Speaker; Printing and Engrossed Bills, Dinkelspiel of New York; Unfinished Business, Clarke of New York.

A number of bills were introduced and referred.

A MINER'S TROUBLE.

Discovered in the Top of a Tree Preparing to Commit Suicide.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 14.—Maggie Robeson, aged 19 years, a servant employed in the Dean House, has given birth to a quartet of boys. They are all healthy and well developed. The girl is a daughter of George Robeson, a coal miner, who works at Broadford for Frick & Co.

When Robeson heard of the affair, he attempted suicide. William Gray, a neighbor, discovered him in the top of a tree, with a drawn razor, about to cut his throat, but Gray succeeded in dissuading him from taking his life. Robeson drove his daughter from home, and threatened her life if she ever returned. The young mother and her babes are now at Dunbar, where they are being cared for. Miss Robeson has sworn out a warrant before Squire Cotton, of Dunbar, for the arrest of James Kane, whom she charges with the paternity of her children. Kane is an iron worker, and is thought to be in Pittsburg.

Will Try to Extend the Strike.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 14.—The striking spinners at the Acushnet Mills will present a proposition to the Spinners' Union at the meeting to-night to bring out the spinners in the Acushnet Mill No. 2 and the Hathaway Mill. The weavers in No. 1 Acushnet are still considering the advisability of striking against weaving up the Knobstick and purchased filling. The corporation has begun the erection of a large boarding house in the mill yard for the accommodation of the Knobsticks, who are expected daily.

Trouble Ahead for Burrows.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Ex-Congressman George D. Yaple, of Michigan, has served notice on the Hon. Julius Cæsar Burrows that he will contest his seat in the next Congress. Mr. Burrows was elected by 394 votes, and is one of the very few prominent Republicans of the House who were re-elected. Mr. Yaple has just declined the position of State Railroad Commissioner of Michigan to make this contest.

Four Men Crushed to Death.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Jan. 14.—John and William Fleury, sons of Foreman Fleury, and two Italians were instantly killed, and James O'Connell, John McShane and one Italian, name unknown, were fatally injured at Split Rock Quarry on Lake Champlain near Westport. They were engaged in hoisting stone into a car with a large derrick, when it suddenly gave way, crushing the men.

Senator Mitchell Renominated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Senator Mitchell has received dispatches from Salem, Ore., notifying him that at the Republican legislative caucus last night, with every member present, he was nominated by acclamation to succeed himself in the Senate. This insures his re-election by the two Houses of the Oregon Legislature next Tuesday.

The Killing Was in Self-Defense.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The jury in the inquest concerning the death of James Cummings, who was shot and killed by Michael Gallivan on Christmas Day, found that Gallivan acted in self-defense. He was admitted to bail in $5,000.

READY FOR BATTLE

Dempsey and Fitzsimmons Will Fight To-Night.

NO LAW TO PREVENT THE MILL.

Both Pugilists in Fine Condition and the Nonpareil a Strong Favorite.

Sullivan Sends a Telegram Favoring Dempsey—Fitzsimmons Will Not Leave His Training Quarters Until This Afternoon—A Big Crowd Will Witness the Fight—McAuliffe and Myer Matched.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—The State authorities have reluctantly arrived at the conclusion that they have no warrant for interfering with the Dempsey-Fitzsimmons fight to-night.

After his conference with Governor Nicholls, Attorney-General Rogers went through the statutes, and finally rendered an opinion that under the most recent law the Olympic Club people had a clear right to go ahead.

Dempsey Anxious to See Fitzsimmons.

Dempsey will see his opponent for the first time when he enters the ring. He has been very anxious to size him up and take a mental photograph of his movement and shape, but the Australian is wily, and does not propose to give the Nonpareil any points in advance. Fitzsimmons will remain at Bay St. Louis until this afternoon, reaching here barely in time to put on his pumps and go to the Amphitheatre.

A Denver man, who stopped over at his training quarters last night, says that Fitzsimmons is in as fine form as he has ever been in all his life, and that there need be no mistake about his condition; he is awkwardly built, and the muscles and flesh of his body is queerly distributed, but he is trained down to a fine edge and will make a fine showing in the ring. His legs look larger than they did some months ago, and while he is knock-kneed and slender below, he is great above the hips. The muscles of his back stand out prominently and his arms are large and muscular and well curved. He is in condition to take a tremendous amount of punishment and yet come up smiling.

A Financial Success.

Financially, the affair is already a success; all the fifty boxes have been sold at a hundred dollars each, and of the four thousand seats, two-thirds have been taken or bespoken.

A theory endorsement of Dempsey by Sullivan telegraphed here has sent up the Nonpareil's stock, and the betting is active at 100 to 80 in his favor. The amounts, however, are not phenomenally large.

The arrivals last night were numerous and include Lemuel McGregor, the St. Joe Kid; Kilrain, Muldoon, Mike Leary, Geo. Slosson, Billy Edwards and Steve Brodie.

Everything points to the selection of Alexander Brewster, of this city, who acted as the Sullivan-Ryan fight, as referee. He is acceptable to Dempsey, and it is said that he will suit Fitzsimmons and Carroll.

McAuliffe and Myer to Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 14.—At midnight Myer and McAuliffe, with their backers, Alf Kennedy and Jim Colville, met at the Merchants' Club and agreed to fight for a bet of $3,000 a side and the largest purse which may be offered by the Pelican Club, of New York; the Olympic, of New Orleans, the Galveston or the California Athletic Club, of San Francisco. One thousand dollars was put up as forfeit money, and the articles will be signed Thursday. The match will take place in April, after McAuliffe has met Carroll.

LATEST FROM IRELAND.

Morley Denies that He Offered the Chief Secretaryship to Parnell.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Mr. John Morley denies that he ever offered the Chief Secretaryship of Ireland to Parnell, as represented by that gentleman.

The National League at Belfast, after a long discussion, rescinded the vote of confidence heretofore passed by it in the leadership of Justin McCarthy. A vote of confidence in Mr. Parnell was adopted by a vote of 57 to 34.

The meeting of the National League branch at Waterford was an excited one. Finally the McCarthyite members retired and organized a new branch.

It is reported that the McCarthyites now expect that Mr. Dillon will join Mr. Parnell.

Mr. Parnell arrived in London to-day. The Siecle of Paris, in double leads, makes the announcement that Mr. John Dillon, upon his arrival in France, will be designated as leader of the Irish National party.

Hold Burglars Caught in the Act.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 14.—John Bernheimer, James Jordon and Peter Wolfe, who fastened the door of Cohen's jewelry store and then broke the window and stole a lot of jewelry, were arrested a few minutes later and were held for trial for burglary. Wolfe is only a week out of State prison.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

JERSEY'S NEW LEGISLATURE.

Senator Stahr Unseated and Congressman-Elect McDonald Replaced Him.

TRENTON N. J., Jan. 14.—The Legislature was organized by the election of the following officers in the Senate: President, Robert Adrian, of Middlesex; Secretary, John Carpenter, of Hunterdon; Assistant Secretary, Samuel C. Thompson, of Warren; Engrossing Clerk, John J. Matthews, of Union; Sergeant-at-Arms, George K. Coleman, of Essex.

Mr. Bergen won the Speakership in the House, after a hard fight, on the sixth ballot. The other principal House officers were allotted as follows: Clerk, Thomas J. Noonan, of Hudson; Journal Clerk, W. S. Naughright, of Morris; Reading Clerk, P. W. Stagg, of Bergen; Engrossing Clerk, John H. Demott, of Hunterdon; Sergeant-at-Arms, William Harrigan, of Essex.

Mr. McDonald was restored to his seat in the Senate by a vote of 13 to 7, all the Democrats voting for the resolution, and all the Republicans against it.

Senator Stuhr made a strong protest against being unseated.

Governor Abbett in his annual message said that while the financial condition of the State is not embarrassing, it will not permit new appropriations except in absolutely necessary cases. Its condition will also prevent the immediate payment of many appropiations heretofore made by the Legislature. Unless the State secures additional sources of revenue or increase the amount to be obtained from the present sources it will be several years before it will be fully able to meet outstanding appropriations.

With regard to ballot reform, he says: "I recommend in my inaugural message the passage of a Ballot Reform law. The Legislature passed the act May 28, 1890. The operation of this law has secured practical ballot reform and honest elections in this State. The law is the simplest and most efficient act adopted in any of the States of the Union."

THREE CRAZY CHILDREN.

Scared by a Wildcat a Boy and His Sisters Become Insane.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Michael, Gertrude and Margaret Bailey, aged 12 10 and 8 years respectively, children of one family, who have been stricken violently insane, exhibit an extraordinary phase of mental disorder. These three children have just been brought to the State Homeopathic Hospital for the Insane in this city for treatment.

They are the children of Michael C. Bailey, a respectable farmer living near Parkville, on the Ontario & Western Railroad. So far as is known, the parents have no predisposition to mental maladies.

Little Mitchell chanced to pass through a piece of woods near his home a few days ago, and suddenly he came face to face with a wildcat. The animal did not attack the boy, but bristled up threateningly and growled savagely. The lad turned and fled homeward in an ecstacy of terror, and when he had reached the house he fell upon the floor in strong convulsions. One paroxysm succeeded another in quick succession, with semi-lucid intervals, haunted by wild and agonizing fears of an attack by the wildcat.

The boy's little sisters, who had witnessed his paroxysms, were sympathetically affected, and went off into convulsions of terror, marked by symptoms exactly like his. The wild, uncontrolable delirium of the sufferers made a pitiful spectacle.

HURLED TO DEATH.

A Locomotive's Boiler Explodes—Three Men Killed and One Injured.

ASHLAND Pa., Jan. 14.—While a Reading locomotive was standing on a side track near the railroad station at Gordon, two miles from here, last night, it exploded from some unknown cause, hurling the engineer, Martin Saeger, and Brakemen John Smith, Irving Bolich and Nicholas Humph through the air, the former a distance of 300 yards.

Saeger, Smith and Bolich were killed outright, and Humph was so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful. The ill-fated engine had just been vacated by the fireman, who went out for a drink of water, thus escaping the fate of his companions. All are married men except Smith, and leave from two to five children.

Slipped and Fractured His Skull.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Jan. 14.—Marshall Maloney, a resident of this place, left home last night, and, as he did not return, his son went to look for him. He was found about 2 o'clock lying dead beside a pool of blood. In carrying a railroad tie, which he had picked up, he had slipped on the ice. In falling he was struck on the head with the tie, which fractured his skull.

The New York Senatorship.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The canvass for the United States Senatorship may be said to have actively begun. The situation is at present exactly the same as on the day after election. Gov. Hill has said nothing as yet, and the Democrats are not inclined to act or speak until they have heard from him. Smith M. Weed has opened headquarters in the Delavan.

The Champion Skater.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Joe Donoghue, the champion skater, of Newburgh, N. Y., sailed for home on the Germanic, which left Liverpool for New York to-day.

Over a Century.

BEFORE THE CABINET

England's Flank Movement Discussed Informally.

NO DOUBT ABOUT THE RESULT.

The Supreme Court Cannot Become a Board of Arbitration.

Attorney-General Miller Says He Will Have Enough to Say About the Matter When He Makes His Argument—The New Move Hailed With Delight in England—No Affront to Mr. Blaine.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The effort of the British Government, through counsel for Canadian officials, to bring the Behring Sea controversy before the Supreme Court of the United States was the chief topic of conversation here in diplomatic and official circles. The matter was talked about informally in the Cabinet meeting, and although members of the Cabinet are naturally reticent about it, still it is apparent that the administration is but little disturbed over the alleged flank movement on the part of the British or Canadian lawyers.

How the Case Stands.

As it stands now, it is simply this: The petitioners asked the Supreme court to take hold of a case involving disputed international questions and treaty rights. Attorney-General Miller promptly objected to the introduction of the motion on the grounds that the Supreme Court had no jurisdiction in the case at issue, which originated in the District Court of Alaska; that the case sought to be introduced was a political case, without legal aspects and, therefore, had no place in the Supreme Court. He also held that it was unconstitutional for the Supreme Court to administer upon matters belonging to an executive department.

The Court at once denied the right of the petitioners to make their motion, but set a day two weeks hence when the question of admitting the motion will be argued.

The Court's Final Action.

Attorney-General Miller declined to talk about the matter, merely dismissing all interviewers with the remark that it was not a good place to practice law in the newspapers, and assuring them that he would have enough to say about the matter in a fortnight, when he should make his argument before the Supreme Court.

Friends of the administration say they have no doubt that the Court will, after hearing argument, reassert its conclusion and decline to become a board of arbitration for the settlement of the vexatious Behring Sea matter—a political question already under negotiation between the diplomatic representatives of the United States and Great Britain.

ARRESTS FOR CONSPIRACY.

Eleven Men in Custody for Threatening a Colored Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—About two weeks ago the Postoffice Department established a postoffice at Catherine, Ala., and appointed a colored man postmaster. Subsequently a certain element of the town, who were hostile to the postmaster, served notice on him to leave the office.

The postmaster refused to comply with their demands and an organized conspiracy was effected, which threatened to kill him if he did not leave town. The conspirators were earnest in their purpose to carry the threat into execution, and the postmaster and his assistant barely escaped with their lives.

The Chief Postoffice Inspector sent two inspectors to Catharine to investigate the matter, and the result was the arrest last night of 11 conspirators, who are charged under the statute with interfering with a government officer in the performance of his duty.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker has issued an order abolishing the office.

Senator Ingalls' Fight.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Senator Ingalls has made his arrangements to leave Washington the latter part of the week, and will be in Topeka on Monday next. His friends here say that since his return to Washington he has evolved a plan of campaign that will pull him through despite the alleged combination against him. What the nature of the coup will be is not disclosed.

Probably He is Not Foolish.

MADRID, Jan. 12.—Physicians who have examined the man arrested at Olot found his teeth to be natural and sound, whereas Pudlewski's are defective and several of them are known to be false.

HORRIBLY SCALDED.

Three Men Meet With a Terrible Accident in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14.—A terrible and perhaps fatal accident occurred in the big building of the Edison Electric Light Company on Sansom street during the morning. About 8:30 a. m. three men, who were at work in the boiler room, were horribly scalded by the bursting of a steam pipe connected with one of the huge boilers. The unfortunate men were completely enveloped in clouds of scalding steam, which thoroughly saturated their clothing, and the boiling water literally cooked their flesh.

An ambulance was promptly sent to the scene, and the still unconscious forms of the victims were taken to the hospital. The physicians did everything in their power for the men, but their condition is extremely critical, and it is feared that their terrible injuries will prove fatal.

The following are the names of the victims: John Strouth, Robert Gibson and Edward Sullivan.

It is reported that there were several other employes injured, and that two of them were sent to their homes, but their names cannot be ascertained.

The officials and clerks in the office of the company positively decline to furnish any information concerning the terrible affair.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Farmers' Alliance men captured all the offices of the Kansas House.

The gas house at Spencer, Mass., was burned to the ground last night. Loss $10,000. Insured.

One wing of the Hamilton print works at Lowell, Mass., was destroyed by fire during the morning.

Eleven laundries of Pittsburg have formed a trust to fight Chinese competition and reduce expenses.

Capt. J. B. Thomas, director of the American Sugar Refining Company, is dead at his home in Boston.

John Devereaux, for nearly fifty years a prominent resident of Lockport, N. Y., died last evening at the age of 100 years.

In the storm the two-masted schooner Otter, of New Brunswick, was driven ashore off Bellport, L. I. Two of the crew were drowned.

The thaw at Shelburn, N. S., yesterday were higher than at any time since 1873, and boats were necessary for safe passage through the streets.

Fred A. Dodge, a brakeman on the New York & New England Railroad, was killed near Mt. Bowdoin station by coming in contact with a bridge.

A society of men and women has been formed in England to advocate the repeal of capital punishment for women convicted of the highest crimes.

Billy O'Brien, the well-known sporting man of New York city, who was on Monday declared hopelessly insane and taken to an insane asylum, is dead.

Thomas M. Balliet, Superintendent of Schools at Springfield, Mass., has declined to consider a proposed call to succeed Supt. McAllister of Philadelphia.

The dwelling of John Wright at Limestone, N. Y., was destroyed by fire and four of his children were badly burned, one of whom is not expected to recover.

Anton Bruckner, a saloon keeper of West Philadelphia, Pa., killed his wife, Anna, and himself at an early morning hour. The origin of the tradgedy is supposed to have been jealousy.

Lutzski, the Russian Nihilist who was arrested in connection with the attempt to wreck the Czar's train at Berki, will be transported to Siberia without the formality of a trial.

The New York State Convention of the Knights of Labor is in session at Albany. The convention has about 120 delegates from various parts of the State, about two-thirds of the order being represented.

The New York State Court of Appeals has granted a new trial to ex-Sheriff James A. Flack of New York, and his son, William A. Flack, reversing the judgment of conviction of conspiracy in fraudulently procuring a divorce, by the General Sessions Court, costs to abide the event.

George M. Bartholomew, formerly the president of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., who fled to Canada some years ago, returned voluntarily to Hartford and pleaded guilty to the embezzlement of $10,000, the proceeds of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, which was deposited at the Hartford Bank. He was sentenced to one year in State prison. The prisoner is over 70 years of age.

Weather Indications.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

BY THE WAY.

—Easter this year comes on March 29.

—There was a flurry of big snow flakes yesterday, but the sun kept on shining through it all.

—The Clerks' Association will hold a special meeting on important business Thursday night at eight o'clock.

—It is estimated that Union county will be $10,000 richer when the fines of the race track men have all been paid.

—Glassford's company will produce "The Streets of New York" at Amphion Hall, to-night. The company is very good.

—The "Judge Not" Circle of King's Daughters will hold a cake sale in the Holy Cross Sunday school building Friday, Jan. 16, from half-past two to five o'clock.

—The promised abundant ice harvest has not ripened yet. If old Boreas doesn't keep up his reputation better he'll find himself entirely supplanted by the ice machines.

—During the past year four pensioners of the War of 1812 have died in New Jersey, reducing the number in the State to only eight, of whom Thomas M. Sturtevant, of Madison, is one.

—Halsey Hammond, of Boonton, Secretary and Treasurer of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, says that the Christian Endeavor movement begins the new year with 13,000 societies and over 770,000 members, a gain of a hundred thousand members in six months.

—The members of the Executive Committee of the Boys' Club Association desire to express their thanks to all who assisted them in their New Year's entertainment. The committee is much indebted to those who contributed refreshments and to those who personally aided on that occasion.

—A west bound freight train broke into three pieces while passing the North Avenue station of the Central New Jersey railway this morning, on the track nearest the station, and because of its subsequent manœuvrings to get firmly coupled together again caused considerable annoyance and delay to passengers waiting to board trains for New York.

—A joke-loving conductor on a Somerville way-train astonished the passengers in his smoking car Monday morning by informing them of a terrible "wash-out" at Dunellen. All rushed to the side of the car indicated and craned their necks to see it. A woman in the vicinity of the station had a good-sized wash out on the line, and the conductor hasn't since been forgiven.

—Reserved seats are now on sale at the Postal Telegraph office, No. 4 Park avenue, for the Gertrude Norman Company, who open at Amphion Hall on Monday next, Jan. 19, in "Lady Isabel." Tuesday, "Apple Orchard Farm." This company is highly spoken of and represented by Dr. Chas. L. Howard, which is a guarantee of itself. Mr. H. has been connected with the best companies on the road, and was the genial manager of Denman Thompson and others.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Henry T. Smith, of Broadway, is very ill with bronchitis and congestion.

E. F. Thorn and Ellis A. Campbell started this morning for a two weeks' visit with Mr. Campbell's son Harry, who has a fine orange grove at Crescent City, Florida.

The Rev Dr. Lewis will deliver a lecture on "The Relation of Intemperance to Social Purity," at the regular meeting to be held at Reform Hall, Thursday evening, 15th inst. The Rev. Cornelius Schenck is also invited and is expected to be present. Good music will be rendered. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A Memorial to John Simpson.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of this city, yesterday, the following memorial was adopted.

Whereas, It has pleased the Almighty to remove from us by death, John Simpson, for many years one of the Directors of this Bank, therefore

Resolved, That we have learned of the death of our fellow-director with unfeigned sorrow, and we hereby tender to the afflicted family of the deceased our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in this their great bereavement.

Resolved, That in the death of John Simpson we realize that th bank has lost one of its most active and faithful directors and this city one of its sterling and reliable citizens, and one whose place in the various walks of life it will be most difficult to fill.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered at length on the minutes and a copy forwarded to the family of the deceased and also published in the local papers.

A Phenomenon.

Those who propose attending the Gilbert entertainment at Music Hall, Jan. 20, should go early as Prof. R. H. Mayland's orchestra, from Brooklyn, will commence playing at a quarter before eight, and give the people an almost unprecedented treat—music in Music Hall, worth listening to.

DELIGHTS UNKNOWN TO THE CITY.

A Bright Description of Suburban Life As Applied Especially to Plainfield.

The following interesting article from the pen of John Habberton, well-known to the world in general as the author of "Helen's Babies," "Brueton's Bayou," and other delightful works, and to the newspaper world as a tireless and successful worker, has so much in it that applies especially to Plainfield that it seems as though the writer must have had that charming city of homes in mind when he committed it to paper. Additional color is lent to this idea by the fact that Mr. Habberton has frequently been entertained by Plainfielders, and was only recently, just previous to the writing of this article, a guest at one of the city's finest residences.

A FEATURE OF THE COUNTRY CHURCH SOCIABLE.

During the past twenty years—Mr. Habberton goes on to say—my home has been "in the country," as the suburbs of New York are called in town, and the fact that my Winters as well as Summers were spent there has greatly surprised some acquaintances in the city. Every one understands why people want to hurry from town when the heat, dust and smells of Summer begin, but that any one should pass a Winter in the suburbs, when the city with all of its attractions is so near, passes the comprehension of many persons otherwise intelligent. Hundreds of times I have had to answer such questions as "Isn't it dreadfully muddy? Don't you have trouble in getting about? How do you exist without society? You can't expect to retain servants in Winter, I suppose? Of course you don't have any amusements, so how do you spend your evenings and other leisure time?"

From such questions it would appear that city people know the suburbs only through railway-car windows, or through having themselves originally come to the city from farms, or from country villages which differed from the farming district only in having more houses and mud to the acre.

It may quiet the wonderings such people to know that in many of the hundreds of villages within an hour, by rail, of New York or any other large city, the differences between city and country are almost all in favor of the country. Places with many paved roads and flagged sidewalks, streets lighted by gas or electricity, sufficient water supply, and drainage facilities, fire and police service, good churches, schools and shops, are not hard to find. These places have been developed by the better portion of the city's overflow. The head of a family of residents is almost sure to be in business in the city; he wants all city conveniences in his town; he votes for them and votes the taxes which are to pay for them.

School principals are as well paid in some of these places as any in the city, and the average pay of ministers is very good. The interest and diversion are largely those of the city; plays and operas cannot be heard in the smaller villages, but all city places of amusement are within easy reach by rail, and are visited probably quite as often by people from the suburbs as by city residents. Indeed, all the railroads keep the theatre-goer in mind while making up time tables.

There are some special features of life in the suburbs which make the Winter season more pleasant than it can be in the city. One of these is plenty of light in the house. The city residence, unless on a corner, must obtain all its light from front and rear; the suburban house is lighted by windows upon all sides, and the difference is quickly and gratefully recognized by the city visitors who read, write or sew. The suburban house is better ventilated, too, than the city residence; sometimes faulty construction makes the ventilation altogether too free for comfort, but there never is any necessity for breathing the "dead air" which is unavoidable in most city houses in Winter.

The difference between city and country in Winter in point of health is marked. Many suburban towns contain men and women who a few years ago went there from the city to die but who now are enjoying good health. The superiority of country air is quickly noticed by all city people who breathe it. A great city has an atmosphere peculiarly its own; a quarter of a million of residence chimneys, assisted by thousands of factory chimneys and hundreds of locomotives and steamboats, all in an area of twenty-five square miles, discharge into the air an immense quantity of carbonic acid gas and other material not conducive to health, and the sewers add emanations grievious to the lungs. Rivers form an immense catch-basin for sewage, only a part of which is carried out to sea; the current of the Hudson, for example, has scarcely any force; and the ebb of a tide is arrested and its direction changed before it can empty into the bay.

As for society, the majority of people in suburban towns are intelligent and in comfortable circumstances; they are quite as sociable as their city cousins, and enjoy the same recreations. Parties, receptions, dinners, dances and cards may be enjoyed in steady succession by those who like them, in towns of 5,000 inhabitants, and evening dress is quite as customary as in the city. Young people who attempt to accept all invitations can become quite as exhausted during a Winter in some suburban towns which can be named as in any large city. Besides the diversions named, the suburbs offer in Winter some outdoor sports which cannot be enjoyed by city people except at great expense. A Winter drive in the country is not the taking part in a procession of carriages at a rate of speed fixed by the police; country sleighing is over white snow instead of the dingy stuff over which the millionaire's sleigh must be dragged to and through the Park. Skating and coasting parties are frequent in the suburbs. As for the children, a snow-storm or a cold wave that freezes the ponds brings delight unknown to city boys and girls. To other outdoor pleasures of the suburbs in Winter must be added enjoyment of the picturesque; Winter has scenery peculiarly and delightfully its own, for those who have an eye to that sort of thing.

AT HIS NINETIETH YEAR OF LIFE.

Another Milestone in a Record of Remarkable Longevity.

Abraham Runyon, father of Chancellor Runyon of Newark, to-day reached his ninetieth birthday anniversary. No attempt was made at elaborate celebration of the notable event, but a number of old-time friends called on the nonagenarian at his home on Central avenue, and expressed their hearty congratulations.

Father Runyon, as he is known among the people of the Methodist church, where he is a faithful member, was born on the old Runyon homestead at Greenbrook, which for two hundred years has been in the family. He lives with Jeremiah VanWinkle, whose wife is his niece. Besides the Chancellor, Theodore Runyon, he has one other child, Mrs. Wm. Stanbury of Scotch Plains.

The family of Father Runyon has a remarkable record for longevity. His father was eighty-four years of age at the time of his death, in 1855; and his mother had attained her ninety-first year when she died in 1861. Of his five brothers one lived to be almost ninety, another reached eighty-nine, a third eighty-six, and a fourth seventy-eight. The only one who died early in life met with a fatal accident while in the best of health, at the age of thirty-two.

Miss Howe Who Appears Here To-Morrow.

A number of the members of the Melopoia vocal society of this city, including Mrs. J. K. Myers, the Misses Holmes, the Misses Demarest, Miss Utter and Miss Dewey, at the request of Conductor Chapman, added their voices to the excellence of the chorus at the first concert of the Metropolitan Society in New York city, last evening. The programme was about the same as that to be given by the Melopoia, to-morrow evening, at The Casino.

The Plainfield delegation also had an opportunity of hearing the beautiful Miss Mary Howe, who will be the principal of to-morrow evening's attractions. They were intensely charmed with the brilliancy of her personality and the phenomenally sweet and high voice she possesses.

I have found out a gift for my fair. It is not a ring of gold, nor flowers for her hair, nor pearls for her white neck, but Salvation Oil for her sore throat. She's a singing bird.

Loss of life.—Thousands sink into an early grave for want of a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Under a Wrong Impression, as Was Also Mayor Male.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In looking over the report of the Street Commissioner I find an item of $250.75 for surveying done on streets. I have always been under the impression, and I think other taxpayers also, that when Mr. Meeker was appointed the salary of the Commissioners was immediately raised; and that some of the Council objected to the sudden jump from $900 per annum to $1,500, and Mr. Meeker's backers, who urged his appointment, said that he would do all the surveying for the city free of cost. I think that was the impression that the people got at the time. THE PRESS so stated and it generally gets the correct idea of things. If I am wrong will THE PRESS please correct me?

TAXPAYER.

[You are wrong, friend, and have come to the right shop for correction. The impression you received was not from anything THE PRESS said, because it knew better. It knew that Mr. Meeker did not have the time to do the city surveying, no matter what his salary was, unless he neglected his duties on the streets, and THE PRESS knew Mr. Meeker would never do that.

Mr. Meeker never said that if his salary was raised he would do the city surveying free of cost; and THE PRESS does not believe his "backers"—whatever and whoever they are—said so.

However, you are not alone, Mr. Taxpayer, in your "impression." Even Mayor Male got the same idea in his head some way. But he also was WRONG. ED.]

They Find Aluminum Weaker Than Iron and Too Costly.

The Scott Printing Machine Company, always on the lookout for means to improve the quality of their productions, have been lately experimenting with the new metal, aluminum, in making certain parts of their machines which require strength and light weight, in order to gain speed. The experiments, however, have not been quite as satisfactory as they could desire. Notwithstanding the statements of aluminum manufacturers, that the metal is stronger as well as lighter than iron, in testing bars one inch square and twenty-four inches long, the aluminum would break at a pressure of 750 pounds transverse strain, while the cast iron would stand 1,109 pounds before breaking. It is obvious that at the present cost of aluminum, $8 per pound, it will not be used to any great extent in the manufacture of machinery. It is believed, however, that the time is not far distant when it may be sold at twenty cents per pound.

Mr. Wilder Next Sunday.

Robert P. Wilder, one of the originators of the Student Volunteer Missionary Movement, will speak at the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms next Sunday at 4:15 P. M. Mr. Wilder, who sails for India next Spring, has spent two years in visiting the colleges of the country in the interests of foreign missions, and has been a favorite speaker for the past four years at the College Students' Conference for Bible Study at Mr. Moody's Home at Northfield. The men of the city are most earnestly invited to hear this eloquent young speaker.

EDITOR HODGES THEORY.

More About His New Method of Protecting Buildings from Lightning.

The novel and ingenious method of protecting buildings from the destructive effects of lightning strokes that has been invented by N. D. C. Hodges, of this city, was told of in these columns yesterday. Further information as below will no doubt be interesting.

Heretofore protection has been sought against such effects by the use of a metallic conducting rod, which, being a good conductor of electricity, was applied to the outside of buildings and was expected to take up constantly whatever excess of electricity there might be in the surrounding atmosphere, whether diffused or in the form popularly known as a "bolt," and transmit the same to the earth, where it would be dissipated without doing harm. Protection from such rods has proved to be wholly inadequate, and in many cases buildings have been struck by lightning and seriously damaged or destroyed in spite of the presence of such rods.

The basis of all the theories that have been suggested to explain the high potential exhibited in lightning discharges is that, having a given quantity of electricity on the surface of a given quantity of matter in a finely divided state, the potential of the charge will be increased if the particles of matter coalesce into larger particles, thereby reducing their aggregate electrical capacity. Mr. Hodges argued that if this theory were true it ought to be possible to receive a lightning discharge on some larger body, which would then break into particles whose aggregate electrical capacity would be considerable, and the potential of any charge received on the large body would thus be materially reduced.

It is well known that the potential or striking force of any given quantity of electricity with which a body is charged is very largely dependent upon the surface of said body over which said quantity of electricity is forced to spread itself in charging the same. Thus a given quantity of material in the form of a solid mass when charged nearly to repletion will exhibit a very high potential, while if the amount of electricity remains the same and the quantity of material remains the same, but divided into a granular mass, like fine powder, the potential of the electric discharge there stored practically disappears.

Mr. Hodges' invention is based on this property of extended surface present in pulverized substance, and in practice he places a finely divided substance in the probable path of the lightning discharge in such a manner that the electricity will pass into this substance in preference to attacking the threatened building.

In charging the interposed substance, providing the aggregate surface of its parts is sufficiently large, the potential of the most violent bolt of lightning becomes destroyed or so greatly reduced that the current will readily be carried off by the rod or even dissipate itself harmlessly in the surrounding moist air.

E is a thin box made of some non-conducting material and filled with soot. The lightning rod does not pass through this box but is connected at the top and bottom of the box with plates, and these are connected with each other by fine vertical wires, a, running through the soot.

The electricity, therefore, in passing along the rod must pass through the soot, and in doing so the particles fly apart, some or all of them being charged with portions of the electricity. In this way the potential of the electric discharge will be greatly reduced, in the manner already indicated, and probably no further harm will result.

In ordinary cases one cubic foot of soot would be found sufficient for the purpose intended. Mr. Hodges also contemplates the use of a rod of such a character as is known to be easily destroyed by a lightning discharge, arguing that if the energy of the lightning can be expended in destroying the rod, or a portion of it, the building will be saved.

Mad Dogs in the Valley.

Two valuable hound dogs belonging, one to Mr. Acker and one to Robert Clark, showed unmistakable signs of rabies, yesterday, at Washingtonville. Mr. Clark's dog was the worst, though both foamed at the mouth, snapped at imaginary objects, and in their paroxysms springing the length of their chains at any one who came in sight. Both were subsequently shot. It is supposed they were bitten by a strange dog a short time ago that acted strangely. Other dogs in the neighborhood are being carefully tied up until it is known if they, too, are bitten

It Depends on the Liver.

"Is life worth living"? somebody asked, and the facetious reply was, "That depends on the liver." Health and happiness are twined together. If a man's liver is out of order, his whole system is deranged. He suffers from top to toe. This is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These efficacious little globules are as much in advance of the old-fashioned, griping, drastic pills as electric lights are ahead of a wick stuck in whale oil.

The Revolution in Chili.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Notwithstanding the denial of the Chilian Minister, who says in one breath that there is no revolution, and in the next that the army stands by the government, and most of the navy does likewise, private advices leave no doubt of a desperate outbreak in Chili. The President is unquestionably in a position of serious peril. The people are mostly in sympathy with the insurgents, but the government has of late been securing the fidelity of the army by putting its own adherents into every important command. The majority of Congress is said also to be in sympathy with the revolutionary movement.

The Caroline Islands Outrage.

MADRID, Jan. 14.—There is considerable excitement here over the news that Secretary Blaine will demand satisfaction for the destruction of American missionary property in the Caroline Islands. The Government is deeply concerned about it, and the Liberals, now out of power, are rejoiced at the embarassment of the Ministry. It is feared that the United States mey get up a pretext for seizing Cuba.

The Kaiser's Narrow Escape.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The Kaiser had a narrow escape from serious injury while out sleighing on the Charlottenberg road. The Imperial sled came into collision with another, its side rails were smashed and the horses were barely restrained from running away.

Cut His Throat From Ear to Ear.

BUFFALO, Jan. 14.—August Frankufski cut his throat from ear to ear in the third story of the New England Dressed Meat and Wool Company's warehouse during last night, and was found dead in the morning. Family troubles are said to be the cause.

HOUSEHOLD BREVITIES.

—Never put potatoes on the table in a covered dish. They will reabsorb their own moisture and become sodden.

—Ribbons and other silks should be put away for preservation in brown paper, as the chloride of lime used in manufacturing white paper frequently produces discoloration.

—Queen Esther Toast.—One pint of new milk, two eggs, a little salt. Dip the sliced bread into milk and egg and brown nicely on a buttered griddle; spread with butter for the table.

—Head Cheese.—After having them thoroughly cleaned, boil the head and feet until the meat falls from the bones, salting while boiling; remove from the liquor, chop fine, season with black and red pepper, sage, thyme, etc., dried and pounded; put in a pan of proper size, add a few spoonfuls of liquor from the pot, and place the pan under weights. May be eaten in twenty-four hours.—Boston Budget.

—Raised Doughnuts.—Make a sponge, using one quart of water and one-half cup of yeast; when very light, add one cup of lard, three cups of sugar, three large mashed potatoes, two eggs and spice to suit; let it rise again, and, when very light, roll and cut for frying; lay enough to fry at one time on a floured plate, and set in the oven to warm; fry longer than cakes made of baking powder. This makes a large quantity.—Household.

—A Cough Remedy.—Take one ounce each of thoroughwort, stick licorice, slippery elm and flaxseed, add three pints of water, put all into a bright tin pail, place this in a kettle of boiling water and let the contents simmer for three hours, stirring every few minutes. Strain the liquid, put back into the pail, add one pint of molasses, one pound of sugar, and, for flavoring one ounce of checkerbury. Take one teaspoonful three times a day, or oftener if the cough is hard and troublesome.

—Plum Pudding.—One and one-half cupfuls finely chopped suet, two cupfuls raisins, one cupful currants, washed and carefully picked over, one cupful of brown sugar, one-half cupful of chopped citron, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one cupful of milk, three eggs; mix all these into a firm batter, put into a well-buttered mold, place the mold into a saucepan, with boiling water to reach half up its sides; steam two and one-half hours, turn out carefully and serve with hard sauce.—Boston Herald.

—Brown Betty.—Two cupfuls of bread crumbs, about twice as much apples peeled, quartered and cut fine, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third of a cupful of sugar, and a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Butter a pudding-dish, put a layer of apples at the bottom, then a layer of crumbs, a little sugar and cinnamon, bits of butter and a spoonful of water over each layer of crumbs, fill the dishes with alternate layers, having the bread-crumbs on top. If the apples are not very juicy, add more water, cover closely to keep the steam in for three-quarters of an hour, then uncover and brown. Eat with cream and sugar.—N. Y. Observer.

—Egg Toast.—Prepare several slices of nice brown toast but must not be burned. Place one-half pint of sweet milk in a skillet, with cooking spoon of butter, some pepper and salt. Break some eggs (for six large slices of bread use eight eggs) into a dish. When the milk is scalding hot pour in the eggs, stirring all rapidly and placing skillet on cooler part of stove. When all is incorporated, and before the eggs begin to harden, dip toast into the mixture lifting it out quickly with a skimmer onto a hot meat dish, allow the remainder of the eggs to harden a little more, then lift in spoonfuls and place on toast.—Detroit Free Press.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN PRINTING.

A Process Which Does Away With Much Trouble and Expense.

A new departure is the application of photography to the work of the letter press printer. A machine is now used either for the production of book illustrations, or for turning out a complete illustrated newspaper, and is capable of printing 10,800 impressions an hour. A panoramic machine camera is used in conjunction with the printing machine. This camera, which takes pictures continuously at the rate of four a second, is capable of producing street scenes with all their life and motion, or a long procession from beginning to end. This printing machine is likely to do away with all the tedious sketching and the troublesome block process which occupies so much time and which costs so much. A well known person's photograph, with his letter, could be copied by photography and printed by light much more quickly than you could set up type for the letter, let alone making the block for the likeness, which would take days. It would not then be so perfect as it would come out when printed by light alone, for the texture and detail which could be secured by the new process would be impossible by the block process. The machine prints upon bands or webs of sensitized paper, which passes under the negative, a momentary pause being made while the light is acting. Only gaslight has been used to print with heretofore, but it is expected that with the electric light a much greater speed of operation can be attained. After the bands leave the negative they are quickly passed through the necessary developing, fixing, washing and drying operation. The heavy cost of the sensitizing silver salts requisite to the successful workings of a machine of this nature has hitherto been a serious obstacle, but a substitute has now been found in a form so cheap that the preparation of the paper will cost but little, and the possibilities in the way of printing by photography will be largely increased.—Chicago Daily News.

Looking Forward.

Little Johnny steadily refused to eat apple sauce, but at last acquired the habit.

"That's right, Johnny," said his mother, "I like to see you eat plenty of apple sauce, now you have got to like it."

"I don't like it. I just eat it so you will not be able to put it on the table to-morrow."—Texas Siftings.

THE PRINCE OF LIARS.

The King Bee of the Ananias Club Takes a Turn (?) Turning.

"There is a wide and long difference between the fairs of the present day and the fairs held when I was a boy," said Patrolman Fickle one evening when the Ananias Club was called to order. "Of course, there have been fairs for thousands of years, but I mean only Indiana State fairs.

"The first one of that kind was held at Cambridge City in 1826. I was fifteen years old at that time, and exceedingly smart for my age, and I think I can say truthfully that I am the only man in Indiana now living who attended that fair, or, at least, the only one who has a vivid remembrance of its every detail. The Exposition building occupied 1,200 acres, and was built of brick partially burned. It was seventeen stories high, and had a tower from which one could see the entire United States. This tower, however, was not built of brick, but was like the trunk of a tree. The tree standing was 700 feet high, and shorn of its limbs and branches left a trunk 500 feet long and 75 feet in diameter. It was hollowed out, and inside was a spiral staircase. Landings were made at every fifty feet, and near each was a window that was only a pane of glass 10x17 feet. On the tip-top was a platform where the people use to stand and watch the earth revolve. The main building was divided into apartments, the same as our exposition building is, but I believe they had better exhibits; that is, I mean natural products, for we didn't have as many kinds of machinery then as we have now, and consequently they were not on exhibition.

"I remember one year the managers made a run on pumpkins, and the person who raised the biggest one was to be sent to the Legislature and have a poem written about him. A Marion County man captured the premium. His pumpkin was fifty feet high, twenty feet in diameter and weighed three tons. I don't remember his name now, but he was sent to the Legislature just the same, and his pumpkin was brought to this city and placed on exhibition. It stood for a number of years where the Spencer House is located now, and a band of robbers cut a hole in it and used it as a cave, but Captain Bruce (great-grandfather of our Captain Bruce) drove them away.

"But to return to the fair. As it was the only thing of its kind in the West the attendance was very large, and as it was held all the year round the managers made a great deal of money. The first train of cars and the first steamboat were among the articles exhibited there, if my memory serves me true. Such horse-racing as we had! Regular flyers and no mistake. Why, I have seen horses go so fast that the driver and sulky would stick straight into the air. Trotting, pacing and running nowadays ain't nothing. I owned a little brown mare that could make a half a mile in half a minute and not think much of it. Why, she made a mile in three-quarters one evening after working hard at the plow all day. A horse that couldn't trot a mile a minute was barred off the track as no good. We had balloon races, too, and they occasioned a great deal of fun.

"In those days there lived in the east part of the State an old Indian chief known as Step-on-His-Face. He had a beautiful daughter called 'Howling Rainbow,' who was beloved by every one who knew her. I was rather gone on the Rainbow myself, but I didn't make any particular yell about it. One day Howling Rainbow came to the fair with a young white man from Centerville, and this made her father mad, because this young man had only 900 acres of land and a half a thousand of horses. So he goes away, and gets drunk, puts on his war paint and stalks haughtily to the fair grounds. Howling Rainbow and her friend were about to get into the 'merry-go-round,' when she noticed her father striding toward them.

"'Al,' she whispered (for 'twas I with her). 'Al, papa has his jag on and is looking for trouble.'

"'Well, let him look——'

"'You don't know him, Al. He is a high-kicking rooster when he gets started, and now if he says any thing to you, just pass it by as if it was a joke——'

"'Oh, certainly,' I laughed. 'I'll just pulverize him if he gets too funny.'

"Here our conversation ceased. The Indian chief, with a breath that would free Ireland, was near by us.

"'Young man,' began Step-on-his-Face, 'I am not at all pleased to have you fooling around my family. My daughter is a chump——'

"'Oh, papa——'

"'Don't interrupt me, the chief of all the Indians in this locality. I say that Howling Rainbow is a chump.'

"That was more than I could stand, and casting one fond look at the bronzed maiden at my side I let drive with my left fist at her paternal ancestor. I missed him, but struck a corner in the building. The blow knocked a hole in the wall through which you could drive a load of hay. The building began to shake and totter.

"It is falling, I screamed to the crowd. And so it was. Thousands of people would be killed! ground into atoms!! buried beneath falling walls and timbers!!! But I was on hand; I, who was the innocent cause of the threatened catastrophe, would avert it. With lightning speed I sprang to the tottering walls, and sinking my heels deep into the mud, braced myself. The creaking noises ceased, the walls were steady and for ten days I held up that building until not only were the people all out, but the stock was removed, the exhibits taken away and every thing valuable cleared out of harm's way. Then I let the building come down. It was never rebuilt."

"What of Step-on-His-Face and Howling Rainbow?"

"Both lived to a ripe old age, but I never spoke to either of them again. Thus ceased all the trouble."—Indianapolis News.

VENOMOUS SPIDERS.

Some Species Which Are Very Ferocious and Warlike.

The spider is really a very ferocious animal, says Dr. George Maix, of Washington, D. C. I know of a case where a wolf spider actually attacked a fish in the water several times as big as itself and dragged it upon the shore. This occurrence is vouched for by the most distinguished authority on spiders living, having been witnessed by himself personally. The fish succeeded in getting into the water once, but was pounced upon a second time by the spider, which had a spread of about two and a half inches, and was pulled out again, to be quickly dispatched with bites.

No, the spider did not catch the fish for the purpose of eating it. Spiders do not eat the animals they capture in the sense of consuming the tissues, but merely suck the juices. I never heard of another instance of a spider's making prey of a fish, though small mice are frequently pounced upon and devoured by spiders. There is an implacable enmity between spiders and mice, perhaps partly for the reason that mice are very fond of eating spiders, as are monkeys and lizards also. So when a big spider gets a chance at one of his long-tailed foes it is good-bye Mr. Mouse. Snakes have been known to fall victims to spiders and birds very frequently. I myself once put a good-sized tarantula in a cage with a rice bird, and the spider at once leaped upon the feathered creature, grasping it in its hairy arms and inflicting a bite that proved fatal in exactly seven seconds.

Do I think the bite of a tarantula is poisonous enough to cause the death of a human being? No. I am so sure it is not that I am entirely willing to submit my own person to an experiment. There are all sorts of superstitions extant regarding the venomous character of spider bites, but I don't indulge much faith in any of the widely-circulated traditions upon the subject. For example, there the famous katipo spider, concerning the dangerous character of which there exists an astonishingly widespread belief. This is a very shy black spider that hides under stones and in other dark places. On its stomach is a big bright red spot. The New Zealanders are so afraid of the "katipo," which is the name they call it by, that they will not camp in any neighborhood where it is found. They believe that it is possessed by an evil spirit, and assert that human beings are frequently killed by it. The Kighis of Asia are equally fearful of this spider, which they call the "black widow." They say that whole herds of cattle and many camels are bitten to death by it. By the Corsicans the same spider is called the "malmignatte," and they declare that many people are killed by it annually. It seems astonishing that this particular small spider should be an object of such general dread.—Washington Star.

Reduction in Prices for Cash!
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,
The Plainfield Produce Company
Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!

We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we save our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash, thereby obtaining better quality, also saving the profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.

In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay the larger profits.

By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.

We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credit.

Going to See.

Jack—Well, old fellow, now you've seen my cousin Blanche, how do you like her?

Harry—Immensely; she is so decudedly clever! I hope I shall see more of her.

Jack—You'll have an opportunity if you show at the Swellington's dance tomorrow night.

Harry—How so?

Jack—Well, I've seen the gown she is going to wear.—Jury.

Cause and Effect.

Husband—My stars! What has happened? Here's a thousand dollars' worth of bric-a-brac smashed all to pieces.

Wife (helplessly)—I—I—don't know. I've been taking a nap. Has there been an earthquake this afternoon?

Husband—No.

Wife—Then Bridget has been dusting.—Judge.

No Exceptions.

Cynic—All men are cowards, without exception.

Dennick—Nonsense. There are some brave men in the world.

Cynic—And what are brave men but cowards who are such big fools that they don't run away? — Munsey's Weekly.

SHORT AND TO THE POINT.

Mrs. Enternou (as Enternou comes in early in the morning)—Well, William!

William (thickly)—No, madam; ill.—Judge.

A Natural Consequence.

Jinks—That fellow, Minks, is the most conceited, narrow-minded puppy I ever saw in my life. No matter what the subject, he thinks he knows it all, and he can never see but one side to it.

Winks—No wonder. He reads but one newspaper.—Good News.

Business Acumen.

Cautious customer (who has heard the high prices charged in retail drug stores)—How much do you charge for ten cents' worth of tooth powder?

Drug Clerk—For the best quality, twenty-five cents.—Texas Siftings.

Not Easy to Do.

Don't find fault with your neighbors, even though you have nothing else to do. If you want occupation you can get a good deal longer job by hunting for the virtues that they think they possess.—Somerville Journal.

Overheard.

Effie (as they leave the church)—Mamma, why do they have those big golden eagles on some of the church altars?

Freddie—It's cos they're birds of pray—of course, silly.—Jury.

Reportorial Memories.

Mother—I'm glad to hear you went to church to-day. What was the sermon about?

Adult Son (a reporter)—I don't know, mother; I haven't written out my notes yet.—Good News.

He Had Bought Coal.

Dimmick—Get on the ambuscade and I'll see how heavy you are.

Kickshaw—Why do you call the coal scales the ambuscade?

"Because they lie in weight."—Munsey's Weekly.

Not Worth Talking About.

Patient—Jehosaphat! You've drawn the wrong tooth.

Dentist—Well, it will cost you only two dollars for an artificial one.—Munsey's Weekly.

THE GAME OF WINKS.

It is Now the Popular Parlor Pastime.

Tiddledy Winks is now the great game for social amusement. Progressive euchre is played out. "Pigs in clover" is ancient history—whist, checkers, chess—all the games which have outlasted a season have, for the time being, gone into eclipse under the bright but doubtless fleeting light, of "tiddledy winks." It's as necessary "in society" to know how to play tiddledy winks as it is to know how to dance. You will not be outlawed if you can't do either, but if one's in the swim he likes to be on the crest of the wave.

From two to six persons may make a set in this craze—the more the merrier. The game is English in origin, but the Americans have made enough changes in it to claim it. The blessed thing about this game is that it isn't "scientific." Any "jay" can play it as well as the most accomplished swell—that is, if he can once get the hang of the thing. Small ivory chips are jumped by striking them on the edge with a larger chip, and the object of the game is to make them fall into a small "wink" pot set in the center of the table. Every girl winks when her chip jumps. The small chips are called "winks;" the larger chips are jumpers. The wink pot is placed in the center of the table. It is a small cup, barely two inches in diameter. If a mat or heavy tablecloth is used the only other "implements" are the winks, the tiddledys and a number of pasteboard counters. If not, each player is provided with a small pad or mat about three by four inches, from which to jump the winks.

Each player has six winks. The mats are placed at an equal distance from the wink-pot. A wink is put on the mat and the player holding one of the tiddledys hits or presses with its edge upon the wink, causing it to jump. The best result is secured by resting the tiddledy on the wink and drawing it backward. The wink may be made to jump several feet in this way. The skill attainable comes in so gauging the pressure that the wink will fall in the pot. If it goes beyond, the player must jump it back.

One plays until he fails to put a wink in, and then the turn passes. Partners may help each other. The object in the English game is to get all the winks in, and the one who is through first tallies one for every wink left on the table when they are through. It often happens that a wink falls on that of another player. The under one can not be touched, and the owner of the upper one may play all the rest in before trying that and setting the under free.

In the American game each wink jumped in the pot counts one. At the start a pool is formed, each player anteing seven counters. Each plays his own six winks the first round. After that he plays any winks he chooses, and as long as he can put winks in the pot. If he fails to put a wink in six trials he forfeits two counters to the pool. If he clears the table he can take out of the pot as many as he can put back.

Four winks in succession form a run, and for every wink in a run over three the player receives an extra counter from the pool. When the winks are all in, the player who has made the largest run and the one putting in the largest number of winks divide the pool equally.

Both the English and American games are played so as to give variety, and the game is also made more interesting by varying the distances at which the mats are placed from the wink-pot at the start-out. Sometimes a line ten inches in diameter is drawn around the wink-pot and all winks falling in it have to be left until all others are in. This ring is called the dead line.—N. Y. Sun.

The Largest Spring in the World.

The largest and most wonderful spring of fresh water in the world is on the Gulf coast of Florida in Hernando County. The Wekowechee river, a stream large enough to float a small steamer, is made entirely of water spouted from this gigantic natural well, which is sixty feet in diameter and about seventy or eighty feet deep. Chemists who have analyzed the water say that there is not a trace of organic matter in its composition, and that it is the most pure and fresh of any spring in America. A dime tossed into the spring can be seen lying on the bottom as plainly as it could in a glass of common well water. The steamer which makes regular excursion trips up and down the Wekowechee is often floated into the cavity of the spring, but can not be made to stay in the center, as the force of the rising water forces it to the sides of the basin. The spring and 2,000 acres of land adjoining belong to two Chicago capitalists, who are making it a pleasure resort.—St. Louis Republic.

Timeliness and Style in Advertising.

The trite comment upon success of any sort that "there is everything in knowing how" is particularly applicable to the business of advertising. Merchants generally advertise their business, but not many of them regard advertising as a part of their business; that is, they do not put business methods and business brightness into their advertising. Judicious advertising pays every time, and he who knows how to advertise judiciously is a better equipped business man than is his merchant neighbor who does not know when and how to advertise.

A striking advertisement will run the gamut of popular attention and get into the air like a popular song. Advertisements have become as familiar as household words, and remained advertisements long after they had disappeared from newspaper columns and from advertising billboards. Who will ever forget the mystic "S. T. 1860 X?" It can no longer be seen in print, nor upon billboards, but the name of the compound it advertised comes to mind with the legend, and the advertisement is as bright as it was twenty-five years ago.

"You press the button; we do the rest!" It is hardly necessary to state what these words advertise. They have been so widely read and are so taking and so suggestive of ability that everybody knows what they refer to. To show to what extent an advertisement with brightness in it gets into the public mind, the fact may be cited in relation to the advertisement under comment that no less a personage than Chauncey M. Depew, in a speech before the merchants of New York at their annual dinner, closed an interesting statement of the advantages of reciprocity with the remark, "As merchants, as bankers and business men, we say to congress in the language which advertises that most universal and productive of our institutions, the Kodak, 'You press the button; we will do the rest.'"

If merchants and manufacturers want to win advertising of this happy kind, all they have to do is to advertise in the right way and put happy thoughts into their advertisements.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Earnestness.

The following extract from one of the best stories ever written contains a valuable suggestion for everybody, and especially is it golden advice to every advertiser. Be earnest. Have faith in your work. Attend to it. Be honest:

I have been very fortunate in worldly matters; many men have worked much harder and not succeeded half so well, but I never could have done what I have done without the habits of punctuality, order and diligence, without the determination to concentrate myself on one object at a time, no matter how quickly its successor should come upon its heels, which I then formed. Whatever I have tried to do in life I have tried with all my heart to do well; whatever I have devoted myself to I have devoted myself to completely. In great aims and in small I have always been thoroughly in earnest. There is no substitute for thoroughgoing, ardent and sincere earnestness. Never to put one hand to anything on which I could throw my whole self, and never to affect depreciation of my work, whatever it was, I find now to have been my golden rules.—David Copperfield.

It Pays, That's Why.

The advertiser in a small way often stands aghast at the large sums of money which certain masters of the art are known to spend annually in bringing their goods before the public. Having had experience only within his own narrow circle he asks in a bewildered way how it is possible that they can make it pay. He takes pencil and paper and begins to figure it out. Supposing their profits on a single sale to be so much, he determines how many sales they would have to make to cover their entire advertising expenditure. About the time he reaches this result he gives up in despair and falls back upon the old but safe conclusion that these princes of advertising are conducting their business for the purpose of making money, and that if they did not find their advertising paid they would not continue it.—Exchange.

Be Brief! Be Pointed!

In preparing their announcements advertisers will usually do well to confine their statements to one, or at most, a very few points. Few persons can do well more than one thing at a time, and it is much the same with the memory; but one or two points in any statement make an impression and are retained. As the number of points is increased the probability of any of them making an impression and bringing returns is proportionately reduced.

FOREIGN GOSSIP.

—Last summer the London (England) County Council acquiesced in the eight-hour demand and made eight hours a day's work for a large number of men employed in the drainage works. Recently it was compelled to pass a regulation forbidding these men to spend their leisure hours in earning money elsewhere.

—Poor ministers in England have a source of revenue which we charitably hope will not be accorded to their brethren in this country. Instead of salting down their old sermons in barrels they send them to the bookseller, who gets as much as five dollars a hundred for them. A London dealer offers four thousand sermons in job lots at this price, and if they are written in "a large, bold, plain hand" they bring more.

—The French Government is reported to be so well pleased with the performances of the Gymnote that it has ordered a large submarine vessel to be called the Sirene. This boat, it is affirmed, will possess a real military value, and she is to carry a regular armament. It is presumed that this armament is to be above the water for use, should the Sirene refuse to fight below the belt. The new vessel will be 131 feet in length.

—In London there is a man who follows the business of tattooing. The majority of his patients are men who have designs of a naval character pricked into their skin, but there are also a great many women who employ his art, if it may be termed such. With women the decoration is usually a bee, a butterfly, a spray of flowers or a monogram. These ornaments are worn inside the wrist, so that they can be hidden by the glove, if necessary.

—The Chinese are to have a currency. On the seacoast, where they have had to deal with foreigners, they have used Mexican dollars and small Japanese coins. In the interior bars of silver were the medium of exchange. When a purchase was made it was paid for with a slice of the metal cut off with a hammer and chisel. All this is to end. The government has ordered that the silver must be coined and used in that form only under severe penalties.

—The Novoye Vremya reminds the agricultural societies that it is 125 years since potatoes were brought into Russia. Early in 1765 Catherine II. ordered potatoes to be imported and distributed to farmers at the national expense. Although the peasants received their samples of the new produce and sowed them late in the spring, the crop of that year was quite abundant. The potatoes for seed came from Germany, and were called by the Russians Zemlianniya Yablocky, equivalent to the German Erdapfel, or even by their English name.

THE MARCH OF THE RUSSIAN.

South Toward the Sea His Steps Are Tending.

There is no outlet for Russia in the north to open water, the natural Atlantic harbor of the Arctic provinces, Hammerfest, where the water never freezes, being still in Swedish hands, and on the south the Turk, though incompetent to rule his own dominions, and only propped on his tottering throne by foreign support, still holds the Russian gateway with a bared sword. It is toward the south that the Russian is ever marching, with a persistence which is rapidly restoring his northern provinces to the pine tree and the wolf; it is the water he is ever seeking, with a pertinacity which reduces diplomatists used to every thing but the secular march of myriads, impeled by a necessity outside themselves, a necessity such as drives the locusts forward to the sea, to a condition of angry despair.

The nations perceive the movement which at one and the same time threatens Sweden, the Balkan peninsula, Turkey in Asia, Persia, India and China, and attribute it only to an overreaching ambition which it behooves them to resist to the death, lest the world be swallowed up. The ambition exists, very possibly in the court, though the house of Romanoff, we imagine, is growing weary and exhausted with its burden of a sovereignty too vast and too exacting for the human brain, but the march of the great Slav people began and proceeds independent of the Czars, and will not stop, so far as men may judge, until its objects have been reached, and the race, at length fairly content with its home, begins its natural life. The Slav race will break out somewhere, we may be certain; and we do not think it will be through either India or China. The distances are too vast, the territory to be reached at last too hot, the human tribes to be conquered too thick on the ground, and with no place whither to retreat. The natural road for the Russian is through the Balkan to the Ægean—for Constantinople is only a locked gate, not to be opened if a maritime power holds Mitylene and forbids egress, but the civilized tribes of Europe have magazine rifles, and will not allow the march. Even ants must stop if the path is barred by flame, and the Russian, therefore, must either press on by the long route through Asia Minor to the Mediterranean—as he could do to-morrow if Western Europe were occupied by an internal war—or break through Persia to the great Asiatic ocean, as, if he formed the resolution, he could do now.

Time only can reveal which way he will choose, though we predict it will lie through Persia, because that Asiatic France lies empty and defenseless, ruined by the tyranny of the Kajar House; but that the Slav will break through at some point, we hold to be as certain as that his people increase their numbers like the English or Germans. No race which can win battles, not even the Tartar, has ever stopped short of the open water; and the Slavs, before they halt, will possess a coast with a commerce not to be intercepted by any land power, and will then find themselves at last with the conditions of wealth in their own hands, and also with a new obligation to keep on terms with the English-speaking race. Let them reach the open water, and they will come within the range of the British iron-clads.—The Spectator.

"SORRY, BUT SHALL HAVE TO LET YOU GO."

Thousands of delicate young ladies are employed in fashionable Dry Goods, Millinery, and other stores, where through the long day they are constantly on their feet. Among this class, some of the worst cases of female diseases occur. There is no rest, and, when their ill-health becomes apparent, they are at once discharged. To such, the aid and sympathy of Mrs. Pinkham are always available.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the system.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

FITZSIMMONS WINS

Dempsey Knocked Out in the Thirteenth Round.

IT WAS A RATTLING BATTLE.

The Australian Had the Best of It All the Way Through.

The Nonpareil Severely Punished—He Was No Match for His Adversary and Was Altogether Outclassed—Nearly 5,000 Spectators Witness the Fight. Fitzsimmons' Winnings $16,000.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 15.—Bob Fitzsimmons, the Australian wonder, to-day bears the title of middleweight champion of the world, and when he left the room of the Olympic Club last night to meet his wife, who was awaiting him in his apartments on Royal street, a certified check for $11,000 was presented to him.

To-day his backers received another check for $5,000 additional, making a total of $16,000 for his night's work.

Dempsey has received his coup. He did his best, but was not in it with the Australian. It was one of the best fights of its class and of the weight the world has ever seen.

The fight took place in the amphitheatre of the Olympic Club before about 5,000 people. The purse of $12,000 was the largest ever before offered in a glove contest, and the receipts also were the largest on record, exceeding $35,000.

THE MEN IN THE RING

Both Pugilists Loudly Cheered When They Appeared With Their Seconds.

At one minute past 9 o'clock Fitzsimmons appeared in the hall. He was accompanied by Carroll, O'Connell and Robertson. The first two were his seconds and the last his bottle holder. Fitzsimmons, throwing off his overcoat, tipped the beam at 150 1-2 pounds, when he disclosed to view the heavily muscled shoulders and arms that have made him famous.

Dempsey appeared ten seconds after Fitzsimmons, and shared the applause with him. He was accompanied by Gus Tuthill, Jack McAuliffe and Connolly. Jack was dressed in gray trowsers and purple undershirt. When he weighed his fighting costume was seen to be black tights supported by a red belt and white shoes. Dempsey weighed exactly 150 pounds. He appeared in perfect trim and had an air of quiet confidence that greatly cheered and encouraged his admirers and backers.

They Shake Hands.

After entering the ring the two men regarded each other carefully for some minutes, and then began to walk around, each in his corner. Finally Fitzsimmons went over to Dempsey's corner, and extended his hand, which was warmly clasped, amid the cheers of the spectators.

A delay of several minutes occurred, while the police were carefully examining the five-ounce gloves.

Fitzsimmons won the choice of gloves, as he he previously had won the choice for corners.

The gloves having been adjusted, the men advanced to the centre of the ring and shook hands. Referee Brewster then entered the ring.

The Battle.

First round—Both men exchanged several body blows. Dempsey's underblows strong. Fitzsimmons active on feet. No advantage to either man.

Second round—Same as first. Both men exchanged body and face blows. Dempsey more wary. Advantage with the Australian.

Third round—Fitz sent Dempsey to grass with breast blow. He followed him over the ring, punching him severely. Dempsey groggy, and fell to evade punishment.

The fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth rounds were a repitition of the third.

Eleventh round—A great many people thought it was as good as over and left the building. Fitz came out and asked Dempsey to quit. Jack refused. Fitzsimmons did not like to hit him. He kept on, but when he had a chance to finish him let up a moment. He did a graceful act. A moment later he met poor Jack on the ear and he staggered forward and fell face downward. Again he crawled to his feet, Fitz gave him time to get on his feet and then hit him right and left. He fell in his corner and Fitzsimmons thought he had the fight won. He turned and went to his corner. Dempsey got to his feet and the gong sounded.

Twelfth round—Fitzsimmons trotted to the centre with alacrity. He was smiling, as full of wind as in the sixth round, and made no effort to work hard, and allowed himself to receive a few childish body blows. Then, with a left-hander in the jaw, sent Dempsey on his back. He slowly rose, and went down from a left-handed touch in the ribs.

Dempsey Knocked Out.

Thirteenth and last round—Dempsey started to spar with his man, but was too tired to stop the jabs aimed at him. Fitz's long right landed on Dempsey's left ear. Jack staggered around the ring and fell in a heap. He soon arose and made a heroic rally. It was ineffectual, however, for a light left hand jab on the chin knocked him spinning again. Jack was on his feet again before eight seconds had elapsed. Fitzsimmons, standing over him, ready to deliver a finishing punch, said: "Quit, Jack. I don't want to hurt you any more." "I'm as good as a dozen whipped men yet," was the reply, but Dempsey was beaten. There remained, however, a faint hope. "Now look out," cried Fitz, and he swung his right, landing carefully, and the blow caught Dempsey just below the left ear, and he fell to the floor insensible.

Carroll twined his arms around Dempsey and lifted him to his corner, where Jack soon recovered, and when asked remarked: "Well, Jimmy, we won't starve this winter."

A hundred men counted the seconds, and when ten was reached Jack was still on his back.

"Fitzsimmons wins!" shouted the referee.

Then a wild cheer went up for the winner. Jack was carried to his corner by McAuliffe, and when his senses returned half a minute later, he wept like a child. Big, burly men, whose tear-buckets had not been brought into play for years, were seen to wipe suspicious moisture from their eyes.

SENSATIONAL SUICIDE.

The Reputed Wife of a Merchant Takes a Dose of Laudanum.

PITTSTON, Pa., Jan. 15.—A sensational suicide has just occurred here. Mrs. Max Ludwig, the reputed wife of the proprietor of the principal hardware warehouse in the town, took a dose of laudanum, which caused her death in a short time.

The woman, who was Ludwig's housekeeper for a long time, began living with the latter when his first wife entered a Philadelphia hospital some months ago. Recently she returned home partially cured, but, after a stormy scene with her husband, was denied further admission to the house. The wife disappeared and her whereabouts are unknown.

Ludwig and his mistress did not live very happily together, and frequent and violent quarrels occurred between them. An altercation of unusual violence occurred during the night, and was followed in the morning by the tragic death of the woman, who swallowed the contents of a vial of laudanum.

Baseball Business.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—About the only business of importance transacted by the baseball delegates was the admission to the National League of the new Pittsburg Club, which is a consolidation of the players of the old Allegheny and the Pittsburg Players' League Clubs. The title of the new club is the Pittsburg Athletic Company, Limited.

An Army Deserter Surrenders.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—John Grimly, who some time ago was arrested and convicted by a court martial of desertion from the army of the United States, and who applied to the United States District Court for a writ of habeas corpus, has given himself up to the United States Marshal, and will be taken back to Fort Warren.

To-Day is His 110th Birthday.

DANVERS, Mass., Jan. 15.—Charles King, who lives at Howe's Station, near Middleton, to-day reached what he alleges to be his 110th birthday. He claims to have been born it 1871, in St. Jerve, Canada, and is of French parentage. He is the head of six generations, numbering over 500 persons. He is in comparatively good health.

Hurt While Coasting.

TROY, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A serious coasting accident occurred on Hoosic street, this city. A pair of bobs, weighing 900 pounds, and on which there were 33 people, became unmanageable at the River street crossing, and ran against a brick building. James Moran, who was steering, received a severe cut in the abdomen. Several others were slightly bruised.

In a Predicament.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 15.—The sudden death of County Treasurer Edmund Haman has caused something of a sensation in political circles. The county has been in a straitened financial condition for weeks, and Mr. Haman's death involves it in still deeper perplexity. He was 52 years old.

Predicts the Worst Storm of the Season.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Jan. 15.—Levi Beebe of Lee, who won fame as a weather prophet by predicting the blizzard of March, 1888, four months prior to that date, says the worst storm of the season will visit this country between the 1st and 15th of February.

BUCKET SHOPS CAUGHT.

Their Customers All on the Right Side of the Market.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Allen & Co., bucket shop brokers, with headquarters in this city and having offices in all of the principal cities of this State, Ohio, and a large number in Pennsylvania, doing the largest business of the kind since the collapse of the "Big Four" and Doran & Wright, previous to the opening of the stock market in the morning sent their branch houses the following circular message:

"On account of the steady rise in stocks and our inability to secure ready money on our securities, we have decided to either discontinue, or we will give you our note for 30 days, continue the business and pay 100 cents on the dollar. Hope this is satisfactory."

The firm is reported to have made upwards of $500,000 on the last big break in stocks, but during the recent advance have been caught with their customers on the right side of the market. The firm has been in existence but a short time.

FOR FREE COINAGE

The Senate Adopts the Stewart Amendment.

A SESSION OF FIFTEEN HOURS.

The Elections Bill Before the Senate Again by a Close Vote.

It is the Unfinished Business for To-Day. A New Immigration Bill to Come Before the House—Gen. Hooker Has Confidence in Secretary Blaine—A New Appraiser Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Senate vote on the Silver bill astonished even the advocates of free coinage. They claimed and expected a majority of eight; they got twelve. The vote stood 42 to 30, with every Senator present or paired.

The only Democrats who voted against the free coinage amendment were Messrs. Gray of Delaware and McPherson of New Jersey. The Republicans who voted in favor of Mr. Stewart's amendment were: Messrs. Allen of Washington, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Ingalls and Plumb of Kansas, Jones and Stewart of Nevada, McConnell and Shoup of Idaho, Manderson and Paddock of Nebraska, Mitchell of Oregon, Power and Sanderson of Montana, Stanford of California and Teller and Wolcott of Colorado.

Pennsylvania and Oregon divided. Messrs. Quay and Dolph voting "No," and the South Dakota Senators paired. Messrs. Pettigrew, yea, and Moody nay.

After the result of the vote was announced, Senator Sherman declared that the rest of the bill might as well be stricken out, for the incontrovertible bond amendment and the other provisions were entirely inconsistent with the action taken.

Mr. McPherson suggested the retention of the section providing for an international monetary conference, but Mr. Sherman said that provision was now useless, and he desired the Stewart amendment to stand alone. Yielding to Mr. Allison, he consented to allow sections 8 and 9, regulating some details of management at the New York Assay Office to stand in the bill.

The Senate was in session 15 hours and the debates on the amendment were very exciting. Senator Ingalls speech favoring the amendment received much applause from the galleries.

THE ELECTIONS BILL AGAIN.

Vice-President Morton Casts the Deciding Vote in Its Favor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Silver bill having been disposed of in the Senate shortly after midnight Mr. Hoar called up the Elections bill in order to make it unfinished business for to-day. Mr. Butler moved an adjournment, which was lost—yeas, 31; nays, 33.

The vote then recurred on Mr. Hoar's motion to call up the Elections bill and resulted in a tie—yeas, 33; nays, 33. The Vice-President cast the deciding vote in the affirmative, thus carrying the motion.

Has Confidence in Blaine.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Gen. Hooker, a Democratic member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, speaking of the Supreme Court Behring Sea move, said: "It is a singular move in diplomacy. If negotiations were pending, it was a little discourteous to Mr. Blaine. But Mr. Blaine will come out all right. I have great confidence in him. I differ with him in politics, but have great confidence in his ability to manage anything he undertakes. He is the soul of the Cabinet."

Regulating Immigration.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The House Committee on Immigration practically agreed upon a measure regulating immigration. It was feared that there would be a serious split over its provisions but the indications now appear to favor a measure, the chief feature of which will provide for more careful scrutiny of immigrants. The bill will probably be reported to the House this afternoon.

Canadian Officials Disturbed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—It is reported from Ottawa, on the best authority, that the imperial Government is urging the Dominion Ministers to unite on a proposition to arrange all the matters in dispute between Canada and the United States on the basis of a wide measure of commercial reciprocity, and that Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues are seriously disturbed in consequence.

New General Appraiser.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—It is said the President has about decided to appoint Mr. Lunt, of Portland, Me., to the vacancy on the Board of General Appraisers. He is indorsed by both the Maine Senators.

Orphans Rob a Chaplain.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 15.—The Rev. Mr. Matthews, resident chaplain of the Wiggins Orphan Asylum, has been robbed by boys of that institution of $300. The money was taken from the asylum building.

BIG SMASH UP.

Two Trains Wrecked and Six People Seriously Injured.

JAMAICA, L. I., Jan. 15.—Another smash up occurred on the Long Island Railroad near the Jamaica depot at 6 o'clock a. m.

A brick train, under the charge of Engineer Ennis, ran into the rapid transit train, as, it is alleged, through the neglect of the engineer to obey the block signal, directing him not to move on the main track.

The track on which the rapid transit trains enter Jamaica ends directly by the side of the main track. Trains can be run on the main line by means of a switch when desired. Through the supposed blunder the switch was left open, and the rapid transit and the brick train came into collision.

There was a smash, followed by a grinding noise, the hiss of escaping steam, the crash of splintering wood and glass, and the screams of the passengers.

Six people in all were seriously injured. Their names are Miss A. Flannigan, Mrs. Harriman, Mark Miller, Sam Brown, Conductor Edward Bugbee and Engineer Ennis. A number of others received minor bruises and scratches.

CONNECTICUT'S TROUBLE.

The Republican Members of the House Considering Election Returns.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 15.—The Republican members of the House special committee appointed to sit through the recess of the House and consider the election returns, met during the morning at the capitol. Notice was given by Judge Seddard, of New Haven, that the Democrats would refuse to sit on the committee, believing it unconstitutional for the committee to take such evidence.

William C. Case, counsel for the Republicans, then submitted a brief on the question of the election of Governor. It was published about a week ago. He interrupted the reading to admit the testimony of various counters and a moderator, relative to the rejection of the "for" ballots, and showing discrepancies in the returns from several towns. Testimony concerning the Bridgeport specked ballots was also received.

No Wonder He Resigned.

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 15.—Rev. R. A. Farnham, pastor of the Methodist church at Cutler, publishes a statement that ill-health was not the cause of his resignation. He says that he boarded himself, swept the church, made the fires and rang the bell. The people swore at him, whittled and ate peanuts in meeting time, fired pistols and threw stones at his house, came to church any time before the benediction, laughed outright during the services, etc. He says rum is sold openly in the town, and no one tries to enforce the law.

Trouble With Ice Harvesters.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Jan. 15.—The striking ice harvesters have become turbulent and refuse to permit men hired by the company to take their places to do any work, and also threaten to burn the property of the Knickerbocker Ice Company. The officers of the company appealed to the sheriff for assistance, and that official has sent a posse to the ice houses in this vicinity to protect the property of those who are willing to go to work, and to quell any disturbance which may arise.

Eva's Struggle to Secure Dower.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The contest over the will of Robert Ray Hamilton will be concluded to-day before the surrogate. A large number of witnesses testified to Eva being introduced to them as Mrs. Mann and having done business for her and J. J. Mann under the impression that they were husband and wife. Counsel for Eva was called to identify her signature on certain documents and checks, but this he said he could not do as he didn't know her signature.

Miraculous Escape of Passengers.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Jan. 15.—A horse car, which had become unmanageable, owing to the failure of the brake to work, ran down the grade on Fourth street during the day at a terrific rate of speed, and, at the corner of Rodman street, a sharp curve caused it to shoot from the track and crash into a telegraph pole. The car was full of passengers, none of whom was injured. The driver, William Driscoll, was thrown from the car and was badly cut.

Russell Sage Wins a Big Suit.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 15.—A decision has been rendered by Judge Nelson of the United States Circuit Court in the case of Russell Sage of New York, against the St. Paul, Stillwater & Taylors Falls Railroad Company. This case involves the title of a land grant of 3,000,000 acres to the Hastings & Dakota Railroad, to the rights of which road Russell Sage succeeded, and in whose favor the court rendered the decision. The land is valued at $10,000,000.

An Injunction for the Toledo Club.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Judge Andrews of the Supreme Court has granted the Toledo Baseball Club, incorporated in Ohio, an injunction against the American Association of Baseball Clubs restraining them from taking any action which shall declare the franchise of the plaintiff corporation forfeited in the American Association of Baseball Clubs. The plaintiff filed a bond of $1,000 in the injunction.

Cold Causes Great Destitution.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 15.—Fifteen thousand people have been thrown out of employment by the closing of navigation, and widespread destitution is reported. Private charity seems utterly inadequate to relieve the misery.

Vilas Will Be Nominated.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 15.—General Bragg sent an official notification to Colonel Vilas yesterday that he was out of the race for the United States Senatorship. There is no doubt now that Colonel Vilas will get it. The Senatorial caucus will be held early next week.

PARNELL IN FAVOR

Reports that He is Gaining Everywhere in Ireland.

A RUMOR ABOUT MR. SEXTON.

He is Financially Embarrassed, But Will Not Resign His Seat.

Severe Storms in Europe—A Blizzard Raging in Vienna and Vessels Wrecked in the North Sea—The Scotch Strike Still On—Concentrating Troops in Ireland—The Czar Relents.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Dublin advices state that Mr. Parnell is gaining everywhere throughout Ireland, especially in the agricultural districts. John O'Connor, Parnell's editor, says that the heart of Ireland is with Parnell, and that no influence can prevent its throbbing in response to his appeal.

It is reported that Mr. Thomas Sexton is financially embarrassed. He will not, it is said, resign his seat, as the election of an anti-Parnellite successor is doubtful.

The Star of this city makes the statement that Mr. Parnell has finally and definitely abandoned all intention of again assuming the leadership of the Irish Parliamentary party.

BLIZZARDS ABROAD.

Violent Storms Again Prevailing and Many Vessels Wrecked.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Severe storms prevail in the North Sea, and heavy ice floes menace navigation. The Elbe is still unnavigable, several ships having been badly crushed by the ice. Eighteen wrecked sailors have been landed at Heligoland. Violent snow storms are again reported from Austria and Hungary. A perfect blizzard raged in Vienna during the afternoon. Railways in various parts of Austria are interrupted.

The Scotch Strike Still On.

GLASGOW, Jan. 15.—The railway strike continues to drag along wearily. All efforts to bring about a settlement of the trouble by mediation have failed, and an exhaustive, interminable struggle seems to be the only prospect for the future. The Caledonian Railway officials have just issued a notice that there are two applications for every vacancy on the road, but that old hands will be given the preference if they apply for reinstatement by to-morrow.

The Czar Rescinds an Order.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 15.—It is said that on M. Vishnegradski (Russian Minister of Finance) representing that it was inexpedient to quarrel with the Jews, because such a course would offend Jewish bankers, the Czar ordered the application of the anti-Semitic laws to be suspended for three years.

Parnell to Open His Mines.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Mr. Parnell is seeking to promote a company to work the copper and lead deposits on his Wicklow estates. They are known to be valuable, and the business of mining them would give employment to several hundred people in the vicinity.

Nihilists as Powerful as Ever.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 15.—Confessions extorted by the police from Nihilist prisoners show that the propaganda is as powerful as ever, and especially strong in the highest schools and universities, from which operations are directed.

Concentrating Soldiers in Ireland.

DUBLIN, Jan. 15.—General Wolseley, Commander-in-Chief in Ireland, is concentrating the troops at Cork, Dublin and Belfast. There are nearly 14,000 soldiers in the Dublin, and 9,000 in the Cork command.

Plans for Disarming the Hostiles.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., Jan. 15.—The plan for disarming the hostiles which strikes General Miles most favorably is to have them turn in their arms through their chiefs, ticketed, receive a check for them, then when they want to go hunting or to a beef killing they can present their checks and get their guns, and when it is over return them again. This would be a recognition of their property right.

A Johnstown Widow Elopes.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 15.—Mrs. Emil Young, the widow of a flood victim, has eloped with John Cannon. He came here after the flood, and had charge of one of the commissary departments. When the commissary broke up he tended bar until lately, when he began staying at Mrs. Young's. Mrs. Young is about 50 years old and Cannon is about 30.

Mines to Shut Down.

ASHLAND Pa., Jan. 15.—Orders have been issued from the Reading Coal and Iron Company headquarters to stop work at the North Ashland, Monitor and Merriam and Olto Collieries. How long they will remain idle is not known. Several hundred men will be thrown out of employment.

Burning Imported Gas.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 15.—Canadian gas was turned on yesterday. All fuel gas burned last night was imported, on which a 10 per cent. ad valorem duty must be paid. The Customs Collector has not yet decided how to levy this duty, but it will probably be computed on the company's contract price.

For Mayor of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—Edwin S. Stuart was unanimously nominated for Mayor by the Republican Convention. Mr. Stuart is the proprietor of a book store and a member of the Select Branch of the City's Councils.

A Twenty-Second Talk.

"ALUM" baking powders are cheap and dear—cheap, because they are made for about four cents a pound and sold for about twenty; dear, because they do less than half as much as a strictly pure cream of tartar powder, and doubly dear, for their continued use injures the health. There is no alum, no ammonia, no adulteration of any kind, in Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

After a Brief Session Both Branches Adjourn Until Monday Night.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 15.—The Legislature held a brief session and adjourned until Monday night.

Among the new bills offered in the Senate were the following: Fixing the salary of the State prison keeper at $3,500 a year, and allowing him one deputy for every 20 convicts; prohibiting the killing of reed birds within half a mile of their roosting place, except between the hours of 6 a. m. and 7 p. m.; compelling the erection of gates or the employment of flagmen at all street crossings of railroads.

The following bills were introduced in the Assembly: Authorizing the Grand Jury to discharge persons from jail when no indictment is found; requiring mining, quarrying and manufacturing corporations to pay their men fortnightly; limiting railroad charges to fifteen cents per box on milk shipped from one point to another in the State; fixing five per cent. as the legal rate of interest.

Indians Want Protection.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 15.—A special from Pine Ridge, S. D., says that the Indians have sent Gen. Miles word that if he will guarantee them protection they will come in and lay down their arms. Although it is unnecessary for the General to make any kind of an agreement with them, in the interest of peace and to prevent bloodshed he has done so. It is stated on the best of authority that Gen. Miles to-day telegraphed Gen. Scofield that he could make any disposition he wanted to of the troops now at the agency, that, other than the First Infantry, their services there is unnecessary.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Canal Forwarders' Association of Buffalo, N. Y., has dissolved.

A Mechanics and Traders' Exchange has been organized in Jersey City.

The Bell Telephone Directors authorize the issue of $2,500,000 new stock on April 1.

The semi-annual convention of the retail merchants of New Jersey, including the local grocers' associations, was held at Burlington yesterday. George W. Rockfellow, of this city, was elected President for the ensuing year. The delegates from Plainfield were J. A. Smith, J. F. MacDonald and F. W. Dunn. There were other candidates in the field for the office of President, but although Mr. Rockfellow declined the nomination, he was elected by a large majority.

PLAINFIELD VOCALLY UNSATISFIED YET.

Even the Elizabeth Glee Club Finds Patronesses Here.

Despite the surfeit of vocal music that the city is being favored with this season, the people still seem unsatisfied and have even extended their patronage to the Elizabeth Glee Club and induced its members to leave home for the first time in their life and give a concert in Plainfield's Casino. These columns were first to state that Elizabeth's swell choristers were coming, and have already contained much of interest concerning them.

The Club is composed of twenty-six male voices and its concerts are among the principal musical events of the social life of Elizabeth. The Club was organized in the Fall of 1885, and it has been giving regular concerts since 1887. The Club's organization in Elizabeth is on the same basis as the Melopoia and the Choral Society of this city. There are no tickets sold and only the associate members receive any.

The conductor is Arthur D. Woodruff who led the Mendelsshon Glee Club last Winter while Mosenthal was in Europe. He is the conductor of the Montclair Vocal Society, the Glee Club of the Orange Athletic Club, and the Columbia College Glee Club; and the choir that he has charge of in New York, as already stated in THE PRESS, is the highest paid in the country.

Tickets for the concert here can only be procured of the following Plainfield patronesses:

Out-of-Door Pansies in Mid-January.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—Who says that this is a severe climate, or that the present Winter has been a severe one?

On the morning of January 13 in our open garden patch we plucked several pansies in full bloom. The earth, which had been hard frozen for some time, was thawed by the rain and warm air of last Saturday and Sunday sufficiently to permit these flowers to open; but, when they were plucked, the soil had again frozen stiff.

Make record in your files of pansies blooming in mid-January 1891.

One of Our Brightest.

A demure little Seventh street miss who takes an intense interest in her Sunday school, has been wrestling with a great religious problem.

"Mamma,"—she said, the other day—"you know all about the Bible: don't you?"

This was a leading question, but an affirmative was the only available answer.

"Then I wish you would tell me something."

"Very well, dear: what is it?"

"I'd like to know, mamma, whether Christ was a Methodist or a Park Avenue Baptist?"

MR. RICE'S "GANG OF THIEVES"

HE HAS A CHANCE TO TELL THE COURT HOW ATROCIOUSLY WICKED THEY WERE.

Because His Clerks Took Cents' Worth of Onions and Things, and Because He Otherwise Considered Himself a Much-Abused Man, He Must Needs Rush Into Print With His Tale of Woe, to the Enquiry of an Honored Citizen, and Get Himself Involved in a Libel Suit for Heavy Damages—What Morrison Was Told To Do, and What He Did—How Much Rice was to Blame With Him—The Interesting Story of a Borough Grocer Who Unwisely Monkeyed With Things His Lawyer Had Warned Him Against.

(Special to THE DAILY PRESS.)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., January 15.—In that quaint, odd-cornered old structure, the Somerset County Court House, whose architectural peculiarities are remarkable more for their lack of similarity to any existing types than for oriental splendor, occidental elegance, or cosmopolitan comfort, but whose staid and homely presence and important happenings furnish to the people of this ancient town something of antiquity to venerate and somewhat of excitement to vary the monotony of their prosaic, lonesome, humdrum life, there has been developing, during the present week, a case which to the people of Plainfield is fraught with deepest interest.

From the rugged Pennsylvanian wilds to that pleasant plain at the foot of the Watchung mountains where reposes New Jersey's fairest city, Robert W. Rice removed, a number of years ago. His primary object was the betterment of his wife's health, but when that purpose had been attained, through the beneficent agency of the balm-laden atmosphere and delightful climate of the place, he had found in the crescent city so many other attractions that he had not the heart to tear himself away. Among the various things which induced him to remain was a desire to participate in the prosperity which Plainfield afforded in a business way, and in pursuance of this aspiration he purchased, in company with a partner, the old-established grocery business of William H. Shotwell, which he proceeded to run, according to his own ideas, under the firm-name of R. W. Rice & Co.

Under the new order of things William H. Shotwell and father, Freeman Shotwell, continued to hold connection with the establishment, but as paid assistants instead of employers. There were other clerks in the store, all of dispositions which failed to harmonize one with the other, and in the course of time considerable strife was engendered.

VENOMOUS STORIES

were set afloat, and harsh suspicions were aroused. A system of espionage that might have done credit to the secret service of the United States or to the spy system of Russia was established. Awful doings were reported of the Shotwells. Mr. Rice's mind became possessed of the idea that he had been deceived, deluded, swindled, by the former proprietors of the store; and the loss of desirable trade which he had thought secure but which seemed to be vanishing he attributed to the dishonesty of the two honored old citizens against whom the vigilance of his secret service was directed.

In his worriment and perplexity Mr. Rice sought his friend Thomas W. Morrison as a man competent to give good advice and enjoyable consolation. And just here it is safe to say that he would not to-day have his lawyer's hands so full of work and his own mind so full of trouble as the defendant in a suit to recover heavy damages claimed by William H. Shotwell.

The first time Mr. Rice saw Morrison about the case in hand that worthy was not in the best of humor, and was inclined to consider Mr. Rice somewhat of a bore.

"That man Rice"—he is reported to have said, immediately after dismissing the gentleman—"keeps trotting to me with stories about his difficulties with his clerks. I got rid of him today by telling him he would better consult a lawyer."

Morrison probably knows better than anyone else whether or not he ever gave better advice than that the troubled grocer should secure competent counsel rather than depend on such judgment, discretion and wisdom as he could give; and there are those who think that if he had only gone a step further and had said "Never come near me again," and Mr. Rice had heeded the warning, the grocer would doubtless have been spared many subsequent sorrowful days and sleepless nights.

The result of Mr. Rice's dependence on Craig A. Marsh, the counsel whom he retained, was the securing of an award of $1,000 from a committee of arbitrators chosen from among Mr. Rice's and Mr. Shotwell's friends, as full compensation for any loss which Mr. Rice might have suffered through his dealings with Mr. Shotwell.

HERE THE CASE OUGHT TO HAVE ENDED.

But Mr. Rice couldn't keep out of Morrison's magnetic presence, and continued to trot to him so often that Morrison finally saw a chance to develop a sensation for the paper which he was then running. Consequently, a story came out in Morrison's sheet charging William H. Shotwell with fraud and dishonesty. Among the things specified was that Mr. Shotwell had been guilty of cheating his own and Mr. Rice's customers by using short weights and measures; and by passing counterfeit money.

THE CHARACTER OF THE MAN LIBELLED.

Great was the indignation among the friends of Mr. Shotwell when it became known that these things were said of a man so esteemed and honored in the community. Mr. Shotwell had hitherto enjoyed the fullest public confidence. He was one of the executors of the Sarah M. Latimer estate, valued at $800,000, held the executorship of other estates amounting to $100,000, had for thirty years been treasurer of the First Presbyterian church, was manager of the church cemetery, and held other high positions of trust. He was considered too good a man to permit what was clearly so gross a libel to pass unnoticed and unpunished.

Learning that steps were being taken to have justice meted out for his offense, Morrison hastened, in the next issue of his paper, to disclaim all responsibility for the evident malice in the publication of the article, and to thrust all the blame on Mr. Rice. This however, did not save him from being included with Mr. Rice in a libel suit, brought against the two by Mr. Shotwell, for $20,000 damages; and in order to get out of the scrape with as little expense as possible, he published, over his own signature, to Mr. Shotwell, and a complete vindication of him, which, in connection with Morrison's other verbal assurances, induced Mr. Shotwell, in the goodness of his heart, to plead for the discontinuance of the suit against Morrison and to ask his counsel to proceed against Mr. Rice alone.

A MOST ABJECT APOLOGY

It is now claimed, however, that in this settlement of the suit against Morrison the skillful manœuvring of Craig A. Marsh is seen. Mr. Marsh and Mr. Lindabury, it is said, conferred earnestly together in the matter—Mr. Marsh as Morrison's representative, and Mr. Lindabury as Mr. Shotwell's; and Mr. Marsh's influence, it is added, was the main instrument that procured the abandonment of the Morrison suit, Mr. Lindabury having hitherto held out against Mr. Shotwell's intercession for apologetic Morrison.

The master-stroke of what among members of the bar who are watching the case is termed is yet to be made or abandoned, as circumstances may demand, but the idea that prevails is that having successfully cleared Morrison and put him out of harm's way, Mr. Marsh now seeks to clear Mr. Rice by putting all the blame on Morrison and thus getting both off comparatively scot free.

This reminds those lawyers who are always ready with a parallel case of the story of a trick which Chief Justice Fuller once played. He had on his hands the defense of two men who were charged with a murder. Having secured separate trials, he first succeeded in acquitting the one, and then on the trial of the other proved that so that both escaped the gallows when as a matter of fact corroborated by subsequent discovery both men were guilty of the killing.

But whether the strategic tactics Mr. Marsh will eventually consummate in this case are those suggested above or something far different, it is certain that he is sufficiently fertile in resources to bring his client safely out of his network of difficulties if there is any possible way.

The only thing the lawyer of either side has to dread is that the evidence is going against him. Facts and juries are stubborn things, and if a dogged juror gets his teeth fastened in the neck of an obstinate fact what lawyer's shrewdness or expertness, though never so proficient, is going to break the combination?

MR. RICE'S STORY.

The principal witness examined up to this morning in this case has been Mr. Rice himself. His effort, as of course conducted on the lines laid down by his counsel, Mr. Marsh, chiefly has been to clear himself of all responsibility for the publication of the article against Mr. Shotwell in Morrison's paper, but he has also endeavored to show a justification of publication on the ground of the truth of the charges against the plaintiff, Mr. Shotwell. He gave important testimony, on both his direct examination by Mr. Marsh and his cross-examination by Richard V. Lindabury, who with W. B. Codington is counsel for Mr. Shotwell.

A condensation of Mr. Rice's testimony goes to show that the final reason why he sought out Morrison as a good man to whom to tell his story was because he had felt that he had been wronged and wanted to be righted. He had desired that the public should know the truth. He had considered that he had been losing trade through Mr. Shotwell's misdeeds, and he had wanted the facts known so that he would no longer be blamed for the faults of others and so that no more of his customers would leave him.

HE HAD WANTED SOMETHING PUBLISHED

—he didn't know exactly what; he had believed that Mr. Shotwell was about to start a rival business, and one of the reasons why he had wanted something published was so that Mr. Shotwell would be headed off in this intent. The day that he had received from Mr. Shotwell the sum of $1,000 in payment of the arbitrators' award he had told Morrison that, of his story, but two days later he again had visited Morrison, at Morrison's invitation, and together he and Morrison had talked the whole matter over, and as he had told his story Morrison had written.

MR. MARSH FORBADE THE PUBLICATION

Mr. Rice insisted, on his cross-examination, that he didn't know what Morrison wrote while he talked; he hardly supposed 'twas about the Man in the Moon, or Jericho, while he was talking Shotwell. He didn't see the manuscript. However, when he got through talking Morrison stopped writing and shook hands with him in his own sweet way, and bade him adieu."

MORRISON HAD HIS ORDERS BUT DIDN'T OBEY.

Morrison had previously been told specifically—Mr. Rice continued—that he, Mr. Rice, didn't want any of the stories about Mr. Shotwell's alleged transactions in short weights and measures and counterfeit money published; he had told Morrison that he wanted only the truth announced—and not all of that. He "knew that some of the charges would rebound with double effect against himself, as people would refuse to believe such things said against a man of the integrity and worth Mr. Shotwell was at that time supposed to have." He had admitted to people that he supposed that the article containing the alleged libel on Mr. Shotwell had emanated from him. He had returned to Morrison's shop in the afternoon of the day when Morrison wrote while he talked, and which had appeared in Morrison's sheet that night. He had also seen in the next day's issue of Morrison's paper the statement that the proof-sheet of the story containing the alleged libel had been carefully revised and corrected by him before publication, and that the entire matter had been published on the strength of his statements, corroborated by his documentary evidence. He admitted that he had never made any effort to have this announcement of Morrison's corrected; nor had he ever attempted to make it known to Mr. Shotwell or to the public that he was not the responsible party; nor had he remonstrated with Morrison about it. He had only told such friends as Messrs. Roberts, Cooley, Loomis and Place, with others, that it was published against his protest. He had had a desire that something be published, but by the advice of counsel had told Morrison not to publish anything till counsel had directed just what should be said.

CIRCULATING THE LIBEL.

Yes: he had purchased extra copies of the paper containing the alleged libel, and had circulated them, and had done so without explaining to those to whom he sent them that he was in no wise responsible for the article; and a copy of the article had been pasted up conspicuously in his office by one of his clerks. He disavowed all feeling of enmity or malice against Mr. Shotwell, and said that all he had ever done had been prompted by honest motives and a desire for justice and self-protection.

It might be added, by the way, in passing on Mr. Rice's evidence, that at an early stage of the suit he filed a plea, through his counsel, for the publication of the article in question, and justifying it on the grounds that the charges contained in it against Mr Shotwell were true.

ADMITTING RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Rice was a very slow witness, and hemmed and hawed considerably, and took so much time to deliberate over questions that the patience of the court was severely tried.

Mr. Marsh sought to prove through Charles Place, Mayor of the Borough, and through others, that Mr. Rice had expressed to them surprise at publication of the libellous story; but as the conversations in which such surprise is said to have been expressed took place some hours after the publication had appeared the court overruled the attempt, stating that the only evidence that could be admitted in that line would be testimony that Mr. Rice had sent letters denying responsibility and expressing surprise at the same time when he sent papers containing the article.

FUNNY MR. PHILLIPS.

Probably the most amusing witness on the stand up to to-day has been Henry S. Phillips, Mr. Rice's present chief clerk. Mr. Phillips will be immediately recognized by Plainfielders by his unapproachable side-whiskers. He was mixed up with an unpleasant case of domestic trouble that was tried before Borough Magistrate Hardy not many months ago. He was a very willing witness—for the defense; and was prone to answer questions before they were fairly put. His constant great hurry to get ahead of the lawyers got him into frequent snarls with counsel which afforded food for much laughter.

The purport of the evidence of Mr. Phillips was to show that Mr. Shotwell had actually been guilty of the things charged in the alleged libellous article. The matter of short weights—he said—had come up for discussion in the store, some time after Rice & Co. had taken charge. Mr. Rice's attention had been called to the weights, and he had ordered them taken to the back part of the store, and had announced that his mot to was

"SIXTEEN OUNCES TO A POUND."

Mr. Shotwell had said that the weights were once correct but he supposed that they had got rubbed off. Yet Mr. Shotwell had gone to work and had used the doubtful weights again the very next day. Then, too, a quart measure had been found to be short, yet after it was discarded by order of Mr. Rice Mr. Shotwell had used it. He had used it, for instance, in measuring out a peck of plums for Henry A. McGee, so that the peck measure into which the short quarts were emptied lacked an inch of being full. When remonstrated with, Mr. Shotwell had said "That's all right. They're very nice plums; and and care more for quality than for quantity." But there were no more plums to put in the measure anyway, it was afterwards ascertained. The witness was positive that Mr. Shotwell had charged the McGees with a full peck.

OH, FIE, SLY FREEMAN!

Than as to Freeman Shotwell, Mr. Shotwell's father, Mr. Phillips had something to say. That gentleman had taken things from the store—the store of R. W. Rice & Co.—without paying for them. Why, he at one time had taken three or four tomatoes, valued at three cents apiece, and had taken two heads of lettuce two or three times. These grave crimes were committed in a secret, sly manner, but the witness had had his suspicions and had kept his eyes open and had happened to see the old man in the act. And the old man had never paid for them, either; nor had he made any charge of them on the books. He was positive about that.

On cross-examination Mr. Phillips admitted that things might have happened in the store which he knew nothing about, and that Mr. Shotwell might have paid some of the other clerks at some other time for the goods he had taken. But he was sure that Mr. Shotwell had not paid George Sanders, for George had told him so, and he then had had than in Freeman Shotwell's honesty. Mr. Phillips further admitted that weights would wear away with use and that there must always come, in the career of weights, a time when the question shall come up "Is it not time to discard these weights? Have not they been used long enough?" But he stuck firmly to the opinions and emphasized its delivery with a decisive squint, that this discussion which he had told about was not such a time, as the Shotwells had known of the shortage in the weights before.

Mr. Lindabury sought to show that by a trifling heaping of the questionable quart measure the measure would hold a true quart, and asked if Mr. Shotwell in using it had not always dipped it into the beans or cranberries or what not and had lifted it up so that it was heaping full. Mr. Lindabury illustrated by motions with the measure. But Mr. Phillips said no: Mr. Shotwell had always used it this way. And he dipped the measure down into an imaginary barrel of pease and juggled it around with the skill of a professional prestidigitateur, going through motions which were ludicrous in the extreme. It looked as though he were shaking "pigs in clover" into their pen, and the picture of that side-whiskered witness wasting his talents on so frivolous a diversion tickled everybody's fancy, and for a moment even the sedate Court joined in the roar of laughter.

Mr. Phillips concluded his testimony with the statement that soon after it was found that Mr. Shotwell persisted in using the deficient weights he had taken them home, by order of Mr. Rice, and had had his wife lock them up. Later they had been taken to Tunis J. Carey's office—for what purpose was not stated.

Annie M. Phillips, the wife of the preceding witness, testified that the weights had been locked up in a bureau drawer all the time they were in her possession.

MR MC GEE WAS SATISFIED.

Henry A. McGee was permitted, by consent of counsel, to give his testimony, in rebuttal, before the rebuttal evidence was really open, so that he need not be kept from an important business engagement. He testified that he had traded with the Shotwells and the Rices, had never had any fault to find with his dealings with them, and had never had any reason to suspect that they were cheating him with short weights and short measures.

In connection with the short weight story, it also appeared in the evidence that Mr. Shotwell had passed on Mr. Rice's customers two coins which Mr. Rice had decided were counterfeit; but it was afterwards shown that Mr. Shotwell had considered that they were all right. Another interesting statement which came out was a quotation from Mr. Rice, that in his store he had been surrounded by

A GANG OF THIEVES.

Augustus Vanderveer, Deputy County Clerk, testified to having compared the questioned weights with the United States standards in his office. Two four-pound weights were each one ounce and an eighth of an ounce short. One two-pound weight was one-fourth of an ounce short, another one-eighth of an ounce, another one ounce and one-fourth. On three one-pound weights there were shortages of one-fourth of an ounce, one-half of an ounce, and one ounce, respectively. Of two eight-ounce weights one was short one-fourth of an ounce, another three-eighths of an ounce. A four-ounce weight was short one-fourth of an ounce. The weights all looked as though they had not been used in years and had been lying at the bottom of Tier's Lake for an indefinite period. They were thickly coated with rust.

AMATEUR DETECTIVE WORK, AND AWFUL IMMORALITY.

Clarence J. Rice was the last witness examined yesterday. His evidence was confined exclusively to the vagaries of Freeman Shotwell, though just what the fact that Freeman Shotwell had or had not appropriated produce had to do with the question in hand was not pellucidly apparent. Mr. Rice said that he was the "Co." of the firm. He had seen Freeman Shotwell take onions and lemons and oranges from the store on the sly. Yes: he himself had been within several feet of him when he saw the depredations committed, but they were on the sly just the same. He considered it theft, but he didn't say anything about it because he wanted to wait "to fortify himself." He had found that it was

NOT SAFE TO TELL THINGS THAT WERE THE TRUTH IN PLAINFIELD.

He had commenced to find it out when he began to note Freeman Shotwell's peculations of fruits and vegetables, and he had been keeping on finding it out ever since. Yes: Freeman Shotwell was an old man, and had been in the store a long time; but that was no excuse for his taking three or four oranges home when oranges were forty cents a dozen. He didn't know why, in spite of his misconduct, Freeman Shotwell was kept in the store even after his son William left; but he did know that William used to use the short measure knowing it to be short. He was positive about Freeman Shotwell's thefts; he had kept a record of them, and showed entries in a book denoting that at different times Freeman had taken two bunches of onions, three lemons, five oranges, etc.

At this point Court was adjourned till this morning. Interesting evidence is expected today.

—To-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, Miss Yates, superintendent of parliamentary usage, will give a Parliamentary Drill. All are welcome.

—Young men and boys who are interested in getting ready for life, will do well to hear the talk to be given by Dr. Hurlbut, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, tonight. The admission will be free.

—The Times says that a Plainfielder has patented a "votary gas scrubber." THE PRESS knew that the people of Plainfield were bright, but that they cherished in their midst a genius of this exalted calibre was a trifle ahead of one's fondest hopes.

New Jersey Church Statistics.

That Department of the Census Bureau conducted by Dr. H. K. Carroll of North Plainfield has issued its first bulletin containing statistics of churches in the United States. There are upwards of 150 denominations, and the first bulletin contains statistics of only fourteen. Of these but five have members in the State of New Jersey. They are the United Presbyterians, Swedenborgians, Salvation Army, Life and Union Adventists, and Seventh-Day Baptists. There are six United Presbyterian churches in the State; one in Essex county, four in Hudson and one in Passaic, with a total membership of 685. The Salvation Army has four barracks in the State, one in Mercer county, one in Middlesex, one in Monmouth and the other in Passaic, with 156 communicants. The Adventists have only one meeting-house in the State. It is situated in Monmouth county and has a membership of only fifty-six. The Seventh-Day Baptists have four organizations in the State, two in Cumberland county, one in Middlesex and one in Union, with a total membership of 745. There are also six Swedenborgian congregations in the State, one in Cumberland county, three in Essex, one in Hudson and one in Passaic, with a total membership of 323.

Ivanhoe's Installation.

At a regular meeting of Ivanhoe Council, No. 1,074, American Legion of Honor, held Tuesday evening, seven candidates were initiated and eleven applications were received to be initiated Jan. 27, after which Deputy Grand Commander L. A. Hummer and Deputy Grand Guide W. H. Rogers installed the following officers:

Commander—T. C. Smith.
Vice Commander—A. L. Titsworth.
Orator—J. D. Moon.
Past Commander—G. B. Titsworth.
Chaplain—J. A. Powlison.
Secretary—G. E. Stillman.
Collector—F. D. Fuller.
Treasurer—L. A. Hummer.
Guide—L. T. Rogers.
Warden—Henry Weise.
Sentry—B. J. Shreiner.
Medical Examiner—J. T. Fritts, M. D.
Trustees—Robert Mitchell, A. Q. Fine, T. C. Smith.

A Fair With Novel Features.

Charles P. Leggett is Chairman, and Clarence E. Teel, Secretary, of the committee in charge of the fair for the benefit of the Crescent League, to be held in its new club-house during the first week in February.

The co-operation of all the members and their friends assure the success of the affair. There will be introduced a number of attractive novelties never before seen upon an occasion of this sort in Plainfield. There will also be a change of entertainment every evening.

A Cake Sale by Fair Cooks.

The Judge Not Circle of King's Daughters will hold a cake sale in the Holy Cross Sunday school building to-morrow afternoon from half-past two o'clock until five. The pronounced success, both financial and artistic, of the last sale held by these young ladies, is well remembered by all their friends, and as a repetition of the artistic triumph is assured to-morrow it is superfluous to say that the friends will make the financial conquest again complete.

Big Rush of Business in the City Courts.

Charles Fowler, a printer from Princeton, began a twenty days' sentence in the County jail last night for a public indiscretion committed the night before.

Edward Edgar, who was on a visit from Westfield, and who had testified to his appreciation of Plainfield's beauty by drinking himself into a state of intoxication, paid a fine of $5 and went home to recuperate.

If you feel a cough or cold coming on, take at once a dose of Hires' Cough Cure, and to guard against danger see that you always have a bottle handy in the house.

AN AMERICAN WOMAN.

She Was Ordered Out by the King's Flunky But Didn't Go.

She was a wealthy matron from Denver, young and handsome, just returned from "a little run" on the other side. She had brought back with her, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, only partially quieted, that breezy western way which ruffles plumes when it blows freshly and wholesomely through the halls of the effete monarchies. She was describing her visit to one of the famous but tumble-down castles of the late lamented Ludwig, the mad king of Bavaria, which are now open to the public as show places.

When she entered the first of the State apartments she came face to face with a tall flunky in a most imposing uniform, who moved toward her waving his arms and proclaiming impressively:

"Alle mussen ausgehen." "Everybody must get out of here!"

The Denver woman didn't take kindly to departure, for the custodians of Ludwig's architectural follies charge good-sized admission fees. Waved imperiously through the doorway she essayed a second room. Here, too, the flunky followed on her footsteps with his:

"Alle mussen ausgehen!"

This time the Denver woman stood her ground. Advancing upon the flunky, she began: "I bought my ticket, and am an American citizen!" Here she paused, for the flunky betrayed signs of nervousness, and looked around.

"Alle mussen ausgehen!" It was said with a note of anxiety. The flunky's eyes never left the door.

"In my country—"

"Alle mussen ausgehen!" the flunky quivered; he almost groaned.

"Such a thing could not—"

"Mein Gott," interrupted the flunky, "She will not go!" And he wrung his hands.

"At the moment," says the Denver woman, "I saw a nice, white-haired man coming down the room with a lady on his arm. There was a man in front of him and several people behind, and it looked like a little procession.

"'Sir,' said I, and I walked straight up to the gentleman and spoke my best German, 'if you are one of the directors, won't you include in your report of your inspection this outrage? My friend and I,' and I pointed out the lady with me, 'have paid our money, and now this servant tells us to leave. We are Americans, and we are used to seeing things better managed.'

"All this time the flunky stood first on one foot and then on the other, and seemed to be in pain. The white-haired gentleman looked confused, and I thought, sorry, and he said:

"'Ladies, you are perfectly welcome; stay as long as you choose.'

"Then the little procession went forward and the flunky let us alone. But our pleasure had been spoiled, and we left almost immediately. At the foot of the stairs, do you know, the porter told us that the pleasant, gentlemanly director was King Otto of Bavaria. But I didn't disturb myself about it greatly, for it didn't hurt him to be told that other people, especially ladies, shouldn't be so hustled about just because he was taking a promenade."

NAVAL BALLOONS IN FRANCE.

How They Are Used to Follow the Movements of Submarine Boats.

Some experiments have been lately conducted by the French navy, which will have an important influence on the future use of the balloon in time of war. A balloon was constructed, says the Chicago Globe, with a capacity of 11,300 feet, especially for experimental purposes. It was inflated with hydrogen, which was carried in reservoirs under a pressure of 100 atmospheres. A tail rope 150 feet long served to connect the balloon with a ship of the fleet when the balloon was required to be kept captive for reconnoitering purposes. It was found that on a clear day all important objects within a radius of eighteen to twenty-four miles were clearly distinguished.

Another very important point was that the waters of the sea, when observed from a considerable altitude, were found to be singularly clear, and the details of the bottom were in one of the ascents perfectly distinguishable, even at a depth of eighty feet. This peculiarity allowed an observer in the balloon to follow the movements of the submarine boat Gymnote, during its recent trials, without losing sight of it for a single moment, whatever its depth of immersion.

The balloon used on this occasion was very stoutly constructed, having been a short time before towed at a speed of ten and one-half knots an hour for a distance of twenty-one knots, by a torpedo boat, without being any the worse. Germany has now adopted balloons for naval purposes, and during the recent maneuvers at Wilhelmshaven one of these was used from a war-ship of the fleet for reconnoitering.

Religions in the United States.

The census announcement that there are a hundred and forty religious bodies in the United States, exclusive of many independent congregations, will be received, says the Providence (R. I.) Journal, with some surprise by most people whose knowledge of different sects does not embrace more than a dozen or twenty at the most. In the list as disclosed by the preliminary bulletin issued by the Census Bureau from Washington are the General-Six-Principle Baptists, the Schwenkfeldians, the Theosophical Society, the Life and Advent Union, and others which to a majority of people will be entirely new. With a hundred and forty creeds formally adopted and "many independent organizations" with their own notions besides, the task of those who favor church unions is difficult indeed. If only the more numerous denominations existed the labor of effecting a unity of churches with regard to polity and the more essential doctrines might be easier, but what shall be said when a hundred little denominations, sturdy in their beliefs and customs, are in the field, loth to give them up?

AN EMPEROR'S LIFE.

The Luxurious Existence Led by the German Kaiser.

Emperor William II. of Germany has the iron industry of his grandfather. He rises every morning while the clock is striking seven, after having lain just seven hours in bed. He takes a cold shower bath, is shaved and shampooed, and then gets into his uniform with all expedition of a tardy office boy. At seven and a half o'clock he and the Empress eat breakfast together. The meal is not made of the flimsy stuff that the usual German breakfast is made of, but includes tea, rolls, omelettes, beefsteak or cutlets and fowl. The Emperor goes from the table to his work room, where huge packages of sorted letters await his attention. Six hundred letters are his usual mail. He glances at every one of them, sends the petitions, which constitute the vast majority of all, to the Civil Cabinet, and indicates the replies to be made to the more important part of the correspondence. However bulky the mail may be, the Emperor never varies from the routine. After discussing the programme of the day with an Adjutant the Emperor goes to the children, kisses them once each, and gets a general idea of what their lessons for the day will be. He returns to his workroom to hear the Court Marshal review the condition and prospects of the imperial housekeeping, and to listen to the reports and comments of the Cabinet Ministers and the President of Police. He then goes walking or riding in the street if the weather is fine; in the riding hall if it rains. Only on days of military reviews, when the Emperor must sit five or six hours in the saddle, are these rides or walks omitted from his programme. At two o'clock the Emperor, Empress, and little Hohenzollerns take a second breakfast of soup, boiled meat, with vegetables, a roast, and pudding. After the meal the Emperor makes calls or rides again. The rest of the afternoon is devoted to audiences and the preparation of State papers. At six o'clock dinner is served, not only to the Emperor's immediate family, but also to all the sisters and cousins and aunts of Hohenzollern extractions who happen to be at the palace. After this general reunion the Emperor plays with the children and exercises with the broadsword and foil. At half-past ten o'clock he takes supper, consisting of salad, a joint, or fish, and sweets. At eleven he retires to his study. He works there till midnight, when he retires to bed. Even then he does not resign himself entirely to rest. He keeps at hand pencil and paper, and often awakes in the night to jot down memoranda of plans for the next day. Even when visiting the Czar, or the Queen, or other fellow sovereigns, the Emperor does not rest from the routine of his state labors. By telegraph he keeps himself in the closest communication with all his Cabinet officers, and directs the administration of all matters of importance. Besides his few minutes with his children, the Emperor's only other intervals of recreation are devoted to the reading of contemporary military literature in English, French, Italian, Spanish and German.—N. Y Sun.

THE BANK OF FRANCE.

A Private Concern that is Backed Up by the Government.

Without entering into a lot of technical details that would be interesting only to financial men, it may be said broadly that the Bank of France, although nominally a private banking-house, is in reality a semi-official institution, for the reason that its operations are made under State control, because it has the monopoly of issuing bank bills. The single fact that the bank issues the French greenback (which is blue and rose) makes the average citizen believe that the institution belongs to the government, and he has the same confidence in it that he has in the government itself. Business men know that it is a private banking company, but they are certain that the state, which appoints the governor and deputy governers, would not allow it to fail, and that behind its nominal capital of 182,500,000 francs furnished by the stockholders there is the fortune of France.

The bank discounts commercial paper on short time, not exceeding three months, and advances money on securities deposited. Its credit, however, is not directly accessible to small tradesmen, because it requires all discount paper to have three signatures. Thus business men are often obliged to have recourse to an intermediate banker, who discounts their notes and then, after adding his own signature to the two already on the paper, sends it to the bank, which rediscounts it. The bank loans on a very limited number of securities. For example, it makes advances on French railway bonds, but not on foreign railway stocks.

The management of the bank is intrusted to fifteen regents and three examiners, who, with the governor and two deputy governors, form what is called the administrative council. This board of directors, as a New Yorker would say, meets once a week, fixes the rate of discount—which rarely varies from 3 per cent.—and decides upon all questions concerning the bank's transactions. The governor has a veto power over all the decisions. Unlike the Bank of England, which is limited in its issue of bank notes to about 880,500,000 francs, the Bank of France can issue bills to the amount of 3,500,000,000. The aggregate circulation at the present time is about $617,000,000. The shares of the bank, the par value of which is 1,000 francs, are now worth 4,365, and pay nearly 8 per cent. dividend.—N. Y. Epoch.

—Carpenter mentions the case of a somnambulist who sat down and wrote with utmost regularity and uniformity. "Not only were the lines well written, and at the proper distances, but the i's were dotted and the t's crossed; and in one instance the writer went back half a line to make a correction, crossing off a word and writing another above it, with as much caution as if he had been guided by vision."

Reduction in Prices for Cash!
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
AFTER DECEMBER 15, 1890,
The Plainfield Produce Company
Will Sell All Goods Strictly for Cash!
We will present a few reasons for making this change in our manner of doing business. In the first place we have our Hay, Grain and Produce inspected and bought direct from the Producer for Cash. Thereby obtaining better quality, also having one profit, which would go to the commission merchant if bought from sample the usual way.
In the second place any concern doing an extensive credit business must get larger profits to offset slow and worthless accounts, of which with the greatest care there will be some. And the customer who is ready to pay and does pay his bills when presented, is the one who must pay these larger profits.
By selling for cash we avoid losses from such accounts, and can afford to sell for smaller profits.
We ask for a share of your patronage. Give us a call and we will show you how low we can sell for CASH, instead of how high we must sell for credits.

He Stoops to Conquer.

Tripps—Do you always pick up a pin when you see one lying on the pavement?

Flipps—Oh no! Fact is, I don't mind telling you a secret. I didn't pick up a pin at all. You see we are right in front of Miss De Cash's home and her rich old father is watching me from the front window. I simply went through the motions of picking up a pin and putting it in the lapel of my coat in order to impress him with my regard for economy. He is very stingy, you know, and I'm planning to ask him for his daughter's hand in marriage.—Chicago Herald.

THE WEARING OF THE GREEN.

Pat (to parrot, who has just finished whistling "God Save the Queen")—Begorra, it's a dum good thing ye hev green fithers on yez; if yer was a canary, I'd twist yer neck fer yez.—Life.

Her Oldest Boarder.

A young Washington man boards at a house where the table (as so often happens) has secured fame through poverty. Recently he changed his quarters, taking up his residence in a room that had been occupied by a medical student. The landlady was showing it to him, when, opening the closet, a skeleton was disclosed. "Ah," said the young man as he grasped the bony hand, "I am glad to meet you. Doubtless you are one of the life-long boarders that Mrs. —— so frequently refers to."—Washington Post.

Had Seen It.

Western Senator (enthusiastically)—Gen'l Greeley's report on the climate of our State is the biggest thing yet. Glorious! He proves by official records that we enjoy one of the finest and most equable climates in the world, sir. Bound to boom this section, sir; can't help it. Have you seen the report?

Western Coroner—Yes; I found a copy of it in the pockets of a stranger who froze to death last night.—N. Y. Weekly.

His Strong Point.

Hunter (to countryman)—What kind of a dog is the one you have?

Countryman—A fox-dog.

"Fox-dog? He has none of the points. How do you know"

"Well, you see, I've tried him at every thing but foxes, and he was no good at any of them. So if he was not created in vain he must be good for foxes."—Texas Siftings.

Cause for Worry.

Wife—What kept you so late to-night?

Cashier (Free, Easie & Co.)—I couldn't make my cash accounts balance.

Wife—What was the matter?

Cashier—Too little cash, of course. You don't suppose I'd hang around there over hours if there was too much, do you?—Good News.

No Arrests.

Indignant Citizen—Don't you see those two boys down there smoking cigarettes? Why don't you arrest them?

Policeman—Fact is, Mr. Taxpay, one of them is my son and the other is your son.

Citizen—Um — er — very pleasant weather we're having.—Good News.

All Right for the Mask.

Crookshin (who is going to a masquerade and is a little short of ready cash)—Say, is my face good for a costume and a mask?

Costumer (after a survey of his customer)—I don't think it would do for a costume, but it will be all right for the mask.—America.

The Result of Affluence.

Foggs—How is it you're dressed up so? You were flying very low when I saw you last.

Boggs—My rich aunt died, and mentioned me handsomely.

Foggs—So you think you must put on a million airs, eh?—Munsey's Weekly.

Commerce vs. Literature.

Caller—Your son has wonderful literary talent, and I think it a pity he should go to work in a store. Why don't you make a writer of him?

Hostess—If I were sure his uncle would make him his heir I would.—Good News.

Hunting for a Home.

Mrs. Homeseeker—These apartments are charming, and the price is certainly reasonable. Are you sure there are no nuisances connected with the building?

Honest Agent—Well, mum, it has a janitor.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Critic of the Quadrigent.

Maude—So you have read Mr. McAllister's book on society, have you?

Estelle—Yes.

Maude—How is his style?

Estelle—Oh! it's the very latest.—Harper's Bazar.

His Wife Ought to Know It

"Who is that?" asked McCorkle, indicating McCrackle's typewriter and secretary.

"That is my recording angel."—West Shore.

Preaches, But No Practice.

"Who is that frightfully-dressed woman that you just recognized?"

"That is Mme. Prim, editor of a fashion magazine."—Judge.

CONSCIENCELESS DEADHEADS.

Nuisances Which Put the Railroad Companies to Trouble and Expense.

There is a class of "deadheads" which are imposed upon all railroad companies, and which not only cause conductors, brakemen or other employes much trouble in watching for them, to see that some one of an elastic conscience does not run off with them, but cause much expense and trouble to the railroad officials to gratify passengers. The expense of telegraphing and the extra labor of employes in connection with this class of "deadheads" is something enormous in the total for a year, and the railroad people rarely receive more than "thanks" from the thousands who inquire about them—provided that the particular one asked for is returned. Each railroad would probably pay hundreds of dollars into some charity fund each year if this class of "deadheads" could be got rid, and stockholders would feel grateful for an extra dividend; but the evil will probably not be removed until humanity is made over into a more perfect form than it is to-day. The "deadheads" referred to are valises, packages, umbrellas, purses, hand-bags and hundreds of other articles that might be enumerated, that are left under the seats, in the racks overhead, or dropped upon the floor; and if any one, whoever or whatever he may be, has ever questioned the honesty of railway conductor, baggagemaster or brakeman, water-boy, porter or cleaner of cars, let him go into any station at the terminus of an railroad, and notice the number of people who come to obtain packages carelessly left in the trains by them, and found by the railroad employes and delivered at the central office "to be called for."—N. Y. Tribune.

COPYING THE MASTERS.

Studies of Art Students in the Galleries of the Old World.

It is a familiar sight in the magnificent art galleries of the Continent to see a student of art seated, with easel and canvas and palette, before one of the great paintings, endeavoring to reproduce the color and general effect of the master. The cities of Europe are filled with the works of painters whose names are known all over the world, while their brushes and their hands that wielded them have been laid away for centuries. Comparatively few of the old masters have found their way to this country, although the store grows richer year by year, and no artist regards his or her education as finished until they have paid a visit to the various galleries of art of the Old World. But, notwithstanding, there are hundreds of earnest students all over this land who avail themselves of the advantages which were denied to others of their class not many years ago. The art collection of America has grown with such succeeding year, and many rare examples are to be found in private and public galleries, all of which serve as a guide to the novice and student in art. Many great painters have also lived within the short history of America, and their masterpieces are to be found in the galleries of their native land, although a few of them have been carried to other countries, and the works of these Americans are an incentive and aid to the young beginner. There are some who lack the power of originality and imagination which goes toward the making of a great painter, but who nevertheless possess the touch and eye of the true artist, and are content to be known as "copyists." This class is to be found in greater numbers abroad, where a wider scope is given them in which to exercise their particular talent; but other artists oftimes reproduce a great picture in order to appreciate the detail of color and drawing which the master knew and exercised so well.—Harper's Weekly.

The Market Was Manipulated.

Visitor—Your little boy doesn't seem to be very cheerful. Isn't he well?

Broker—Yes, he's well enough; but he is feeling pretty blue just now. You see there was a great drop in leather this morning.

V.—Bless me! You don't mean to tell me that child knows any thing about the market?

B.—Well, perhaps not, generally speaking, but you see the particular rather that dropped this morning was his mother's slipper.—Boston Courier.

—One of the curiosities sent to the Patent Office last week is the model of a "typewriter that can be held on the knee." There's nothing specially new about that, if we may believe the funny papers.—N. Y. Press.

—Apparently mid-winter was the time when the mediæval British wolves asserted themselves most savagely; so at least we may judge from the fact that our Anglo-Saxon ancestors bestowed on January the name of "Wolfmonth."

It Is Hard to Waste It.

Some advertisers have an idea that only copies going to paid up subscribers are useful to them. This is not quite so. For example, suppose a journal has 25,000 actual subscribers to whom the paper goes regularly. Suppose it prints 5,000 extra copies a week, which are sent as specimens to good parties, whose addresses are supplied by its agents and readers, and mails 5,000 one week to one set of persons, the next week to another set of 5,000 and so on. In this way 260,000 extra persons are reached during the year, while if the extra 5,000 were sent every week to 5,000 paying subscribers only that number could be reached. In the former case 285,000 persons are reached. In the latter case only 30,000 all told. A person receiving a copy of a journal which he has not seen before, with a request to examine it, will usually look all through it, advertisements and all. Such a course is as useful to the yearly advertiser as if his card were sent to the whole 285,000 persons, or even more so, for his single loose card receives far less attention than would be found in the columns of a reputable journal. —Orange Judd Farmer.

The Art of Advertising.

Advertising seems to be an art yet to be discovered by some people. That is, the practical part of it. A constant stream of water from one or more fire engines will soon extinguish or get under control a very large fire, while a few buckets of water, dashed on here and there, have little or no effect. The modern fire department is practical, and has outgrown the old bucket system; and so with modern advertising—plenty of it, used in a practical, common sense and judicious manner, pays.

If you want to catch a certain kind of fish you use a certain kind of bait; not all fish bite at all kinds of bait. Not all people respond to every advertisement. The newspaper is a medium indispensable to the majority of advertisers, because of its wide and repeating circulation. As a promoter of trade and profit newspaper advertising is no longer an open question; that is, when done in a practical and intelligent manner, and pays because of its effectiveness and cheapness.—Beatrice (Neb.) Democrat.

Spasmodic Advertising.

We all recognize that as between the fellow who works "by fits and starts" and the chap who plods along and keeps at it steadily, the plodder gets there every time. The spasmodic fellow may create an occasional impression, but the results of his fitful labors are dissipated in the intervals.

The occasional display of fireworks only serves the purpose of preventing his being forgotten altogether, while the man who works, and keeps working, constantly improves his position and prospects.

So it is with advertising. It is the repeated "ad" and the sustained effort that tell. We don't mean the "ad" that is never changed, but the one that is ever changing, but never omitted. The wise advertiser keeps always before the people to whom he desires to sell his wares. When you want to quit doing business stop advertising, or advertise only "once in a while."

"Too Much Is Plenty."

An advertisement for a wife in a Colorado paper brought such a heavy mail to the advertiser, Mr. Paul White, a prosperous ranchman at Rocky Ford, Colo., that he had to convey it from the postoffice to his ranch in barrels in his farm wagon. For a month he has spent his evenings perusing his correspondence, and he has not yet made a choice. —New York Weekly.

A Common Sense View.

Nearly every business has its "dull season," during which a good advertisement will do faithful work day and night, rain or shine, in familiarizing consumers with the name, location and specialties or advantages of the advertiser, so that when the time to buy comes he reaps the benefit of his seed sowing. —Azro Goff's Circular.

It All Takes Time.

Don't be prejudiced. Because at one time you put a short local in your town newspaper for one week, and "cartooned" all the fence boards in the vicinity, don't give up, get discouraged and say that you have tried advertising, resolved that it didn't pay and decided not to do any more of it.—Warren (Ills.) Sentinel.

Expect Good Returns.

Give your "ads" a sanguine, optimistic hue. Convey, in a subtle but unmistakable way, the impression that you expect success, and the results will much more surely come. Never advertise your doubts or fears.

AN ALTRUISTIC CLUB.

It Embraces the Noblest Teachings of Mankind.

A Band of Public Spirited Men Who Are Interested in the Problem of Life, and the Betterment of Social Conditions.

In his department of "Social Problems" in the Cosmopolitan Edward Everett Hale tells of a Boston club to which he belongs, the substantial business of which is expressed in this article of its constitution: "This club exists to find out how other people live." After describing the original plan, which was abandoned as impracticable for the end in view, Mr. Hale tells how the club was finally brought into being.

"What we did," he says, "was to bring together sixty young men, pretty much by accident, and then take our chances of adding other people who were interested in the life of Boston and its social system—always glad if in making a good choice, as far as other qualities went, we got in a new occupation.

"But for the purpose of finding out how other people live we actually went to see. That is, the first committee the club appointed, and it was a large one, was on emigrant ships. We sent a lot of young fellows down to quarantine to come up in an emigrant ship and see how that thing was done. In just the same lines, from that day to this, we have let men volunteer to form committees for the sake of seeing that we did not know any thing about.

"For instance, we had a committee on the Mormon worship in Boston. We had a committee on the Italian section, one on the Chinese section, one on the city's orphan asylum, one on all the hospitals, one on our Norwegian population. And we never had a more interesting meeting than when an intelligent Norwegian gentleman came round and told us the peculiarities of the Scandinavian races among us, being kind enough, as I remember, among other things, to bring us some of the biscuit and sardines which I think none of us had ever seen before.

"Now, you can not go as far as this in indulging your curiosity without going further. If you are good for any thing you begin to get into the same relationships that my ideal John, out in the territory of Franklin, forms as a matter of course with the burro driver or with the washerwoman. You not only know by sight the people with whom you are thrown, but you come into personal relationships with them.

"If there happens to be a bright boy living within a quarter of a mile of your office, and you happen to make acquaintance with him one day, that acquaintanceship does not drop off. You and he get on a mere cordial footing with each other; you have gained a friend and he has gained another.

"How clear it is that it is this sort of give-and-take which is necessary for the quickening of the public life, for making the circulation from organ to organ effective and for the health of the whole body politic. I do not want to be carried away by a metaphor, but really Menenius Agrippa's fable, which St. Paul borrowed to such advantage afterward, tells perfectly. You have a healthy body if each part is in close and intimate relation with each other part, if the circulation is good and if the circulation is well oxygenated.

"The object of this present writing is to show people who are discouraged that their business is to bring in that public spirit into souls and organs where there is not enough of it, so that the life of that community may be more active, cheerful and strong. Now, this is done, not merely by attending a ward meeting once a year, but by genuine and cordial intimacy with all sorts of people.

"Exactly as everybody in a country village knows more or less of the ups and downs of forty or fifty households around him—exactly as the life of one person quickens or helps the life of another person in such a community—is it in the power of man or woman living in Chicago or New York to be in such relationships with forty households of every social condition of life, enlarged, inspirited, and, as Mr. Arnold says, sweetened by the intimacy.

"Just so soon as the Christian church or the ethical philosophers or any of the disciples of altruism bring about this state of things, so soon will this country take up again the line of march on which it began. This is the line of march which historically is called the Teutonic, German or English plan. In it every one paddles his own canoe, but is in friendly relations with the rest of the fleet. Everybody is his own master, but is in friendly relations with people who know more than he does.

"And when the administrators of the government look for something to do with such a fleet they find that, on the whole, it is taking care of itself. People who doubt about such a state of things are invited to remember with how little action of the President the country fared while dear Garfield lay dying. Or, if their memories run back to the year 1855, they are invited to remember how well the people of Kansas got on twelve months when they had no government that they would acknowledge."

A Pirate Bird.

Ex-Governor William G. Stereit of Dallas, Tex., says in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "While on a fishing and hunting expedition on the Atlantic coast in North Carolina my attention was attracted by the shrill and frantic cries of a sea-gull. As I looked up I saw a bird resembling a hawk strike the gull under its claws, when down came a fish and the pirate bird after it. The fish had not gone ten feet before the pirate bird had it in his stomach. Then he soared upward with lightning rapidity, and descending equally as quick, struck the screaming gull on the back with such force that the contents of its stomach were forced out of its mouth, and the pirate caught it in the air as it fell. At this point I took aim at the pirate with my shotgun and brought him down."

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Perfectly Well!

FULLERTON, Dubuque Co., Ia., Sept., 1889

Miss K. Finnigan writes: My mother and sister used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tired praising the Tonic.

Recovered Health and Happiness.

LAWRENCE, MASS., Dec. '88.

I was suffering for 12 years from a nervous disease more or less; tried everything I heard of, spared neither time nor means to get medicines, but none had the desired effect, until Rev. Sagg recommended the Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, of which I used but three bottles and completely recovered my health and happiness. I hope others will be benefited by the remedy as much as I was.

MARY SENSE.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

MILES IS NOW CHIEF

The War is Over and Troops Will be Withdrawn.

CONDITIONS OF THE SURRENDER.

The Sioux Warriors Agree to Deliver Up Their Arms to Agent Pierce.

All Children of the Sioux Must be Enrolled on the Roster of the Industrial School—General Miles to Accompany a Delegation to Washington—Lieutenant Mann's Wound Proves Fatal.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 16.—All the Indians are now in camp south of the agency. The troops have moved round on their flank to prevent any escape.

General Brooke, with an escort of the Ninth Cavalry, had a conference with Gen. Miles and returned to his command. Gen. Schofield has been wired that the war is over, and that he can dispose of the troops now here as he sees fit. Short Bull was the last of the hostile chiefs to pay his respects to General Miles.

Conditions of the Surrender.

Under the conditions of the surrender the hostiles are to give their guns to their chiefs, who are to bring them to Agent Pierce. It is certain, however, that the best weapons will be cached and that the guns the Government will get will be only fit to go to the junk shop. The other conditions of surrender are that there is to be but one chief and his name is General Nelson A. Miles, whose commands must be promptly obeyed in the future, and that all children of the Sioux must be enrolled on the rosters of the industrial schools.

Lieut. Mann, of the Seventh Cavalry, who was shot in the groin at Wounded Knee, died at Fort Riley yesterday. His death is the thirty-sixth among the soldiers of this famous regiment.

Hostile Chiefs to Visit Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—General Miles sent a despatch to the War Department asking permission to come to Washington with a delegation of hostile chiefs, who want to treat for terms of peace. Secretary Proctor, with the concurrence of Secretary Noble, at once complied with the request and directed Gen. Miles to send the delegation of hostile Indian chiefs along.

RESORT TO RIOTING.

The Scotch Railroad Strikers Attack the Company's Property.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Scotch strike has reached a stage of bitterness beyond which it can scarcely go without producducing mob violence. In a number of cases the rails have been greased and the trains have come to a standstill.

The strikers are beginning to display riotous feelings. Crowds of strikers made desperate attacks upon several railroad stations in Perth and the immediate vicinity during the day. They pelted the stations with stones until hardly a whole pane of glass could be seen in the windows of these buildings. They also attacked and completely wrecked a large signal station.

The policemen on duty at the scenes of the disturbances, when the rioting first commenced, were powerless to quell the disorders. Finally strong reinforcement of bluecoats were sent to the spot where the rioters were assembled, and with difficulty they were dispersed. Bitterness of feeling on the part of the strikers is increasing.

It has been found necessary to erect barricades over the engines for the protection of the drivers and stokers, who seem to be the special objects of attack.

Chilian Ports Blockaded.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A dispatch received here from Valparaiso stated that the Chilian men-of-war had given notice that they would begin a blockade of the port of Iquique on January 20. The importation of provisions into Iquique has already been stopped. Additional dispatches say that the rebels have declared the ports of Chili blockaded in order to interrupt the nitrate trade.

Sending Russian Jews to America.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The protests of British workingmen's clubs, and the published statements of widespread misery and destitution in London, have caused the Odessa syndicate, engaged in exporting Russian Jews, to turn the tide toward the United States, and an extensive emigration of the persecuted race to North America may be expected.

Prominent Officials Visit Ireland.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The Earl of Zetland, Viceroy of Ireland, Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary, and other officials went by train from Dublin to Newtownards, where they were greeted with much cheering. They then drove to Lord Londonderry's place at Mount Stewart, where they will visit for five days.

Parnell Will Stand for Belfast.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Mr. Parnell, it is announced on apparently good authority, intends to stand for election in Belfast if Mr. Sexton resigns. It is not yet decided whether Mr. Sexton's financial condition will make it necessary for him to retire.

Gladstone Favors McCarthy.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—It is rumored that Mr. Gladstone has given Mr. McCarthy to understand, through Mr. Morley, that McCarthy's withdrawal from the Irish leadership at this time will be a serious blow to the Irish cause, in the view of the English Liberals.

Strangler Eyraud's Appeal Rejected.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The appeal of the murderer, Eyraud, from the sentence of death pronounced upon him for strangling the police notary, Gouffe, has been rejected.

KEYSTONE LEGISLATORS.

They Meet in Joint Convention and Nominate Candidates for Senator.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—The joint convention of the Legislature met at noon, and the formal announcement of the election of the following State officers was made by Lieutenant-Governor Davies: Robert E. Pattison (Dem.), Governor; Louis A. Watres (Rep.), Lieutenant-Governor, and Thomas J. Stewart (Rep.), Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Both branches of the Legislature, according to custom, proceeded to the nomination of candidates for United States Senator, balloting for which will commence on the 20th.

J. Donald Cameron, the present incumbent, was the only nominee on the Republican side in the Senate; State Senator Ross, of Bucks County, and Hon. Chauncey F. Black, of York County, were nominated by the Democrats.

In the House, after Cameron, Ross and Black had been nominated, Mr. Maguire (Rep.) of Delaware County placed in nomination Austin L. Taggart of Montgomery County. Mr. Maguire said he was confident of being able to defeat Cameron, now that Taggart has the Grangers at his back. Mr. Zeigler of Adams nominated William A. Wallace, but afterwards withdrew his name.

A caucus of Democratic Senators and Representatives has been called for Monday evening next, to select a Democratic nominee for United States Senator.

EVA HAMILTON'S FIGHT.

Robert Ray's Father Says She Was His Son's Wife.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—During the recess in the Hamilton will contest, Eva was served with papers in a divorce suit brought by Joshua J. Mann, but the matter was not brought up in the proceedings. Her counsel, Mr. Fuller, said subsequently that the matter was simply a trick, and that it amounted to nothing, as Mann had been out of his mind for the past three months.

Mary Ann Haggerty testified, after recess, that she had kept a boarding house since 1882. Mann had roomed with her from 1885 to 1886. He introduced Eva as his sister, Mrs. Brill.

Major-General Schuyler Hamilton, father of Robert Ray Hamilton, admitted writing a letter to Eva. He also identified the contestant as the woman who was introduced to him as his son's wife. The case is still on.

TRYING TO SECURE HELP.

Many Rumors in Financial Circles About the Westinghouse Electric Company.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Financial circles are disturbed over the rumors affecting the business interests of George Westinghouse, jr.

Dispatches from Pittsburg state that capitalists of that city who, two or three weeks ago agreed to raise a fund of $500,000 to help Mr. Westinghouse, have concluded, upon investigation of the interests affected, that the sum will not be sufficient, and have decided to return the money to the subscribers.

Mr. Westinghouse is now here and says he expects to return to Pittsburg to-morrow evening, and has strong hopes of relieving the Westinghouse Electric Company, which is the only one of his companies in serious financial difficulty

Both Members of the Firm Disappear.

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 16.—The firm of Rich & Robinson, shoe dealers of this city and a branch store at Lima, Ohio, failed three weeks ago. Their store was closed by the sheriff on judgments amounting to $9,000. Now it develops that the liabilities of the firm amount to $90,000 and their assets barely foot up $10,000. Both members of the firm have disappeared and their whereabouts are unknown. The firm was one of the largest in the oil regions, and the flight of Rich and Robinson creates a sensation.

Striking Spinners Will Fight It Out.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Jan. 15.—The State Board of Arbitration on labor matters met here and had a conference with a committee of the spinners' union in regard to the strike at the Acushnet mill. The board, after listening to all sides of the story, advised the spinners to go back to work, but at a largely attended meeting of the union it was voted to stay out and conduct the fight to the end.

Libel Suit for $50,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 16.—City Works Commissioner Adams has commenced a libel suit against the New York Times and asks $50,000 damages. The alleged libel consisted in an article published in reference to the Long Island Water Supply Company, in which Mr. Adams was mentioned as a stockholder, and which associated him wir alleged corruption.

American Protective Tariff League.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The sixth annual meeting of the American Protective Tariff League was held here, and the consensus of opinion expressed at the meeting was that the work of the league should be continued with vigor. The old board of officers was re-elected for the ensuing year, after which the meeting adjourned.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

Bitter Struggle in the Senate Over the Elections Bill.

MR. HOAR MAKES A NEW MOVE.

He Wants a Continuous Session Until the Measure is Disposed Of.

The Democratic Leaders Alarmed Over the Situation—The Free Coinage Bill Before the House Committee—The Silver Fool to be Investigated by a Special Committee—New Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The outlook now is for a struggle to the death over the Elections bill. The sudden triumph of the advocates of the bill has undoubtedly alarmed the Democratic leaders as much as any other development of the long contest.

They begin to realize that Republican opposition to the bill among Senators and Representatives is a broken reed to lean upon, and that all their own resources will be needed to prevent the enactment of the measure.

Senator Hoar shows a disposition to force the fighting by giving notice that he will move to-day for a continuous session, with the object of reaching a vote on the bill before adjournment. How well it will succeed is as yet a matter of speculation. If the bill fails to pass by the continuous session, an effort will be made to pass the cloture rule, as was proposed two weeks ago.

Senator Hoar says it is not true that the Elections bill will to-day be antagonized by any other measure brought forward by a Republican Senator. He says it can be positively stated that Senator Paddock does not, as has been reported, intend to call up his Pure Food bill to-day.

The Democrats in the House are fully alive to the situation, and share the feeling of the Democratic Senators that the bill will pass the Senate.

The policy of delay in the House will be more pronounced than ever. The District of Columbia Appropriation bill, now under consideration, will receive an amount of attention that may be gratifying to local pride, but will not have its origin in any concern for local interests.

Everything in the House will now be delayed by the Democrats on the least possible excuse, while the Republicans are already beginning to concern themselves about the presence of a quorum of their own members.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

The Free Coinage Bill Received by the House and Sent to Committee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The House devoted most of its session to a discussion of conference reports of public building bills. The report for a building at St. Albans, Vt., was agreed to.

A concurrent resolution was introduced by Mr. Moran and referred, condemning Great Britain's action in bringing the Behring Sea controversy before the Supreme Court. A long preamble sets forth their acts connected with the case.

The Free Coinage bill was received by the House and referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures.

Presidential Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The President sent to the Senate the following nominations for postmasters: Maine, Simon Morrill, Fairfield; Vermont, F. C. Pierce, Brandon; Noble F. Dunshee, Bristol; Massachusetts, J. S. Fay, Marlborough; J. O. Hodges, Mansfield; H. P. Waite, North Easton; Miss A. J. Smith, Stockbridge; K. B. Wyman, Woburn, New York, C. H. Pierce, Salem; Wm. Miles, Fultonville, New Jersey, J. B. Collins, Mount Holly, Pennsylvania, J. L. White, Wellsborough; R. S. Pierce, North East, Maryland, S. N. McNair, Emmittsburg; J. C. Tawes, Crisfield.

One Thousand Men Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—It is estimated by the Bureau of Navigation that about a thousand new enlistments will be required within the next sixty days in order to make up the compliments of the new vessels about to go into commission, and several old vessels whose crews will soon be ready for discharge on account of the expiration of their terms of enlistment. All the men at present available at the various recruiting stations will be taken up by the vessels of the squadron of evolution, which will soon start for southern waters.

Diplomatic Mystery.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Count Hatzfeldt, the German Ambassador, suddenly and unexpectedly started for Berlin. It is understood that he visits Berlin on important business, the nature of which seems to be unknown in diplomatic circles in this city.

Dislike a Three Year Course.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 16.—All Harvard is excited over the recent majority report of the faculty to the Board of Overseers advocating a three years' course. The majority of the students are decidedly opposed to the scheme.

BLAIR DEFEATED

Dr. Gallinger the Choice of New Hampshire Republicans for Senator.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 16.—The Republican caucus to nominate a United States Senator to succeed Senator Blair was held last night. Nominating speeches were dispensed with, and the caucus at once proceeded to ballot, with the following result: First ballot—whole number of votes, 193; necessary to a choice, 97. James W. Patterson, 1; Charles F. Burns, 5; James F. Briggs, 9; Person C. Cheney, 23; Henry W. Blair, 62; Jacob H. Gallinger, 93. There was no choice and a second ballot was ordered.

The second ballot was announced as follows: Whole number of votes, 190; necessary to a choice, 96. Briggs, 1; Burns, 4; Cheney, 18; Blair, 48; Gallinger, 120. Mr. Gallinger was declared nominated, and on motion of Senator Pierce the nomination was made unanimous.

Immediately after the adjournment of the caucus, Dr. Gallinger held an informal reception.

A ballot will be taken in both branches of the Legislature next Tuesday.

IS THIS THE SLATE?

Governor Hill for Senator and Mayor Grant for Governor of New York.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A United Press representative was shown a telegram received from New York last night by one of the Democratic Congressmen from one of the leaders in that city. The message states that a conference was held Wednesday between Governor Hill Mayor Grant, Hon. Edward Murphy, Commissioner Gilroy and other leaders, when a "plan of campaign," was agreed upon as follows:

Governor Hill to go to the United States Senate.

Mayor Grant of New York to receive the Democratic nomination next fall.

The Congressman also said that the Albany story published yesterday of Smith M. Weed's failure to contribute to the election campaign fund last fall, is untrue. He says that Mr. Weed sent many thousands of dollars into doubtful Assembly districts throughout the State to help several candidates pay the legitimate expenses incident to and necessary in the campaign.

SPINNERS DESERT.

Nine Men Leave the Clark Mill and Threaten Suits Against the Firm.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 16.—Nine of the new spinners at the Clark Thread Works here have deserted. They claim that they were induced to come to Newark from Utica, N. Y., by false representations, and some of them talk of bringing suit against the company. There are about 30 new spinners at work in the Newark mill. Campbell Clark says he has enough spinners.

A number of the girls who have been idle have returned to work in the carding and framing department.

Telegraph Operators' Wages Raised.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—A dispatch from Cleveland says that several weeks ago the telegraph operators employed on the Nickel Plate Road between Chicago and Cleveland signed a petition asking for an increase of salaries all around for men in the telegraph service. The petition was presented by a committee of men from each division to General Manager Williams at Cleveland. The result of the matter is that the men were notified that hereafter they will receive an advance of $5 per month all around.

The Owner of a Bank Fails.

GROVE CITY, Pa., Jan. 16.—M. L. Lahnizer, owner of the Citizens' Bank, of Stoneboro, and cashier of the Sandy Lake Savings Bank here, has made an assignment. The concern's hold deposits made by the farmers in their vicinity. The Sandy Lake Bank has deposits amounting to $75,000. The Stoneboro concern is a small one, and its deposits amount to only $15,000. The trouble is due to inability to realize on investments.

Will Use the Lake Front.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—The World's Fair directors have reached the conclusion that the World's Fair act empowers them to use any part of the lake front for the purposes of the exposition. Accordingly, the architects have been instructed to prepare plans for five buildings there. If the abutting property owners object they can go into the courts and make their fight, and the directors believe that they will not be able to stop the work.

Dougherty Laughed When Convicted.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 16.—The jury in the trial of James Dougherty, the murderer of Dr. Lloyd, returned a verdict in the Kings County Court last night of murder in the second degree with a strong recommendation to mercy because of the man's mental condition. The prisoner took the verdict coolly and laughed and shapped his hand at the jury.

The Clover Club's Dinner.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 26.—At the ninth annual dinner of the Clover Club, held last night at the Hotel Bellevue, Major Handy was again unanimously elected president. A special train from New York and one from Washington brought a distinguished assembly of well known men to attend the Clover Club dinner.

Dr. Dellenbaugh Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Dr. Frederick Dellenbaugh died at his home in this city during the morning, of diabetes, aged 83 years. His heroic services during the cholera epidemic here in 1832 attracted much attention throughout the country.

Three Men Killed on the Rail.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Two unknown persons, supposed to be tramps, were struck by a train at New Florence at 5 a.m. and killed. About the same time James McFall, of Connellsville, was struck by an express train at Irwin and killed.

LAWMAKERS AT WAR

The Colorado House in a State of Confusion.

ROW OVER THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Toughs and Bullies Sworn in as Door Keepers and Three Men Shot.

A Police Inspector Fatally Wounded. The Assembly Building Surrounded by a Cordon of Police With Drawn Revolvers—State Militia Armed With Winchester Rifles Patrolling the Streets.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 16.—Gangs of Sergeants-at-Arms watching each other in the Hall of the Legislative Assembly, an army of deputy sheriffs crowding the lobby, squads of policemen patrolling the streets near by, three companies of militia under arms, patiently waiting in their armories for an order to move, a wounded patrolman on his bed at home, a dying police inspector within 100 yards of the Assembly hall—that is the situation of the legislative trouble here now.

Two Speakers Elected.

The row in the Lower House of the Legislature was renewed here yesterday. The motion to adopt the journal of Friday, which contained the appointment of House committees, was defeated by the combine after two hours' filibustering. The Speaker's party then moved an adjournment, which was declared carried, though the utmost commotion and calls of the roll and yeas and nays were made.

The opposition, finding their game thwarted, selected Jesse B. White Speaker, and held a meeting of their own. Speaker Hanna, by advice, secured a number of deputy sheriffs to guard his seat and protect the official records. Speaker White followed his example by securing the assistance of many toughs and bullies, who were sworn in as doorkeepers.

Three Men Shot.

About 11 o'clock Speaker Hanna, upon seeking admission to the House, was shot by one of White's guards, the bullet grazing his left cheek. Police Inspector Hawley was passing by at the time, and hearing the disturbance rushed into the hall only to be shot in the head by Harley McCoy, one of White's men. The Inspector was immediately cared for, but will die.

Policeman Andrew Norris, upon hearing the report, rushed to the rescue of his superior, only to be shot through the abdomen by McCoy, who escaped, but was later captured.

Police and Military on Guard.

A few minutes later the Assembly building was surrounded by a cordon of police, who, with drawn revolvers, were prepared to kill anybody at the least provocation. Two companies of State militia with Winchesters have patrolled the streets all day.

ECHOES FROM THE FIGHT.

Dempsey's Bravery Highly Praised by Fitzsimmons—Presents for the Winner.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 16.—Fight is still the talk of the town. The general verdict is that Fitzsimmons is a wonder and a class by himself, and that Jack Dempsey is the cleverest and gamest man of his inches who has ever entered a ring.

In an interview with Fitzsimmons, regarding the fight, the Australian said that the fight was not a hard one for him, and that he did not work any harder than when punching the bag. He says he asked Dempsey to quit, when he saw the latter had no chance, but Dempsey replied, "Yes, fight; I'm not gone yet," and that he had to continue the fight, much to his regret. Dempsey's gameness, he says, cost him $5,000, as he had been promised that amount, if he won in 10 rounds.

Fitzsimmons, continuing, said he thought Dempsey was the gamest and best man he ever met. He believed Dempsey could whip any other man of his weight in the country.

He said he had received congratulatory telegrams from all over the country. He also received too, a more substantial than congratulations, people who had placed money on him giving him a share of the winnings. He received $7,200 in this way.

Dempsey took his defeat so much to heart that when a number of friends called to see him he insisted upon knowing how much each one had lost. He seemed very much distressed when told. "Too bad, too bad," he said to Mose Gunst, of San Francisco, who had backed him well up in the thousands, "and to think that I was not in it." Dempsey's nose is badly broken, one of his eyes is discolored, and he is badly bruised about the body. It was at first thought that he had two ribs broken, but this proved to be a mistake. He is resting quietly, but is not able to go out. When he feels well enough to travel he will go east.

Fitzsimmons Challenged by Farrell.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—One of the first candidates to try conclusions with Bob Fitzsimmons, the vanquisher of the Nonpareil, is Pat Farrell, of Pittsburg, through his backers. The foremost of these says that they are willing to arrange a match for the Pittsburger with the Australian. Said he: "We want a fight on the same conditions as was accorded to Fitzsimmons by Dempsey, with the single exception that we will ask that Fitzsimmons, as well as Farrell, weigh in at 153 instead of 154 pounds, fight under Marquis of Queensbury rules and with five-ounce gloves.

Resigns the Bank Presidency.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—Governor-elect Pattison has resigned the presidency of the Chestnut Street National Bank, of this city, and William M. Gingerly, of the Philadelphia Record, has been chosen to fill the vacancy.

KOCH'S GREAT SECRET.

He Reveals the Ingredients of the Famous Lymph.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—As was announced would be the case, the composition of Professor Koch's curative lymph has been made public by authority.

The lymph is composed of pure generated tuberculosis bacilli in a solution of glycerine, which forms 40 to 50 per cent. of the compound.

The substance is derivative from albumen, but not tox-albumen, that agent contains a mass of necrotic substance, attacking even certain sound tissues.

Professor Koch in his communication to a medical journal, making known the composition of the famous curative lymph says:

"So far as I have been able to review the many statements published and communications received, my expectations have been fully and completely confirmed.

The general consensus of the opinions thus expressed is that the remedy has a specific effect upon the tubercular tissues, and is, therefore, applicable as a sure reagent for the discovery of latent, and the diagnosis of doubtful tubercular processes.

Most of the reports received agree that many of the patients have shown more or less pronounced improvement. In not a few cases even a cure has been affected.

Professor Koch recites his operations while experimenting with guineapigs in order to show the manner in which he arrived at the discovery of the lymph. It was, he says, by this means that the basis for a curative process against tuberculosis was finally established.

"Black Death" in a Russian Town.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 16.—A dispatch from Tobolosk says that the terrible scourge known as "black death" has reached the city of Tobolosk, the capital of Siberia. The whole of Asiatic Russia from Samarkand to the mouth of the Obi is suffering from the scourge. Thousands are dying at Obdorsk, near the mouth of the Obi, owing to the lack of physicians. It seems almost useless to try and check the spread of the fearful disease.

The Kaiser's Under Study.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Prince Henry, the Emperor's brother, is learning the general routine of State business at the Home Office under the guidance of Minister Herrfurth, at the special desire of the Emperor, in order to be qualified to act as regent in case of the Emperor's absence at any time.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The frost has again set in at London, and last night snow was falling.

The official census of St. Petersburg, just completed, gives the population 956,236.

Senator Frye has introduced a bill for the establishment of a Department of Commerce.

Ex-Gov. Oglesby has been nominated for Senator by the Republicans of the Illinois Legislature.

An investigation as to remissness in inspecting cattle at Plattsburg, N. Y., has been ordered by the Treasury Department.

Parties in San Francisco, New York city and a well-known New Bedford ship agent have purchased nearly every pound of whalebone in this country.

Harry and Eugene Gale, young sons of Hiram Gale, a farmer at Kensico, N. Y., were drowned while skating on the Kensico Reservoir. The bodies were recovered.

Work has been resumed on the ill-fated Hill Farm Mine at Dunbar, Pa. A large number of men are trying to enter the mine and quench the still smouldering fires.

William H. Frazer, a clerk of the Gorham Manufacturing Company at Providence, R. I., drowned himself in the Seekonk River during the morning. Ill health was the cause.

A Philadelphia representative of the Claus Spreckels Sugar Refinery is accused of defrauding the Custom House of $29,000 by lowering sugar entries. Mr. Spreckels has given his check for the amount.

Governor Beaver sentenced George Mack, the Wilkesbarre, Pa., wife murderer, to be hanged on March 25. High Constable O'Reilly, who is a Roman Catholic, wrote to the Governor that the 25th of March is Annunciation Day, a holy day, whereupon the Governor changed the date to March 26, one day later.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—For New England: Light snows; cloudy; colder.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Increasing cloudiness, with light snows winds become variable.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Light local snows; colder; winds shifting to northerly; the temperature will fall 10 degrees.

New Bobbin and Shuttle Company.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 16.—The American Bobbin, Spool and Shuttle Company has been organized here. This organization, is not, as reported, in the interest of an English syndicate, but entirely American in its stockholders and officers. It comprises 85 per cent. of all the bobbin and shuttle interests of the United States.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 16.—In accordance with the action of the Board of Public Lands and Buildings, ex-Gov. Thayer has surrendered possession of the executive apartments, under protest. Gov. Boyd has taken possession of the rooms.

Arrest of a Wall Street Banker.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Edward E. Horter, banker, of 33 Wall street, was arrested last evening on a charge of sending lottery circulars through the mails, advertising that he had premium bonds for sale. The warrant for his arrest was obtained in Illinois.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Managing Editor.

BY THE WAY.

—If you see it in THE DAILY PRESS, you see it for the first time.

—Crockery given away to-morrow by the United Tea and Coffee Growers' Association.

—Edsall's new advertisement will be of interest to those who are in want of seasonable goods cheap.

—Next Thursday a reception will be tendered to Y. M. C. Association members and their friends.

—The man who wanted but little here below had learned that he needed only two cents to buy THE DAILY PRESS.

—The back end of Spicer and Hubbard's boiler blew out during last night. The damage to its surroundings was but slight.

—The laws of New Jersey were enacted for the protection of decent men. The moral of this observation is in the application of it.

—The annual meeting of the Grocers' Protective Association, of this city, which was to have been held last evening, is adjourned until the 29th inst.

—Jas. Buckley was arrested and locked up in the jail at Elizabeth, today, by delinquent tax collector Nash of this city, for not paying his poll tax.

—When a man starts sliding down hill, everything seems greased for the occasion. If you don't believe it, ask that disconsolate man from over the brook.

—The two bantam boxers, Benny Murphy and Benny Jones, will appear at Amphion Hall this and to-morrow evenings in conjuction with Glassford's comedy company.

—A short-hand report of the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut's lecture of last evening on "Preparation for life," written for THE PRESS by Irving Brady, is crowded out of to-day's issue. It will appear to-morrow.

—George W. Rockfellow is the latest one to be taught the lesson of how foolish it is to expect to build up a business without advertising. His big branch store on Somerset street has been closed for want of patronage.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Alphonse Laine, a brother of Eugene, is seriously ill at his home on East Front street.

Mayor Gilbert will give the next of the series of popular talks to young men, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Thursday, February 12.

At the Eighteenth Annual Meeting of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture, to be held at Trenton, next week, Chauncey B. Ripley, LL. D., will speak on "Road Improvement."

Grand Chancellor John Ulrich and a staff of Grand Lodge officers, including brethren Flannery and Jones of this city, conducted an installation at Volunteer Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Elizabeth, Thursday night.

Andrew G. Carpenter, of this city, is taking a second teacher's course in the Grand Conservatorie at New York. Besides having a large class of pupils, Mr. Carpenter is the composer of several pieces for the piano and the organ.

The New York World has this to say of a young Plainfielder who has recently arrived home from a trip round the earth. "George Wotherspoon has just returned from Australia, where he spent a year and a half, managing "Little Lord Fauntleroy," in that remote region of the earth. The play was successful. According to Mr. Wotherspoon, it made about, $13,000 in Australia"

Plainfield Photographers to Exhibit Abroad.

The Plainfield Camera Club has received invitations from The Club of Amateur Photographers, of Vienna, and the Liverpool Photographic Association, to send exhibits to their annual exhibitions in April. A committee consisting of Geo. H. Babcock, A. J. Gavett, and Geo. E. Greenleaf, has been appointed to select exhibits and it is desired that all members who wish to send pictures will notify the Secretary. The Club bears all the expense of transmitting the exhibits to their destination. They will be entered in the owner's names as members of The Plainfield Camera Club. The time in which to make entries is very limited.

Plainfield Unluckly for Tramps.

Three bald bad tramps who made themselves too free going about from house to house in Plainfield bulldozing women into giving them food, yesterday, were promptly arrested and sent to jail for from twenty to forty days. One of them had served a term in State Prison for burglarly at the North avenue railway station.

Still Winning.

The Crescent League bowling team defeated the Bayonnes on the Olympia Alleys, last evening. The visitors lost by about 60 pins. The Crescents rolled 1401. The Plainfield boys have not lost a match this season. Among those they have defeated are the Elizabeths, Fanwoods, and Somervilles.

If you feel a cough or cold coming on, take at once a dose of Hires' Cough Cure, and to guard against danger see that you always have a bottle handy in the house.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENING.

Everybody at the First Private Concert of the Melopola, Pleased With the Programme and its Rendition, and Charmed With the Soloists and Chorus.

William S. Chapman of New York, was covered all over with glory, last night. There were present at the first private concert of the Melopola, an audience of 500 Plainfield people ostensibly of musical taste but ostentatious in their display of admiration for good and bad alike in accordance with the verdict of their neighbor. Before this gathering Mr. Chapman spread a musical menu more generally satisfying and gratifying than any that has ever before been presented. This programme achieved for him one kind of success; and as his admirable local society—but slightly strengthened with imported choristers—conducted him smoothly through the pleasing part songs he had selected, he has many reasons for feeling assured that he received some of the credit of last night's success.

The audience, although instructed by a foot note on their tickets of invitation to appear in evening dress, were provided with no cloak room, and carried a miscellaneous assortment of wraps, hats, topcoats and overshoes into the overcrowded auditorium of the Casino. In consequence, but a small proportion will again don their best at a Melopola concert. The ladies of the chorus were obliged to make their toilets on a back porch that though "enclosed" was decidedly chilly. For one thing however, the Casino must be given credit—the ease and celerity with which it can be emptied of a large crowd.

The active members of the Melopola, are:

The programme was a varied one, enjoyed by everybody. Miss Mary Howe, who was the star of the evening, deserved some of the praise she received. Her voice is remarkably clear and birdlike, reminding one in some respects strongly of Patti. Her vocalization is perfect, her voice being so flexible that her trills, runs and staccato are a delight; while her intonation is absolutely pure. If there be a fault in her voice it lies in the lower register. The upper notes, way out of everybody's else reach, are absolutely marvelous. She has not her equal in flying trapeze vocalization. Her selections "Thou Brilliant Bird" and "O Nuit qui me Couvre," were beautifully sung, as was also Eckert's "Swiss Song," sung by request. Fred. Cowen's "Snowflake" showed that she could also sing, though no better than homely sopranos, a ballad.

Miss Emily Lawler was also very satisfactory in Blumenthal's "I Awake and Dream," for which she was recalled; and her solo in the Hymn to Apollo was very well rendered. Her voice has the pure contralto quality which is so often lacking. J. H. McKinley possesses a pleasing tenor voice and sang in good style his solos in the Hymn to Apollo. Dana's "Among the Lilies" was very enjoyable, and brought as an encore Gerrit Smith's "Slumber Song," which was beautifully sung. Franz Wilczek, the violinist, showed himself a master of his instrument. He played with a rich mellow tone and much expression. Chopin's Second Nocturne, as an encore, was exquisitely played. Gustave D'Aguin was better in the selection from La Traviata, than in the bird song with Miss Howe. The tone of his flute was cloudy, and in the latter selection the two performers did not understand one another's interpretation well enough, and were not together. Mention should also be made of Victor Harris, whose refined, beautifully modulated accompaniments added greatly to the success of the concert.

The choruses were uniformly good. The Lassen songs were exquisitely rendered—the Melopola's interpretation of such music is certainly unexcelled. The staccato in "Evening," and the legato in "Only Thou," showed a well trained chorus. "My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land," by Elgar, deserved much more applause, which it would probably have received had not Miss Howe's been the next name on the programme. Milde's waltz song, "Beneath the Stars," which opened the concert, was sung with an abandon which gave the concert a good send off. Martin Roeder's cantata, Hymn to Apollo, was on the whole disappointing. The composer evidently intended to make it very effective, and one was always expecting something which one never received. It was, to say the least, decidedly uninteresting. A sixteenth century madrigal, "My Bonny Lass She Smileth," closed a delightful evening.

BRADLEY WANTS TO SELL.

Willing to Dispose of the Beach Front at Asbury Park.

James. A. Bradley, the founder of Asbury Park, has offered to sell to the borough the entire beach front from Ocean Grove to Deal Lake, the sewer system of the town, and Sunset Lake, including St. John's Island. Mr. Bradley has for several years owned the riparian rights at the beach, having purchased them from the State. During an informal talk with the other members of the Town Board of Commissioners Mr. Bradley stated that his price for the beach, lake, and sewer system would be less than 150,000.

Mr. Bradley stated that in case the town accepted his offer the same restrictions he has always enforced on the beach must be continued, and that there must be no "cheap John" shops or stands on the ocean front. The project meets with considerable favor, as many property owners have always claimed that the ocean front should belong to the people. The Board of Trade has appointed a committee to canvass the town, secure the views of the cottage owners, and see what Mr. Bradley's lowest price will be.

Last Summer Mr. Bradley posted placards on the beach stating that it cost him $10,000 annually to maintain the beach and board walk. The storms of last Fall damaged the board walk to the extent of $20,000.

One Man Now Occupies the Two Most Valuable Business Corners in Plainfield.

The sale of the stock and business of R. M. Stelle, the pharmacist, to H. P. Reynolds, was consummated yesterday and the new owner took possession at once. This transaction marks the return of the latter to his old stand at the corner of Front street and Park avenue where he carried on the drug business for seven years prior to his being succeeded by Mr. Stelle and to his opening at the corner of Park and North avenues ten years ago. Mr. Reynolds has been established as a pharmacist in Plainfield for twenty-three years, and undoubtedly possesses the confidence and patronage of the best people and has built up a business more lucrative, probably, than any other in the city.

His old business will remain in charge of Rare Tom Armstrong, a most efficient manager and affable gentleman. The new business will be continued under the name of "The Central Pharmacy" and will be in charge of J. Howard Leggett, a graduate of the New York College of Pharmacy, who during his several years employment with Mr. Reynolds has proved his skill and ability to the thorough satisfaction of the physicians and citizens of Plainfield. The business at the new stand will be conducted on the same conscientious and liberal principles that characterizes the old stand.

Accused of Being Delighted With Jacksonville.

The Florida Times-Union is certainly guilty of a bit of misunderstanding if not misstatement, in saying that A. L. Force, a native of Plainfield, can possibly be impressed with Jacksonville or delighted with Florida. The paper's issue of Jan. 12, says:

"A. L. Force, editor of The Daily Press and the weekly Constitutionalist of Plainfield, N. J., arrived in the city yesterday with his daughter, and they are guests at the home of the Hon. M. C. Rice. Mr. Force is a stanch Democrat, and is in no way related to the Force bill. In fact, he denounces it in the roundest terms. He has made several stops on his way southward, principally at Wilmington, N. C., and he says nowhere has he been impressed with the appearance of a city as he has here, or noted a spirit of progress like that manifested in Jacksonville. He is delighted with the Florida climate also, and will make a short tour of the state before his return, taking in St. Augustine and the Indian River country, and he hopes that his daughter's health will be much improved by the change."

Moffett—Smith.

As announced exclusively in THE PRESS of yesterday, a pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Smith, at Allentown, Pa., last evening, the contracting parties being their daughter, Lizzie T. Smith, and Mr. William E. Moffett, son of ex-President Elmore D. Moffett, of the Plainfield City Council. The bride-groom is an employe of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The bride's father is Receiver of Wills at Allentown. After the ceremony a reception was held and then the couple started on an extended wedding trip.

Jenness-Miller Industry for John H. French.

Articles of incorporation were filed with County Clerk Crowell at Elizabeth, Wednesday, by the Jenness-Miller System and Pattern Company of Plainfield. The incorporators are John H. French, of Plainfield, and Annie Jenness-Miller and Herbert VanDyke, of New York city. The firm has a paid-up capital of $10,000.

Walking advertisements. Every man, woman and child who has once tried Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cannot say enough in its praise.

The wonderful cure by Salvation Oil of Mr. M. S. Culp, a chronic rheumatic, 229 George St., Baltimore, Md., has awakened wide-spread interest.

New Bank Officers.

The officers and directors of the First National Bank of this city for the ensuing year are as follows:

President—I. D Titsworth
Vice President—D. F. Randolph.
Secretary—Wm. M. Stillman.
Cashier—Carmon Parse.
Assistant Cashier—F. S. Runyon.

The new Board are as follows:—I. D Titsworth, D. F. Randolph, Charles Potter, I. W. Rushmore, Wm. McD. Cortell, P. M. French, Wm. M. Stillman, J. Wesley Johnson, H. Mulford Estil.

The Discount Committee is composed of D. F. Randolph, Wm. M. Stillman and F. S. Runyon.

Present Senator and Erewhile Assemblyman.

(From The Westfield Leader.)

Senator Fred. Marsh has become an object of so much interest at Trenton since his late phenomenal run in Union county that his likeness is said to be found in almost every office in the State House.

Foster M. Voorhees, the able young lawyer and statesman of Elizabeth, earned his first fifty cents by dropping corn on a field for a farmer. For the first time in three years the New Jersey Legislature meets without his presence.

Depredations by Petty Thieves.

The poultry house of the late John Simpson was broken into, last Friday night, while Mr. Simpson's corpse lay awaiting burial, and ten valuable fowls were stolen.

The small frame building purchased by Ellis Campbell from the Middlesex Gun Club, and standing on the former club grounds near Dunellen, was burglariously entered, yesterday, and a costly lot of clay pigeons was stolen. The thief smashed two windows to get into the place.

Will Investigate the "Silver Pool."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Speaker has announced the appointment of the special committee to investigate the "silver pool" question as follows: Dingley, Payne, Rowell, Dockery and Oates. Dockery, however, has resigned, and Peel, of Arkansas, has been appointed in his place.

Quarantine Stations for Cattle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Secretary Rusk has designated Rouse's Point, Cape Vincent and Ogdensburgh, all in the State of New York, as quarantine stations for the purpose of inspecting neat-cattle, sheep and other ruminants, and of swine imported into the United States.

The Knights of Labor Congress.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 16.—The main features of the day's session of the K. of L. congress were the report of Legislative Committee, the endorsement of the Graham Assembly bill of 1886, providing for county care of convicts and the appointment of State lecturers. All labor organizations were asked to help abolish the present State Board of Arbitration. After scoring the Central road for its action in the late strike the congress adjourned sine die.

Assistant Treasurer Kennard Again.

BOSTON, Jan. 16.—Hon. M. P. Kennard, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, has duly qualified and assumed formal charge of the sub-treasury in this city, succeeding Hon. S. N. Aldrich, who has held the office since Mr. Kennard's retirement during the Cleveland administration, and who now resigns to assume the presidency of the State National Bank.

Gunsberg Wins a Game.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The 16th game of the Steinitz-Gunsberg chess match played last night resulted in favor of Mr. Gunsberg. The score now stands: Steinitz, 5; Gunsberg, 4 and drawn, 7. The next game will be played to-morrow.

Will Not Consolidate.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 16.—Vice-President Reed and Director Trowbridge emphatically deny the report that the New York & New Haven and the New York & New England roads were to consolidate. The matter, they say, has not been before the directors.

Thanked by the Legislature.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 16.—Mr. Robinson introduced a resolution in the Senate eulogistic of William H. Kemble, of Philadelphia, for his having advanced $400,000 to the State in aid of the Johnstown sufferers. This is an unusual thing for a private citizen to receive—a vote of thanks from the Legislature. General Wagner, of Philadelphia, received a vote of thanks from the last Legislature for the part he took in the investigation of the abuses of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

Austin Corbin Resigns.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16.—Austin Corbin resigned the presidency of the Philadelphia & Reading Terminal Company, and A. A. McLeod, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, was elected to the vacancy.

Master Painters Adjourn.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 16.—The New York State Master Painters' convention finished its business here and adjourned. The next convention will be held at Binghamton on some date in next August.

HUMOROUS.

"Do you think they will ever send women to Congress?" "No. The country does not wish to be miss-represented."—St. Joseph News.

—An Irishman wrote home to his friends over the briny that in this blessed land every body is so honest a reward has to be offered for thieves.—Ram's Horn.

—Photographer—"Your son, the student, ordered this likeness from me." "It is certainly very much like him. Has he paid for it?" "Not yet." "That is still more like him."—Fliegende Blatter.

—An Exception.—
Don't judge a mortal by his clothes;
It isn't fair," the sage declares.
Yet tailors that the writer knows
Are anxious to be judged by theirs.

A "JOURNALIST" ON THE STAND.

SOME UNPROFESSIONAL METHODS UNBLUSHINGLY DESCRIBED.

As Might Have Been Expected, Morrison Shoves All the Blame on Rice, Just As Rice Tried to Shove It on Morrison—Posing as a Holy, Tender-Hearted Man—Concluding Testimony in the Libel Case.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 16.—The most notable event in yesterday's proceedings of the libel suit of William H. Shotwell against Robert W. Rice was the presentation, for the first time in any Court House, of Thomas W. Morrison, "Journalist," in that thrilling impersonation prepared especially for no one else "The-Man-from-Over-the-Brook in the Witness-Box." Morrison's debut as a man pledged under oath to tell the truth was accomplished in the presence of a large gathering of Plainfielders and others, most of whom were unavoidably compelled to attend by order of the Court. The debutant stood the ordeal as well as could be expected, and assured the ladies to whom he flocked when it was all over that he had not felt the least bit timid or flustered during his performance, though he never before had appeared as a witness on any stage.

According to the sworn testimony of Morrison—which he delivered with such rhythmic flow of voice, chaste elegance of language, unwavering rhetorical excellence and accurate grammatical construction as have always characterized his literary productions, and which were accompanied by such graceful posings, dramatic attitudes and dextrous gestures as have already won him a reputation in private life,—he is the editor and publisher of a paper which in December, 1889, when the alleged libel for which Mr. Shotwell is seeking damages was published in its columns, had a circulation, he thinks, of about 1,600—whether 1,600 a week or a month he did not specify. The bulk of this circulation, probably more than one-half,—he said—was in Plainfield; nearly all the balance in the Borough.

Beginning with Mr. Rice's first visit to his office, the lawyers secured from the witness a detailed statement of his entire relations with the defendant. Primarily the grocer had talked to him about his troubles merely as a friend and as a seeker after advice and consolation, but subsequently he had made overtures to have his story about Mr. Shotwell published. In order that there might be no restriction on what he had to say, Mr. Rice first had sought to hire a column at advertising rates. The witness had told him that the matter was not one that he would care to put in his advertising columns.

"The man appeared greatly troubled"—Morrison continued.—"He was anxious to have himself set right before the community. There was no one—he said—to believe him, a stranger. All were willing to believe Shotwell. He wanted his story made known. He greatly aroused my sympathy. I told him that if it was right to publish the story I would do it without charge, but that if it was not right he had not money enough to induce me to do it. It was a long story. There was something in it about Shotwell having passed counterfeit money. We talked together in a friendly way, for advice. 'God knows'—he told me—'I have a hard enough time. My home is broken up. My wife is at a sanitarium. My child is at a boarding-house. I am being blackmailed and maligned.' I felt for him the deepest sympathy. I advised him to see a first-class lawyer.

"Subsequently he had told me of the $1,000 award by the arbitrators: I asked him if he wasn't satisfied that I had given him the best advice—to follow a lawyer's counsel rather than to rush into print; but he continued to give me the impression that he wanted something put in my paper about it. I was disposed not to touch the matter. Then I asked him to let me see the original papers that had been submitted to the arbitrators. Later he brought some of them to my office, and again gave me to infer that he wanted an article published. I felt a hesitancy about the matter, but didn't know what good reason to give for not publishing the story. Then he began to review the case, and as he talked I took notes. His general conduct indicated that he wanted something published: that was why I made the memoranda. Still I told him, in parting, that I was not disposed to publish anything. This was on Saturday. I said that I would consider the matter over Sunday.

"He came to my office again Monday. I told him that I had decided not to publish anything. 'You have the award,'—I said—'and why not let the matter drop.' 'I have lost $6.000,'—he responded—'and have got $1.000. What good is that to me if my customers do not know of my injury?' This unsettled me. I hardly knew what to do. I did not want it to appear that I was trying to shield Shotwell, or to treat him with any more favor than I might some poor unfortunate against whom harsh treatment might be demanded. While I was deliberating, Edward Daly, an employe who had heard the discussion told me that I was overscrupulous, and that the affair was going to be in the New York papers in the morning. That decided me. I did not want to be a day after the affair and publishing ancient history, [!] so I said I would publish it."

[Just here it may be recorded, by way of parenthesis, and as a matter of fact, that there was no likelihood whatever of the New York papers publishing anything about the case as it then stood. Not one of the metropolitan journals had any desire to have anything to do with the affair. And the newspaper correspondents who were familiar with the circumstances had no intent or thought of touching the matter. Indeed, they had already decided among themselves that they would let it severely alone.]

"From the notes I had taken,"—Morrison's evidence continues—"corroborated by the documentary evidence of some of the original papers which Mr. Rice left with me, I wrote an article. At about three o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Rice met me in my office, and together we examined the proof-sheets of the story. I told him to read them carefully and make everything all right. He pointed to certain statements which he said were not true, and most of those were promptly stricken out, but some things which he said were not true were not altered because they were immaterial, and correction of them would only cause further delay in getting to press. An assertion charging Mr. Shotwell with bribery he said he had never told me. I said I had heard it on the street, and we let that stay in. His general conduct impressed me as being very fair towards Mr. Shotwell.

"When we were all through with the proofs I asked 'Now is this all right? Remember, this is your story, not mine; you will have to stand by it.' He said it was the truth, and went away. Presently he came back and said he didn't want it published unless his counsel saw it. 'I've got a lawyer,'—he said—'and I don't want this published until Mr. Marsh sees it.' I sent a proof to Mr. Marsh's office, but he was out of town. Then I said to Mr. Rice 'All I want to be sure is that this is correct.' He answered 'It is the truth.' And so it was published."

On cross-examination by Mr. Marsh, Morrison said:

"The demeanor of Mr. Rice was that of a man believing that he was suffering from injury, and I sympathized exceedingly with him. I see many things in my every-day life as a journalist, and it is very unusual for us to get aroused that way, but I certainly was very much aroused. He told me that he was being robbed, that even his family affairs were being dragged around. I understood that he desired this publication for his own protection, and inferred that he had been sent to me by some one in town as the best thing to do under the circumstances.

"If you had objected"—the witness hastened to assure Mr. Marsh—"it never would have gone in. It would have been a difficult matter to remedy a big break like that so late in the day, but we'd have filled in with something else."

The witness further testified that he never had had the approval of Mr. Rice's counsel to the publication; that he was formerly a co-defendant in this case; that the suit against him had been discontinued as the result of an agreement of which his part was to publish a suitable apology written by counsel for Mr. Rice.

"I was satisfied to do that"—he added.—"I published the apology. I did it of my own accord, and indeed was anxious to do it, since I had found that Rice had deceived me, though unintentially. Mr. Rice had told me that he had sworn to the charges about short weights, short measures and counterfeit money, and had given me to understand that it was on those charges that the arbitrators had found an award, whereas they had not given damages on the basis of those charges at all."

When asked why he himself had not read the copy of the charges and the statement of award left with him by Mr. Rice, and why he had not compared their facts with the statements in his article, Morrison replied that he had not had time, and proceeded to give a dramatic word-picture of the busy scenes in his shop at press time—all kinds of things going on; everybody hustling; great confusion; crowds rushing in with advertisements; throngs blocking the doorways clamoring for papers; newsboys by the score darting here, there and everywhere, indoors and out; cashiers toiling frantically to dispose of the vast heaps of dollars that kept flocking in; the presses all clanging away as if for dear life and still unable to turn out papers fast enough. 'Oh, yes:"—he said—"we're all hustlers around there at press time."

To those who knew him and his establishment, all this puffed-up description was very amusing, as had also been his posing as a "journalist" and as a prince of magnanimity and holiness and tenderheartedness and coye for humanity in his story about his affecting interviews with Mr. Rice.

The witness sought to explain Mr. Rice's not having called his attention to the discrepancies which he had afterwards considered Rice's deceptions, by saying that the article was two columns long, and was gone over too hurriedly to permit of all errors having been noted, and by adding that Mr. Rice was in a very pitiable condition of mind.

Morrison's abject apology to Mr. Shotwell, and complete vindication of him, published in his paper over his own signature, and abusing himself nearly as severely as some of his former statements had abused Mr. Shotwell, was read in open Court. Morrison said that he had gladly published this retraction and vindication in settlement of the suit against him. He had believed, in publishing Mr. Rice's story,—he added—that "if the short weight and other stories were true it was a public wrong, and Shotwell ought to be shown up."

An attempt was made by Mr. Marsh to show that Mr. Rice had told Morrison to get Mr. Shotwell's story to publish with his own, but the Court ruled that the only thing to show in that line of evidence that would benefit the defendant was if Mr. Rice had done anything actively towards having Mr. Shotwell's story published, not if he merely had suggested to some one else to do something about it. Morrison took the cue, however, and dilated on the happy thought that one of the reasons why he had taken a whole Sunday, after months of other opportunity, to decide about publication, was because he had wanted to see Mr. Shotwell to hear his side of the case but that illness had prevented him from going to see him.

And so his evidence went on. Throughout his testimony he showed an inclination to shirk all personal responsibility for the publication of the alleged libel and to thrust the entire blame on Mr. Rice, just as on the preceding day Mr. Rice had sought to make Morrison's shoulders bear the burden.

Further testimony of yesterday's session, and the developments of today, will appear in these columns to-morrow.

Both counsel summed up this afternoon and the case will be given to the jury Monday morning.

A SHORTER ROUTE TO NEW YORK.

Passenger Service on South Plainfield's New Railway To Be Begun Next Month.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has secured the necessary legislation to run its Jersey City, Newark and Western Railway through Bayonne, as desired by the projectors. This railroad will cross Newark Bay to West Sixtieth street, Bayonne, running along the western side of that street until it leaves the city. Then it will cross the Morris Canal to Jersey City, and after a few blocks will cross the Central Railroad of New Jersey overhead, terminating at the shores of New York Bay. Through Bayonne the road will be built upon a grade with some embankments for a roadbed. Without the passage of an ordinance just adopted to depress the avenue grade, it would have been necessary to build a bridge across Newark Bay several feet higher than now required. The saving will be great to the company.

A special train, containing Superintendent James Donnelly and other officers and attaches of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, ran over the new route from South Plainfield to Newark, a distance of twenty-one miles, Wednesday. The track from Roselle to Newark has just been completed. The new route will be opened for passenger service Feb. 3. It shortens the distance from South Plainfield to New York considerably.

Assigned to His Son.

Helon R. Coue, wholesale dealer in groceries, canned goods, and fruits at 83 and 85 Park place, New York, made an assignment yesterday to Thomas R. Coue, of Plainfield, without preference. The assignor is one of the oldest dealers in his line, having been in business upward of fifty years, nearly all of which time he was at 16 Fulton street. He removed to larger quarters in Park place about three years ago. He said yesterday that his assignment had been caused by inability to collect from persons who owed him money. A rough statement of his affairs showed liabilities of about $50,000, with nominal assets of $62,000, the actual value of which would probably be about $43,000.

Bernhardt Declined by Proctor.

The burning of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, has caused Manager Henry Abbey to look about for a theatre to play Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in her coming engagement in this country. The first theatre selected by this gentleman for the French artiste's appearance, was Proctor's theatre, Twenty-third street. Strong inducements were offered the management for the use of their beautiful theatre for this engagement by Manager Abbey, and a fabulous sum per week was offered but to no purpose. They prefer to continue on with "Men and Women" to the end of its most successful career, viz., the 1st of March, and not to change to policy of their management, which they have established to present the stock Company in a run of beautiful plays. "Men and Women" is now delighting thousands of people, and no inducements (no matter how great) would cause the management of Proctor's Theatre to deviate from their policy of conducting this most popular house.

A Multifarious Family.

How many Tottens are there in Somerset county? There is never a term of court that one does not bob up serenely as a juror, a plaintiff, a defendant, or a witness, and sometimes a half-dozen of them appear in a bunch. As the same one rarely shows himself twice there seems to be no end of them.

Those Dangerous Sidewalks.

An old man walking along Peace street, Saturday night, in front of Dr. Field's house, failed to notice a large hole in the sidewalk, and suddenly slipped and fell, and cut his eye very badly below the temple.

It Depends on the Liver.

"Is life worth living"? somebody asked, and the facetious reply was, "That depends on the liver." Health and happiness are twined together. If a man's liver is out of order, his whole system is deranged. He suffers from top to toe. This is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These efficacious little globules are as much in advance of the old-fashioned, griping, drastic pills as electric lights are ahead of a wick stuck in whale oil.

AN EXTRAORDINARY RACE.

The Plan by Which a Pig Could Be Made to Outrun a Horse.

"The queerest race I ever heard of," said Major Wetherill in the Colonnade to a Philadelphia Press reporter, "was proposed at Deron inn a few years ago by one of the guests, an Italian nobleman, Count Montglas. A crowd of us were talking about horses one day on the veranda, and Montglas offered to wager that he could successfully run any active pig in Chester County against any horse there, and beat the horse over a twenty-five yards course. As was natural, we roared at the idea, but the Count persisted that he could do so, and then we supposed there was some catch in the wager and nobody took it.

"After awhile Montglas and I were left alone on the veranda, and he told me that he was sincere in the bet, and explained how it was that a pig could outrun a horse over twenty-five yards. Of course it takes a horse a long time to get under way, and it was on this alone that the Count placed his faith. He would have the course decided upon, and over it would scatter a line of corn, at the end placing a big, double handful. Then he would release the pig, and the latter would start along, eating the corn as he went, until reaching the end, where he would find the double handful. Later on that day the process would be repeated and the pig would move hurriedly, eat along the scattered kernels, in an endeavor to reach the pile, twenty-five yards away. The next day considerably less corn would be scattered over the course, but the double handful would still be placed at the end. Within a week only a very few grains would mark the line to the capital prize, and on being released the pig would start off at breakneck speed in his greediness to get the latter. "Well," continued the Major, "on the day of the race there would be no corn at all scattered on the course, but piggy would be squirming and wriggling to get off toward the pile. When all would be ready the word 'Go!' would be given; the pig would be freed, and away he'd start as if shot from a cannon. By the time the horse could get fairly under way the pig would be half over the course, just tearing himself almost apart to reach that handful of grain. You see, Montglas didn't count on the pig's legs, but on his appetite."

INDIAN WOOD-WORKERS.

The Flint and Glass Tools of the Aztec Carpenters.

"Aboriginal carpentry," says H. F. McLeod, of the Smithsonian Institute, "was the chief trade of our predecessors on this continent. The Indians and the mound builders had a very good idea of wood working. You will see even now some very pretty joining done by Sioux Indians. Their tent poles make a fit which many a white carpenter would not like to try to do better.

"The best carpenters, of course, were the Aztecs, who had arrived at quite a high stage of art, and whose tools, although they knew nothing of steel, are really excellent. We have a few of their tools at the Smithsonian, but the best collection is, of course, in the City of Mexico. The material used was almost wholly glass, especially for the finer parts of their wood cutting. To chop trees they used flint axes, and for rough hewing out of logs the same, but when it came to the accurate fitting in of the hewn timber, they handled glass knives, chisels and saws very deftly and with beautiful results. There is a ceaba wood post in Washington with hieroglyphics and faces cut upon it, all with glass. You can see bits of the original chisel still sticking in a corner of the wood, where it broke off three centuries ago under the hand of the workman. The Aztecs knew how to make a very good and manageable glass, and their best cutting blades, swords, daggers and spears, saws, chisels and axes were made of it. When the edge dulled they broke it from the end instead of sharpening it, and got a new cutting line.

"You can see a great deal of aboriginal carpentry still in use among the Moqui Indians of the United States. Of course they use our tools now, but they follow out their old patterns. They know how to make ladders, and they swing their doors on hinges from the top, and they know how to mortise timbers, knew how long before Columbus landed in America. Of course they use our tools differently from our way. The chisel they push rather than hammer, work the board up and down on a fixed saw, rather than the saw on the board, and withal they get creditable results. The frame work in the Pueblos is quite as honest as any thing we have in America."

PARODOXES OF SCIENCE.

Strange Conditions Which Exist in Compound Substances.

The water which drowns us, a fluent stream, can be walked upon as ice, says Blackwood's Magazine. The bullet which, when fired from a musket, carries death, will be harmless if ground to dust before being fired. The crystalized part of the oil of roses, so grateful in its fragrance—a solid at ordinary temperature, though readily volatile—is a compound substance, containing exactly the same elements and exactly the same proportions as the gas with which we light our streets. The tea which we daily drink with great benefit and pleasure, produces palpitations, nervous tremblings and even paralysis, if taken in excess; yet the peculiar organic agent called theine, to which tea owes its qualities, may be taken by itself (as theine, not as tea) without any appreciable effect. The water which will allay our burning thirst augments it when congealed into snow; so that is stated by explorers of the Arctic regions that the natives "prefer enduring the utmost extremity of thirst rather than attempt to remove it by eating snow." Yet, if the snow be melted, it becomes drinkable water. Nevertheless, although if melted before it enters the mouth it assuages thirst like other water, when melted in the mouth it has the opposite effect. To render this paradox more striking, we have only to remember that ice, which melts more slowly in the mouth, is very efficient in allaying thirst.

RECKLESS EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Cash Act Prompted by a Mother's Love.

"And you are determined on this shameful extravagance, Allegretta?" demanded the husband of the world-famous soprano, as he gazed with a haggard frown into the face of the peerless woman who stood before him with the light of a firm resolution in every lineament of her classic countenance.

"I am, Guiseppe. Consider the season. Remember a mother's love for her only child. Look at dear baby as he lies slumbering here in his little nest. Ah, Guiseppe, the mother must sometimes overcome the woman. Combat me no more. I will do it—but this once and this once only."

"Be it so, then," assented her husband, sadly; "but breathe no word of your weakness to any human being, or your name will be a by-word among lyric artists."

"You can trust me, Guiseppe," proudly returned the diva, and bending softly over the cot, she sung a $1,000 lullaby to the dreaming infant.

"Allegretta," groaned her husband, "this extravagance breaks my heart!" and with a heavy sigh he resumed his monotonous occupation of passing Government bonds through a patent coupon-cutter.—Detroit Free Press.

PAPA CATFISH.

He Makes Himself Useful in Rearing His Offspring.

"It is generally supposed that fishes take no care whatever of their young, leaving them entirely to the attention of nature," says Prof. Theodore Gill, of Washington. "But the fact is very much otherwise with many species. The most remarkable point, however, regarding certain kinds of finny creatures in their parental relations is that males do the care taking, and not the females. Very interesting discoveries have been recently made with regard to the habits of nest-building fishes, the cat-fish among others.

"If you will go out any time during the month of August in this latitude, you will see in the streams and ponds big catfish of the common sort, each one accompanied by a swarm of small fry. In each case the old one is a male and he is engaged in taking care of his offspring. If an intruder comes near he will dash at him and drive him away. It has been known for a long while that catfishes had this way of guarding their young, but only lately has it been ascertained that it was the papa catfish which did the care taking. Some time back there was a pair of catfish in one of the aquaria at the building of the Fish Commission. At spawning time eggs were laid and one of the parents kept watch over them, not permitting the other to come near. The young were duly hatched and thrived, being cared for in this way until they were big enough to look out for themselves. Then the fish which had stood guard was taken out and dissected, the result being that it was found to be the male.

"In their native ponds and brooks you will find large broods of young catfish as big as three-fourths of an inch in length remaining together in flocks, each flock accompanied by the male. Sometimes the latter will swim slowly along in the center of the flock and at other times alongside. In laying their eggs the parent catfishes select a spot where the water is quiet, if possible protected by aquatic plants, and there they make a nest, perhaps eight inches by six, inclosing the spawn. The nest has a soft, outer envelope, and over it the male hovers, forcing fresh water through the mass by rapid vibrations of its fins, until after about a week they are hatched.

"Sometimes the male catfish takes care of its young in a still more peculiar manner. There is a kind found in the sea, the eggs laid by which are as big as a bullet. These eggs are found in the mouths of the males, which do this to protect them. After the eggs are laid the papa catfish takes them into his mouth and keeps them there until they are all hatched, when they go out and take care of themselves.

"But this method is not confined to the catfishes. There are found in Africa and South Africa a species which resembles the sunfish of our own streams. These 'cichlids,' as they are called, are also plentiful in Texas and Palestine. They are often found with their cheeks fairly bulging with young. In the sea of Galilee the cichlids are so numerous that the miraculous catch of the time when St. Peter fished there might be repeated any day, it being the manner of these fishes to move about on the top of the water in solid masses, covering many square yards and making a noise like that of rain pouring."—Chicago Evening Journal.

—Girl Graduate—"Oh, uncle, Clara and I saw the funiest thing at the park this morning." Uncle—"What was it?" Girl Graduate—"They had a lion shaved just like a little poodle dog."—Yale Record.

—"Good gracious!" said Mr. Ritter, "I am glad I'm not in the strait that the Barings were. I should be in a bad fix if I had to raise $55,000,000. I find it hard to borrow $5."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

—He was Sorry.—Teacher—"Were you sorry, Tommy, that you stole the apples?" Tommy—"You bet I was. They made me so sick that I had to stay home from the ball game."—Yankee Blade.

—Insurance Agent (to Aunt Lize)—"Don't you want to take a policy?" Eliza—"Clar out ob dis yer, wif yer temptations, chile. I done ain't played no policy since I jined the church."—Boston Herald.

—Doctor (to Government clerk)—"Well, what do you complain of?" Clerk—"Sleeplessness, doctor!" Doctor—"At what time do you go to bed?" Clerk—"Oh! I don't mean at night, but during office hours!"—Pick Me Up.

—"Do you find enough to keep you busy these days, Jim?" "You bet. I am putting in a bigger day's work these days than I ever did before." "Why, I thought you'd given up your job." "So I did. I'm looking for another."—Buffalo Express.

It Is Hard to Waste It.

Some advertisers have an idea that only copies going to paid up subscribers are useful to them. This is not quite so. For example, suppose a journal has 25,000 actual subscribers to whom the paper goes regularly. Suppose it prints 5,000 extra copies a week, which are sent as specimens to good parties, whose addresses are supplied by its agents and readers, and mails 5,000 one week to one set of persons, the next week to another set of 5,000 and so on. In this way 260,000 extra persons are reached during the year, while if the extra 5,000 were sent every week to 5,000 paying subscribers only that number could be reached. In the former case 285,000 persons are reached. In the latter case only 30,000 all told. A person receiving a copy of a journal which he has not seen before, with a request to examine it, will usually look all through it, advertisements and all. Such a course is as useful to the yearly advertiser as if his card were sent to the whole 285,000 persons, or even more so, for his single loose card receives far less attention than would be found in the columns of a reputable journal. —Orange Judd Farmer.

The Art of Advertising.

Advertising seems to be an art yet to be discovered by some people. That is, the practical part of it. A constant stream of water from one or more fire engines will soon extinguish or get under control a very large fire, while a few buckets of water, dashed on here and there, have little or no effect. The modern fire department is practical, and has outgrown the old bucket system; and so with modern advertising—plenty of it, used in a practical, common sense and judicious manner, pays.

If you want to catch a certain kind of fish you use a certain kind of bait; not all fish bite at all kinds of bait. Not all people respond to every advertisement. The newspaper is a medium indispensable to the majority of advertisers, because of its wide and repeating circulation. As a promoter of trade and profit newspaper advertising is no longer an open question; that is, when done in a practical and intelligent manner, and pays because of its effectiveness and cheapness.—Beatrice (Neb.) Democrat.

Spasmodic Advertising.

We all recognize that as between the fellow who works "by fits and starts" and the chap who plods along and keeps at it steadily, the plodder gets there every time. The spasmodic fellow may create an occasional impression, but the results of his fitful labors are dissipated in the intervals.

The occasional display of fireworks only serves the purpose of preventing his being forgotten altogether; while the man who works, and keeps working, constantly improves his position and prospects.

So it is with advertising. It is the repeated "ad" and the sustained effort that tell. We don't mean the "ad" that is never changed, but the one that is ever changing, but never omitted! The wise advertiser keeps always before the people to whom he desires to sell his wares. When you want to quit doing business stop advertising, or advertise only "once in a while."

"Too Much Is Plenty."

An advertisement for a wife in a Colorado paper brought such a heavy mail to the advertiser, Mr. Paul White, a prosperous ranchman at Rocky Ford, Colo., that he had to convey it from the postoffice to his ranch in barrels in his farm wagon. For a month he has spent his evenings perusing his correspondence, and he has not yet made a choice. —New York Weekly.

A Common Sense View.

Nearly every business has its "dull season," during which a good advertisement will do faithful work day and night, rain or shine, in familiarizing consumers with the name, location and specialties or advantages of the advertiser, so that when the time to buy comes he reaps the benefit of his seed sowing. —Azro Goff's Circular.

It All Takes Time.

Don't be prejudiced. Because at one time you put a short local in your town newspaper for one week, and "cartooned" all the fence boards in the vicinity, don't give up, get discouraged and say that you have tried advertising, resolved that it didn't pay and decided not to do any more of it.—Warren (Ills.) Sentinel.

Expect Good Returns.

Give your "ads" a sanguine, optimistic hue. Convey, in a subtle but unmistakable way, the impression that you expect success, and the results will much more surely come. Never advertise your doubts or fears.

GAMBLERS' LUCK.

The Story of Whitey Rupp and His Superstitions.

It is one of the superstitions of a gambler that he must relieve distress. Were it a thousand times a day that the hand of indigence and suffering should be extended, he would feel compeled to load it with a sliver of his wealth. It is not so much innate benevolence on the part of the soldier of fortune as a fear that his luck may turn black and bad should he refuse. There is one limitation, however, your gambler lays on his largesse; that is, the beneficiary, in the event of his being one of the craft, can not make it the basis of a play or bet against his benefactor. This another and potential superstition of the giver contradicts. It is a poplar belief that vast losses would attend the free-hearted giver in case his money imported in charity was played against himself. Gamblers tell many stories in illustration of this.

Whitey Rupp, one time proprietor of a strong and prosperous faro bank in Wichita, is, in his fortunes and misfortunes, an example often pointed to among the men of chance and hazard. It was in the earlier eighties, and one afternoon as the fortunate Rupp was descending the stairs which led to the lair of his particular tiger, a broken sport named Bill Chenault sought alms at his hands. Rupp was in a good humor. His bank had piled up the ingots the night before; he had just eaten a comfortable dinner and at this very juncture was meditating a ride behind a dashing span he had the title to. He paused long enough in his pleasure to give Chenault $50. Then Rupp went on. Chenault, an inveterate gamester himself, ate briefly and sparingly on 25 cents of the gift and then hastened back to Rupp's bank with the balance and began to play. Had the dealers known the fatal source of his wealth they would have barred him. Chenault won. He won again and again. He then divided his possessions among several of the cronies looking on. They blithely shoved the money about Rupp's lay-out in a way to insure the widest "action." There never was such luck attended so diminutive a raid. Rupp was only riding an hour and thirty minutes. Despite his reasons for a high and elate heart, he felt worried. The shadow of coming ruin and disaster had fallen on him. He came back to his rooms and, as soon as he discovered what was in progress, with curses and maledictions stopped the play of Chenault and his coterie. Not, however, until they had rolled their bundle of plunder up to the neat outlines of $2,700. The amount itself was scarcely a pin-scratch to so strong a bank as Rupp's, but he took it in especial grief and gloom as the beginning of his downfall. Rupp began to drink, and, to vary his carousings, took large slices of his own bank-roll and played against his neighbors' games. He lost thousands in this way. While he was losing to other games his own was being raided by outside gamblers at the pace of a thousand an hour. His bad luck invoked by the treacherous turning of his gifts against himself by the unprincipled Chenault, never flagged or faltered in its stride, until in less than two months, Whitey Rupp, loser over $70,000, left Wichita, a ruined, broken sport.—Kansas City Star.

SOME LONG SIEGES.

Instances of Cities Being Besieged for Years.

Siege of Troy, apocryphal, ten years. Siege of Tyre, actual, thirteen years. Authorities, Bohn's and other dictionaries of the Bible. "Worterbuchder Schlachten," Belagerungen und Treffen Aller Volker, von St. General F. von Kausler (B. C. 572-555, p. 101.) "Sieges et Capitulations Celebres," 63, 64. Ezekiel xxvi., xxvii., xxviii. The longest modern sieges since artillery has assumed its proper functions were: 1. Siege of Ostend by the Spaniards, 1601-1604—three years.

Like Tyre, Ostend could be succored from the sea. The garrison only capitulated when the town and works were literally mere masses of ruins. 2. Siege of Gibraltar, attacked by land and sea by French and Spaniards, 1779-1783, for four years. This defense by the English stands without a parallel in the annals of war. 3. During the thirty years' war, Olmutz, taken by Torstenson in 1642, was besieged or blockaded for six years, from 1642 to 1648, and was still held by the Swedes in 1650, when they gave it up in accordance with agreement, not compulsion.

Other examples of astonishingly long sieges are cited by Notes and Queries. Constantinople might be said to have been besieged by either Persians or Turks from A. D. 626 to 675. From 666 to 675 the Turks repeated their attacks yearly. From 675 to 1453, when taken by assault by Mahomet II., it was as much besieged as Troy actually was, if at all, for the poor Byzantine Greeks had to be on their guard continually, and they were liable to attack any month or year.—Detroit Free Press.

His Idea of Bliss.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper do not get along well together. She is not to blame, for he is always saying spiteful things. For instance, when she happened to say that a murderer has been sentenced for ninety-nine years in the penitentiary, he remarked:

"Well, he is in good luck."

"How so?"

"He will have a quiet time of it until he gets out, and then he will be too old to marry."—Texas Siftings.

—In the recent technological examinations in England in which scholars compete, it is a sign of the times that electric lighting attracted more than twice as many as telegraphy. Paper and glass making, both important industries, had no candidates, nor had the attractive subject of silversmith's work.

—While crime is increasing here, there has been an extraordinary decrease in Great Britain, the number of convicts serving sentence of penal servitude having decreased from 10,500 in 1883 to 6,400 in 1889, a decrease of forty-six per cent. in six years.

"SORRY, BUT SHALL HAVE TO LET YOU GO."

Thousands of delicate young ladies are employed in fashionable Dry Goods, Millinery, and other stores, where through the long day they are constantly on their feet. Among this class, some of the worst cases of female diseases occur. There is no rest, and, when their ill-health becomes apparent, they are at once discharged. To such, the kind sympathy of Mrs. Pinkham are always available.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the system.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

ANOTHER REBELLION

A Province in the Argentine Republic in Arms.

ALL THE TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT

The Government Very Unpopular and a Financial Panic Threatened.

Chilian Rebels Actively at Work—England Urged to Strengthen the Navy in the Pacific—Minister Lincoln Cordially Received—An Explosion Causes Panic and Death in a Lodging House.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 17.—The telegraph wires have been cut and a very strong rebel force is reported to be assembled in the province of Entre Rios. The people of the province are reported to be much alarmed at the situation of affairs.

This city is virtually in a condition of siege, troops being kept ready to repress any outbreak against the government and a close surveillance is maintained over suspected persons of influence.

The Government has sent a heavy detachment of troops to the disturbed district to suppress the outbreak. All sorts of rumors are in circulation as to the origin and strength of the revolution.

Financial circles are excited over the proposal made by the Argentine Government to tax the deposits of private banks at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum. A protest has been lodged with the government by the American Legation against the proposition to assess foreign insurance companies at the rate of $20,000 a year for a license fee, in addition to requiring a guarantee deposit of $200,000.

The government is more unpopular than ever and another financial panic is threatened.

CHILIAN REBELS AT WORK.

The President Has Issued a Manifesto Asserting His Authority.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—News from Chili via Buenos Ayres is to the effect that a number of the rebels have disembarked at Coquimbo. The regular troops are endeavoring to surround the insurgents and isolate them from the loyal districts. The President has issued a manifesto energetically asserting his authority, and refuting the pretensions of the insurgent leaders.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Chronicle in an editorial this morning urges the Government to strengthen the navy in the Pacific so as to guard the British subjects in Chili. The paper adds that nothing should be neglected while the difficulty with America and the trouble in the South exist.

Explosion in a Lodging House.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—A terrible explosion of illuminating gas on the Liverpool road caused a house filled with lodgers to catch fire. A panic among the residents followed, during which a man and a boy jumped from the upper windows 30 feet from the ground to the street. They were taken to a neighboring hospital in a dying condition. One child is known to have been burned to death, and other children are reported to be missing.

French Criticisms of the Lymph.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—French physicians criticizing Prof. Koch's report upon the ingredients of his lymph, say that the report is not complete, and does not indicate the quantity of the dose or the substances composing the liquid. They contend that mystery shrouds the remedy and assert that the necessity for the exercise of caution continues unabated. In the meantime, the French physicians suggest that the remedy be neither overrated or decried.

No Change in the Scotch Strike.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The Scotch railway strikers have refrained from rioting today, but show no signs of yielding. The offer of the engineers of the Caledonian Company, now at work, to give their Sunday's labor work gratuitously in recognition of the liberality of the company toward them, such work to be devoted to disposing of the arrears of the goods traffic, has been declined.

Minister Lincoln Cordially Received.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—United States Minister Lincoln is being very cordially received, officially and privately, on his return to England. All efforts to interview him on political or diplomatic matters have failed, and it is affirmed that he is the bearer of some important communication on the Behring Sea question, or he would hardly take such pains to avoid any mention of that controversy.

England and Disarmament.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—The Gaulois says that insular England is the only power that can seriously face disarmament. She does not conceal her contempt for standing armies, but the Gaulois questions what England's reply would be if the question of naval disarmament was agitated.

The Lymph Causes Illness.

PARIS, Jan. 17.—Dr. Soller, a physician of this city, has just recovered from an illness of three weeks which he attributes to the injection of a quantity of the Koch lymph. The Doctor used the lymph on himself as an experiment. He has no recollection of anything that occurred during the early days of his illness.

End of the Baseball War.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The baseball fight is at an end. The dickering of the magnates has resulted in peace. As predicted the American Association has been officially given franchises in Boston and Chicago after a hard fight, and the remnant of the Players' League has been wiped out.

EVA REPUDIATES MANN.

She Says She Was Never Married to Him by Ceremony.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Great crowds were present to hear the testimony in the Hamilton will contest. Every neck was stretched when Eva Hamilton was called as a witness.

She said she was the contestant. She knew Joshua J. Mann, and met him in Pennsylvania in January, 1886, at her father's, Thomas Steele's house. She did not introduce Mann as her husband, but she was informed that her uncle had done so. She never at any time entered into a contract of marriage with Mann. She did not hear him say that he was her husband. She never told anyone that she was his wife or that he was her husband.

Eva swore that Josh Mann was with her at Passaic and at her uncle's house in Pennsylvania. She admitted stopping at the same hotel with Mann; but declared that Mann was unable to care for himself—an imbecile—and it was not safe to leave him alone for a moment, and she kept him in her room in order that he should not wander off.

Eva declined to answer whether she had had sexual relations with Mann on the ground that the answer might tend to degrade her. She admitted signing her name as Evangeline S. Mann in the books of the Union Dime and Bleecker street banks. She denied several of her previous sworn statements.

At this point, she said that she felt ill and wished to be relieved from further examination for the day. The court then adjourned until Monday.

THE MINISTER SUSPENDED.

An Ecclesiastical Case that Has Created Excitement for Over a Week.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The verdict of the Ecclesiastical Court, which for more than a week has been taking testimony in the case of Rev. J. T. Riley of Braddock, Pa., has just been rendered. The committee finds Rev. Riley guilty of "grossly imprudent and unministerial conduct and undue familiarity with other women than his wife."

The charge of immorality was not sustained. The finding of the committee suspends Rev. Mr. Riley from all ministerial and church privileges until the ensuing session of the Pittsburg Conference, which meets in October. The trial throughout was secret.

The present investigation was brought about by the close connection in which Rev. Mr. Riley figured in the Minnick case last February. Rev. Mr. Riley's suspension from the ministry is the closing chapter of the exposé of the incarceration and attempt to confine Mr. W. J. Minnick, a sane man, in Dixmont, as at that time the name of Rev. J. T. Riley figured prominently in the publication of Mrs. Minnick's statement as to the cause that led to Mr. Minnick being removed from home.

Stephani's Mental Condition.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The report of the commissioners appointed to inquire into the mental condition of Alphonso J. Stephani, the wealthy young Cuban who killed Judge Clenton G. Reynolds in May last, has just been filed in the Court of General Sessions. One commissioner contends that Stephani is not of sound mind, while the other two members report that he is not insane. Judge Martine entered an ordered affirming the majority report. Stephani will be arraigned in a few days.

Indictments for Forgery.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The Grand Jury of Albany County has rendered two indictments against Daniel Talcott, bookkeeper for Sage & Co., for alleged forgeries committed in connection with the embezzlement of Abbott, the business manager of the firm, who killed himself. Other charges are pending against Talcott. The jury also indicted William W. Thompson, an Albany lawyer, for forging a will whereby he made $25,000.

Death of Architect Root.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Mr. John W. Root, consulting architect of the World's Fair, died during the night of pneumonia after a brief illness. Although only 38 years of age Root stood at the head of his profession in Chicago. He was a member of the firm of Burnham and Root and upon Mr. Root personally the World's Fair Directory were largely depending to make the design of the Exposition building an artistic success.

Earthquake in New Hampshire.

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 17.—A severe shock of earthquake was felt in Pepperell and adjoining towns between 5 and 6 o'clock. Sleigh bells were rung in stables and crockery were rattled. The vibrations lasted a few seconds. It was learned the vibrations extended to Ayr and Fitchburg and this vicinity. Rumbling sounds were heard in Hollis.

Will Watch Nihilists in This Country.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Russian Government, in reorganizing its foreign secret service, will hereafter have a direct agency in New York. Heretofore, the work of the Russian secret service in America has been done through American detective agencies, whose members have been employed to keep a watch or Nihilists and other political refugees.

CLUBBED TO DEATH

A New Jersey Farmer Attacked by a Negro Laborer.

FOUND IN A POOL OF BLOOD.

The Victim Lived Long Enough to Tell the Name of the Murderer.

The Authorities Notified and the Sheriff and a Posse Now Scouring the County. The Motive for the Crime Not Yet Clear—The Residents of the Place Greatly Excited.

CARLSTADT, N. J., Jan. 17.—The residents of Cherry Hill, which is a short distance from this place, became excited last night when they learned that Robert McDonald, a well-to-do farmer of the place, had been fatally assaulted by a negro named Phil Mann.

Farmer McDonald left his house yesterday afternoon to look after the stock on his farm. Some time afterward he was discovered in a semi-conscious condition, lying in a pool of blood, near his own house. He was discovered there by John Cisco, a colored man, who works in the neighborood as a farm hand. McDonald was bleeding from ugly wounds about the head. It was evident that he had been struck by some blunt instrument.

He was unable to make a statement until last night, when he rallied somewhat before he died, and said that he had been assaulted by Phil Mann, a negro, who has worked in Cherry Hill as a farm hand, and who has not borne a good reputation. In the presence of a number of witnesses, farmer McDonald stated that Mann attacked him with a club and beat him until he lost his senses. McDonald lived but a short time after making this statement.

As soon as the authorities were notified the Sheriff swore in a posse of men as deputies and they are now scouring the country for the murderer.

The motive for the crime is not yet clear. It was reported that McDonald had been robbed by his assailant, but this is not generally believed. It is alleged that Mann, the negro, assaulted the victim to satisfy a grudge he had against him.

THEY LEFT THEIR MARK.

Peculiar Punishment Inflicted on a Man Who Separated from His Wife.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Charles Buss of Shousetown, a village near Pittsburg, is the victim of a peculiar assault while asleep.

The young man, prominent in the M. E. Church of this village, was married to a young lady about nine months ago. Six weeks ago trouble arose and they agreed to separate. Since his wife left him, at short intervals, Buss has received numerous communications warning him under threats to leave town at once.

During last night he heard no noise about the house. That is the last he remembers until morning, when he was struck almost dumb at the discovery of a blue cross imprinted upon his face, extending from his hair down over his nose, the cross piece over his forehead. A physician states that the cross was picked in with india ink and cannot be removed. In the centre of the cross were the letters "N. to C."

Last night Buss received another warning notice to leave the place inside of 24 hours or he would be a corpse. This notice was placed in the hands of detectives who are working on the case. Buss has no idea who his enemies are.

On the Wrong Side of the Market.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 17.—J. C. Allen of the defunct bucket shop firm of J. C. Allen & Co., was seen by a reporter today. When asked if the story that the firm had suspended was correct, Mr. Allen replied: "Yes it is true. I was short 70,000 shares of stock and looking for a bear market. It went steadily up, however, and I saw that I would have to give up the fight. I will lose about $175,000. The correspondents in out-of-town offices suffer. Buffalo people are going to come out all right. The banks will not suffer."

Preparing for the Sealing Season.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—Preparations are being made by the resident owners of sealing vessels for the coming season. A new departure will be the introduction of steam launches in the business, two of which will be carried by the schooner Henry Dennis. She is now at Seattle, but will soon sail for this port to engage hunters and receive her steam launches. The steamer Mattie Dyer and the schooner Helen Blum are also being fitted out. The former was seized last year.

Protest Against the Free Coinage Bill.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—The House, by a large majority, adopted resolutions to be forwarded to the Massachusetts Senators and Representatives in Congress, protesting against the passage of the Free Silver Coinage bill.

SENSATIONAL ARREST.

A New York Assemblyman Charged With Embezzlement and Forgery.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Assemblyman Frank P. Demarest, of Rockland county, was arrested at his home, at Montmoor, at half-past one o'clock p. m. charged with forgery.

The warrant was issued by Justice W. H. Bannister, of Nyack, a political protege of Demarest, on the affidavit of John T. Gardiner, school tax collector of Upper Nyack, charging Demarest with forging Gardiner's name on checks given for the payment of taxes by the Union Steamboat Company, of Buffalo, and on receipts for the same.

Demarest has been for several years counsel for the Union Steamboat Company, who have their principal office at Upper Nyack for the purpose of avoiding the payment of higher taxes elsewhere.

Demarest has been in the habit of securing the company tax bills from the collector and receiving the checks therefor. It is now charged that in three instances he raised the amount of the bills, received the money for payment from the company, forged Gardiner's name on the receipts and checks and pocketed the difference between the amount of the true and the false bills.

His method of procedure was to raise the assessment as it appeared on the tax receipt about fifty per cent on the valuation of $100,000. The total amount of his defalcation is $1,816.98. He was released on his own recognizance.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The news of the arrest of Assemblyman Frank P. Demarest created a decided sensation here in political circles, coming as it does on the eve of the Senatorial election. The Democratic majority on joint ballot is so slender that some fear exists lest something happen to prevent a full Democratic attendance.

THEY COME TO TERMS.

The Political Deadlock is Averted in the Pennsylvania Senate.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The clash in the Senate, which was seriously threatened, has been averted by coolness and through the medium of the convenient door of a compromise.

The Democratic Senators went into caucus before the Senate was called to order, and when they filed into the Senate chamber the Republicans were informed of the position they had taken.

The Republicans then followed them with caucus. The situation was discussed at length by them. The practical basis of the compromise was to the effect that the Democrats would agree to confirm Governor Beaver's new appointments if the Republicans would agree to assist in the confirmation of Governor Pattison's nominees. The Republicans accepted.

Spinners Threaten a Suit.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 17.—Word has been received that the nine spinners who had voluntarily left the Clark Thread Works and returned to Utica, N. Y., had found that their old positions had been taken by others, and that they could not resume work. It was also stated that the men proposed to sue the Clarks for inveigling them into leaving their former positions on the pretext that no strike existed in Newark. The mills were in operation to-day, but with only 20 men working in place of 102 usually employed.

Three Buildings in Flames.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Jan. 17.—About 7 o'clock last evening fire was discovered in the three-story frame building occupied by Guy Irish, the stationer. The flames spread rapidly and in a short time the building was destroyed. About 7:40 o'clock the fire spread to the large hotel of W. Bensinger. This, too, together with Quinn's butcher shop was badly damaged. The loss will be about $15,000.

Valuable Real Estate Purchased.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Sarah E. Urie of Philadelphia has purchased Hastings Square, at Spring Lake, N. J., from Mrs. Matthew Baird, the widow of the millionaire locomotive manufacturer of that name. The price paid was $500,000. The square includes two cottage hotels and a number of small cottages, and is considered the finest property on the Jersey coast.

The Westinghouse Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—There are no new developments in the Westinghouse electric company's affairs. Mr. Westinghouse will be here this evening, and will then make known his intentions. The officials of the company claim that the company will pull through its troubles all right, and express the opinion that outside assistance will probably not be required.

Police Inspector Hawley's Wound Fatal.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 17.—Police Inspector Hawley, who was shot by McCoy during a discussion of the present legislative troubles, died at noon. The two warring factions of the House of Representatives have failed to reach any settlement of their differences.

Verdict Against a Railroad.

BIDDEFORD, Maine, Jan. 17.—In the Supreme Court at Saco in the case of the heirs of Daniel Goodwin of Elliott vs. the Boston & Maine Railroad Company, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff in $7,500. Goodwin was killed by falling from a platform of a car on the York Harbor & Beach railroad August 29, 1889.

Barns and Farm Buildings Burned.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Jan. 17.—The barn and farm building belonging to Edward Kitchenmeister, the florist, and another barn belonging to Michael Fox, a farmer living in Highland Park, were burned early in the morning. The loss is about $6,000; partly insured.

New Bank Presidents.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—William Dowd has retired from the presidency of the Bank of North America and Warner Van Norden was elected in his place. I. Beekowitz was elected president of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank in place of M. Taulmesinger.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—U. S. Gov't Report, Aug. 17, 1889.
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

This is 1890.
A Wise Choice.
NEW YORK, July 23, 1890.
All other reports on Baking Powders signed by me or purporting to be signed by me are based on investigations made several years ago.
In view of the present controversy as to the purity and wholesomeness of baking powders, I have been requested to make a chemical examination of the leading brands found in the market.
My analysis of Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder verifies the statement on the label, that the only ingredients used are cream of tartar, bicarbonate of soda (both of the highest purity), and a little flour to preserve the strength.
My analysis also shows that "Cleveland's Superior" is free from ammonia, alum, or other substitutes.
Owing to the purity, strength, effectiveness, and constancy of composition of Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder, I have adopted the same for use in my home.

THE ELECTIONS BILL

An All-Night Session of the Senate Over the Measure.

NO TIME FIXED FOR A VOTE.

Senator Ingalls' Position on the Subject Bothering the Majority.

Attorney-General Miller's Coming Argument on the Behring Sea Question. Commander Reiter Refused a Court Martial—Senator Platt Uncertain About the Copyright Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The fight over the Elections bill still continues. The Senate was in session all night.

Mr. Faulkner commenced his speech in opposition to the bill about midnight and spoke for several hours, it being evident that the object of the Democratic side is to occupy time.

There is much speculation about when a vote will be taken. The Republicans say they are much encouraged by the action of Senator Washburn in voting with them against adjournment, and say they feel that, although he may eventually vote against the bill, he will still vote and thus help to make up the quorum.

Senator Ingalls's position is the subject of much speculation among them. He refrained from voting Wednesday night to take up the Elections bill, and last night he was not present when the first motion to adjourn was defeated. One Republican Senator says that he is in sympathy with the objects of the bill, as, indeed, seemed apparent from the opening sentences of his speech last Wednesday, but just how he will vote upon the measure or its supporting propositions, is a matter of speculation.

THE BEHRING SEA CASE.

Probable Action of the Attorney-General and the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—There is good authority for saying that Attorney-General Miller in a few days will ask the Supreme Court of the United States to decline to entertain the suggestion for a writ of prohibition against the Judge of the United States District Court in Alaska, which was presented to the Supreme Court last Monday by Calderon Carlisle in the name of the Government of Canada and of the Government of Great Britain.

The Attorney-General will argue that the court has no jurisdiction in the case, one of the parties being an independent sovereignty against which the court has no means of enforcing its decree. A court of arbitration is the only court whose decree the Government of Great Britain would be bound to accept, and the Supreme Court of the United States is not a court of arbitration. It is simply and solely a court of law; it is as a court of law that the counsel for the Government of Great Britain applies to it, and as a court of law it will be bound to say to great Britain's counsel that it cannot assume any jurisdiction over his client. And there the court's statement of its position will rest.

DEFIANT BUCKS.

The Young Warriors Have Not Yet Surrendered Their Arms.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A dispatch from Pine Ridge Agency says a council composed of several hundred friendly and hostile Indians was held last night to discuss matters relating to the complete settlement of the present difficulty. Leading chiefs addressed the council and advised the Indians to give up their arms without further delay and thus end the matter so they can return to their home. The young warriors in the hostile camp are still very defiant, and Gen. Miles says he will not wait much longer for the surrender of their arms.

"There is no necessity for haste. I do not intend to send a delegation until this matter is entirely settled here, and Indians do as I have directed, which directions they are now complying with in every respect. The Indian war I now consider at an end in the most satisfactory manner. A more complete submission to the military power has never been made by any Indians. The report that any have escaped is simply not true."

Jones and the Farmers.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 17.—Lieutenant Governor Jones is in this city in conference with members of the State Farmers' Alliance.

HE KILLED HER FATHER.

A Sensational Love Affair that Winds Up in Marriage.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Frank Johnston, a telegraph operator, who came to Pittsburg from Chicago last spring, has returned to his native city to fulfill a marriage engagement which was made ten years ago. The lady of his choice is Emma Boyer, a well known music teacher of the Lake City. Both are about 32 years of age.

When their engagement was first made Miss Boyer's father interposed his objection and gave strict orders that Johnston should not visit the house. Stormy interviews were frequently held between the lover and the irate father. At one of these meetings words led to blows, and a sharp fight took place, which resulted in the death of Mr. Boyer.

Johnston was tried by court and acquitted on the ground of self-defence. He attempted to affect a reconciliation with the murdered man's daughter, but she refused to marry her father's slayer. They have seldom met since then, and when they did there was no recognition. Johnston became a tourist operator and went carelessly from city to city.

Last spring he came to Pittsburg and determined to settle down. He met Miss Boyer at the house of a friend. They greeted each other in a friendly way, and the engagement, which had been broken ten years ago was renewed.

Before leaving Pittsburg Johnston said the marriage would take place this evening, after which the couple will come East.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The investigation of the "silver pool" commenced to-day.

Official reports from St. Petersburg show that 300 persons were transported to Siberia during 1890. It is known, however, that the number was far greater.

John Johnson, a negro boy, was hanged at Opelika, Ala., yesterday for the murder of Jenkins Moore. Johnson on the scaffold said he felt "like he had religion." He was fifteen years old.

Henry Smith, found guilty of murder in the second degree for the murder of Rufus Carnahan at Clarksville, N. Y., last April, was sentenced to imprisonment for life at hard labor at Auburn.

The sentence of Hughes and Buttner, the divorce sharps of New York city, has been postponed until Wednesday next, District-Attorney Nicoll having expressed a desire to look further into the matter.

The case of the State of Maryland against the bondsmen of ex-State Treasurer Stevenson Archer for $131,000, which has been on trial at Towson, for two weeks, has been concluded. The jury was out twenty-eight hours when they returned a verdict of $60,000 for the state.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—For New England: Fair; stationary temperature; easterly winds.

For Eastern New York: Fair; slight changes in temperature; winds shifting to easterly.

For Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Fair; colder; light rain on the coast; easterly winds.

AMPHION HALL NO MORE.

Even Its Name Will be Changed and It Will be Remodelled Into First-Class Billiard Rooms and Bowling Alleys, With Bar, Restaurant and Hotel Accomodations.

Joseph B. Miller, of Miller's Hotel, has leased Amphion Hall, on West Second street, for a term of five years. He will take possession in two weeks and begin extensive alterations.

The "hall" will never be known as a hall again. It will be fitted up with first-class bowling alleys and billiard tables. There will be a bar, but it will be conducted as a resort for gentlemen. Rooms will be furnished for lodgers up stairs. The store at the right of the entrance, opening on to Second street, will be made a cafe and restaurant.

The name also will be changed. It is not yet decided, but the title "Elkwood Hotel" has been favorably thought of. It will open on March 2.

A Forcible Speech by Dr. Lewis.

The mid-week meeting under the auspices of the Reform Club, in Reform Hall, Thursday evening, was largely attended. President H. Newton Spencer presided, Samuel A. Haines conducted the devotional services, and Horace Martin led the singing.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis delivered the address of the evening entitled "Social Purity and Its Relation to Intemperance." With his accustomed ability and great oratorical power he handled the subject thoroughly, minutely uncovering the sources of immorality, and picturing with startling effect the terrible havoc wrought by it on human kind. He earnestly appealed for increased zeal towards arresting the blighting curse, which, drawing origin from paganism, was even now a dark and disgraceful stigma on the civilization of the nineteenth century. The speaker also forcibly antagonized the corrupting influences of the liquor traffic, whether carried on within the lowest dive or the fashionable gilded saloon. His remarks commanded profound attention.

President Spencer followed with a few appropriate words in response to which several stepped to the Secretary's table and signed the pledge.

The Rev. S. T. Chamberlain to Speak Here.

The public are cordially invited on Wednesday evening, Jan. 21, to the public meeting of the Plainfield branch of the McAll Auxiliary, which will be held in the Crescent Avenue chapel, at 8 o'clock, when the Rev. S. T. Chamberlain, from 1883 until recently pastor of the Classon Avenue Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, will deliver an address. Dr. Chamberlain is regarded as one of the most eloquent of pulpit orators and has great knowledge of the McAll Mission, the work which claims the attention of Christian people in many ways. His wife, who has many friends here, and to whom he was recently married; was formerly Miss Sea of Philadelphia, general treasurer of the American branch of the McAll Mission.

A Fine Orchestral Opening.

THE PRESS has already spoken of the orchestra that have been engaged to play in Music Hall upon the appearance of the Gilbert Dramatic Society, under the auspices of Plainfield Council Royal Arcanum, next Tuesday evening. This orchestra will be under the personal direction of Prof. R. H. Mayland, of Brooklyn. They will begin the following programme at 7:45 o'clock, and every ticket holder should be in their seats early so as not to miss a number:

Overture—Raymond	Thomas
Selection—Said Pasha	Wiegand
Morceaux—Adelucia	Dietrich
Selection—Darkey's Dream	Lansing
Selection—Patrol Comique	Hindley
Medley—A La Favorita	Lambert

All Will be Satisfactory When Mr. Olhausen Reaches Our Case.

General Superintendent J. H. Olhausen of the Central railroad, assured THE PRESS a few days ago that the question of moving Plainfield's unsightly and objectionable freight house, was one of the foremost things in his mind, and the matter would be reached eventually and dealt with in a way that would satisfy the people in every particular. Mr. Olhausen favors a plan that provides passage ways for foot passengers beneath the tracks, connecting the main station with a park on the South side.

Public Installation.

At a regular meeting of Norah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I.O.O. F., Thursday evening, the newly elected officers were installed by D. D., G. P., Wm. V. D. Rolfe and staff, of New Brunswick. The following are the officers for the ensuing term:

H. P.—Wm. L. Jamison.
C. P.—John H. Williams.
S. W.—Joseph Kingston.
R. Scribe—Lewis R. Blackford.
F. Scribe—Edwin D. Fluck.
J. W.—Levi C. Kline.
Treasurer—Abraham Woodruff.

The Growth of Mr. Cleaver's Church.

J. B. Cleaver baptized and extended the hand of fellowship to eleven persons, Sunday, Dec. 28. Last Sunday he baptized and extended the hand of fellowship to twelve, and it is said there are about twelve more ready to come to Christ in this way. Mr. Cleaver's congregation now numbers about one hundred and twenty-five professing Christians.

Chronic coughers are bores to the community, and should be forced to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

THE SHERIFF OFFERS THE CITY HOTEL.

Old Claims on "Uncle Billy" Moore's Estate Complicate Matters for His Heir.

In these columns every Monday, appears the advertisement of the Sheriff of Union county offering at foreclosed sale the property known as the City Hotel, at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, this city.

It seems that John Moore, who has come into the property after a contest of his father's will, finds a heavy mortgage on the Hotel property with two years' interest unpaid. There are also said to be some overdue and protested notes against the estate, and these creditors, too, are clamoring for payment, and talk of instituting suit.

All of this interferes with John Moore's new plans regarding the property. He intended this Spring to turn the lower floor of the Hotel into stores and thus greatly increase the income from the property. But the creditors' claims are getting so urgent, as to seriously retard the advancement of his projects.

John Beerbower, the present popular and successful lessee of the Hotel, has under consideration the leasing of the Sheridan House, Elizabeth. Mr. Beerbower is already identified in business in that city, where he is well-known and exceedingly well liked.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

There will be a special service of song in the First Presbyterian church, to-morrow evening.

The Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, will preach in the Park Avenue Baptist church, to-morrow morning.

Franz Haurand, brother of Henry and Joseph Haurand, arrived on the steamship Elder yesterday from Bonenburg Westfalen, Germany.

The Jersey Central Loses a Case.

The Central New Jersey Railroad Company lost an important suit in the Somerset County Courts Thursday. A year ago the company built a new bridge over the Raritan river at South Branch in such a way that an island was formed, which caused the water to back up and to render inoperative the millright owned jointly by ex-Sheriff Tunison and J. J. Beekman. They brought suit for $60,000 damages, claiming that the force of their millstream had been forever destroyed. The jury returned a verdict finding the company guilty of trespass, and assessed damages to the amount of $1,200. Ex-Congressman Alvah Clark was counsel for the defence.

The College Uprising.

Young men, whether interested in Foreign missions or not, should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear Robert P. Wilder, in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, to-morrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Mr. Wilder, who is to sail for India in the Spring, was one of the originators of the great missionary movement in the colleges. Young men who may wish to talk with Mr. Wilder about the subject of missions, are invited to take supper with him at the rooms at the close of the meeting.

—President Francis E. Clark, of the Christian Endeavor movement, has issued his annual circular to the Societies throughout the country, calling attention to the tenth anniversary of the formation of the organization, which will be celebrated Monday, Feb. 2. He suggests that the occasion be observed as an international Christian Endeavor day of universal prayer.

Upon a fair trial I find Salvation Oil the best cure for rheumatism I have ever known. It gives relief more quickly, and always does its work. JOSHUA ZIMMERMAN, Wetheredville, Md.

—G.—"I don't believe in the idea that a fish diet builds up the brain. I've lived on fish for three weeks, and I feel less equal to mental labor than I did before I began. Fish phosphorus is all humbug." K.—"You have been expecting too much from it. Phosphorus only stimulates the brains; it won't create them!"

—Nothing to be Gained.—Little Son—"What was you and Mr. De Bate talkin' so loud about?" Father—"We were having an argument about the duty on copper. He thinks it ought to be removed, and I think it ought not." "Would removing it make pennies any cheaper?" "No, my son." "Then I don't see the use of bothering with it."—Good News.

—An English and an Irish sailor were in an engagement together. The former had his leg shot off, and asked Pat to carry him below to the doctor. Pat picked him up, and while carrying him off, another ball, unknown to Pat, carried off the Englishman's head. Some one told Pat it was no use carrying the man to the surgeon, for his head was off. "By my sowl," said Pat, "the fellow desaved me; he said it was his leg."

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—McCormick Theological Seminary has an enrollment of one hundred and eighty students.

—Cornell was the first institution to appoint a professor whose attention should be devoted to American history.

—The Henry Reed, the Baptist mission steamer on the Upper Congo, ran 6,000 miles last year in its missionary work. The American Baptists also have a mission steamer on the Lower Congo, called the Evangel.

—It is stated that the Church of England has raised and expended over $35,000,000 on church building, repairing, etc., during the twenty-five years ending with 1884. The church spends a million dollars yearly on these objects.

—To elevate above the spirit of the age must be regarded as the end of education, and this must stand clearly developed before us ere we mark out the appointed road. The child is not to be educated for the present; for this is done without our aid, unceasingly and powerfully; but for the remote future, and often in opposition to the immediate future.—Jean Paul Richter.

—The London Spectator reports that in the city of Liverpool not less than twenty-five gentlemen and five ladies have become followers of Islam. It appears also that there is a regular Liverpool Moslem Society, whose secretary asks for funds to carry on its work. The intercourse of England with the East thus seems to be developing a reflex influence over European thought.

—Boston now has evening schools for all classes who can not attend the day schools; school-kitchens and sewing-schools for girls attending the day schools; manual training-schools, mainly for boys, in the day schools, and a normal school for the training of teachers. The evening high schools were attended by 1,773 pupils, and 2,651 were enrolled at the elementary evening schools during the past year.

—The American Missionary Association supports in the South 79 schools and 349 teachers, with 13,395 pupils. They also sustain 107 missionaries in 188 churches, with 7,970 members, and 14,492 children in the Sabbath-schools. Amongst the Indians they have 16 schools and 527 scholars, 87 missionaries and teachers, with 9 churches and 430 members. Their Chinese work embraces 18 schools, 33 teachers and 1,310 pupils. The total contribution to this work the last year was $408,038.97.

—The clergyman of all work spoke thus: "It is not an easy life that I have, with writing sermons and preaching them, looking after the deacons and the church work, visiting the sick and conducting services at funerals, watching the Sunday-schools and holding prayer-meetings, listening to the woes of distressed sisters, doing charitable work among the poor and in societies, keeping an eye on the church treasury, guarding the brethren against going astray, and seeing to it that I myself walk steadily in the narrow way, so that I may not forfeit the good opinion of my flock. Some people think that clergymen have an easy life, but I have to work like a blacksmith all the time."—N. Y. Sun.

PROOF AGAINST POISON.

Animals that Are Insensible to the Effects of Deadly Drugs.

Neither difference of organization in animals nor in the constitution of the poisonous substances generally afford any clew for interpreting an exceptional want of effect. Unaccountable is the immunity of rabbits against belladonna leaves (Atropa belladonna, deadly nightshade). You may feed them with belladonna for weeks without observing the least toxic symptoms. The meat of such animals, however, proves poisonous to any one who eats it, producing the same symptoms as the plant. Pigeons and various other herbivora are also to some degree safe from the effects of this poison, while in warm-blooded carnivora it causes paralysis and asphyxia. In frogs the effect is a different one, consisting of spasms. The meat of goats which had fed on hemlock has sometimes accasioned poisonous effects. Chickens are nearly hardy against nux vomica and the extremely dangerous alkaloid, strychnine, contained in it, while in the smallest amount it is a fatal to rodents. More remarkable yet in this respect is the immunity of Choloepus Hoffmanni, a kind of sloth, living on the island of Ceylon, which, when given ten grains of strychnine, was not much affected. Pigeons are possessed of high immunity from morphine, the chief alkaloid of opium, as well as from belladonna. Eight grains were required to kill a pigeon, not much less than the mortal dose for a man. Cats are extremely positive of fox-glove (Digitalis purpurea), which on the contrary may be given to rabbits and various birds in pretty large doses.—W. Bernhardt, in Popular Science Monthly.

South American Vampires.

The original meaning of vampire, which appellation has been given to certain blood-sucking bats, was that it was unusually supposed to be the soul of a dead man who quits the buried body by night to suck the blood of living persons. This belief chiefly prevails in Slavonic lands. It is thought that those who turn vampires are generally wizards, and persons who have come to a violent end, or have been cursed by their parents or by the church. Travelers describe the wounds inflicted by the large sharp-edged incisors of the South American vampire bat as being similar to those caused by a razor when shaving; a portion of the skin is shaved off, and a large number of severed capillary vessels being thus exposed, a constant flow of blood is maintained. From this source the blood is drawn through the exceedingly narrow gullet—too narrow for any thing solid to pass—into the intestine-like stomach, whence it is probably drawn off during the slow process of digestion, while the animal, sated with food, is hanging in a state of torpidity from the roof of its cave or from the inner sides of a hollow tree.—Chicago Tribune.

BRANDED AGAIN IN OPEN COURT.

THOMAS W. MORRISON AS VIEWED FROM A LEGAL STAND-POINT.

Counselor Marsh Makes a Scathing Denunciation of the "Journalist" for Trying to Shirk the Responsibility of the Shotwell Libel—Morrison Described as a Traitor to His Friend, and Likened Unto a Thief—"Rankest Injustice"; "What Act No Mean, So Low!", Some of the Terms Applied—Yet Mr. Marsh Still Claims Him as a Friend, and Mr. Lindabury Attempts a Defense of the Man Denounced—This Lawyers Sum Up the Evidence in the Suit Against Robert W. Rice.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., January 17.—Great would have been the disappointment to the spectators at the Court House, yesterday, had the summing up of counsel in the famous libel case been curtailed; yet not only curtailment but absolute extinction of this highly interesting event was threatened. When the evidence had all been rendered and the case was declared closed, the Court announced that owing to the near approach to the end of the term it must impose on the counselors a time-limit, and apportioned to them one hour each. Thereupon, after a vain effort to induce opposing counsel to submit the case without argument, Craig A. Marsh, representing Robert W. Rice, called on Richard V. Lindabury, Wm. H. Shotwell's advocate, to open the argument with a statement of what he claimed under the evidence, so that he might know what he was expected to answer. Mr. Lindabury promptly made a brief but forcible speech. He asserted that his client, Mr. Shotwell, had been libelled grossly and inexcusably, and held that the defendant's plea of justification on the ground of truth was an aggravation of the offense, a republication in the most solemn manner, as it placed on record in the highest court of the land a libel which hitherto had had only a limited circulation in one of the cities of the State.

THE WORST STING OF THE LIBEL

—he held—had not been met in the defense at all. The defendant had made the grave charge that the arbitrators who had awarded Mr. Rice $1,000 in settlement of all differences between himself and Mr. Shotwell had found Mr. Shotwell guilty of the various heinous offences charged. The statement of the arbitrators themselves showed that nothing in their finding or award in any way affected the integrity of Mr. Shotwell. Yet after a long period of cooling-time the defendant deliberately, in five pleas, sought to justify as true the statements he had formerly made against the plaintiff, when it was conclusively shown that there was not a syllable of proof in them.

Scarcely had Mr. Lindabury seated himself when Mr. Marsh jumped up and said "I have no reply to make." Mr. Lindabury gazed at him in astonishment, and the Court looked up from the documents before him in great surprise. Of course if Mr. Marsh refused to reply Mr. Lindabury could not in turn answer him, so the case must go to the jury without argument, seemingly to the great disadvantage of the prosecuting parties. Mr. Lindabury was prompt to characterize this shrewd attempt to choke off debate as a trick, an ambush.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE.

This little game—he said—he had seen tried once before, in the Union County Circuit, and the remarks of the court on that occasion would be highly refreshing at the present moment. For the sake of counsel he would remain silent on that very interesting topic.

Mr. Marsh proffered what he considered high authority in support of his position, but Judge Magie said that the matter was entirely in control of the Court, and granted Mr. Lindabury permission to resume his argument. To this ruling Mr. Marsh took exception, but as he later agreed to argument in the usual way the Court seemed to be of the opinion that the exception was thereby virtually waived. The episode caused quite a stir of feeling among those present, and considerable indignant comment was made by those who had wanted to hear both sides summed up.

MORRISON THE GUILTY MAN.

After the noon recess Mr. Marsh began his argument. As had been predicted by THE PRESS, he sought to fasten the guilt of the libel on Thomas W. Morrison instead of on Mr. Rice.

No man—he said—regrets this publication more than my client or myself. But the libel—if libel there be—is not ours. It is Morrison's. Morrison virtually acknowledges that, in the most abject apology which he subsequently made. In that apology he says that that he published charges for which there was no foundation. He daubs himself all over with the mud and filth of shame and exonerates Mr. Shotwell. That was preceded by another exoneration, in Mr. Shotwell's own affidavit, published not only in Morrison's paper but in THE PRESS. That affidavit was penned by the learned hand of Mr. Shotwell's counsel, and therefore completely covered the case. It was probably a better exoneration than Morrison could have written. Morrison has not the gift of sarcasm and invective that Mr. Lindabury has. If he had, no one could live in that town of Plainfield. So Mr. Shotwell had two exonerations. Aside from the affidavit of Shotwell, Morrison himself sat down in sackcloth and ashes, and [cringed, and crouched low in the dust, and humbled himself exceedingly. Mr. Shotwell has not, therefore, sustained any damage. His reputation is fully sustained. Mr. Rice denies all responsibility in the matter. He was not the instigator of the publication. Instead, he forbade it. If the jury find a verdict of not guilty it will leave the reputations of both Mr. Rice and Mr. Shotwell unblemished. If you must find that a libel has been perpetuated, leave the stigma where it belongs, on Thomas W. Morrison. Morrison bought his peace—bought it seemingly by agreeing to go on the stand as a witness for Mr. Shotwell.

MORRISON CAN BE INDICTED AND CONVICTED,

on his own evidence, and no defense can be offered. His motive is transparent. A part of the scheme in which his apology figures seems to be to unload on Mr. Rice the odium which rightfully is Morrison's alone, to make Mr. Rice suffer for the sins of Morrison, to use Morrison as a club to knock us down and make us suffer. Mr. Shotwell had got from Morrison what money would not buy from many men. Morrison had paid the tribute demanded for the act committed.

There was time—Mr. Marsh continued—to prevent the publication of the article for which suit had been brought. The paper hadn't gone to press when Mr. Rice told Morrison to send a proof of the story to my office to see if it were legal. Morrison didn't find me, so he decided to publish it anyway. "No ancient history for my paper!" he said. He wanted a sensational article for his paper, and he went ahead and rushed into print with the story, in the teeth of and in defiance of the command of Rice. "I'm running a paper that doesn't publish ancient history!"—he exclaimed, and proceeded to commit an act of the rankest injustice against Mr. Rice.

The evil that is before us is the evil of sensational papers, with their conspicuous long black headlines. They are the people who ought to be prosecuted, not the man who gives the information and repents while yet there is time and says "Don't publish till my lawyer says so."

MORRISON COMPARED WITH A THIEF.

It would not change the position of things at all if Morrison had broken into Mr. Rice's house and stolen the written article from a safe. The story that Mr. Rice told Morrison was just as much the property of Mr. Rice under the existing circumstances as under those.

But the story Morrison published was more than Mr. Rice's story. That containing what counsel has termed the sting of the libel was Morrison's. Morrison himself says that Mr. Rice told him that some of the things in the article were untrue but that he decided not to change them because they were immaterial. Morrison has not shown himself a competent judge of what is right to publish, and is he any better a judge of what is material?

Mr. Rice—his counsel added—had no malice in his heart. Thomas W. Morrison had bought his peace, had to get rid of the charge. Mr. Rice would not do such things unless he recognized it as a duty. Yet Morrison is the man whose word the jurors are asked to believe ever the words of Mr. Rice.

Morrison wrote the article. Morrison's hand corrected the proofs. It was Morrison's order that gave it to the type setters. It was Morrison's disobedience and that caused the page containing the alleged libel to be spread forth to the light of the world. What other act could be so mean, so low, as that of Morrison's? As for himself, in contemplating that act, he hoped that his right hand would forget its cunning before he would forsake a friend like that.

Rice was a man betrayed. Morrison was counsel's friend, and a well-meaning man, but in this matter he had gone very far wrong, and occupied a most unenviable position. Morrison's attempt was clearly to get a verdict for Shotwell, at the expense of a man to whom and counsel didn't believe that the jury would take his word against the word of Mr. Rice, who was a man more sinned against than sinning.

When the hum of whispers commenting on this vigorous denunciation of Morrison had subsided, Mr. Lindabury began to speak. He characterized the libel on Mr. Shotwell as one of a monstrous, outrageous character. He had tried twenty-one libel suits, and had never seen one so monstrous and malignant, one actuated by so base a motive, as this. Mr. Rice's guilt had been proved by his own testimony, and all that Mr. Rice had done in the matter since the first publication only intensified the wrong. He had heaped insult on insult, injury on injury, down to that very hour. Mr. Rice was responsible in fact and in law. Mr. Rice himself had said that the story emanated from him. He went to Morrison to have it published, even after all differences between himself and Mr. Shotwell had been settled and an award covering all claims had been made. What added to the gravity of the offense was the fact that not until the adjustment had been made and he had the money in his pocket did he make this attempt to blacken Mr. Shotwell's character. The instant he received the award he had rushed to Morrison with

THIS HELLISH STORY.

Was it not the story of Mr. Rice? Was not Mr. Rice responsible? — when he had wanted to hire a column—to pay Morrison for publishing it! Mr. Rice doesn't deny the statement that he was willing to pay for it. Mr. Rice wanted Mr. Shotwell branded as a thief and a rascal, so that people would not trade with him in case he opened a rival store, as he thought he was going to do. It was Mr. Rice's story. It had been the pleadings of Mr. Rice, emphasized by the assertions of Edward Daly, that had caused Morrison to publish the libel. Mr. Rice had never said that Morrison must not print the story; he had only said "Show it to Marsh before you publish it." Morrison knew the awfulness of it, and wouldn't have published it if Mr. Rice had said no. Mr. Rice had made no attempt to deny authorship and responsibility when Morrison in the next day's paper had put the blame on him. He had not even remonstrated with him. Yet now he tries to crawl out and throw it on Morrison. Mr. Rice started the injury, and the law makes the first starter of the injury responsible. Repentance that comes too late to stop the wrong is of no avail. Mr. Rice is responsible for all the consequences of

THIS INFERNAL LIBEL.

It was Mr. Rice that had made the circulation of the story possible, and that in itself was a publication.

As to the charges against Mr. Shotwell, there was not a syllable of proof that he had ever knowingly or willfully attempted to defraud anyone. Yet he was charged with being a passer of counterfeit money, and was otherwise branded and disgraced. The things he was alleged to have done were the gravest of crimes.

Somehow—counsel continued—he felt in this case as he had felt never before the value of character. It was worth a great deal so to live before the world as to attain such as Mr. Shotwell's. The charges against him involved all that was dearest to him. If guilty he was unfit to be outside the prison bars, unfit for the large trusteeships which he held, unfit for the society of the wife he loved, unfit for the companionship of decent men. Happy indeed was that man who could lay before mankind a reputation like Mr. Shotwell's, of forty years without a blemish.

Against this untarnished reputation the defense still maintained its original charges, and had sought to prove them with the aid of Mr. Serrell—who claimed to be an expert mechanical engineer, but from whom the defense had made nothing—a counsel who was a mechanical and other kinds of an engineer, and "Toon" Carey, who was an engineer and everything else. These, and others, had sought to sustain evidence verifying the charges that Mr. Shotwell was a rascal and a fraud-doer who ought to be behind the prison bars.

The evidence of the defense concerning fraudulent weights and measures, the McGee peck of plums, and similar matters, Mr. Lindabury stigmatized as miserable and flimsy, and presented the testimony of the plaintiff in a most convincing way; and then took up the consideration of

THE QUESTION OF DAMAGES.

The article containing the libel—he said—was an awful thing, and he hoped that the jury would find a verdict for such damages as to mark most forcibly their appreciation of the value of human character. Mr. Shotwell's reputation had been jeopardized. It was no mitigation even if Mr. Rice in his weak-mindedness had believed the charges true. He had no authority, no right to publish them. He confesses to a motive than which none more abominable or wicked had ever been acknowledged since the days of Christianity. He had sought to forestall Mr. Shotwell's expected going into business and to kill his trade by branding him as a thief and a rascal unworthy of trust, or of contact with decent men. He had tried to destroy utterly, root and branch, by fell design, Mr. Shotwell's high standing in the community.

NO WORSE MOTIVE WAS EVER CONCEIVED,

yet Mr. Rice himself openly confessed that motive as his.

All that Mr. Shotwell originally wanted was a vindication. Yet even after the arbitrators' letter and Mr. Shotwell's affidavit and Morrison's apology had all been published Mr. Rice still refused to come forward and admit that he too, with Morrison, was in the wrong. He remained passive still after suit was begun. If he had done the same thing that Morrison did that would have been all that Mr. Shotwell would ask.

As Morrison was Mr. Lindabury's own witness he of course had to make some show of defending him against Mr. Marsh, and he therefore interpolated in his speech at this point the statement that Morrison's apologizing was one of the most creditable acts he had ever performed. There are—he added—things for which Morrison might be criticized; but this was not one of them.

While Morrison apologized—he continued—Mr. Rice kept silent. But four months later he placed of the highest Court in the State the grossest parts of the libel.

Honesty was written on every lineament of Mr. Shotwell's face. His character was one of which any man would be proud. He had a wife, a family, a church, to suffer with him. Yet Mr. Rice kept reiterating the libel against him. This libel Mr. Rice persisted in even after the complete investigation and denial by others. He reasserted it by amending in the present Court, and thereby reasserting those pleas also, his five distinct pleas of justification on the ground of truth.

I can think—said Mr. Lindabury—of no damages that can give adequate compensation for the enormity of the offense. We would have dropped the suit gladly, if Mr. Rice had vindicated Mr. Shotwell, but instead Mr. Rice from the Court House in the city of Trenton, by recording these the libel as the truth, and said "Come on, you thieves and rascals!" This repetition of the charges, five times repeated, is the worst phase of the case.

And now—he said in conclusion—we want to know whether your value of character is cheap or not. If Mr. Rice had stolen $10,000, jurors in a civil suit would vote to restore it; but the destruction of character which he has tried to work is of far greater moment. We don't know—nor do we care—whether that amount could be collected from Mr. Rice; but we want a verdict so large as to show that you put a high value on the character of a good man.

As THE PRESS recorded yesterday, Judge Magie will charge the jury Monday morning.

A Savings Bank Defaulter Arrested.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 17.—Charles H. Willis, the defaulting treasurer of the Stockbridge Savings Bank, has been arrested on three charges of embezzlement, alleging that his stealings amount to $9,000. Bail was fixed at $15,000, which was furnished and the prisoner released. Willis will appear before the Superior Court next week to plead.

Jack Dempsey Not Dead.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17.—A report reached here last night that a Chicago paper had printed an article announcing the death of Jack Dempsey, the ex-champion middleweight. How such a report originated is a mystery as Dempsey is recovering from the effects of the late fight rapidly, and will probably be seen on the streets this afternoon.

Is Gov. Hill the Man?

ALBANY, Jan. 17.—It is practically conceded that Smith M. Weed has withdrawn from the Senatorial canvass. His quarters here are closed. This is looked upon as the best evidence that he has given up the struggle in favor of Gov. Hill, whom it is conceded will take the nomination and will be the only candidate before the caucus.

A Pretty Widow's Verdict.

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Julia Dunn, the pretty Union City woman whom Banker Ezra Cooper undertook to send to jail on a charge of perjury and forgery after she had had him convicted of assault, came out of a suit against Cooper for $100,000 damages with a verdict for $500.

Reiter Refused a Court Martial.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Secretary Tracy has addressed a letter to Commander Reiter refusing to grant his request for a court martial investigation of his connection with the surrender and killing of General Barrundia on board the Acapulco. The Secretary in his letter, insists that he has the right to rebuke an officer publicly or privately for failure in the performance of duty, and denies that Reiter under Department regulations has the right to demand court martial.

The Copyright Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Senator Platt of Connecticut, said that he intends to press his motion to take up the Copyright bill whenever he secures a chance. "But," he added, "in the present situation in the Senate everything seems confused and uncertain, but I shall await my time."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Sir Gozo Fatino, the new Minister from Japan to the United States, was presented to the President at noon by Secretary Blaine. A number of diplomats were present. The usual courtesies were exchanged.

Pension for General Banks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The House Committee on Invalid Pensions, ordered a favorable report on the bill granting a pension of $100 a month to General N. P. Banks, now a member of the House of Representatives.

Considering the Postal Telegraph Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads began the consideration of the Postal Telegraph bill, but no conclusion was reached and the bill went over until next Tuesday.

Bolivia Will Use Our Mints.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Bureau of American Republics is informed that the Government of Bolivia has decided to have $200,000 in five and ten cent pieces coined in the mints of the United States.

Trying to Oust Governor Boyd.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 17.—Petitions are being circulated over the State asking the Legislature for a recount of the ballots of the November election. This is supposed to be a scheme of the Independents to get possession of the ballots of Douglass County, in which Omaha is situated, for the purpose of counting out Boyd and seating Powers as Governor.

Death of a Popular Actress.

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Lillian Owen, the beautiful and popular actress, died at the Lincoln Park Sanitarium last evening of Bright's disease. She was the leading lady in Sol Smith Russell's company and expected to make her appearance in Chicago in "The Poor Relation" within a few weeks. Her body will be sent to the home of her parents at San Francisco.

The First Female Notary Public.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Mrs. Ella F. Broman of this city has received from Attorney-General W. H. H. THE JOURNAL OF SOCIETY.
E. D. MANN, Proprietor.
PUBLISHED (New York) EVERY THURSDAY.
"Between the Heats of trifling and gentleness to read great lessons of life, morality and hope."
The newest, brightest, wittiest, wisest, cleverest, most original, and most entertaining paper ever published.
A complete and perfect journal for cultivated men and women, being a topical and outspoken critic and chronicle of the events, doings, interests, and tastes of the fashionable world. It is always up to date, and carries with it the atmosphere of the metropolis.
In purity and power of literary style it has no equal on this continent.
A veritable symposium of well-bred satire; deftness and delightness of touch; strength, independence, and originality of thought; refined humor; caustic comment; piquancy of jest; short stories; musical, dramatic, literary and art criticisms; and topical sketches.
The fame of its Financial Department, as the most reliable authority on financial subjects, investments and speculation, is world-wide.
Its interest is by no means local; being the recognized journal of American society, it is equally entertaining in all parts of the country.

VOLTAIRE PLAYED CHESS.

He Once Met the Champion of Egypt.

It is not in authentic history that Moltke was in Egypt a second time, but Egyptian tradition has it that shortly after the battle of Nizib he mysteriously appeared in Cairo, did a deed that rendered him as famous there as all his great subsequent battles, and then suddenly disappeared as inexplicably as he came. Suleiman Pasha, not the great one, but the commander of artillery at Nizib, the tradition says, sat one warm afternoon at a little chess table in a cafe on the river.

He was a remarkable chess player, the champion of Egypt, and every afternoon he might be found before the little chess table in the cafe on the river with another General, the only foeman worthy of him in all Egypt, opposite him. On this particular afternoon his wonted opponent was tardy. The commander of artillery dozed over the table and occasionally muttered his impatience to the other officers who sat around him at respectful distances. There was a quick, firm step on the other side of the little chess table. Suleiman Pasha looked up and saw before him a tall, spare man, with a bare, bony face. The man saluted and said:

"Pasha, I challenge you to a game of chess."

The Pasha sat up to express his astonishment, and the officers crowded forward.

"Well, how much do you wish to play for?"

"As you will. Perhaps one hundred ducats."

The Pasha nodded, the stranger sat down and the game began. The Pasha played with tremendous earnestness, for it was his opinion that chess and war required exactly similar tactics, and that in every game of chess, therefore, his military reputation was at stake. Move after move, and the stranger seemed to be hard pressed. His case became more desperate, apparently, with every minute, and the officers ceased to crane their necks toward the little table.

"Two moves more and he is beaten," one of them said.

"Pasha," commented the stranger, in a hard voice, "twelve more moves will finish you."

The officers who had turned away came back and counted anxiously. One—two—three—four—five—the Pasha undoubtedly getting into trouble. Six—seven—eight—nine—ten—the stranger had control of the board. Eleven—twelve, and checkmate.

Suleiman Pasha leaned back, looked over his antagonist and reflected.

"I think," he began, questioningly, "that I have observed strategy of that kind before." It was carried out by a man from the north, a German, on the field of Nizib, and had not Hafiz Pasha disturbed his plans the history of the battle would have been different.

Suleiman Pasha scrutinized the face of his vis-a-vis. It was expressionless. Then he continued:

"There is only one man in the world who can make such a plan—only one man in the world who knows such combinations—and he is Moltke."

The stranger rose, saluted and said: "I am Moltke." He was not seen in Cairo afterward.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

THE SONOMA VALLEY.

Named So by the Indians Because It Has Seven Moons.

There have been many explanations offered in times past as to why the name of Sonoma was given to this valley by the native tribes of Indians who, upon the advent of the white man over one hundred years ago, peopled this section by thousands. Of course we all know that Sonoma valley in aboriginee means "Valley of the Moon," but just why that name was bestowed upon it is another question, and one, too, which we believe has never been satisfactorily answered.

Recently in talking to an aged Indian who has resided on the old Nick Carrigan ranch for many years, and was an old man when General Vallejo settled in Sonoma fifty years ago, and must now be something over one hundred years of age, he stated the reason the valley was called Sonoma was because it had "keep muchee moon" (translated into good English, many moons). Further inquiry developed the fact that between the town of Sonoma and the Bella Vista vineyards, a distance of four or five miles, the moon, when it is full, can be seen by the traveler to rise seven times in succession over the mountains in the east, owing to their peculiar formation. This phenomenon has been witnessed by many old residents in the early evening at the rising of the full moon. This, no doubt, had been observed by the Indians, and hence the name: "Valley of the Moon."—Sonoma Index-Tribune.

The Work of the Honey Bee.

The honey bee has long been a type of the industrious worker, but there are few people who know how much labor the sweet hoard of the hive represents. Each head of clover contains about sixty distinct flower-tubes, each of which contains a portion of sugar not exceeding the five-hundreth part of a grain. Some enthusiast who has watched the bees' movements concludes that the proboscis of the insect must therefore be inserted into five hundred clover-tubes before one grain of sugar can be obtained. There are seven thousand grains in a pound; and, as honey contains three-fourths of its weight of dry sugar, each pound of honey represents two and a half million clover-heads sucked by bees.—Youth's Companion.

The Fool Near at Hand.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—Godard, the famous French baloonist, had fifty-six newspaper items pasted up in a scrap-book, each one being a prediction that he would come to his death by falling from his balloon. He died quietly and peacefully in his bed.

—As Dr. Johnson could not live away from Fleet street, so Balzac was ever returning to the beloved mud and dust, the rain and flickering lights, the crowds on the boulevards and the loneliness of those dismal, cut-throat streets which he has shown as in a stereoscope at the beginning of the "Historie des Treize."

—In spite of his long and successful career as an author Alphonse Karr realized but a small competency, and his daughter now advertises the house and grounds she inherited from her father for sale. It has been suggested that the municipality of St. Raphael should purchase the little estate and convert it into a public garden.

—The movement for purchasing Dove Cottage, Grasmere, and fitting it up as a permanent memorial of Wordsworth has been remarkably successful. It was announced that $5,000 would be required for the purchase of the freehold and for fitting up the cottage in a simple way as a kind of Wordsworth museum. Of this sum $4,250 has now been subscribed.

—No one ever talks out loud when taking dinner with Queen Victoria, unless in response to a direct question from Her Majesty. The guests converse among themselves in whispers. From time to time the Queen speaks to some one of her guests; but as it is not proper to disagree with her the conversation is necessarily subject to strict limitations. The Queen may disagree with her guests, however.

—Mrs. Henry M. Stanley is unusually tall for a woman, but she does not make any efforts to appear less tall than she is. Her straight, clinging skirts, long waists, hair puffed high on top, tall hat on top of that, and feathers surmounting all, add at least nine inches of unnecessary length to her figure. Mrs. Stanley has been spoken of as a beauty, but it is the keen intelligence that shines in her great eyes which wins her the greatest admiration.

—Dr. B. W. Richardson, the English authority on hygiene, is apparently in league with parents who lecture their children upon the evils of eating sweets. In a recent address Dr. Richardson said the sewage of London, or part of it, used to be taken to Jamaica in barrels to manure the sugar gardens. The exporters of sewage thought it would be a pity to waste their barrels, or to bring them back empty; so the self same barrels were filled with a return cargo of raw sugar.

PRECIOUS STONES.

An Old-Time Belief that They Cured Disease.

In a queer old book about the value of precious stones it is seriously stated that the swallowing of certain ones would prevent certain diseases.

The topaz was prescribed to stop bleeding wounds, and to make the heart light.

The diamond is advised for those who walk in their sleep, and are slightly insane (to-day we would be very apt to credit people who swallowed diamonds with being more than slightly insane)

The loadstone would cure headaches, bites of serpents and deafness. Indeed, it is said to possess so many virtues that the head of any large family to-day is advised to buy one for each child, and in this way avoid the necessity of frequent calls and correspondingly long bills from a physician.

The sapphire makes the dull cheerful and brings perfection of health.

The opal is good for the eyes, for it causes the tears to flow.

Crystals prevent bad dreams; coral and cornelian stop hemorrhages.

Cardan, a great physician of olden times, writes most positively that the topaz, if hung around the neck or swallowed in a drink, "will increase wisdom and repel fear." He also claimed to cure people of madness by making them swallow the yellow stone, and asserted that it never failed.

To the carbuncle, and to it alone, belongs the power of driving away devils. Under its guidance the evil spirit quietly departs, and nobody ever sees it go; consequently nobody can deny its departure.—Boston Herald.

A Terrible Disappointment.

Mother—Why, my dear, what's the matter? Something has happened at Mrs. De Music's party, I know. Tell me all about it, my child.

Daughter—Boo-hoo! Mrs. De Music asked me to play, and—and when I told her I was out of practice, she said she was "so sorry," and didn't ask me again, boo-hoo-hoo!—Good News.

It Is Hard to Waste It.

Some advertisers have an idea that only copies going to paid up subscribers are useful to them. This is not quite so. For example, suppose a journal has 25,000 actual subscribers to whom the paper goes regularly. Suppose it prints 5,000 extra copies a week, which are sent as specimens to good parties, whose addresses are supplied by its agents and readers, and mails 5,000 one week to one set of persons, the next week to another set of 5,000 and so on. In this way 260,000 extra persons are reached during the year, while if the extra 5,000 were sent every week to 5,000 paying subscribers only that number could be reached. In the former case 285,000 persons are reached. In the latter case only 30,000 all told. A person receiving a copy of a journal which he has not seen before with a request to examine it, will usually look all through it, advertisements and all. Such a course is as useful to the yearly advertiser as if his card were sent to the whole 285,000 persons, or even more so, for his single loose card receives far less attention than would be found in the columns of a reputable journal.—Orange Judd Farmer.

The Art of Advertising.

Advertising seems to be an art yet to be discovered by some people. That is, the practical part of it. A constant stream of water from one or more fire engines will soon extinguish or get under control a very large fire, while a few buckets of water, dashed on here and there, have little or no effect. The modern fire department is practical, and has outgrown the old bucket system; and so with modern advertising—plenty of it, used in a practical, common sense and judicious manner, pays.

If you want to catch a certain kind of fish you use a certain kind of bait; not all fish bite at all kinds of bait. Not all people respond to every advertisement. The newspaper is a medium indispensable to the majority of advertisers, because of its wide and repeating circulation. As a promoter of trade and profit, newspaper advertising is no longer an open question; that is, when done in a practical and intelligent manner, and pays because of its effectiveness and cheapness.—Beatrice (Neb.) Democrat.

Spasmodic Advertising.

We all recognize that as between the fellow who works "by fits and starts" and the chap who plods along and keeps at it steadily, the plodder gets there every time. The spasmodic fellow may create an occasional impression, but the results of his fitful labors are dissipated in the intervals.

The occasional display of fireworks only serves the purpose of preventing his being forgotten altogether; while the man who works, and keeps working, constantly improves his position and prospects.

So it is with advertising. It is the repeated "ad" and the sustained effort that tell. We don't mean the "ad" that is never changed, but the one that is ever changing, but never omitted! The wise advertiser keeps always before the people to whom he desires to sell his wares. When you want to quit doing business stop advertising, or advertise only "once in a while."

"Too Much Is Plenty."

An advertisement for a wife in a Colorado paper brought such a heavy mail to the advertiser, Mr. Paul White, a prosperous ranchman at Rocky Ford, Colo., that he had to convey it from the postoffice to his ranch in barrels in his farm wagon. For a month he has spent his evenings perusing his correspondence, and he has not yet made a choice.—New York Weekly.

A Common Sense View.

Nearly every business has its "dull season," during which a good advertisement will do faithful work day and night, rain or shine, in familiarizing consumers with the name, location and specialties or advantages of the advertiser, so that when the time to buy comes he reaps the benefit of his seed sowing.—Agro Goff's Circular.

It All Takes Time.

Don't be prejudiced. Because at one time you put a short local in your town newspaper for one week, and "cartooned" all the fence boards in the vicinity, don't give up, get discouraged and say that you have tried advertising, resolved that it didn't pay and decided not to do any more of it.—Warren (Ills.) Sentinel.

Expect Good Returns.

Give your "ads" a sanguine, optimistic hue. Convey, in a subtle but unmistakable way, the impression that you expect success, and the results will many more surely come. Never advertise your doubts or fears.

MIGRATION OF BIRDS.

The Prompting Causes of Their Lengthy Flights.

Brehm, the distinguished German naturalist, who has so recently died, says love and hunger are the birds' only guiding impulses. The statement is made, and is a very interesting one, that those that cross the Mediterranean sea in going from Africa to Europe follow certain fixed routes: First, by the Straits of Gibraltar; second, from Tunis to Sardinia and Corsica to the shores of the Gulf of Genoa; third, from Tripoli by Malta and Sicily to Italy, etc.

How were these lines of passage learned? In the diluvial period, what is now the Mediterranean sea consisted of two large lakes, one of which was cut off the ocean by a broad strip of land where now are the Straits of Gibraltar, and which were separated from each other by a land dike composed of Italy, Sicily, etc., which connected the two continents. The birds, as they increased in numbers, migrated by these routes in search of better breeding-places, and as the lands sank they continued to follow them over gradually narrowing belts of land, over marshes and lagunes, and finally over broad waters, and yet no one generation was aware of any change. They carried with them the memory of their warm winter home, and on the approach of the European winter, when their food supply failed, returned to it with their young.

If this explanation is the correct one, it is evident, says Forest and Stream, that we have failed in our efforts to introduce these migratory birds because we have attempted to reverse the process by which the habit of migration was acquired, and, in order to succeed, instead of turning them loose in the north, we must give the strangers, skylarks, nightingales, quail, etc., a suitable southern winter habitat (Florida, Louisiana, Mexico), from which in spring, food failing or driven by an inherent tendency (as asserted by Prof. Baird), they may wander to some other locality suitable for raising their young, and to which, by virtue of memory thus acquired and finally inherited, they may return when food fails them in their summer home.

If they wander in all directions from the winter home, those that go to the most favorable localities will most certainly survive and multiply, while none of them will be in such unfavorable conditions as those that may be turned loose in our Northern States. They will then, so far as we can arrange it for them, be best prepared for the struggle for existence in this country, over the whole of which, if they find favorable conditions, we may expect them soon to spread, and thus repay us for our expenditure of effort and money. By imitating the processes of nature we shall make haste slowly, but we shall finally have our reward.

GREEK MYTHOLOGY.

A School Where the Grecian Heroes Were Taught.

In the mountains of Greece there was a great cave, and in that cave lived a man who was half a horse. He had the head and breast of a man, but a horse's body and legs. He was famed, writes Andrew Land in St. Nicholas, for knowing more about every thing than any one else in all Greece. He knew about the stars, and the plants of earth, which were good for medicine, and which were poisonous. He was the best archer with the bow, and the best player of the harp, he knew most songs and stories of old times, for he was the last of a people half-horse and half-man, who had dwelt in ancient times on the hills. Therefore, the Kings in Greece sent their sons to him to be taught shooting, singing, and telling the truth, and that was all the teaching they had then, except that they learned to hunt, and fish, and fight, and throw spears, and toss the hammer and the stone. Many of the boys taught by Chiron became famous. Among them was Orpheus, who played the harp so sweetly that wild beasts followed his minstrelsy, and even the trees danced after him, and settled where he stopped playing; and there was Mopsus, who could understand what the birds say to each other, and there was Bates, the handsomest of men; and Tiphys, the best steersman of a ship; and Castor, with his brother Polydeuces, the boxer; and Heracles, the strongest man in the whole world, was there; and Lynceus, whom they call Keen-eye, because he could see so far, and he could see the dead men in their graves under the earth; and there was Euphemus, so swift and light-footed that he could run upon the gray sea, and never wet his feet; and there were Calais and Zetes, the two sons of the North Wind, with golden wings upon their feet; and many others were there whose names it would be too long to tell. They all grew up together in the hills, good friends, healthy, and brave, and strong.

CRABS' EYES AS MEDICINE.

They Are Used to Correct Acidity of the Stomach.

Crabs' eyes are employed to some extent as a remedy for acid stomachs. They are not actually the eyes of the crab, but simply small concretions of lime found in the stomachs of crayfish at the time when they are about to cast their shell and make new ones. It is supposed, says the Chicago Times, that these concretions are designed by nature to provide material for the new shells. At all events, having been deposited originally by animals, they are more readily absorbed into the human system. Before being administered as medicine they are pulverized.

Oyster-shells are used in precisely the same way and for the same purpose, being prepared preliminarily by washing and pulverizing. The pulverized shells are placed in solution in water, the heavier and coarser particles falling to the bottom. By pouring off the solution thus obtained and permitting it to precipitate such fine particles of lime as it still retains, an exceedingly refined deposit is at length secured. Cuttlefish bones, from sepia fish of commerce—the same that are used for canary birds—are ground up and used in the same fashion and to serve a like medical usefulness.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Perfectly Well!

FILLMORE, Dubuque Co., IA., Sept., 1889

Miss K. Finnigan writes: My mother and sister used Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for neuralgia. They are both perfectly well now and never tired praising the Tonic.

Recovered Health and Happiness.

LAWRENCE, MASS., Dec. '88.

I was suffering for 12 years from a nervous disease more or less; tried everything I heard of, spared neither money nor time to get medicine, but none had the desired effect, until Rev. Sagg recommended the Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, of which I used but three bottles and completely recovered my health and happiness. I hope others will be benefited by the remedy as much as I was. MARY SENSE.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

THE SENATE'S FIGHT

Devising Means to Dispose of the Elections Bill.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS TO-NIGHT.

Senator Aldrich to Call Up the Rule for Closing Debate.

Absent Senators Returning to Washington. The House Debating the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill—Army and Navy Officers Ready for the World's Fair Mission—The Dead Historian.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The crisis in the Senate is at hand. The fate of the Elections bill will be determined at a caucus of Senators to be held probably to-night to devise a mode of procedure during the pendency of the bill. At the caucus plans for disposing of the cloture rule without delay will be discussed, and it is believed that a satisfactory arrangement will be effected, although the unsatisfactory proceedings of previous caucuses in connection with the Elections bill do not hold out much hope to the advocates of the measure for a settlement of the matter.

Senator Aldrich gave notice that he would to-morrow call up the rule for closing debate on the Elections bill. The provisions of this rule do not extend beyond the end of the present session. Mr. Aldrich had been instructed by a Republican caucus to report and call up the rule, and the caucus to-night will be confronted with the task of finding means for disposing of it speedily without offending the public taste.

Calling up the rule for discussion to-morrow will probably show what the Republican policy will be, and until then, or until after the caucus is held, it is useless to attempt to predict what the programme for the week in the Senate will be.

To-day the Republicans have a quorum of their members; the return of Senators Blair, Chandler and Farwell insuring this, and consequently there is no likelihood that the Democrats will attempt to break a quorum by leaving the chamber.

WORK IN THE HOUSE.

The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill Now Being Considered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill is likely to occupy the time and attention of the House for the greater part of the week.

This afternoon Mr. Hopkins will endeavor to have the bill to reclassify and fix the salaries of clerks in the railway mail service considered and Mr. Perkins will claim the floor for action on the bill reported from the Committee on Indian Affairs, to ratify and confirm the agreement made with certain tribes of Indians.

As soon as the District Appropriation bill is out of the way, Mr. Boutelle will call up the Appropriation bill.

READY FOR THEIR MISSION.

Army and Navy Officers to Invite Other Republics to the World's Fair.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The army and navy officers who have been detailed as special commissioners to carry the invitation from the Government of the United States to the other American Republics and the West Indian colonies to participate in the Columbian Exposition have received their letters of credence and instructions from the Department of State, and will start on their missions at once. Their instructions are very comprehensive, and if carried out will make the Latin American department one of the greatest features of the Exposition.

Their first duties will be to explain fully to the proper officials the plan and scope of the Exposition, to secure the appointment of commissioners from the South and Central countries and the consent of those Governments for the erection of separate national buildings to contain their exhibits, it being desired that such buildings shall represent the peculiar forms of architecture of the American Republics. The commissioners will visit the provinces of the countries to which they are assigned for the purpose of interesting local authorities, commercial bodies and the people generally.

Funeral of the Dead Historian.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—All day long mourning friends called at the late residence of the venerable historian, George Bancroft, and there is universal grief in the city over his death. It has been decided to hold funeral services to-morrow morning in St. John's Episcopal Church here. The interment will take place at Worcester, Mass., where Mr. Bancroft's wife is buried.

Senator Hearst's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senator Hearst's physicians report little or no change in their patient's condition during the past 24 hours. He is however critically ill, and an unfavorable change is feared at any hour.

The First Armenian Church.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 19.—The first Armenian Church in the United States was dedicated with impressive ceremonies yesterday. Rev H. V. Sarajaan, who has charge of the native Armenian Church here, officiated. The services were conducted entirely in the Armenian tongue.

Editor McGee Not Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 19.—A report that Howard McGee, a well known newspaper man of Memphis committed suicide here yesterday, is found to be erroneous. Mr. McGee was seen at the Southern Hotel last night and expressed a desire to "become acquainted with the man who started the rumor."

SULLIVAN TALKS FIGHT.

He Will Give Slavin $5,000 to Stand Up Six Rounds Before Him.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 19.—John L. Sullivan says that Wakely and Lynch have said before him, presumably for New Orleans friends of Slavin, a proposal to fight the Australian for $10,000. Sullivan's reply is:

"I will give Slavin $2,500 or $5,000 if he will show that he can stand before me for six rounds with five ounce gloves. This as soon as my present engagement will permit.

"The facts about this business," continued Sullivan, "are that while I have demonstrated that I am champion of the world, there are three men who still call themselves champions. They are Jim Corbett, Slavin and Jake Kilrain. Now I want these men to decide among themselves which of the three is the champion. By that time I will be through with my present engagement and I will meet the winner in a glove contest. I do not want any more fist fights because they have been declared illegal, and there is no use running up against the law. A glove fight will settle the question."

"Sullivan will fight any of these so-called champions in the rooms of the athletic club that puts up the biggest purse," interposed Jim Wakeley.

"Yes," responded the big fellow, "I will. Charley Johnston of Brooklyn would match me for $20,000 against anybody to-morrow. It is no question of money. I can get all the financial backing I want."

WILL EXAMINE THE BOOKS.

A Committee of the Knights of Labor to Begin Investigation.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—There will be a overhauling of accounts at the Knights of Labor headquarters in this city this week, when the special auditing committee appointed at the last session of the General Assembly at Denver will begin its labors here.

This committee consists of Henry A. Allen of Michigan, District Master Workman of the Knights of Labor of that State; Joseph D. Mansion of Troy, N. Y., District Master Workman of District Assembly 68, and T. L. Drury of Rutland, Vt., District Master Workman of District Assembly 200. The committee is expected to begin its work on Wednesday.

Almost Suffocated by Gas.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Jan. 19.—Harry Wells, his wife and child, of Riverside, while sleeping in a room that was heated by a gas stove, nearly lost their lives by asphyxiation. Mr. Wells was awakened by a suffocating feeling and was almost unable to move. He roused himself and succeeded in dragging his semi-unconscious wife and child from the stifling room. Restoratives were administered and the victims survived, but they are yet seriously ill from the effects.

Stanley Hears Words of Praise.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—The Rev. Philips Brooks preached a special sermon yesterday in Trinity Church on Missions. In the course of his remarks he referred to the christianizing influence of the work in Africa of Henry M. Stanley. Unknown to the speaker, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Stanley's mother were among his hearers. Afterwards, in referring to the sermon, Mr. Stanley said it was the most powerful and eloquent discourse to which he had ever listened.

Disappeared After the Play.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 19.—Miss Minnie Thompson, daughter of J. W. Thompson of the East End, who formerly resided in Orange, N. J., and Charles Bothwell, of Rochester, N. Y., have been missing since the night of January 3, when, they left the young lady's home to attend the performance at the Pittsburg Opera House. Mr. Bothwell is a student, and was preparing to go to Yale College. It is thought the couple have eloped.

Ex-Governor Thayer a Maniac.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 19.—The long vigil of ex-Governor Thayer during the exciting scenes of the opening of the Legislature, when he remained in his apartments 80 hours for the purpose of keeping out Govenanor Boyd, has resulted in a dangerous attack of nervous prostration. To-day the ex-Governor is a raving maniac and his physicians say his condition is alarming owing to his age, 75 years.

Twelve Firms in the Combination.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 19.—The Glass-Table-ware Trust has applied for a charter in this State. The names of the applicants are all well known flint-glass manufacturers, and the present application indicates the long-delayed trust to be a sure thing. The central office of the association will be located in this city. There are twelve leading firms in the combine and others will probably soon come in.

Death of Alfred Wright.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Alfred Wright, one of the most noted manufacturers of perfumes in the world, and owner of the Alfred Wright perfume plant of this city, died last night after an illness of nearly two years, aged 61. He was considered to be one of the most wealthy men of the city.

GAS WRECKS A HOTEL

Terrible Destruction Caused By a Leak in the Pipe.

TWO KILLED AND MANY INJURED

The Explosion Took Place in the Dining Room Just Before Dinner Hour.

Miraculous Escape of a Large Number of Guests—Three Persons Blown Through the Windows—Furniture Hurled Across the Street—Telegraph Wires Lined With Towels and Table Linen.

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 19.—A special from Findlay, O., says: At about 1 p. m. an explosion of gas occurred in the Marion Hotel which ruined fully one half of the four story structure and was disastrous otherwise.

There had been a leakage of gas for several days and an attempt had been made to find it, but it was unavailing.

The explosion was caused by igniting gas in a cistern under the dining room. There were nine persons in the room and three of them were blown through the windows.

Kittie Walsh, formerly of Bradford, one of the dining room girls, was instantly killed and Ella Johnson was so badly hurt that her recovery seems impossible. Kate Rooney and Cassie McGrauf were badly cut and burned, but will recover. Frank Poundstone, day clerk, A. E. Marion, Frank B. Andrews and A. W. Pierson were all hurt but not seriously.

The loss to the hotel and neighboring buildings amounts to $28,000.

Miraculous Escape.

The explosion took place just five minutes before the call for dinner would have been made, otherwise the room would have been filled and the loss of life would have been appalling.

The shock was so severe that all the windows on the square were broken and the furniture of the dining apartments was hurled across the street. The telegraph and telephone poles in the neighborhood were covered with table linen and towels, giving them the appearance of clothes lines.

Ella Johnson died soon after her removal from the hotel.

The terrible catastrophe has plunged the city into mourning.

The proprietors of the hotel, Mr. Frank Andrews and brother, of Bradford, Pa., had been in charge of the Marvin House only since Jan. 1.

PULL STRAWS FOR A WIFE.

A Modern Enoch Arden Story Creates No Little Excitement.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 19.—In 1883 William Evans and Maggie Williams were residents of Tamaqua, Schuylkill County. They fell in love and were married. Evans, who had previously worked in the mines, had saved a little money, and after the marriage started a small mercantile business. He did not succeed very well, and becoming discouraged sold out and went to Colorado.

Two children had been born to the couple.

For two years Evans worked in Colorado mines and sent money to his wife monthly. Then he fell sick, was taken to a hospital, and that was the last his wife heard of him until some months later when she received a newspaper containing a notice of her husband's death.

Mrs. Evans removed to Wilkesbarre to keep house for an uncle, and here in the spring of 1889 she was married to Joe S. Jenkins, who is well to do. One child was born to them.

On Friday last Mrs. Jenkins heard a knock at her front door, and she sent her oldest girl to open it. A well dressed man who stood in the doorway said to the little girl:

"Is your mamma in and is she all alone?"

He was told that Mrs. Jenkins was at home and he walked in.

Mrs. Jenkins at once recognized him as her old husband and she fainted.

Evans subsequently explained that it was another Evans whose death his wife had read of.

When Jenkins came home the men talked the matterr over sensibly, and as Mrs. Evans-Jenkins said she loved them both they decided to draw straws to see which should retain the place of husband. The woman agreed.

The straws were drawn and Evans won. Husband No. 2 packed up all his belongings and moved out of the house. Mrs. Evans still retains possession of his child with his consent.

Early this week Evans will remove his family to Denver. The affair has created no little excitement here. The parties to it reside in Heyl street.

Severe Storm in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 19.—The most severe and damaging storm for many years began yesterday and continued through most of the day. Many wires are down and the electric light company had to shut down and the city last night was in total darkness. This storm is decidedly worse than that of 1884

MANN STILL AT LARGE.

The Mulatto Who Murdered McDonald Hiding in the Ramapo Mountains.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 19.—There are many men in Cherry Hill who would enjoy nothing better than a chance to hang "Phil" Mann, the worthless ex-convict, who committed the murderous assault on Robert McDonald.

Sheriff Haring had a posse out hunting for Mann all day, but up to a late hour had not succeeded in catching him.

The Sheriff is certain, however, that Mann cannot escape discovery long. He is supposed to be hiding somewhere in the Ramapo Mountains, where he has many friends and acquaintances among the colored people.

Mann is a mulatto. He has often been in jail and he served two years in State Prison for a murderous assault on Joseph Van Riper at Etna eight years ago.

The Coroner's inquest will be held at Cherry Hill next Wednesday.

A later dispatch says Mann was captured by Constable Garret Ackerman, near Ackerman's road house, in Paramus, Bergen County, and about five miles from Cherry Hill.

Mann was waiting in Paramus to be joined by his wife. He made no resistance when arrested and came quietly to Hackensack with the constable, where he was committed by Justice Cumming for further examination on the charge of murder.

NO UNION MEN WANTED.

Telegraphers on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Road in Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 19.—There is a possibility of trouble between the telegraphers on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie road. About a week ago an order was issued by the road demanding that all members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers should send in their withdrawal cards or prepare for dismissal. It is stated that nearly all the telegraph operators on the road are members of the order, but they did not comply with the demand. Since then the company has taken no action, while the men are perfecting their organization and awaiting developments.

E. C. Bradley, superintendent of telegraph on the Pennsylvania lines west, has sent a card to each operator propounding the query, "Are you a member of the Order of Railway Telegraphers?" No intimation was conveyed as to what the result would be in case of an affirmative answer, and no response have yet been made to the query.

A Murderous Blacksmith.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Thomas Buckley, a blacksmith, living at 197 North Halstead street, shot and probably fatally injured his wife at 2:30 a. m. Shortly afterward a policeman visited the Buckley home and found Buckley in bed, half clothed, and his wife sitting in a chair a short distance from the bed, apparently stupified with drink. Buckley sprang at the officer and attempted to shoot him but was knocked down and overpowered on the arrival of other officers. Mrs. Buckley was found with a bullet in her head and was removed to the county hospital, where slight chances of recover are given.

Born With Two Faces.

DANVILLE, Ky., Jan. 19.—Mrs. William Freeman, of Jessamine County, last night gave birth to a female child which had two perfectly formed faces. They are located at right angles on either side of the front of the head. Both at the same time exhibit the same signs of the child's feelings; both crying or being in repose as the child's humor changes. When last heard from the infant was doing well.

Dempsey Talking Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—Jack Dempsey will leave here this evening for Portland, Oregon, the home of his wife's family, and will be on hand at the Sa Blanche-Young battle, if it takes place next month as advertised, ready to challenge the winner. He will fight before the club that offers the largest purse. Since his fight Dempsey has suffered a good deal of pain and stiffness about the body and his nose is still very sore.

Captain Schley's Return.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Captain Schley, U. S. N., commander of the United States steamer Baltimore, arrived here on the steamer La Bourgoyne. His vessel is at Nice, France. Captain Schley is on a short leave of absence for the purpose of attending the wedding of his daughter which takes place in Baltimore January 22. He left for that city immediately.

Racing Men Indicted.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The grand jury of Passaic County has presented another batch of indictments against the Clifton race track owners and pool-sellers. It is said that Messrs. Engemann, Battersey and Secretary Sass are among the persons who have been indicted, and who will be required to appear before Judge Dixon this week.

The Dobson Mills Will be Rebuilt.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—The loss by the burning of the Dobson Carpet Mills will reach $1,500,000, with $800,000 insurance in four hundred companies. More than 3,500 hands are thrown out of employment. The mills will be rebuilt at once.

Union Printers Discharged.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—The fifty union printers composing the Boston Post chapel were notified Saturday evening that their services would no longer be required and, that an entire new force had been employed. The Typographical Union will take the matter up.

The Philadelphia Sails Away.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The United States steamship Philadelphia, the flagship of Admiral Ghestardi, of the North Atlantic Squadron, sailed from the Brooklyn Navy Yard at noon to join the other vessels of the squadron which are now cruising among the West Indies.

DILLON IN FRANCE

He Holds a Long Conference With O'Brien at Havre.

THEY START FOR PARIS TO-DAY.

The Statement Given Out That Complete Accord Had Been Established.

Healy Has an Exciting Time at a Public Meeting—He Says Parnell Is Ireland's Enemy and Will Lead the Orangemen. Parnell Meets With a Friendly Reception at Tralee.

HAVRE, Jan. 19.—Dillon, the Irish leader, arrived here last evening from America and was met on the pier by William O'Brien.

They retired to a hotel and conferred for six hours. Dillon then stated that complete accord had been established.

This morning Dillon accompanied O'Brien and Gill to Paris.

Healy Has an Exciting Time.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—The little town called Mostrim, or Edgeworthstown, near Longford, was the scene of a lively anti-Parnellite gathering. Timothy Healy and Arthur O'Connor were the principal speakers.

Before the meeting was well begun the platform on which the speakers stood, and which had been hastily improvised for the occasion, gave way under their weight, and Healy, O'Connor and others got a tumble, Healy being badly shaken.

As soon as the confusion was over Healy proceeded with his speech. He charged the Parnellites with having sawn the legs of the platform in order to kill the men who were exposing their leader's crooked and abominable methods. Parnell, said Healy, was fonder of sawing planks than of sleeping on them.

New Charges Against Parnell.

"The government and the police," said Healy, "were backing Parnell, and Balfour had joined in Parnell's effort to stimulate violence and discredit the cause of Ireland. When the time would come, as it must come, the deluded followers of Parnell would awake from their dream. Parnell was Ireland's enemy and would ultimately be found leading the Orangemen in opposition to Ireland's cause. If Mr. Fitzgerald (the member for South Longford) would resign, he (Healy, who represents North Longford) would also resign, and leave it to the people the decision of the contest."

PARNELL SPEAKS.

He Says the Delay in Reaching a Compromise Is Not Due to Him.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Mr. Parnell had a great reception at Tralee. There was immense cheering, mingled with only a few groans, making it evident that the people of that place are generally in his favor.

Mr. Parnell made an open air speech, in which he defended his policy of land and home rule. He concluded his speech with these words:

"I have no desire to fight, and shall go into it only when I see that my duty clearly compels me to do so. The part I could do towards the solution was effected when I came to an understanding with Mr. O'Brien a fortnight ago.

"I do not know what has happened since. There has been a great delay, but it was not of my origin. I made up my mind 24 hours after my first interview with Mr. O'Brien as to what I should and ought to do, and I told him so.

"The fortnight's delay has been a delay on the part of my opponents. It has not been mine. I know not what their mind or will may be, or what action those trembling, vacillating politicians have decided to take, though I do not know, if there is the possible solution, the fault will not be mine but theirs. The Irish people will recognize that I have to-day spoken truly."

AFRAID OF HEALY.

His Attacks on Parnell May Postpone a Settlement of the Irish Troubles.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—Among the Irish party the signs of peace are obscured by the continued aggressiveness and violence of Healy, and the McCarthy faction do not conceal their fear that Parnell may become so irritated by Healy's attitude as to imperil the alleged agreement now existing for Parnell's retirement.

It is regarded as certain that Parnell will retire if he can be permitted to do so honorably and not under the apparent spur of Healy's assaults.

Should John Dillon be selected as the leader of the Irish Parliamentary party Mr. William O'Brien will promptly revisit the United States, where he will resume the work of arousing the Irish-Americans to further efforts in behalf of Ireland.

Smith-Barry the Tipperary landlord and M. P. for Hunnington, is receiving congratulations on all sides for his victory over the "plan of campaign. The battle would have ruined most men financially and has cost him about half a million dollars. Most of the farms are again occupied by tenants.

Behring Sea Rumors.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Rumors are afloat of a somewhat forcible remonstrance having been addressed by Mr. Blaine to Lord Salisbury on account of the proceedings being taken in the Supreme Court, but nothing seems to be known about it in official circles. If such a dispatch has been received Lord Salisbury is keeping it to himself until to-morrow, when there will be a Cabinet meeting to arrange the course of business for Parliament.

Two Men Killed On a Bridge.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 19.—Two men, Lawrence Kisk and an unknown companion, were struck by a train at the stone bridge and killed. A freight train prevented their hearing the approaching train.

HILL WILL BE SENATOR.

The Governor Will Probably Accept the Nomination This Evening.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Chairman Murphy of the State Democratic Committee told a reporter that Gov. Hill will be nominated for the United States Senate this afternoon and will accept.

Speaker Sheehan was seen and asked if the rumor was true that Governor Hill would accept the Senatorship.

Mr. Sheehan replied: "Governor Hill is not a candidate for Senator. He will do nothing to influence the action of the Legislature, and has no aspirations for the office."

"He realizes, however, as we all do, the closeness of the vote on joint ballot, by which the defection of a single vote may lose the Democrats the Senatorship, and he appreciates the desirability of avoiding conflict among friends, whereby friction and unpleasantness might by created which would possibly imperil an election.

"If the Democratic members of the Legislature believe that a contest can be avoided and success absolutely assured by the presentation of his name, he will accept the honor conferred, with the understanding among his party friends that he shall substantially serve out his term as Governor before taking his seat in the Senate."

Several attempts were made to-day to interview the Governor, but he refused to talk. His close friends say, however, that his name will be the only one presented.

It is said here to-day that Demarest, the Assemblyman accused of forgery, will not be allowed to vote and will not present himself for that purpose. At the joint session the Democratic nominee will have but one majority.

A new complication has arisen in the sickness of Assemblyman Nolan of Albany. He is threatened with typhoid fever, but the physicians think that they have broken up the fever, and that he will be able to attend the joint session on Wednesday long enough to vote.

A BROTHER'S REVENGE.

Solomon Selig Married a Pittsburg Girl and Had a Wife in Indiana.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Solomon Selig, who resides in Indianapolis, Ind., and who travels for a house in this city, is lying in jail at Indianapolis, on a charge of bigamy.

Selig, under the name of G. Langsdown, was married to Miss Milan at Pittsburg in October, 1888. After four or five days of married life he disappeared.

Frank Milan, the deserted woman's brother, has devoted two years to running down the deserter. Following a clue to Indianapolis, he found that Selig had a wife and two children there.

For a couple of weeks Milan and his detectives have been waiting for Selig to return from a business trip, and he was arrested as soon as he stepped from the train.

Can't Present the Petition to the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 19.—The Commissioner on Petitions has returned the London petition against the persecution of the Jews to the Lord Mayor of London, with the explanation that the Commission is not authorized to present such petitions to the Czar.

For the Murder of Her Husband.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Hattie Beekman, who is charged with having killed her husband at Seabrook, this State, has waived examination, and was committed without bail for the General Term.

Bank-Wrecker Simmons Must Stand Trial

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Judge Benedict in the United States Court has denied the motion to quash the indictment against bank wrecker Simmons.

—New Market's epidemic of chickenpox is subsiding. Nearly every child in the village has been a victim.

—Gertrude Norman and her excellent company will appear at Amphion Hall to-night, in her London version of "East Lynne."

—Regular meeting with installation of officers of Easter Lodge, Knights of Honor, will be held in their rooms this evening.

—Important business is to be transacted at the Exempt Firemen's Association meeting this evening, and a full attendance is desired.

—It is reported by the White House Monitor that the Central New Jersey railway company discharged five men last Monday for refusing to work on the Sabbath.

—The conductors of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad have begun to take vacations. A new order gives each man six days to himself without deducting his time.

—The Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will hold their regular monthly meeting in Jackson & Codington's office this evening at eight o'clock.

—The Central New Jersey railway company is repainting its cars, and many new ones are being put in service. By Spring the entire rolling stock is expected to be remodeled.

—Gertrude Norman, the English actress, and her company opens at Amphion Hall, to-night, for a week. She will present a new version of "East Lynne," supported by a full cast.

—Some people were opposed to the appointment of a Union county detective last year, because they could see no special advantage in having such an officer, and because it was naturally feared that the salary of "three dollars a day when actually employed" would run up a big bill of expense for the county to pay. It was believed that from $1,000 to $1,200, including necessary expenses, would be the cost, and it is therefore gratifying to learn that Mr. Keron's bill for the first year, just closed, amounts to only $483.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. James Brand, of this city, has been called to Washington, D. C., to the deathbed of her brother, Gen. M. B. Hewson. Mrs. Brand's mother, 93 years old, is lying at the point of death at the home of C. J. Noel, Netherwood. She will not probably last the day out.

English as Wrote by a "Journalist."

He testified under oath at Somerville, Thursday, that he was a "journalist." On Saturday he wrote and printed in his paper the following specimen of what an ignorant thing a "journalist" is:

Both sides dwelt particularly on the testimony of the editor of the news, who was an unwilling witness, but who was he found himself compelled to testify, gave the history of the case from the beginning, showing on the part of Mr. Rice the extenuating circumstances under which the publication was sought to made, and after it had become legitimate news, provided it had been true that the arbitrators had, as Mr. Rice believed, based their award on the particular charges of passing counterfeit money and selling by false weights, which the arbitrators had thrown out because it was not proper to take character into question to determine whether Mr. Rice had suffered loss and injury for which Mr. Shotwell was responsible, Mr. Rice being misled in the one particular, opening the door to all the future difficulties.

Society Amateurs at Music Hall.

This is what the New York Herald says of the Gilbert Dramatic Society's members who are to appear at Music Hall, this evening, under the auspices of Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum:

The Brooklyn Academy of Music was crowded last evening with the typical society audience of the City of Churches, assembled to witness this season's third performance of the Gilbert Dramatic Society.

Laura Sedgwick Collins as the heroine, was quite effective. Her posing was picturesque and her performance throughout spirited.

James J. Darling as the villain, played with ease and polish.

M. H. Lindeman gave an even performance of Tom Macdonald, sustaining the interest of the role with professional skill.

Miss Hortense Booth was charming. W. B. Vernam manly, Carlotta Cole pleasing, and John W. Noble ingenious.

Some Seats Still.

It is due to the public to inform them there are still a few tickets remaining for the Pyramus and Thisbe dramatic entertainment, at the Casino, Thursday evening of this week. They can be obtained of J. Parker Mason, 130 Central avenue.

The Pastor's Promise to be Fulfilled.

An important and interesting article which the Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham announced from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church last night would be published in THE PRESS will appear in full in these columns to-morrow.

What will most surprise you, when taking Hires' Cough Cure, is how effective and pleasant it is to take. That hacking cough that disturbs your friends, and kept you awake all night, will yield immediately to its magical properties.

CRAIG MARSH APOLOGIZES.

In Fear of the Man He Renews His Professions of Friendship to Morrison, and Poses as a Newspaper Censor.

[Special to THE DAILY PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, N. J., January 19.—Judge Magie's charge to the jury in the libel suit of William H. Shotwell against Robert W. Rice this morning was brief and pointed. His language seemed clearly to indicate his belief that the evidence was directly in proof of Rice's guilt; that Rice had never given to Morrison an honest and efficient revocation or annulment of the authority to publish the libellous story; that Rice and Morrison were co-conspirators; and that Rice had aggravated the injury against Shotwell by repeated reiterations of the libel.

Damages—he held—might be awarded in such a sum of money as would compensate Shotwell for the injury sustained; and, further, if, as had been claimed, Rice had been actuated by a mean, base, sordid, vindictive motive, punitive or exemplary damages also could be demanded.

The Court further intimated that if Rice's reason for persisting in reiterating the libel was that he deemed it unmanly for one to retract and apologize when he found himself in the wrong, he deserved at least censure for that.

At the close of the Judge's charge, Craig A. Marsh, Mr. Rice's counsel, insisted, after repeated interruptions, on reading a paper which he had prepared, as follows:

"My attention has been called to a newspaper article purporting to quote from my summing-up in the Shotwell-Rice case, certain criticisms upon the plaintiff's witness, Mr. T. W. Morrison. That portion of the article is inaccurate and highly prejudicial to Mr. Morrison and myself. For instance, it says, as I remember it, that I likened the witness to a thief. That of course is untrue. What I did say on that point was that Mr. Rice's liability in the present case would be no different in my view if he had locked up the article in his bureau drawer, and it had afterwards been stolen and published without his authority. This is illustrative of the unjustness of the article. Sometimes counsel in their zeal for a client will in the heat of argument unduly criticize the witnesses for the other side. In such a case it would be improper for a newspaper to publish even an accurate report of such criticism, much more an inaccurate report. Personally, in common with the great majority in Plainfield, [!] I hold Mr. Morrison in the highest esteem, and as I told the jury am proud to claim him as a personal friend. [Which THE PRESS published with the rest of Mr. Marsh's statement.] It is only his part in the case in hand that I criticised, and as to that, even, it may well be that he acted as he thought was right. Opposing counsel eulogized the witness for his part in the matter. I took the opposite course under a sense of duty to my client."

[It may be remarked, in comment, that if by his strictures Mr. Marsh aimed at the report published in THE PRESS—which is the only paper that has published the facts of the proceedings of the trial, including Mr. Marsh's and Mr. Lindabury's speeches to the jury—he aimed wide of the mark. THE PRESS has accredited to Mr. Marsh nothing that he did not say, and THE PRESS has been complimented on all sides, by those who heard Mr. Marsh's speech, for the accuracy with which it recorded his utterances. Mr. Marsh has of course a right to claim any man as his friend, and a right to claim pride in the friendship of Morrison; but he perhaps makes a mistake in speaking for anybody but himself; and in asserting that his feelings on any subject are the feelings of "the great majority of the people of Plainfield" he throws himself open to question and criticism. His right to dictate what is "improper" for newspapers to publish of happenings in open Court also will be disputed by newspaper men. This is a land of free speech, free press; and the country has not yet a newspaper censor. When one is needed Mr. Marsh may perhaps be chosen. As to the claim that Mr. Marsh did not liken Morrison unto a thief, his language is accurately on record in the columns of THE PRESS, and it speaks for itself. No newspaper article was ever more correct than the PRESS report of Mr. Marsh's speech denouncing Morrison. When a lawyer becomes sorry he assailed a "friend" it is hardly a just proceeding to try to unload his blame on a newspaper which has merely done its duty in recording the facts.]

Mr. Marsh read his apology to Morrison after the jury had retired. His censure of Morrison was administered in the jury's presence, and was, according to his explanation of this morning, a mass of untruths told for effect on the jury.

The jury retired to consider its verdict some minutes before eleven o'clock.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Jan. 19, 4:15 P. M. Shotwell gets a verdict at quarter past four. The jury rendered a verdict finding the defendant and awarding Shotwell six cents damages. This throws the costs of the Court on Rice.

—Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central coal trains, in order to make schedule time, have been reduced 40 cars; and freight trains also have been made shorter, for the same reason.

HEMMED IN BY ROARING FLAMES.

An Entire Family Almost Burned to Death in Their Beds.

[Special to THE DAILY PRESS.]

WESTFIELD, N. J., Jan. 19.—At about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning the dwelling house on the rear of the farm of A. A. Drake, on the Rahway road, near Westfield, was discovered to be on fire. The flames had got under such headway that the roof was falling in when the inmates were awakened by smoke filling the rooms almost to suffocation. Max Kruchka, his wife and three children, succeeded in getting out of the burning building, but one of the children was slightly burned in the left side. Mr. Kruchka had his hair and whiskers nearly all burned from his head. He succeeded in saving one bed and a sewing machine, but lost all of his and his family's clothing. Mr. Kruchka had packed up his furniture preparatory to removing from the building to-day, as he and Mr. Drake had some difference, resulting in a lawsuit which was tried before the District Court at Elizabeth, Friday, verdict being given against Mr. Kruchka, and he being required to move. There was no insurance on the furniture. Mr. Kruchka had been Mr. Drake's florist and gardner, during last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake were in New York city. No doubt the building is insured. The fire department turned out promptly as soon as the alarm was given, but too late to be of any service, as the fire had gained too much headway.

Some Wicked and Wonderful Weather.

The rain which fell Saturday froze as fast as it fell, and pedestrians might well have used skates to travel over the pavements, covered as they were with an inch or more of ice; and the streets were so coated that, had the grade always been a declining one, carriages and wagons might have coasted around town and saved the drivers the cost of steam and horse power. Getting about, either on foot or otherwise, was very slow work. On almost every thoroughfare there could frequently be seen an object lesson, with a human object, illustrating the truth of the laws of gravity.

With all her vagaries, however, Nature did not lose her love of admiration. While giving humanity much that was insufferable, she also gave much that was wonderful. The elements which had coated the pavements had likewise coated everything else with which they came in contact. The city's ice-coated trees and shrubbery afforded indeed fairy-like scenes. Had there but been a sun to cast its light upon them, the effect for the time would have been bewildering. Rather more grotesque was the effect of the storm on buildings. Brick, stone, and clapboards glistened everywhere as though covered with glass, and fantastic icicles formed on every cornice and coping.

Sunday night some of the trees still held their coating of ice, and glistened and gleamed with remarkable beauty in the moonlight.

That Lecture Still Traveling.

The Elizabeth Journal, as a preface to quotations from L. V. F. Randolph's recent lecture as published in THE PRESS, says:

"Plainfield's ex-Mayor has been delivering an intensely interesting lecture to the young men of that city on the vice of gambling. His advice to them is to abstain from all forms of gambling whatsoever; not only cards, horse races and lotteries, but the gambling of the stock and produce exchanges. Those latter he believes to be the worst forms of gambling, because they are surrounded with an air of respectability, and because the gambler deceives himself as to the decency of his occupation and rapidly loses sight of moral distinction and qualities.

(From The Somerville Democrat.)

The Plainfield PRESS last Saturday contained an excellent article on gambling. There is entirely too much of this going on, and it is time the press and pulpit take hold of the matter. Some startling revelations of gambling done in Somerville will be exposed ere long if a stop is not put to it. Evidence has been gathered for some time past by one of our citizens, and a circus is liable to occur at any time.

Judge Blodgett Declined.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—It is stated that Judge Caleb Blodgett of the Superior Court has been tendered the position on the Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of Judge Devens, and has declined the offer, preferring to remain as at present.

Dunfield's Slayer Convicted.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The jury in the Pierce manslaughter case, after deliberating six hours, returned a verdict of guilty. Pierce killed Harry Dunfield with the butt of a carriage whip and was tried once before, but the jury disagreed.

Champion Fitzsimmons Coming North.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Bob Fitzsimmons, who defeated Jack Dempsey at New Orleans, is advertised to appear here with "Parson" Davies' athletic show this week. Local sports are preparing to give the champion an enthusiastic welcome.

The Sultan Liberates Prisoners.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 19.—The Sultan has granted a complete amnesty to all the Armenians accused of political offences. This liberates hundreds of prisoners in Constantinople alone.

Murder Committed by a Judge.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 19.—At 1 p. m. Judge James A. Warder, late Republican candidate for State Supreme Judge, and now City Attorney of Chattanooga, shot and killed his son-in-law, S. M. Fugette, cashier of the South Chattahooga Savings Bank. He also seriously wounded his daughter, Mrs. Fugette, and was in turn fatally wounded by Fugette. Discussion over plans for a new house caused the tragedy.

First Fire in Twenty Years.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 19.—The first fire that has occurred in Little Falls, which is a few miles from this place, in 20 years, started during the morning in the business block of the village. There is no fire apparatus in the place, and a message was sent to Paterson calling for assistance. Before the Paterson firemen arrived on the scene three buildings had been destroyed with their contents. The loss is about $20,000; insurance $10,000.

An Ocean Race to Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—The ocean race from Sydney to this city between the Ocean Steamship Company's steamer Zealandia and the Union Steamship Company's steamer Menowai resulted in a victory for the former, which arrived 24 hours ahead of her rival. The Menowai reports considerable delay from defective air pumps. There was a great deal of interest taken in the race.

Eva Hamilton's Future Home.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 19.—For several weeks Eva Hamilton has been living in Roseville, a suburb of Newark. It is said she has decided to make this her permanent home and is seriously thinking of becoming a member of a church there.

Price of Paints to be Raised.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The price of paints in small packages will be advanced this week 15 per cent, as the result of the increased duty on tin-plate put into effect by the McKinley bill. The advance will be general throughout the country.

Killed While Resisting Arrest.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Jan. 19.—Archie Matthews, a negro, was killed last night by Officer Leahy while resisting arrest. The officer was badly beaten by Matthews and two other negroes.

The Chilian Revolt Gaining Headway.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 19.—The revolt in Chili is gaining headway. The insurgents appear to have abundance of means, and the issue between them and President Balmaceda is doubtful.

Reciprocity With Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19.—The Dominion Ministry have returned the trade reciprocity proposals of the United States Government to the Colonial Office accompanied by a note expressing their hostility to full and complete reciprocity, but favoring reciprocity in natural products.

NEWS OF A THRIVING CHURCH.

What the Congregationalists Are Doing, As Told by Their Pastor-Editor.

The Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the Plainfield Congregationalists, has issued the second number of his bright little journal, Our Church. From its interesting contents are selected the following extracts:

The Ladies' Aid Society are to have a supper Friday, January 23. Plan to come, one and all.

The pastor is indebted to John C. Whiting, Willie McConnell, Stacy Reynolds, Roy Suffern and Phillip Suffern for active assistance in securing advertisements and subscriptions.

We intend to have as one feature of the church paper, communications now and then from those whom we still claim as "ours" who are living elsewhere engaged in special lines of work. In this number is an account of a day in a hospital from one of our trained nurses, Miss Clara Karnef.

It may not be known to many that for several weeks there has been a boys' prayer meeting at 10:05 Sunday mornings. The young Christians are showing a commendable earnestness. The prayer meeting has now been turned into a Workers' Training Class for young men and boys, under the leadership of Joseph A. Robinson. It will meet at 9:30 every Sunday morning. Any one may join it who wishes, and all will be welcome.

One has passed this month from our membership to join the fellowship of the Church on High, Mrs. C. S. A. Davis, in her 81st year. For many years a great sufferer, a fall that fractured the hip bone was the immediate cause of her death. She was lovely in her life, showing a sunny face through the long years of pain; and is more blessed in her death, for she rests from her labors. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the congregation.

GRUMBLERS' CORNER.

Grumble 1. From a layman. That those who unite with the Church by letter do not come forward. Grumbler declares that he will not rise to pledge, watch and care over people when he cannot see who the people are. Grumble a good one. Candidates will come forward hereafter.

Grumble 2. From the pastor. That so many of the people forget that the Sunday morning service begins at 10:30, not at 10:45. Sometimes half the congregation are tardy. It is rude, it is unkind, it is not reverential, to be late at Church when it can be avoided; and in nine cases out of ten it can be, if a little care is taken. Sat sapienti distum.

A DAY TO BE REMEMBERED.

Such a day was January 4, the first Sabbath of the year. The church had never had such a day before. There has never been a time when so many were received into membership at once, twenty-six on confession and two by letter. It was good to see so large a company confessing their faith in Christ, boys and girls, young men and young ladies, four married men and two mothers of families, some who were entering the church at the age which Jesus entered, which seems to be the ideal age, others who had lived many years without the enjoyments of religion, without giving to Christ their hearts and their influence. There was the largest congregation present that we have ever had at a Communion service. All the church were stirred and encouraged by this ingathering.

THE HOME DEPARTMENT.

The Superintendent of the Sunday-school seems to be full of plans. The latest is a Home Department, organized for the promotion of the study of the Bible in the home, in connection with the Sunday-school. It is open to all those who do not regularly attend any Sunday-school. Each Home Class consists of such members of a family as will unite in agreeing to study the Sunday-school lessons at least half an hour each week. By signing the membership card, the members of the Home Class come into full membership with the Sunday-school and are entitled to all of its privileges so long as that membership shall be continued. They will be furnished lesson helps and papers on the same terms as the other members of the school, have a right to draw books from the library, and are invited, as often as may be convenient, to attend its sessions, its entertainments, social and concert services.

THE CENT-A-DAY CLUB.

Some years ago we decided to have no evening service. It was not with the intention of doing less work, but with the expressed purpose of concentrating our efforts upon the morning and afternoon services thinking that thereby more effective work would be done. The church is therefore under peculiar obligation to give much attention to the Sunday-school and to use every means to make it prosperous and successful in the best of ways. To this end it is necessary that more money should be expended than has been heretofore. A new plan has been suggested by the Superintendent by which this money may be raised, and that is the Cent-a-day Club, members of which agree to contribute one cent every day for the purposes of the Sabbath-school, from one year's end to the other.

A word of explanation about the confession of faith given last month. There is no authoritative creed for our denomination, each church writing a creed for itself. This one of our church is not a perfect creed. The pastor wishes some things were worded differently. The people may study it and think how they would like it changed when the time come for a new manual. Let this be understood, that it is not necessary for one to assent to every article of that creed before one can unite with the church. The Apostles' creed is the one usually repeated in the service of admission, and anyone who believes on the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and gives satisfactory evidence that he is really a Christian person is entitled to admission to a Congregational Church, whether he accepts the rest of the creed or not.

Another word. Some people have the impression that in order to become a member of a Congregational Church one must believe in infant baptism. It is not a required doctrine.

PLEASANTRY.

The oldest Congregationalist in Plainfield is Timothy Morse, of East Fifth street, who is in his 90th year. His memory runs back over a great many years, and he recalls some funny things. Among them is the following, which goes to show that in the good old times, as well as now, there were occasional discords among the musical people of a church. It also indicates, perhaps, that there has been some change in ministers:

There had been a revolt in the choir. The singers declared they would sing no more. For a time their seats were vacant. One Sunday they appeared again in their places. The minister, tall and reverend, arose, and, looking sternly at the singers, read as the hymn to be sung—

"And are ye rebels yet alive?
And do ye still rebel?
'Tis amazing powers of love divine
That keeps you out of hell."

That goes well with the more familiar story of the minister who when the choir had said they would sing no more, announced, "We will sing hymn No. 151, beginning with the second stanza:

"Let those refuse to sing
Who never knew our God."

They sang.

Getting Ready for His Coming.

(From The Weekly Standard.)

We are informed that the hymn books for the Mills meetings have been received, filling several huge boxes. This looks like business, and indicates the careful preparation Mr. Mills makes for his meetings. We hope the churches will respond in the same hearty spirit, and be thoroughly equipped for the union meetings in March. A chorus choir of at least one hundred voices, made up from the Musical Society and others, would be a great attraction and a tremendous power for good. With such a fine organization of the musical people as we have already, the singing at the meetings can be made a special feature, and will be in line with the wishes of Mr. Mills and his musical director, Mr. Greenwood.

Dunellen Doings.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Taylor, of Newark, spent Sunday with Mrs. Covey at C. N. Johnson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Slape and daughter are spending a few days at W. H Milliken's.

A dime sociable was held at Jacob Fisher's, Thursday evening. An enjoyable time was spent in social games.

W. H. Milliken has recovered from his illness, and is around again.

Many people are complaining about our street lamps not being lighted. We all hope the time is not far off when we can have electric lights.

LULU.

Good Men Fighting the Race Tracks.

The crusade against the race tracks in New Jersey, particularly in Union county, is being renewed. A circular has been issued, signed by leading ministers, appealing to the moral and religious element in the State to defeat any attempt at legislation which may be made at Trenton this session in favor of the race tracks. B. V. Lindabury is also resuming his active part in the fight. He is heart and soul in the fight against the gamblers.

Coming to Town.

(From Rural Exchanges.)

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Myers, of Raritan, will remain in town the rest of the Winter months. They will make Plainfield their future home after the first of April next.

Frank E. Smith, of Bloomington, expects to remove to Plainfield in the Spring, to be associated with his brother Augustus in the grocery business. He and his family will be greatly missed.

A Handsome New Home, and Maybe a Bride.

Richard V. Lindabury, one of Union county's most famous lawyers, and who with W. R. Codington was counsel for Wm. H. Shotwell during the notorious libel case, and successfully conducted the prosecution of the racetrack men, has purchased a fine estate at Bernardsville, where he will erect a handsome Summer home. It is rumored that a beautiful bride will accompany him to his new home.

TESTING A RAILROAD DEVICE.

Something New in Life-Saving Signals to be Used at Every Station of the Jersey Central.

A new railroad signal, designed to prevent loss of life and property through telegraph operators forgetting to signal trains, was tested Thursday afternoon at Somerville, by a company of representative railroad men. They went through Plainfield from Jersey City in a special car over the Central New Jersey railway.

The new device is the invention of Robert Stewart, Superintendent of Telegraph of the Jersey Central, and William P. Hall, President of the Hall Signal Company. The mechanism is very simple. The electric current which moves the red blade over the white face of the signal targets a short distance either side of the station has two breaks. One break is closed by a key on the operator's desk; the other by a dropshutter arrangement which shows the words "Train Orders" when the current is broken, and the danger signal is displayed. This shutter is out of reach of the operator, sitting at his desk. A move of the key on the desk from the 'safety" to the "danger" side breaks the current in two places, the danger signal is displayed, and down falls the shutter marked "Train Orders." Now, should the operator go to sleep or forget that he has orders and move the key over to the safety point, only one break in the circuit is closed, and the danger signal remains displayed until he goes to the back of the office to close the other break by pressing the button, and there "Train Orders" stares him in the face.

Among those who examined the invention was J. H. Ohlhausen, General Superintendent Central Railroad of New Jersey. The Central intends to adopt the device.

The Daft Suit Withdrawn.

The litigation, of which particulars were published exclusively in THE PRESS the other day, between Leo Daft, inventor, of Plainfield, and the United Electric Traction and Daft Electric Light Companies, is very near a settlement. At the office of the companies it is said that the suit has been withdrawn. Counsel for Mr. Daft says that the announcement is a trifle premature as there still remain some points of difference to be adjusted.

The United Electric Traction Company took steps to acquire control of the Daft Electric Light Company and other properties. Mr. Daft, as a stockholder in the company which bore his name, objected to the transfer as against his interests. Subsequently, when the Traction Company prepared for an issue of $700,000 in bonds, partly to pay liabilities incurred in taking in the smaller concerns, Mr. Daft secured a temporary injunction from Judge Patterson of the Supreme Court forbidding the bond issue and the exchange of stock of the corporations. He alleged that the Trustees of the Daft Company were not empowered to make the transfer. Now, apparently, the case is said to be in a fair way to be settled speedily.

Death of a Forty-Niner.

James V. Dunham, who died suddenly at New Market last Tuesday, was born in Piscataway township, near Stelton, and had he lived until the 24th day of this month he would have been 72 years old. He was one of the many who flocked to the California gold fields in 1849, where he lived four years. On his return he married Ann, daughter of John D. Field, who lived on the Oliver place, near Bound Brook, and purchased a farm and conducted it until death. Having lived at New Market since 1853 he was one of the oldest residents, and his mild genial disposition won for him the love and respect of the whole community. He leaves a widow, three daughters and a son. The son lives in Rome, Ga., but came to the funeral, which was private, yesterday.

James was the oldest and the first to break the ranks of the six Dunham brothers. Those who remain are William, of New Market; Henry, who resides just west of New Market; Clarkson, who is cashier of the Flemington National Bank; George, of New York; and Charles E., proprietor of a Bound Brook hardware store.

Borough Property Changes Hands.

Recent real estate transfers in Somerset county include the following;

L. M. Codington, Sheriff, to John R. Marsh, property in North Plainfield, $4,300.

Francis Burnett to John Henry Hess and wife, property in North Plainfield, $600.

Emmor K. Vail and others, executors of E. Vail deceased, to William J. Nelson, lot in North Plainfield, $64.56.

Amos F. Allen, executor of Sarah W. Allen, deceased, to Chas. P. Sebring, property in North Plainfield, $1,300.

—Work has been begun at the Lehigh Valley erecting shops, Easton, on the first of the 14 new "hog" engines to be used over South Plainfield's new railway.

"Nothing But Skin and Bones."

Is the inelegant though appropriate expression used in describing the appearance of many females whom Nature intended for perfect specimens of her handiwork, but who have been reduced to this distressing conditions by some of the organic troubles peculiar to the sex, the symptoms of which are "an all gone feeling," weakness in the back, especially mornings, nervousness, and sometimes hysteria. The cure for these beauty-destroying troubles—and an undoubted one in every case—is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it renders it unnecessary to consult a doctor—a disagreeable task for a modest woman. Of druggists.

SIGNS OF GOOD BREEDING.

Certain Marks by Which the True Gentleman May be Known.

The habits that mark the true gentleman are not so difficult to acquire as to account for the comparatively small number who own them. Their neglect arises usually from carelessness or from selfishness which places personal ease ahead of the comfort or gratification of others. For unselfishness lies at the root of the best breeding. Selfishness it is which hinders a man's taking the trouble to remember to stand aside and let a lady precede him in entering or leaving a room, which keeps him in his seat while she is standing, whether in a public conveyance or in a private parlor. He does not recognize the spring of his actions by this name. His excuse is always ready: "I never thought of it." "Why should she not stand as well as I?" or, perhaps, hardest to deal with: "What is the use of bothering about such things?"

To begin with, let it be roundly stated that no part of the toilet should ever be performed in public.

All such operations as cleaning or cutting the nails, picking the teeth, removing shreds of dried skin from the face or hands, pulling out stray hairs from the beard or scalp, should be performed in the privacy of one's own apartment, not on the street, in the car or boat, or in the drawing-room. Some men consider they are quite justified in scraping and paring their nails in the presence of their families assembled at the breakfast table if they preface the action with a perfunctory, "Excuse me, or, "By your leave." Others do not take the trouble to apologize even thus slightly. And without pessimism it may be affirmed that only exceptionally does one find a man who will not pick his teeth after a meal, if not before guests or in a public restaurant, at least in the presence of his family. There are still households in which it is considered quite a touch of elegance to pass a glass of toothpicks as the final course of a meal.

Abstinence from the above-mentioned "small vices," and from others of the same school, may be termed the first step in good breeding. Such avoidance is among the things a man ought to know and to practice. But there are finer observances needed to give grace and finish to a man's demeanor. One of them is the prompt removal of the hat, not only when meeting an acquaintance on the street or on coming into the house, but at other times—in a horse-car, when tendering a seat to a lady, and when she acknowledges the kindness by a bow or word, in an elevator or hotel corridor when a woman is present, and when kissing a woman be she only one's wife, sister or daughter.

Do all these items seem such trifles as to be unworthy of notice? Yet they are powerful agencies in forwarding or destroying the happiness of a man's home, of the women therein, and of every one else with whom he is thrown into contact. Even if the "big brother, Man," does not clearly see the necessity, for his own sake, of yielding courtesy, may he not, as a concession to feminine weakness, make a slight sacrifice of his personal inclinations?—Harper's Bazar.

WINTER IN MONTREAL.

Plenty of Wraps Required There to Keep One Warm.

A New Yorker disembarking in Montreal in midwinter finds the place inhospitably cold, and wonders how, as well as why, any one lives there. I well remember, says a correspondent, standing years ago beside a toboggan slide, with my teeth chattering and my very marrow slowly congealing, when my attention was called to the fact that a dozen ruddy-cheeked, bright-eyed, laughing girls were grouped in snow that reached their knees. I asked a Canadian lady how that could be possible and she answered with a list of the principal garments those girls were wearing. They had two pairs of stockings under their shoes, and a pair of stockings over their shoes, with moccasins over them. They had so many woolen skirts that an American girl would not believe me if I gave the number. They wore heavy dresses and buckskin jackets and blanket suits over all this. They had mittens over their gloves and fur capes over their knitted hoods. It no longer seemed wonderful that they should not heed the cold; indeed, it occurred to me that their bravery amid the terrors of tobogganing was no bravery at all, since a girl buried deep at the heart of such a mass of woolens could scarcely expect damage if she fell from a steeple.—Harper's Magazine.

An Historical Palm.

Presidents come and Presidents go, but the great sago palm in the White House seems to live forever. This is undoubtedly one of the interesting objects at the Executive Mansion. Its exact age is not known. It was one of the treasures at Mount Vernon when George and Martha dispensed their elegant hospitality at the mansion there. General Washington presented the palm to a friend in Baltimore, where it remained until the friend died. It then came into possession of the White House gardener, who brought it here. For over thirty years now this historical palm has stood near one of the doors leading into the state dining-room. Its branches tower nearly to the ceiling, while its trunk measures fourteen feet in diameter. Under its branches Tad Lincoln, Nellie Grant and other children of Presidents have passed many merry hours. It blooms one year, and the following throws out fifty or sixty leaves. The length of a sago palm's life is computed at 200 years.—Washington Letter.

—So careful is the packing process in birds that the parts that grind the food and act as teeth are placed, not in the jaws, but in the center of the body—in the gizzard. These parts consist of small stones, which most birds swallow for this purpose—all those, that is, which feed on grain and other substances that require grinding.

A MAN OF MUSCLE.

How an Italian Samson Disposed of Three Robbers.

The following curious anecdote of a man of muscle is told by Salvini, himself a man of great strength: "A man named Luchini died a few years ago in Venice at an advanced age, but up to the last preserved much of his extraordinary strength. He was by trade a mason, and in comfortable circumstances. His strength was allied to wonderful presence of mind and coolness. Once he was carrying out to a villa he was building, some miles from Venice, a large sum of money with which to pay off his workmen. He carried the money, which was in silver coin, in a bag over his shoulder, though it would have taken two ordinary men even to lift it. At night he found himself some distance from his destination, and so was obliged to 'put up' at a small inn. He went to bed early, placing the bag of silver in the bottom drawer of a small chest of drawers in the bed-room.

"At midnight he was awakened by a rough shake of the shoulder, and, opening his eyes, saw by the light of a small oil lamp two of his own workmen, each of whom had in his hand a stiletto, the uncomfortably sharp points of which were pressed against either side of his throat. Luchini grasped the situation instantly, and saw that he was in a position where his enormous strength availed him but little, so he coolly said: 'What do you want?' 'The money,' was the answer; 'where is it?' 'Take it,' said Luchini; 'it is in that drawer,' and he pointed to the chest of drawers. One of the ruffians remained to guard the recumbent Luchini, while the other went to the drawer indicated and tried to open it. It would not budge. 'Give me the key,' he growled. 'It is not locked,' announced Luchini. 'Open it, then,' said the robber, and still with the stiletto at his throat Luchini rose, and with one hand pulled open the drawer the other could not budge with all his strength. At the men's bidding he then pulled out the bag of money and threw it on the floor.

"One of the thieves began to fill his pockets with loose coin, so as to lighten somewhat the weight of the bag. At the sight of the glittering coin the other's avarice outstripped his prudence. Withdrawing his poniard from Luchini's throat, he bent down and burrowed his hands in the pile of money and began to follow his comrade's example. The looked-for opportunity had come for Luchini. He calmly stooped forward, grasped one of the robbers by the hair in either hand, and then, spreading out his arms and bringing them together again with incredible force, he crushed in the two men's skulls as if they had been egg-shells. They were dead without a groan. Hearing a noise at the window, Luchini then looked out and saw that a third scoundrel was keeping watch outside. Taking up one of the dead men in one hand, he opened the casement, and calling out, 'There's something for you!' he pitched the dead robber at the living one with such force that the man below was not only scared almost to death, but was seriously hurt, and limped off as fast as a fractured leg would allow him. Luchini went back to bed, and calmly slept till morning." N. Y. Star.

MANKIND ADORES HER.

The Sort of Young Lady with Whom it is a Pleasure to Meet.

The agreeable girl!

She is sometimes rich, but seldom handsome, yet we all like to meet her in this work-a-day world of ours.

She meets one cordially, does not rush up hysterically and, catching at one's hand or dress, blind one with her effusive inquiries, for she is in the highest and best sense well bred.

She is always well dressed, not conspicuously, for that savors of vulgarity, but her dress is always in harmony with the time and place. Soiled gloves and skirts with a fringe of braid that should have been renewed are never seen.

She never speaks of the last sensational divorce case to the woman who has been unfortunate in her domestic relations.

If one is ill and my lady calls no disagreeable subject is introduced that will jar on the sensitive nerves.

She is not necessarily brilliant, indeed seldom is, yet she always holds her own in society, not by storming at its doors, but by the keen sense of the fitness of things.

She understands the art of listening others.

My lady always takes pleasure in introducing people with like interests, not in keeping them apart that she may monopolize each in turn; to see others happy adds to her enjoyment.

She meets new comers in the church or home half way, and does not forget faces when she meets them two days later.

Her appointments are always met promptly. If impossible to meet the engagement she writes a note at once and explains, thereby saving much discomfort and inconvenience.

She never addresses her gentlemen acquaintances by their first name; that familiarity is reserved for him who has a deeper claim than mere acquaintance.

She is well versed on the current topics of the day, and does not blunder through a conversation with statements of which she knows nothing.

She does not inform an artist what the standard works of art are. He is supposed to know.

She minds her own business, leaving others to look after theirs.—Toledo Blade.

A Tree in the Air.

On the plantation of John H. Roberts, near Robertsville, S. C., there is a tree, if not destroyed by the turpentine hands, that does not touch the ground by six feet. A pine sapling, cut down at some period unknown to the oldest inhabitants lodged on the limb of an adjacent tree. The growth of the tree and limb gradually closed around it until it became completely imbedded. Drawing its life from the tree it grows and presents a luxurious appearance. All trace of the stump from which it was cut has long since disappeared.—Chicago Times.

SAILING ON THE LAKES.

The Dangers Surrounding the Fresh-Water Tar.

Captain C. H. McConnell, an old lake seaman, in conversation with a Star reporter said: "It is rather the fashion to talk about the race of the American seamen dying out," he said, "and to point to the disappearance of the whales from the Arctic seas as the cause for the decadence of the Yankee tar. As a matter of fact there are more seamen, and better seamen, sailing out of Chicago than ever left New Bedford or Marblehead. The dangers of the ocean are nothing to the dangers of the lakes, where a lee shore threatens, no matter whence the wind blows, and where the nature of the cargo is peculiarly dangerous. The great article of lake commerce is wheat, and a man who sails on a ship laden with wheat in the bulk takes his life in his hands. There is no known method of stowing it securely. A day or two of rough weather will cause it to settle, and leave a large space between the flooring and the cargo. When this is the case, the danger is imminent. Whenever a heavy wave causes the vessel to careen sharply the cargo is apt to shift. This nearly always results in a wreck. By changing the center of gravity the shifting cago prevents the vessel from righting, and, unless the storm ceases, she is sure to fill and go to the bottom. Any one familiar with the manner in which this peril, ever present, is faced and overcome will never say that the American seaman is degenerating. With all his skill, the death rate on the lakes is fearful. For business reasons this is concealed from the public, but last over year 2,000 sailors lost their lives on the lakes, a greater casualty than the entire British seagoing mercantile marine can show."—N. Y. Star.

PITH AND POINT.

—"Oh, how sorry I am my first dear husband died!" sighed Mrs. Snodgrass, after a quarrel with her present husband. "So am I!" replied Snodgrass, fervently.—Jury.

—Mabel (looking at a dude smoking a cigarette)—"How detestable!" Amy—"Yes; a cigarette is very objectionable!" Mabel—"I didn't refer to the cigarette, but to the object at the moist end of it."—Epoch.

—Brown—"Ah! been abroad, eh! Have a good passage?" Gray—"Splendid; sea as calm as a mill pond. Wasn't seasick a second." Brown—"Then you must have had a good time." Gray—"Not a bit of it. Nobody else was sick. I didn't enjoy the trip at all."—Boston Transcript.

—"Your husband is less at home now than ever," reiterated the minister. "Do you try to make home attractive to him?" "Do I? I should say I did. And not only that, but I've got my mother to come live with us to help make it still more pleasant for him."—Philadelphia Times.

—First Tramp—"Where did you get that fine overcoat?" Second Tramp—"In the big house at the corner." "I went there only dis mornin' shiverin wid cold, an' they wouldn't give me a rag." "I didn't ask for clothes fer me self. I told 'em it was fer th' poor heathen in Central Africa."—Epoch.

—Worse Still.—Briggs—"Here's a strange thing. A fellow went down to the river the other night to commit suicide, when he suddenly remembered that he owed a druggist twenty cents for a package of cigarettes. It bothered him, so he went right back to pay it." Griggs—"What did he do then, commit suicide?" Briggs—"Worse than that. He bought another package of cigarettes."—N. Y. Sun.

—A sea change—"Steward!" cried a miserable passenger. "Yes, sir. Any thing I can bring you, sir?" "Nothing, steward, but an acre of real estate—anywhere—hang the neighborhood, as long as it's good solid ground."—N. Y. Sun.

—A Lucky Girl.—Maud—"Clara Highfly is just the luckiest girl." Edith—"She has many lovers?" Maud—"Ever so many, and she has only one little brother, and he was brought up in Paris, and doesn't know a word of English."—N. Y. Weekly.

—Johnny—"Sailors named the Rock of Gibraltar, didn't they, pa?" Pa—"What makes you think so, sonny?" 'Cause, when they sailed near it they had to haul in their jib-er-alter their course." Pa—"Go and tell your mother to put you to bed immediately."—Texas Siftings.

—"No, I never carry my watch when I go out," she said, artlessly. "I am so careless that it wouldn't be safe. Why, a person could steal any thing right from under my nose and I wouldn't miss it." Then the young man stole a kiss right from under her nose, and she didn't seem to miss it.—Chicago Tribune.

No Medium Like the Newspaper.

The advertising man of a well known New York clothing house says: "We were the first to use the sails of vessels as an advertising medium. Then we got up the 'alphabet puzzle,' and gave away 500,000 puzzles while the craze lasted. Afterward we invented the Waterbury watch idea. We had to do something, because three of our principal competitors had failed, and their stocks were being sold for next to nothing by assignees, so we decided to give a Waterbury watch with every twelve dollars' worth of goods purchased. We advertised the watches 'wound and set.' To wind them fast enough we had to rig up a little machine worked like a sewing machine that would do the winding, and we kept several boys at work winding and setting them. Before we quit we had given away 40,000 of the watches.

"But nothing ever pays us like the ordinary newspaper advertising. The fact is there has come to be in this city a class of advertisement readers just as there is of news readers. They read the advertisements every day, and of course the man who wants to attract them has to get up an advertisement that will do it. The day of standing advertisements in the paper, 'Go to So-and-So's for clothing,' or 'Go to This-and-That's for shoes,' has passed, just as the day for painting signs on rocks and fences or on the sails of boats has passed. You must have something interesting and fresh in every advertisement, and it will be read.

A Place for Talent.

In nearly all regulated lines of industry at present the advertising man is one of the most important adjuncts of a business. And on the other hand the advertising department of a first class newspaper is not what it used to be, but is instead fast becoming an interesting feature of all enterprising journals. Formerly the prevailing idea among the uninitiated was that the talented, the best, most versatile and most ingenious writers and artists were all employed in the news department. How nearly correct this idea may have been need not be stated, but that such is not the case now may be seen by a perusal of the "ads" of any flourishing paper. The competitions between the merchants and between the papers' agents have become so great that the great wholesale and retail houses of the large cities employ talented men at big salaries to attend to their advertising alone, and the men who want the best positions in the counting rooms of newspapers must combine fine business qualifications with the talent that wins success in the editorial chair.—Yenowine's News.

Advertising Necessary to Success.

The merchant or manufacturer who does not advertise his goods cannot succeed. Of late newspaper advertising has become a distinct trade in itself, and all over the country leading concerns pay fabulous prices for men who are skilful in writing catchy advertisements. In many large cities there are men earning from $3,000 to $10,000 a year to write advertisements. This fact in itself shows advertising pays.

If people interested in this subject will investigate it for themselves they will find that the leading advertisers in The Plain Dealer are the merchants who have the best stores, the best assortments of goods and who sell at the most reasonable prices. Such merchants do much larger business than merchants who do not advertise; consequently they turn their goods over more quickly and can afford to give better prices. Close buyers appreciate this. What is the moral? He who advertises the most judiciously succeeds the best, and the buyers who seek the best bargains patronize such merchants.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Never Be Commonplace.

"Bring your feet with you and have them fitted to a pair of our commonsense shoes," is the way a Pittsburg dealer advertises. It is a good phrase and one which attracts attention. The man who succeeds in advertising in such a way that people read his advertisement is the one who draws trade to his store as sure as a magnet draws a needle to itself. Study up quaint, pithy and witty phrases to head your advertisements, and be not too modest in the space they occupy.—Brockton Shoe.

Regular Publications Best.

No one takes up a regular publication without the expectation of finding something of interest. The simple act of turning the pages is an incentive to an example of expectation, as is the opening of a closet if one is in search of a coat. Hence an announcement in a regular publication has an advantage over any other form of business solicitation—that of meeting the sought for eye at a time that it is in a mood for such greeting.—A. C. Ladd.

Must Have Genius.

The simplest advertisements sometimes require the most care and thought in their construction. To write a column is a matter of time, but to edit it down into a sentence is something more.—Printer's Ink.

PAGANINI'S WOODEN SHOE.

A Pretty Little Romance in Which the Great Violinist Took Part.

It was late in the autumn of 1822. In a villa at Paris, with several other invalids, lounged the renowned Paganini, who was seriously ill. The great musician was seldom seen; he would not be drawn out of his solitude and hardly saw any one but Nicette, a harmless, merry country girl, who waited upon him, and often cheered him up in hours of sadness.

One morning Nicette appeared with weeping eyes, and waited upon the musician without saying a word. Paganini, who was carving a piece of ivory for the handle of a dagger, noticed this and said:

"What's the matter, child, has any misfortune happened to you?"

"Alas! yes, sir."

She was silent. Paganini fixed his eyes on the troubled countenance of the girl.

"Now, out with it," said he. "I see it all clearly enough. After he had made you a thousand promises he has forsaken you. Is it not so?"

"Alas! poor fellow! he has drawn a bad number in the conscription, and must go off for a soldier. I shall never see him again," sobbed the poor girl.

"But, can't you buy a substitute for him?"

"Monsieur is joking! How could I get such a large sum?"

"Is it, then, so very much?"

"It is very high this year, for there is a report that a war will soon break out. Fifteen hundred francs is the lowest price."

The musician did not reply, but when Nicette left the room he took out his pocketbook and wrote in an empty leaf:

"Mem.: To think what can be done for poor Nicette."

In winter Paganini got much better, and every now and then passed his evenings in the saloon, but scarcely ever speaking, and taking no notice of the remarks upon his moroseness, which were purposely uttered close to his ear. Thus the Christmas festival approached, at which season it is a custom in France among young people to place a wooden shoe in the corner of the hearth. On the afternoon of the 24th of December Paganini sat, as was his custom, on the sofa in the saloon, sipping his sugar and water, when an unusual noise was heard below. Immediately after Nicette came in, and said that a box had just arrived addressed to Signor Paganini. The box appeared and he proceeded to open it. The first thing which the musician hand pulled out was a packet in strong brown paper, sealed several times. The curious eyes of about twenty persons present beheld a gigantic wooden shoe, cut out of ash, and almost large enough to put a child inside of.

"A wooden shoe!" said Paganini, smiling. "I can not fancy from whom it comes. Some of these excelent ladies wish to compare me with a child, who always receives presents and never gives any. Well, who knows whether this shoe may not earn its weight in gold!"

For three days nothing was seen of him.

"The most inquisitive only learned that from morning till evening he was busy working with carpenters' tools. And, in fact, during this time the musician's wonderfully clever hand had created a perfect, well-sounding instrument out of the awkward-looking, wooden shoe. He had stretched a few silver strings across it. The next day it was announced that Paganini would, on New Year's Eve, give a concert in the large room of the villa where he boarded. The great master gave notice that he would play ten pieces—five on a violen and five on a wooden shoe. The ticket cost 20 francs. Only 100 were issued. They were instantly purchased by persons of the highest rank.

At last Paganini appeared smiling cheerfully; he bowed, and began to play more beautifully than ever, to the delight of his hearers, on his old violin. And now he took up the shoe, which he had made into a violin, but which still and somewhat of its former shape, and began one of those fantasias which never failed to charm his whole audience. Is it music? Is it poetry? One seems to behold the departure of the recruit, to hear the sobs of his intended bride, that follow his noisy life in the camp, his deeds in the battle; finally, his return. Triumph—rejoicings—marriage bells ring out merrily at the end. Applause followed this performance, which seemed as if it would never end. But there is weeping in the corner of the room. It was poor Nicette, thinking of the departure of her recruit.

"Here, Nicette," said Paganini, when the company had left the room, "are two thousand francs, five hundred more than you require to purchase a substitute in exchange for whom your betrothed can come back. That you may be able to begin your housekeeping at once take this shoe-violin, or violin shoe, and sell it for as much as you can get."

Nicette did so, and received from a wealthy collector of curiosities six thousand francs for Paganini's wooden shoe! It is said to be now in the possession of an English nobleman.—Chicago Evening Journal.

Sagacious Sands.

Mr. H. C. Bolton has recently paid a visit to Hawaii in order to investigate the so-called "barking sands" of those islands. There is a tract of these sands on the south coast of Hawaii, in the district of Kau, where they take the form of dunes or sand-hills about 100 feet high. The sand is calcareous, and apparently a mixture of broken coral and shells. When they are dislodged from the side of a dune in the feet, they slide down the slope with a deep bass tone which can be heard over 100 feet away. The noise has been likened to the hum of a buzz-saw in a planing mill. When two quantities of the sand are squeezed in a bag and forcibly brought together the shock is accompanied by a curious hooting noise. The drier the sand the louder the sound. A bag of the sand will preserve its sonorous property for a considerable time.—Saturday Review.

"I HATE TO ASK MY DOCTOR."

False modesty and procrastination are responsible for much female suffering. We can excuse the instinctive delicacy that suggests concealment to the young, but there is no excuse for those who reject the assistance of a woman.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is an entire and permanent cure for the worst forms of female disease, and instantly relieves all weaknesses and ailments peculiar to the sex. HILL FOR SENATOR

New York's Governor the Choice of the Caucus.

NOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION.

Senator Evarts Named by the Republican Caucus.

Speaker Sheehan the Spokesman for the Democrats and Senator Fassett for the Republicans—Great Enthusiasm When the Candidates Names Were Mentioned—Teller and Voorhees Renominated.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The Democratic joint caucus to nominate a United States Senator was called to order in the Assembly Chamber last evening by Senator Linson, Chairman of the Democratic Caucus Committee. All of the Democratic State officials and others were present.

Senator John C. Jacobs was nominated for Permanent Chairman. In taking the Chair, he stated his province, and simply asked for their further pleasure. Upon motion of Mr. McClelland, the roll was called. Mr. Clark, of New York, was excused on account of a death in his family. When Mr. Demarest's name was called, a member arose and announced that "Mr. Demarest will be in his seat at the proper time." Mr. Nolan, of Albany, was excused on account of illness, and Mr. Stein, of New York, was also excused.

Sheehan Nominates Hill.

Nominations being in order, Speaker William F. Sheehan arose and spoke as follows:

"The Democratic party to-day proposes to signalize the great victory of November by nominating for Senator in Congress a leader of genius and courage, a statesman of breadth and capacity, a man who who more than any other contributed to Democratic supremacy. When victory seemed impossible, when defeat stared us in the face, there was one voice above all others that penetrated the heart of the American people, one who stood in the front of battle, heedless of personal and political consequences, encouraging with his presence and convincing with his eloquent tongue the electorate of the land. It is only by rewarding men who battle for Democratic principles in darkness as well as in sunshine that our party deserves to succeed. If his acceptance of this high office is a promotion who deserves it at the hands of his party more than he? If it is a sacrifice, he makes it for his party's good. If it is a stepping-stone to higher honor, what Democrat in this broad land has earned it more than he? The man of the hour has been named without his seeking; by no act or word has he sought to influence a single member of this joint assembly; yet all are united in opinion. Our judgment is the judgment of the Democrats of the State, and, bowing to it, I present for this nomination, New York's brave and invincible Democratic Governor, David Bennett Hill."

Mr. Sheehan's speech was loudly applauded, after which the nomination was seconded by several Senators and Assemblymen. Speaker Sheehan then moved the nomination by acclamation, and the caucus adjourned.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Senator Evarts Renominated by Acclamation.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The Republican caucus was called to order by Senator Vedder, who named as Chairman ex-Speaker James W. Husted.

Upon assuming the Chair, General Husted said that in expressing his appreciation he could not refrain from regretting that their action would be a compliment but not a result. The power was temporarily in the hands of the Democracy, but only temporarily. The Republican party had come out of the fire chastened, and next year would see the party again in favor.

Senator Fassett arose, and, in placing the name of Senator William M. Evarts before the convention, said: "At all times Senator Evarts has been loyal and devoted to the best traditions of the Republican party; from the old days when his clarion voice rang out for liberty under the massive arches of Cooper Institute to that hour a few days since, when, with masterly fire and unanswerable logic, he fearlessly vindicated in debate the integrity of the ballot-box and the equal right of any free American citizen, white, black, rich, poor, East or West, North or South, of unhindered approach to the polls and the untampered count of a priceless franchise. He was a part of the Grand Old Party, and his life was a model for the youth of the day and one which all should copy after. Scandal had never stained the ermine of his character, and his reputation and his strength was never drawn from questionable sources.

After a unanimous vote, the caucus adjourned.

Pennsylvania's Senatorship.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—The Democratic members of the House and Senate met in joint caucus last night to select a candidate for United States Senator. John Donohue, of Philadelphia, nominated Senator George Ross, of Bucks County, and Senator Brown, of York, named ex-Lieutenant-Governor Chauncey F. Black. A secret vote resulted in the choice of Black by a vote of 51 to 30. Eight Senators and 10 Representatives were absent.

Murder or Suicide.

LANCASTER, Pa., Jan. 20.—A mysterious poisoning case, in which Annie McCloud, a pretty girl of 19, is the victim, has just been made public. Pharos S. Strohl, the girl's reputed lover, is now in prison here, charged with complicity in her untimely death. Opinion is divided as to whether she deliberately committed suicide or was murdered.

BULLETS FOR HIS WIFE.

A Young Woman Shot Five Times by a Jealous Husband.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 20.—William E. Barker, who has travelled for the Rand, McNally & Co. publishing house, and who has been separated from his young wife for the last year, fired five bullets into Mrs. Barker's body during the afternoon.

He went to their home and secured their 14-months-old baby. Then he drove to the Bassett Street Public School, where Mrs. Barker has been a teacher a few months.

He carried the child on his left arm and a revolver in his right hand when he walked into the schoolroom on the second floor.

With little or no warning, he began firing on Mrs. Barker. Two shots took effect before she could escape into the hallway.

Barker dropped the baby on the floor and ran after her. She sank in a heap on the stairs.

He stood over her and fired three more shots into her body.

Barker then ran to his cutter and started his horse on a run into the country. The police gave chase and soon captured him.

The children in the schoolroom stampeded and much excitement followed.

Three of the bullets took effect in Mrs. Barker's head, one passed through her left hand and the other lodged in her hip.

She was taken to the House of the Good Shepherd, and lies in an unconscious state. It is believed that she will live but a few hours.

Jealousy is said to be the cause of the murderous act. Mrs. Barker is the man's second wife, and is young and pretty. She claims that she stood his ill treatment as long as she could before leaving him.

HE DIED WITH HONOR.

Captain McGowan's Service Ended—Appointed by President Jackson.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 20.—One of Elizabeth's oldest and most respected residents is dead. He was Capt. John McGowan, 86 years of age.

He was appointed by President Jackson as lieutenant in the revenue service in 1831. In 1841, he was transferred to the navy. He served with distinction in all the important engagements in the Mexican war. He commanded the steamer Star of the West, and did effective work.

He served throughout the Rebellion, and finally retired in 1883, after 53 years of active service for his country. He was the father-in-law of Commodore Harmony, of Washington. He will be buried with full honors.

She Took Poison After a Quarrel.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Jennie White, a domestic for the family of J. B. Miller, committed suicide by swallowing two ounces of laudanum and an ounce of carbolic acid. She had a quarrel with her lover, Fred Korn. Thinking a reconciliation impossible she took her life. She was found in the cellar of the house. A piece of yellow paper was fastened in a buttonhole in her dress. On it was written: "Goodby, dear love. Clasp me in your arms, I love you still. Goodby all." The girl was but eighteen years old. Korn is almost distracted.

Left $10,000,000 to His Family.

BOSTON, Jan. 20.—Capt. J. R. Thomas, the millionaire sugar magnate, left a will which has just been probated. He leaves his entire estate, estimated at $10,000,000, to his widow and two sons. There are no public bequests of any kind.

Clark Thread Mill Strikers.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 20.—There is no change in the situation among the striking spinners of the Clark Thread Company. The mills are running as usual but a lack of spinners has greatly reduced the output.

"Doc" Wilson Dead.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 20.—Much excitement has been caused in this town by the circulation of the report that the famous "Doc" Levi Wilson, of Washburne-Moen fame, has been found dead in Arizona.

Their Death Warrant Signed.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 20.—The death warrants of David and Joseph Niceley, the Somerset County murderers, who are to be hanged Thursday, April 2, were signed by Governor Beaver.

More Trouble for Demarest.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 20.—It is rumored here that there are new and important developments in the Demarest case, but those who know will not say. It is rumored that he will be arrested at Albany on a new charge.

West Shore Round House Burned.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The round house of the West Shore Railroad Company in this city was entirely destroyed by fire during the morning. Two locomotives were rescued.

Phil Mann Held for Examination.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Jan. 20.—Phil Mann, the mulatto who was arrested on the charge of having killed Robert McDonald, has been held for examination. The inquest will be held to-morrow.

A CRISIS EXPECTED

Connecticut's Governor Issues a Proclamation.

A WARNING TO THE DEMOCRATS.

He Says He Will Not Recognize Their State Officers.

Ready to Defend the Present Officers by Every Means in His Power—Absent Members of the Legislature Sent For—Both Parties Hold Secret Conferences—The Situation Serious.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 20.—Both Houses of the General Assembly met this morning, and the crisis developed by the Senate last week in inaugurating the State officers is likely to come to a head to-day. The Senate is Democratic, and if an attempt is made to oust Mr. Alsop, whom it has declared Lieutenant-Governor, a scene is expected. It is intimated that Mr. Alsop may purposely be absent.

The House committee appointed to investigate the returns reported that it had not yet finished its work.

Both parties held secret conferences at the Capitol before the Legislature met. The lobbies were crowded with politicians, and Governor Bulkeley was prominent. The Democrats went into the Supreme Court-room for the purpose of nominating a candidate for United States Senator. Instead of this, a Steering Committee of 24 members, one from each Senatorial District, was appointed to look after members to-day and Wednesday.

The Republican conference in the Senate Chamber was short. The roll was called, and the members present were checked. Forty were absent, and they were notified by wire to be present at to-day's session without fail.

As many of the lines are down and telegraphic and telephone communication cut off with several towns, the situation is serious.

WARNING TO DEMOCRATS.

Gov. Bulkeley Issues a Proclamation About the Trouble in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 20.—Gov. Bulkeley has issued a proclamation, warning the Democratic State candidates from attempting to take offices for which they have not been duly qualified, and commanding all citizens not to recognize their authority. He also declares that he will defend the present officers in the discharge of their duties by all the legal means in his power until their successors are duly qualified.

Text of the Proclamation.

The full text of the Governor's proclamation is as follows:

"It having come to my knowledge that certain persons, without the authority of the law, have combined to demand, take and hold the chief executive offices of this State and to perform the functions thereof, claiming possession of said offices under a canvass and declaration to the Senate of this State, while the canvass voted for is under consideration by the General Assembly for the purpose of ascertaining if any persons have been legally elected to succeed the present incumbents, and such claims, demands and attempts to take and hold said offices being unauthorized, illegal and prejudicial to good order and peace of the State, and tending to confusion in the administration of its government;

"Therefore, by authority vested in me by the constitution to maintain the laws enacted in pursuance thereof, I do hereby command all such persons to desist from their unlawful acts and from interfering with any of such executive officers, and all citizens of this State not to recognize any acts of such pretended officers, and not to aid or abet them in their unlawful acts. And, I further give notice, that in absence of any constitutional finding and declaration by the General Assembly of the legally chosen executive officers of the State, and every such attempt to enter upon or perform the duties of said officers by any person or persons will be resisted by all the authority vested in me under the constitution and laws of this State."

Parnell's Followers Meet To-Day.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A circular has been issued calling upon all of Mr. Parnell's Parliamentary followers to meet to-day in London. Mr. Parnell is expected to preside in person, and it is understood that a plan will be determined upon for the guidance of the Parnellites during the coming session of Parliament.

Terrible Suffering in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Terrible suffering prevails among the wretchedly poor. Fires have been lighted in the streets to keep them from freezing to death, and the authorities are arranging to lodge and feed the homeless multitude.

Ready for Conference.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Messrs. William O'Brien and John Dillon will probably leave for Boulogne to-morrow.

HIS VICTIM DYING.

Rev. Dr. George Held for Trial in the Lottie Townsend Case.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The Rev. H. W. George and Dr. Erway, concerned in the Lottie Townsend case, were taken before Justice Bennett for examination at 10 a. m. The Doctor is greatly unnerved, and it is with undisguised difficulty that he keeps himself together. George is calm and apparently unconcerned.

Dr. Erway was represented by counsel, who procured an adjournment until Friday next.

George's efforts to engage legal assistance having failed in two instances, he appeared alone, and waiving examination, in default of bail was committed to await the action of the grand jury, which meets February 16. Bail was fixed in each case at $3,000.

Miss Townsend's condition is worse and a consultation of physicians has decided that there is very little hope of her recovery, peritonitis having set in.

At George's summons friends of his from New York and Pittsfield, Mass., are here, and he is trying to induce them to become his sureties which now seems doubtful.

FATAL COLLISION.

One Killed and Two Hurt by a Runaway Engine.

ATHENS, Pa., Jan. 20.—A collision, caused by a runaway engine, occurred on the Lehigh Valley Railroad here, by which one man was killed and several injured.

A passenger train on the Geneva & Sayre Railroad ran upon a misplaced switch at Sayre, two miles north of this place, and collided with an engine standing at a water tank. The shock knocked its engineer off, after he had reversed the lever, and the engine, freed from control, plunged down the main track at a terrific speed, crashing into a coal train near the Athens depot.

Preston Sherwood, brakeman, of Falls, Pa., was killed, and Engineer Charles Burroughs, of Sayre, and Fireman Joseph Repp, of Pittston, were bodily injured. Both engines were badly damaged, and one freight car was wrecked.

The Blood of a Goat for Consumption.

PARIS, Jan. 20.—Drs. Bergin and Picq, of Nantes, have recently made an interesting experiment in the treatment of consumption. Acting on the fact that goats are not subject to consumption, the doctors, after experimenting on rabbits, injected the blood of a goat into the veins of two consumptive patients, one a boy of 17 and the other a woman of 47 years. Both patients are said to have greatly improved since the experiment was made.

They Tried to Lynch Him.

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 20.—While a Polish christening was in progress at the house of John Garlick, in Galatzin, Mike Terauki, a Polander, walked in and shot the mother of the child. The ball passed through her lungs, and she cannot recover. Terauki was seized by those who were present, and a rope was placed around his neck to lynch him, but the officers appeared on the scene, and he was safely lodged in the county jail.

Destructive Fire in Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 20.—The residence of Jacob Berdan and family, who live at Preakness, was entirely destroyed by fire at an early hour in the morning. The family awoke to find themselves almost stifled with the dense smoke. They barely escaped with their lives. Besides the house, the barn, several horses and cows, a large stock of hay and farming utensils were consumed by the flames. The origin is unknown.

Racing Officers Fined.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 20.—The Linden Park Blood Horse Association and the New Jersey Jockey Club, who were recently convicted of keeping disorderly houses, were each fined $500 and costs in the Union County Court by Judge Van Syckel, who warned the defendants that a repetition of their offence would cause the Court to inflict a much more severe penalty.

New York Trades Assembly.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 20.—The annual convention of the Workingmen's State Trades Assembly opened here this morning, and it is expected that its sessions will be made particularly lively by the radical measures which it is known some of the delegates intend to introduce. Among the resolutions which will come up for action is one attacking railroad companies.

The Two Alliance Men Against Oglesby.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 20.—In a semi-official statement Moore and Cockrell, two of the three Farmers' Alliance men holding the balance of power in the Legislature, announce that they will not vote for Oglesby. They will not say how long the will hold together for Farmer Streeter.

Born in a Sleeping Car.

LYONS, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Mrs. J. H. Todd of Geneva, who was on her way home from Chicago, gave birth to a handsome baby boy in the sleeping car Taverstock, near Erie, Pa. She came on to Lyons, and was taken to the Central House. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Arrested for Criminal Assault.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 20.—George Saltz, a painter, of Long Branch, was committed to the county jail for trial on a charge of criminal assault upon Miss Annie Robinson. The young lady is highly esteemed, and Saltz's act has aroused much public indignation.

Sudden Death of a German Exile.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Gune Dix, an aged German exile, who came to this country with Carl Schurz and other well known Germans three decade ago, died suddenly in an uptown car. Heart disease was the immediate cause of death

THE CLOTURE RULE

Lively Contest in the Upper Branch of Congress.

REPUBLICANS HAVE A QUORUM.

A Movement Started to Close Debate on the Elections Bill.

Both Sides Anxious About the Vice-President's Ruling on the Question. Mr. Bancroft's Funeral Takes Place To-Day—Kinealy's Trial Day Set—Deadlock Over the Postal Telegraph Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The proposed caucus of Republican Senators to discuss a programme for disposing of the rule to close debate on the Federal Elections bill is off for the present.

It is said that there is no necessity for caucus action, the instructions given to the Republican members of the Committee on Rules at the last conference being deemed sufficient for their guidance.

The Republican Senators have no conception as to what the discussion of the closure rule will develop. They unite in the belief that everything depends on Vice-President Morton, who, it is said, has it in his power to shorten debate on the closure rule by making rulings favorable to the Republicans.

To-day will probably show what means the Republicans intend to take to shorten debate on the closure rule, and many Senators look forward to a bitter controversy from the time Mr. Aldrich calls up the rule for discussion until the matter is settled.

DEADLOCK IN COMMITTEE.

Strenuous Efforts Being Made to Call Up the Postal Telegraph Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—There are likely to be some lively proceedings in the House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads this week. The friends of Postmaster-General Wanamaker's Postal Telegraph bill will make another strenuous effort to get the measure out of committee. The chairman does not want it reported, and for this reason a deadlock exists in the committee. If the bill is reported it will be passed.

The Postmaster-General is backing up the fight to get the bill out of the committee. At the last committee meeting the vote on the proposition to report was a tie. The argument being used for the bill is that it guarantees to the people a telegraph rate at about half the present rates, while it anticipates no outlay on the part of the government. The opponents say it is interference with private business interests.

MR. BANCROFT'S FUNERAL.

The Historian's Remains Taken from Washington To-day to Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The funeral of the late George Bancroft took place from St. John's P. E. Church this morning. There was no pomp or display in any way, but everything was conducted in the quietest and simplest manner possible.

The pallbearers who officiated at the funeral services were as follows: Chief Justice Fuller, Justice Field, Justice Blatchford, Senator Evarts, Mr. Bayard, Admiral Rogers, Mr. Spofford, Mr. George William Curtis and Mr. John A. King.

At the conclusion of the services the remains were sent to Worcester, Mass., for interment.

As an expression of loss and sorrow the flags of all the executive departments and of the public buildings through which the funeral passed were at half mast.

As a further mark of respect to the memory of the eminent statesman, historian and scholar, Secretary Tracy ordered that all business in the Navy Department be suspended for the day and that the Department be draped in mourning for a period of 30 days.

Kinealy's Trial Day Named.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The case of Charles E. Kincaid, indicted for murder for shooting ex-Congressman Taulby, of Kentucky, at the capitol last February, came up in the Criminal Court. On motion of Senator Voorhees, one of the counsel for Kincaid, March 16 was fixed as the date for beginning the trial.

The Nicaragua Canal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—There is no likelihood that the proposition to take the construction of the Nicaragua Canal out of the hands of private parties and to let the United States Government finish it at a cost of $100,000,000 will pass this Congress.

The Rebels Are Ahead.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 20.—The revolutionists are gaining ground in Chili. The insurgents generally parade their forces on land, and are continually receiving additions to their ranks. Dissatisfaction is more than ever manifest among the Government troops. The bombardment of Valparaiso is expected. It is reported that President Balmaceda has made preparations to secure his escape if the revolutionists should succeed.

Parnell's Home Rule Offer.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—All the opposition papers criticize Parnell's speech delivered at Tralee. The Daily News says: "His offer to retire if Mr. Gladstone will bring forward a Home Rule measure is meaningless, because, although he admitted at the time that the Home Rule bill of 1886 was a big one, he now says that he did not mean it."

Seven Years for Willis.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 20.—Charles H. Willis, defaulting treasurer of the Stockbridge Savings Bank, was sentenced to seven years in State prison at Charlestown.

The present U. S. Govt. Chemist says:
"Cleveland's Superior Baking Powder is absolutely free from ammonia, alum, lime and other adulterants."

EVA PROSTRATED.

Mrs. Hamilton Subjected to a Severe Cross-Examination.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Eva Brill Hamilton was perfectly self-possessed in the morning when she resumed the witness chair. She said Josh Mann was an imbecile when they were in Elmira, and she never saw him sober from the time they started from Pennsylvania to attend her brother's trial, and while in Elmira. In answer to the question, "Was he ever sober?" she said, "Yes; once in a great while." She said she refused to let Josh go on the witness stand. He was known as Dottie. She admitted that she and Josh had occupied one state-room on their trip to Europe.

When Mr. Root asked whose was the dear little baby she referred to in her letter from London, she said, "Mrs. Dickson's." "And who was the Fannie you also referred to?" "My dog," Eva replied quickly. Then she showed two rows of even, white teeth, as she smiled triumphantly at Mr. Root. It had been a small victory for her, but she enjoyed it. When Eva laughed, all the women in the room laughed with her.

After recess Surrogate Ransom, at the urgent request of Mrs. Hamilton's counsel, excused her from giving further testimony until to-morrow, the severe examination to which she had been subjected in the morning having completely prostrated her.

Mrs. Jennie P. Blodgett of Elmira identified both Mrs. Hamilton and a photograph of Mann as being the same for whom she did some dressmaking at Elmira in 1888.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Indian scare along the Manitoba frontier is over.

John L. Sullivan denies that he has agreed to fight Pugilist Slavin.

Gen. Lee's birthday was celebrated in Richmond and other Southern cities.

Mrs. Henry M. Stanley paid a visit to the girls at Wellesley College, near Boston.

The New York Central Labor Union has begun a boycott against the Clark thread.

The American National bank of Kansas City has suspended. The bank had a capital of $1,250,000.

The general assignment of Charles H. Barrett, a prominent shoe manufacturer, has been filed.

The severity of the winter in Great Britain is increasing, and several trades are at a standstill, because of the cold.

The Rahm investigation in Washington was adjourned until Thursday, when it is believed the end will be reached.

A dispatch from Zanzibar states that Baron Wissmann, the German Commissioner to East Africa, has become insane.

Trouble is brewing for the Chicago City Railway and it is not improbable that a general strike will take place before long.

Jeremiah Sullivan of Providence, R. I., for killing his wife in a drunken row on Nov. 21 last, was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The employes of the Great Western Railway Company of England threaten to go on strike in order to secure better hours of labor.

The snow has greatly disabled the West Shore Railroad through the Mohawk Valley, and one passenger train each way has passed Canajoharie, N. Y., in twenty hours.

Albert Smith, a glassblower at Bridgeton, N. J., has abandoned his wife and four children, and, it is charged, has gone West with Mrs. Sarah Knox, the wife of John Knox, now serving a term of twenty years in State prison for murdering a negro woman.

There are ugly rumors afloat regarding the management of the State prison at Hartford, Conn. Some of the released prisoners state that there has been gross mismanagement, and it is expected that the State authorities will make an investigation. The Legislature will probably be called upon to look into the matter.

Senator Voorhees Again.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 20.—The Democratic members of the Legislature last night in caucus nominated Senator Daniel W. Voorhees by acclamation to succeed himself. The Republicans nominated Gov. Alvin P. Hovey, and passed a resolution endorsing the administration of President Harrison. As the Legislature is largely Democratic the Governor's nomination is purely complimentary. Balloting will take place to-morrow.

RESURRECTED THE BRIDAL BONNET.

Plainfield and Fanwood Society at a Merry Silver Wedding Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moore, of 571 Newark avenue, Elizabeth, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, Friday evening. Their spacious mansion was crowded from seven till ten, the hours of the reception. Mrs. Moore, wife of Col. James Moore, and mother of the groom, assisted in receiving. Many guests from New York, Philadelphia and Plainfield were noticed among the happy throng. The gifts were many and elaborate; the supper, under the personal direction of Russ, was perfect in every respect.

After the reception dancing was indulged in, to the strains of Kirsch's orchestra. The first number was led by Col. C. K. Moore of Fanwood, with his sister, Miss Moore, who wore the bonnet which the bride wore to the altar twenty-five years ago.

A striking feature of the affair was the number of pretty ladies present. Particularly noticeable were Miss Stearns, Miss Bond, Miss Seaman of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Margaret Lewis of Philadelphia.

The Shotwell Verdict.

As was recorded exclusively in THE PRESS last night, the jury in the suit of William H. Shotwell against Robert W. Rice brought in a verdict, at quarter past four o'clock yesterday afternoon, finding Rice guilty of libel and assessing damages at six cents. Those versed in the law say that a verdict in which such small damages are awarded does not carry with it the costs of the Court, but that both Rice and Shotwell have to pay the costs of their own side of the case. This makes heavy expense for both plaintiff and defendant, but as Mr. Shotwell sought only a vindication, and as the verdict gives him that, he seems to be satisfied. The fact that THE PRESS was the only paper in the world to publish promptly the news of the verdict emphasizes the statement that if you see it in THE PRESS you see it for the first time.

An Able Orator To-Morrow Night.

The public meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will take place in the Crescent Avenue chapel to-morrow evening at eight o'clock, when the Rev. S. T. Chamberlain, an able orator, and President of the Brooklyn branch of the Evangelical Alliance, will deliver an address. The public are cordially invited.

"Nothing But Skin and Bones,"

Is the inelegant though appropriate expression used in describing the appearance of many females whom Nature intended for perfect specimens of her handiwork, but who have been reduced by this distressing conditions by some of the organic troubles, peculiar to the sex, the symptoms of which are "an all gone feeling," weakness in the back, especially mornings, nervousness, and sometimes hysteria. The cure for these beauty-destroying troubles—and an undoubted one in every case is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and it renders it unnecessary to consult a doctor—a disagreeable task for a modest woman. A GREAT WORK IN NEED OF HELPERS.

Robert P. Wilder Tells Plainfield Young Men of Foreign Mission Destitution —A Large Audience Hears a Splendid Address.

The hall of the Young Men's Christian Association was filled to overflowing, Sunday, with those anxious to hear Robert P. Wilder speak on "Foreign Missions, with particular reference to young men." Mr. Wilder first read from II Samuel, VII. the story of David's bringing to Jerusalem the Ark of God, and his anxiety to build a house for it; and then from Haggai, to recall to mind that story of a later period of Jewish history, after the captivity, of the negligence of the people and their failure to rebuild the Temple of God. Then he spoke as follows:

"I wish this afternoon to call your attention to a contrast, a command, and an application.

"It is night; deep sleep has fallen on the city; naught breaks the silence save the footfall of the belated traveler, or the short breathings of the scavenger dogs in search of their scanty meals. Before the palace of the king are seen the slowly-moving forms of the sentinels. The moon and the stars shine with unwonted brilliancy on the city. Jerusalem is at its height of glory. A few hours before, joy and peace, sacrifice and praise, filled the streets of the city; but now intense quietude reigns over the weary populace. Among the humbler dwellings is the house of the prophet. He has had a busy day, for he too has mingled with the throng that welcomed back the Ark of the Covenant. Nathan cannot sleep. Confusion as of a sound of many waters has fallen on his ears. He has a vision. Jehovah brings him a message; eagerly the prophet listens to the words of his heavenly visitor. And these are his words: 'Go and tell my servant David that I have subdued all his enemies before him, and that if he will build me a house his throne and kingdom shall be established forever.' These strange words bring joy to the newly-annointed king.

"In the days of Haggai another scene comes before us. It is the first day of the month? The harvest season is over, and the people are mourning the mildew and blight of their crops. Some attribute it to the fact that the land had lain idle so many years; others say it is because of poor farming. But not so: master and men have been busy; the crops were put in all right: it was the Lord that had smitten with blasting mildew and hail. Over in the distance is seen the gray-haired prophet, preaching. Haggai had been in the land when it was prosperous. He had gone with the people, and had shared in the restoration. Down the thoroughfare comes this man of God, his eyes still filled with fire, his lips bearing the message of no compromise, shunned by many, sought by none. His words strike home to the hearts of the people: 'Ye have sown much and bring in little. Ye eat, but ye have not enough, and he that earneth wages earneth wages to put in a bag with holes.' 'And'—the prophet adds—'thus saith the Lord, "I have called drought upon the land. It is not due to any lack of care on your part. It is not due to chance that drought has come. I have brought drought upon the land."' Why this divergence in the messages? In the first case we find the reason in the words of David. 'He said that he would not give sleep to his eyes nor slumber to his eyelids until he had found a place for the Lord, a habitation for the mighty God of Jacob. David could not live in a palace while the Ark was behind curtains. We find it different in Haggai's time. The temple lay in ruins, and in spite of the warnings of the prophet each one ran to his house, while the Lord's house lay waste." This was the contrast and the command to which Mr. Wilder called attention.

"And now"—he said—"concerning the application: God is building a house not made with hands, and we are the builders. Jesus Christ is the corner-stone, in whom all the building is fitly framed together. This building is not made of beams and pillars, but of Christians. There is not material enough in the United States to build this temple. God wants stones from India, columns from Japan; He desires materials from the islands of the sea, to put into this building; and He tells you, and He tells me, to go up in the mountains and get materials for this house. Religion is not merely a fire-escape, but we have been saved in order to save others, and Christ expects you and me to bring material with which to build this temple. This is a missionary century, and it is fitting that we take a backward glance over the years since the beginning of the century. What have we been doing to build this temple? Marvelous changes have taken place.

"Some time ago a few college men met together and asked God to build this temple. What joy must fill the heart of those friends who now look down from above and see the wonderful results that have been achieved. Besides the regular missions we now have medical missions, industrial missions, and missions along the lines of the Young Men's Christian Associations. These last we find in Ceylon; in Madras, with McConaughy of Philadelphia at the head of it; in Tokio, with Swift of Yale at its head. Now all these have sprung up lately. They give opportunity for laymen to enter into the service. Some years ago it was thought an extraordinary thing for anyone but a minister to go to a missionary field. As to the success of this work, you know as well as I do that God's blessing has rested on missions. A skeptic stopped a sailor one day and said to him that as he had been around the world, and had visited many places, he would like to know if he believed in foreign missions. The sailor said, 'Yes: I do; and I will tell you the reason why. Being driven by storm one day, we found ourselves coming closer and closer to the rocky shore of an island, and in spite of ourselves we could not get away from the rocks. Upon looking at our charts we found that that island was inhabited by cannibals, and we expected to be killed by the natives if perchance we should reach the shore alive. But what was our joy to find that as soon as we reached the shore we were taken in hand by missionaries and fed and cared for. You may not believe in foreign missions, but I do.'

"In looking over the field, what do we find? A handful of people going into the foreign missionary work. There are six thousand missionaries, twenty thousand native helpers, and two million converts. And still some ask 'What has God wrought?'

"But there is another side, and, fellow-Christians, I very much regret to speak of it.

"Come with me to South America. Here is a territory twice the size of the United States, and possessing only seventy ordained ministers; this is bad enough, but when we come to China the figures seem simply appalling. I know of no illustration that will bring the matter home so well as this, taken from the Bible: We will pass over the chapters and verses, aye, the words also, and will find that if each letter in the Bible represented a Chinaman we would need one hundred and ten Bibles to have enough letters to represent the Chinamen who are without Christ; and if we would take a tour up into Central Asia we would find a population equal to that of Canada, the United States, Mexico and Central America, all combined, without a single man who could tell them about Christ.

"I was reading of an illustration that impressed me very much. If I were to draw a map of Russia on a certain scale, observing carefully all the longitudinal and latitudinal lines, and the other countries of Europe on a different scale, no matter how accurate my delineations of each country would be, my map would be useless. Religiously, the United States is locally on a scale five hundred times as large as on the foreign mission field, for we have five hundred times as many ministers as we have ordained ministers in the foreign field. Our map is vitiated by the entire scale. We have one minister to 800 of population, one Christian worker to every 43, and one church member to every 5; while out of each three persons born into this world there are two who look into the same sun and moon and stars as we do without hearing the name of Christ. O young men, if God were to put in one scale what the church has done in this decade, and in the other what the church has not done, would not the Judge of all the earth say, 'Ye have been weighed in the balance and found wanting'? Yet that there is opportunity now for that effective work is apparent, for many of our missionaries say that the world can be emancipated in this century."

Mr. Wilder related the origin of the college movement in the interest of foreign missions, and said that by aid of its influence from 21 pledged to go to the foreign field the number had risen to 5,000. He called on all men to go, and urged that if they could not go themselves they should go by proxy. He said that his motto was the highwayman's demand, "Your money or your life!" Continuing, he said:

"Now I want to close with a vision, and before I relate it I want you to remember the facts: one church member to every five of the population in the United States, while two-thirds of our race have not heard of Christ. I was thinking the other day I saw before me a river, broad and deep, with thousands of men sinking into the water. On the shore was the Son of Man, weaving life-lines. He turned to His followers and said: 'Ye shall be fishers of men.' Within a generation those men have covered every part of the river with life-saving service, and as I look again I see that millions are sinking in the river, and I cannot find the life-savers. On going up the river and around a short bend I find a crowd of men all close together, and a few of them throwing out the life-line and trying to save men, but the majority sitting idly by. Shall I elbow my way through those life-savers and cast my line in with theirs, knowing as I do that down the stream millions are sinking without anyone to save them? I cannot do it. God helping me, I will go yonder. Young men, why cannot you go along? Is not the command meant for you as well as for me? Will you not go with me down the stream where millions are sinking with none to save?"

Somerset Defeats Fanwood.

The Somerset Bowling Club visited Fanwood last evening and bowled the second game of their series, with the result as below. The Fanwoods evidently were over-confident, bowling on their own alleys, so put up a team apparently for practice. The score:

A WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE.

But Her Motives Are Questioned, and Legal Dissolution of the Unhappy Marriage Is Denied.

The trial of an interesting divorce suit, the principals of which are former Plainfielders, was concluded before Vice Chancellor VanFleet in the Chancery Court at Newark yesterday.

Minnie M. Cornell, who resides in Baldwin street, brought suit to obtain a divorce from her husband, William G. Cornell, a photographer who is in business in South Amboy. Frank C. Wilcox, City Attorney of Newark, appeared for the plaintiff, and John Ulrich, of this city, for the defendant. Mrs. Cornell is an attractive woman of twenty-five, and her husband is nine years her senior.

The complainant said that they were married at Dunellen eleven years ago, and had resided at that place. Their married life for a time was a happy one, and then, either through scarcity of money or that he had tired of her, he had commenced to neglect her. For weeks he had not given her enough to eat, she alleges, and when she asked for money for clothes he refused to give it. In July, 1888, she was forced to leave him and go to the home of relatives in Newark. Several times since she left him he has asked her to return.

The defendant denied every statement made by his wife, and said that she had left him because she had grown tired of him. He said that he had given her the best of everything, and he thought that some snake in the grass had lured her away from him.

Both counsel for the complainant and defendant worked zealously in the interests of their clients; but the defendant, through the efforts of his attorney, ex-Judge Ulrich, succeeded, and the divorce was denied.

More Baseball Talk.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—John B. Day, J. W. Spalding and C. H. Byrne met during the day, and talked over the unfinished business of the National League. It is quite probable that Al Johnston will get a share in the Cincinnati Club, but he will not have a controlling interest by any means. Milwaukee is making a strong bid for a place in the American Association, and, as Spalding does not favor two clubs in Chicago, Milwaukee may still get in.

Indian Pupils Were Killed.

CARLISLE, Penn., Jan. 20.—Capt. Pratt, of the Indian Training School, this city, learned Saturday that several of the Carlisle pupils, among them White Horse, Little Bull and Mack Kutepi, were killed in one of the recent skirmishes at Pine Ridge Agency, and Clayton Brave was wounded. The letter does not say on which side these pupils were engaged.

Forty-nine Children Injured.
